HEARING AIDS

DO YOU HAVE FEEDBACK OR WHISTLING WITH YOUR HEARING AID?
ARE YOU CONTINUALLY ADJUSTING THE VOLUME?

This is a common complaint that we hear from many hearing aid users. With the new Cleartone hearing aids you will not have feedback once the hearing aid is completely in your ear. You will not have to continually adjust the volume control, because the hearing aid will automatically reduce the loud noises for you.

We have found that it even helps those who have Tinnitus "ringing ears".

Come in today for a no-cost hearing evaluation and demonstration of the hearing aid!

Who passed away Jan. 24, 1990

We miss your smile, your laughter, the happiness you gave, with all in strict old fashioned love.

Kim Sweitzer Named BPW's Career Woman

The January 10 dinner meeting of the Garrett County Business and Professional Women's Club featured the annual Young Career Woman Program.

Chosen to represent the local group was Kim Sweitzer, a licensed real estate broker and currently manager of the rental department at Coldwell Banker/Deep Creek Realty.

Her speech focused on a number of influential women in her personal life, and those in American history whose examples have made an impression on women today.

Ms. Sweitzer will represent the local club at the state Young Careerist Speak-off in Hagerstown on February 22.

She is married and the mother of two children.

The second candidate for the award was Cindy Spiker, the owner of Century 21 Country Time Realty, McHenry.

Ms. Spiker's presentation centered on equal opportunity for women of the 90s, and the changes in attitude toward females in the workplace.

She is married, and the mother of two children.

Judges for the event were Irmgard Koscielniak, Helen Harman,and Martin Heise.

The Young Career Women committee included Bea Crosco and Helen Harman, who were co-chairpersons, Teresa Feather and Goldie Shugars.

In other business for the evening, members discussed the annual Scholarship presented to a mature woman living, working and/or attending school in Garrett County.

The club also voted to participate in a number of community projects in the coming months, including nursing home visitation and donations to Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

The next meeting, also designated as a food drive month for the House of Hope, will be held Thursday, February 14, at the Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake.

BPW YOUNG CAREER WOMAN — The Garrett County Business and Professional Women's Club selected its 1991 Young Career Woman at a recent gathering at Will O'the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake. Legal Aid Bureau Announces February Outreach Schedule

Staff members of the Legal Aid Bureau, Inc., will be available to discuss legal problems with persons during the month of February in Oakland on February 5 and 19.

The Bureau representative will be available from 10 a.m. until noon on the above-mentioned dates at the National Guard Armory on Eighth Street.

The Bureau provides legal assistance in civil matters to eligible persons. Services are available at no cost to those whose income and property holdings are below certain federally mandated levels.

The Western Maryland office of the Legal Aid Bureau is located at 110 Greene Street in Cumberland. The office can be reached in Garrett County by calling 334-8832, or 777-7474 in the Grantsville area.

Whenever possible, persons needing assistance should call in advance to schedule an appointment for the Outreach location or for an appointment at the Cumberland office.

There will not be a representative available in Oakland if Garrett County schools are canceled because of bad weather. Persons should always call the Cumberland office at 334-8832 by 10 a.m. each scheduled outreach day to confirm whether the representative will be available in Oakland.

Local Seniors To See "MacBeth"

Shakespeare in the Schools (SITS), an outreach project of the Three Rivers Shakespeare Festival, will perform MacBeth at Garrett Community College on January 31. Seniors of Southern and Northern high schools will be bused to the college for the 9:30 a.m. performance.

Students of the University of Pittsburgh's Department of Theatre Arts direct, produce and act in the 40-minute production which will tour at least 20 counties in a three-month span. SITS brings future educators and actors directly in improvisational contact with students aged 6 to 18, using literary material that might not immediately appeal to the average television-oriented student.

The local performance, which is not open to the general public, is being funded by the Garrett County Arts Council.

According to a spokesman for the group, this marks the first attempt by SITS to adapt a Shakespearean tragedy for both elementary and high school students. The elementary school version has been extensively adapted with the actors utilizing puppets to further dramatize the story and differentiate the stage action from reality. This and other topics are discussed with the children during the course of the production. "It is highly interactive and encourages creativity," the spokesman said.

The middle and high school version follows the original text more closely. Study guides are helpful to teachers preparing English, history or psychology lessons. In-school workshops, directed by University of Pittsburgh PhD candidates, provide thorough overviews of theatre arts, acting and stage production. "The workshops, study guides and interaction between the students and the actors create a comprehensive learning experience instead of simply an entertaining assembly," the spokesman said.

THERE MAY BE NO INCURABLE DISEASES

Not long ago killer diseases like small pox, diptheria, thyphoid, tuberculosis or polio took countless lives. Now their perils can be avoided by certain precautions and preventive medicines.

Someday, in the not too distant future, a cure will be discovered for every disease. All over the earth research scientists are experimenting with both old and new drugs and chemicals. As soon as they are approved for safe use, we stock them, so that we can fill any physician's prescriptions. There is hope for present incurables. The next "miracle" drug may be the blessing they are looking for.

Who Holds The Key?

An old rusted one from long ago might reveal antique treasures packed into a worn trunk in the attic. A tiny intricate one can hold the written secrets of a young girl's heart. A shiny new one will bring that new car to life for the first time.

Keys may be related to wealth, security, and peace of mind. We carry them close to us, on our person or in another place of safekeeping. We are careful concerning those who hold the keys to the things most precious to us.

Have you considered who should hold the key to your soul . . . to your spiritual immortality . . . to the most important aspect of our existence? Trust in God. Let Him hold the key to your heart. It is safe with Him.

IS FEAR A SIN?
January 27, 1991

Background Scripture:
Luke 19:11-27.
Devotional Reading:
Luke 12:42-48.

The Parable of the Pounds makes me wonder if Jesus might be a charter member of Tough Love (an organization that assists parents in dealing with delinquent and troublesome youth). For, if) the nobleman in this parable is identified as Jesus, then the picture we get is one that is considerably harsher than the "gentle Jesus, meek and mild" that is the popular image.

Of course, we have to remember that a parable generally has but one point to make and one must never push the symbolism too far. I hardly think that the portrait of the "nobleman" in this parable is intended to be an accurate and comprehensive representation of Jesus Christ. If we were to take these details seriously—and that is never the purpose of a parable—it would be the only place in the gospels where Jesus would be represented as putting to death his enemies and would clash sharply with the man who prayed on the cross, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do."

WHEN HE RETURNED

Having said that, I would not want to diminish the severity with which the "nobleman" reacted to the third of his servants. In the story he gave each of ten servants a pound each (a unit of money). When he returned he asked each of the servants to give an accounting of what they had done with his money. The first servant reported a profit of ten pounds and the second reported a profit of five. Each of these servants was commended and rewarded accordingly for their stewardship.

The third servant, however, gives back his pound to the master, explaining his failure to gain profit by saying, "Lord, here is your pound which I kept laid away in a napkin; for I was afraid of you, because you are a severe man" (19:20,21). Lots of us can identify with this servant because we too might have been afraid to take the risk of losing what we were given. So, we can imagine the master's disappointment or even anger, but we find it hard to understand why he should have responded with a condemnation of this poor man: "I will condemn you out of your own mouth, you wicked servant!" (19:22).

WHOM DO YOU FEAR?

You and I might plead this man's case to the master: Lord, this man had good intentions; he didn't mean to displease you; in fact, he probably thought he was doing the right thing so that he could stay out of trouble with you. He isn't evil, he was just frightened. Surely it is no sin to be afraid!

Yet that's what the parable seems to be saying to us. When God has something for us to do or become, being afraid can be outright contemptuous of him. It is as if we are saying to him that we are more impressed with the power of the world to thwart us, than the power of God to help us accomplish his task. We have looked at the situation and we fear the world more than we respect him. It is saying also that our fear is more powerful than his love.

Inasmuch as sin is defined as "missing the mark," I would say that there are times when, in the face of what God expects from us, timidity, hesitation and outright fear are an offense in God's sight. And then, yes, our fear is a sin.

Rotary Seeking Students For Youth Exchange

High school students between the ages of 15 to 19 are being sought to apply for the 1991 Rotary Summer Youth Exchange sponsored by Rotary International and the Oakland Rotary Club. Selected exchange students spend one month in the home of a foreign exchange partner and host the exchange partner in their home for a month.

According to a Rotary spokesman, the object of the exchange is not to learn another language and is not intended purely for entertainment. Rather, the experience should bring American youth in contact with foreign youth so they get to know another way of life, thinking and culture and so help promote understanding between peoples.

Costs of travel, clothing, and personal expenses are the responsibility of the participating student and his family. Travel to the foreign country will be either group or individually arranged. All travel is on scheduled airlines and is arranged by Eastern States Student Exchange Program, Inc.

Countries participating in this exchange are: Argentina, Austria, Belgium, Brazil, Czechoslovakia, England, Finland, France, Germany, Hungary, Iceland, India, Ireland, Italy, Japan, Mexico, The Netherlands, Norway, Poland, Spain, Sweden, U.S.S.R., Wales, and Yugoslavia. Application forms are available from the Oakland Rotary Youth Exchange Chairman, Dr. C.W. Fedde. Application forms and interviews must be completed before March 1.

I owe you both a public apology, to stop a rumor that was not true about Arnold. I assumed you two were the ones to blame and in turn I started a rumor that was untrue. I thought this would be the best way to stop the rumor and tell everyone there was no truth to this rumor, only assumptions.
I also wanted to say I am very sorry!

"Preserving The Freedom To Farm" Is Addressed By AFBF's President

While pests, prices and weather always challenge America's farmers and ranchers, preserving the freedom to farm demands an increasing share of agriculture's attention, American Farm Bureau Federation President Dean Kleckner said January 7 during the organization's 72nd annual meeting in Phoenix, Ariz.

From protecting the basic rights needed to grow crops and raise livestock to fighting for freer global markets in which to sell those products, American farmers and ranchers may yearn for the days when they only worried about insects, droughts and weeds, according to Kleckner.

"Today's farmers are coming up against a different kind of pest — bureaucrats who threaten to regulate away their private property rights," Kleckner told more than 7,000 farmers and ranchers attending the meeting.

Kleckner said government employees often tell farmers how to farm to avoid interfering with wetlands, federally designated "wild and scenic" rivers, wilderness areas and other types of unique habitats.

"We used to be commended for draining mosquito-infested hollows and turning the ground into productive cropland," Kleckner said. "Instead of mosquitos, we now fight other pests who seek to weaken our property rights."

Four government agencies are carrying out President Bush's pledge to save wetlands. Farm Bureau spoke loud and clear during the wetlands struggle, noted the Iowa farmer.

He called for legislation to solidify common-sense interpretations such as the Army Corps of Engineers' exemption for wetlands converted to cropland prior to 1986. Legislation also should spell out a wetlands definition that the average landowner can understand, as well as provide for prompt compensation for any reduction in land value due to a wetlands designation.

Kleckner highlighted other current threats to property rights, such as the conversion of abandoned railways to hiking trails, the addition of new wilderness areas, the reintroduction of wolves into parklands and restrictions placed on farming by endangered species measures.

Farmers soon may have relief from such "takings" of private property without proper compensation. Kleckner hailed the Private Property Rights Act of 1991 written by Sen. Steve Symms (R-Idaho) and Sen. David Boren (D-Okla.) Passage would require federal agencies to investigate and reduce federal takings.

Kleckner said such a rational law would go hand-in-hand with a growing trend nationwide to consider economic factors when considering whether to regulate agriculture.

He said a clear indication of this came during the November elections. As examples, he cited the defeat of California's "Big Green" initiative, the downfall of a billion-dollar environmental bond in New York and the defeat of a measure that would have locked up streamside lands in Missouri.

He pointed out Farm Bureau's ongoing producer education programs and its nationwide effort to dispel the kind of misinformation that raises fear about the world's safest, most wholesome food supply.

Unfortunately, due to the suspension of the GATT world trade talks, more of America's wholesome food supply could be staying at home. The AFBF president reminded farmers and ranchers that reform is still badly needed in international trading rules.

Kleckner, who recently attended what was supposed to be the final negotiating session of the Uruguay Round, said reforms never had a chance because European farmers are quite happy with their current situation.

"They are pampered, fat and sassy," Kleckner said. "The European Community's program to take care of its farmers hurts people around the world."

Unbridled federal spending is another area limiting economic growth in the United States. The Iowa farmer said spending control must be used to balance the federal budget and halt the growing federal debt.

Kleckner said Americans were close to that goal this year, then yet another massive tax increase was dropped on taxpayers. However, he said Farm Bureau's basic argument will not change until government spending habits change.

"In a short while, the annual budget fiasco will begin again," he told members. "And government will spend and spend until it hears of the record new deficits. Spenders will pause, then go right on squandering. We don't need new taxes. We need less spending."

Property Rights Protection Highlights Farm Bureau Meeting

Citing the growth of regulatory infringement on private property rights, delegates at the 72nd annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation voiced strong opposition to the federal no-net-loss wetlands policy, as well as other government programs which strip the basic freedom to farm.

The 313 delegates, representing all facets of agriculture from the 50 states and Puerto Rico, urged that the 1990 farm bill not be reopened, and took a tough stance calling for reform of world agricultural trade.

During the annual meeting, held in Phoenix, Arizona, January 6 through 10, Farm Bureau delegates approved nearly 200 resolutions and recommendations on issues ranging from fiscal policy to water rights.

The strongest stance came on property rights issues such as wetlands regulations. Recognizing that not all wetlands are equal in value, the farmers and ranchers voiced strong opposition to a national no-net-loss policy governing wetlands as they are currently defined.

"Property rights issues dominated the meeting, in particular the wetlands issue," said Dean Kleckner, AFBF president and Iowa farmer. "It's a serious problem for farmers and ranchers nationwide. Regulations that limit a landowner's right to use land in the most productive way, while protecting unrecognizable wetlands, make no sense."

Wetlands regulation was only the beginning of the meeting's recurring theme — protection of private property rights. However, the first action of the 1991 delegate business session dealt with world trade.

Delegates endorsed a letter to President Bush applauding his administration's strong stance on the agricultural portion of the Uruguay Round of world trade talks. The letter urged President Bush to "significantly increase funding for the various export market development and expansion programs" unless there is an acceptable resolution in the talks.

While identifying certain farm bill provisions which may need changes, Farm Bureau delegates said they will not support legislative reconsideration of the bill. They stressed opposition to "modifications in the program that would change the direction away from the market-oriented goals of competitive loan rates, voluntary stock reduction programs and income supplement as farmers move toward a market-based agriculture.

"Those advocating a revisit to the farm bill generally do not agree with the thrust of market-based agriculture," Kleckner said. "Reopening the farm bill would only bring additional cuts in farm programs."

Kleckner said there are areas of the farm bill that need to be fixed, such as minor oilseed crop provisions, but not at the risk of exposing the bill to potential budget cutting.

The Iowa farmer said delegates support the concept of flexibility, but reject the idea of extending deficiency payments to the shifted areas.

"We want all farmers to be treated fairly," Kleckner said. "Producers of non-program crops should not be asked to compete with subsidized production for the sake of flexibility."

In fiscal matters, delegates reaffirmed Farm Bureau's opposition to last year's federal budget package. Farmers and ranchers want a reformed budget process, cuts in the capital gains tax to 15 percent and inflation indexing for all capital gains, according to Kleckner.

In other deliberations, the delegates approved resolutions which:

•Called for the establishment of a flexible and actuarially sound crop insurance program.

•Expressed concern about the loss of minor chemicals for use on specialty crops, and urged the Environmental Protection Agency to intensify its efforts to register chemicals important to environmentally sound practices such as integrated pest management.

•Affirmed their support for pesticide record-keeping provisions of the 1990 farm bill.

•Supported the patenting of animals to give biotechnology companies research and development incentives.

In other action, Ken Ashby of Delta, Utah, was elected to the AFBF board of directors in the Western region. Re-elected to two year terms were Jack Laurie, Cass City, Mich.; Bryce Neidig, Madison, Neb.; Harry Pearson, Hartford City, Ind.; Charles Wille, Montgomery, N.Y.; Joe Hawkins, Columbia, Tenn.; Carl Loop Jr., Jacksonville, Fla.; W.B. Jenkins, Creedmoor, N.C.; S.M. True Jr., Plainview, Texas; Ray Mackey, Elizabethtown, Ky.; and Cecil Miller, Litchfield Park, Ariz.

Re-elected to chair the AFB Women's Committee was Berta White of Bailey, Miss. Linda Reinhardt, of Erie, Kan., is the new vice chairman. Filling Reinhardt's unexpired term in the Midwest Region is Patricia Baldwin of Kingsville, Ohio. Also elected was Martha Ahrent, of Corning, Ark.

Other re-elected Women's Committee members were Carolyn Hegel, Andrews, Ind.; Thelma Grovatt of Tabernacle, N.J.; Sherry Saylor, Buckeye, Ariz.

Joe Nelson was selected chairman of the 1991 AFBF Young Farmers and Ranchers Committee. Nelson will serve as a member of the AFBF board of directors this year. He and his wife, Julie, farm near Casselton, N.D.

Newly appointed Young Farmer and Rancher Committee members include Brad and Amy Bean, Liberty, Miss.; Michael and Angela Boyd, Rippon, W.Va.; Lynn Fahrmeier, Wellington, Mo.; Lori Kinstetter, Kewaunee, Wis.; Danny and Cheryl Rochelle, Nunnelly, Tenn.; Scott and Christie Sandall, Tremonton, Utah; Teel Warbington, Vienna, Ga.; and Andrea and Reed White, Sturgis, Ky.

Three young couples won the AFBF Young Farmer and Rancher Achievement Awards: David and Jane Roberti, Loyalton, Calif.; Sam and Leslie Graves, Tarkio, Mo.; and George and Carol McDonald, Riddleton, Tenn. Glenn Caves, of Laurel, Miss., won the Young Farmer and Rancher Discussion Meet.

Six state Farm Bureaus — one in each membership size category — earned the AFBF President's Award for best overall performance: Arizona, New Mexico, Idaho, Virginia, Georgia and Tennessee.

Acidic Water — Problems in Animals

Have you checked the pH level of the water that your animals are drinking? Acidic water with a pH under 5.5 may increase problems related to chronic or mild acidosis:

—Reduced milk production
—Depressed milkfat test
—Poorer gains and growth
—More off-feed problems
—Lower feed intake
—More infectious and metabolic problems
—Increased infertility
—Greater cow turnover

There are kits you can buy to check the pH level. The same kit that used to check pH levels in swimming pools will put you in the "Ball Park." If there is any doubt, you then should have the water pH checked by a more accurate method.

Tips on Planting Blueberries

Why talk about planting blueberries in the middle of winter? I would guess that many of you are now reading the new seed and plant catalogs with your thoughts turning to spring. Why not try some blueberries? They do rather well in Garrett County. The following tips can help your crop be successful:

1) You should use a soil mix of equal parts of sand, soil and spagnum peat moss.

2) Make row spacing at 12 feet. Space plants in rows about six feet apart. Actual spacing of rows may best be determined by the width of the mowing equipment you will be using.

3) Make sure the soil is well drained at the site you choose. Hard earth that doesn't drain will create a bucket that will fill with water and kill the blueberry roots. Raised plantings, tile drains or other drainage methods may be needed on heavy soils.

4) Dig holes 18 inches deep and 18 inches in diameter.

5) Backfill the hole with the sand, soil and peat mixture. Use about one bale of peat moss for five plants. Costs about $1.00 per plant for the sphagnum peat moss.

6) Plant your blueberries and mulch with about ½ cubic foot of old sawdust per plant. Spring planting is best.

7) You probably won't have to worry about pH adjustment. Peat moss will drop the pH for you.

8) After about one year, mulch the rows with old bark. Obtain your bark in the beginning so it can age. Plant grass such as Kty 31 Fescue between the mulched rows.

9) Choose early and mid-season varieties. You must have at least two varieties for pollination. Consider the varieties Patriot, Elliot, Early Blue, Bluetta, Blue Crop and Blue Ray. Fruit size is important.

Now before you get excited, besides being a little hard to grow for the average person, birds love them. Mesurol is no longer labelled as a bird repellant. Several studies indicated 5% to 50% of an unprotected crop can be destroyed in one week by Starlings, Robins, Bluejays, House Finch and Grackles. In many cases, it may be necessary to construct a frame over the plants which netting can be stretched over.

Reminder!

Don't forget to make your reservations for the Fish Workshop on February 5, 7:00 p.m. at the Extension Office (334-1990).

Regional Conference Slated On Sustainable Agriculture

One of the newer concepts on the U.S. farm scene is sustainable agriculture, a practice that seeks to manage fertilizer and pesticide applications in a way that permits farmers to earn a decent living while keeping the environment healthy for future generations.

To help explore this concept, the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service and Department of Agriculture and Resource Economics at the University of Maryland College Park have joined forces with a trio of environmental organizations to sponsor an all-day meeting next month on Sustainable Agriculture in the Chesapeake Bay Region.

Billed as the first-ever Mid-Atlantic area conference of its kind, the event is scheduled February 28 in the Holiday Inn at Timonium, north of Baltimore off Interstate Highway 83.

Morning speakers will include Dick and Sharon Thompson of Boone, Iowa, widely publicized sustainable agriculture farmers, and William Liebhardt of Davis, Calif., a nationally recognized University of California researcher in the field of sustainable agriculture.

A mid-morning panel will explore possibilities for research and Extension programs on sustainable agriculture in the Mid-Atlantic region. Panel participants will include representatives of Penn State and the University of Maryland College Park, Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, Rodale Institute, Chesapeake Bay Foundation, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Research Service at Beltsville.

Most of the afternoon program will be devoted to breakout sessions on applying sustainable agriculture to various aspects of farming, such as fruits and vegetables, livestock, cover crops and pest control.

The day's program will conclude with a town hall meeting on the topic, "Where Are We Going From Here?" Moderator will be I. Garth Youngberg, executive director of the Institute for Alternative Agriculture, based in Greenbelt.

Program sessions will run from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Advance registration should be made by Feb. 22. A $20 registration fee includes printed materials, coffee breaks and lunch. Registration blanks and program brochures are available from the Garrett County Extension Office.

AFBF Discusses 1990 Farm Bill At Convention

It is too early to tamper with or change major provisions of the 1990 farm bill. That was the consensus of Sen. Richard Lugar (R-Ind.) and John B. Campbell, USDA deputy undersecretary, during a conference held in conjunction with the 72nd annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation January 7 in Phoenix, Ariz.

"We're barely into January and some people want to open up the farm bill for discussion," Lugar said. "Let's let the bill run its course."

The Indiana senator warned Farm Bureau members not to press for reopening discussion on the farm bill, because if they did, they "might get their wish."

Some legislators on Capitol Hill might look at the bill as an opportunity for further budget cuts, to begin cutting again, Lugar said.

"A major point about this farm bill — relative to all others — is that you will have more of an opportunity to make it a good bill or a bad bill," Campbell told farmers. "You won't just be able to walk into your county ASCS offices and tell them to sign you up."

The official told Farm Bureau members USDA is working to give farmers the tools to make decisions that would benefit them individually. Summarizing the farm program, Campbell said that only farmers who prefer large setaside programs and who want the government and farmers to store lots of grain, as well as those who like strict program compliance provisions and who oppose the CRP, will dislike this bill.

"If you are against better grain quality you won't like this bill," he said. "If you prefer ASCS to tell you how much you can plant, you will not like the flexibility of this bill."

Campbell would not speculate what Congress might do concerning the reopening of the farm bill. However, he predicted the Bush administration's likely action — taking a hard line against reopening the bill and changing its market orientation.

"I also predict the Bush administration will take a very hard line against reopening the budget agreements that were made last year," Campbell said. "We entered into this agreement in good faith and we intend to stand firm."

Sen. Lugar labeled the farm bill a reasonably good piece of legislation which was hammered out by people from all segments of the country.

"What we have is a contract between all Americans," Lugar said. "It's a bill that headed off a collision between farmers and environmentalists."

Maryland Animal Health Labs End Free Service

Certain services provided by Maryland's five animal health diagnostic laboratories, including the Oakland Animal Health Lab, will no longer be provided free of charge, as of January 1, 1991.

The new fee schedule was developed by the five laboratory directors after extensive consultation with selected practitioners, the Department's field veterinarians, and their counterparts in neighboring states.

Necropsy of Maryland farm animals, wild animals, and commercial poultry will still be offered without charge. Certain basic diagnostic tests will be included with this service. Tests mandated by cooperative federal-state disease eradication programs, e.g., brucellosis and pseudorabies, will still be free.

According to the Maryland Department of Agriculture, the new fees do not reflect the total cost of performing the numerous tests available. The intent is simply to recover some of the cost of supplies, reagents, and equipment so that the laboratories can continue to offer up-to-date services in the face of escalating costs.

State Veterinarian at the Oakland Lab, Dr. James Fearer, submitted the following list of fees, but stressed that as the program continues, these fees may change without notice. He also stated that the lab prefers all billings to be coordinated through a veterinarian or the fee paid at the time the sample or specimen is submitted to the lab.

The following fees are now in effect.

Necropsy of farm animals is still free for state residents. This includes gross examination, aerobic cultures of the liver, spleen, lung, kidney, others pertaining to gross examination, and urinalysis. Special testing will be charged up to a cap of $25 per animal. Out-of-state examinations, which include all tests except Toxicology (for which the charge will be cost and shipping) will cost $75. Because of an agreement between the Maryland Department of Agriculture and the West Virginia Department of Agriculture, West Virginia farmers using the Oakland Lab will be able to notify the W.Va. Department of Agriculture and be reimbursed $40 of the charge.

HISTO-Farm Multiple will cost state residents $15, out-of-state residents $40. Singles will be $7 in state and $20 out-of-state.

Complete Blood Counts (CBC): Farm, $6 in state, $10 out-of-state; Non-farm, $10 in state, $15 out-of-state. Chemistry Panel: Farm, $16 in state, $16 out-of-state. Individual Chemistries (in house) actual cost, $3 in state, $3 out-of-state.

Parasite Exam: Internal Farm, $3 in state, $9 out-of-state; Blood parasites, $3 in state, $10 out-of-state; External parasites, $3 in state, $7.50 out-of-state.

Microbiology (bacterial studies and milk cultures): Farm Culture and Sensitivity, $7 in state, $12 out-of-state; Trichomonas Ex. Micro Culture, $3 in state, $5 out-of-state; Mastitis, Culture and Sensitivity (per sample) $1 in state, $2 out-of-state; DMSCC: Individual, $2 in state, $4 out-of-state.

Johne's Culture-diagnostic, $7 in state, $7 out-of-state. For those with an MDA program contract prior to 1/1/91 there will be no charge. Those under contact after 1/1/91 will be charged $4. Contracts are not available to out-of-state residents.

Farmers with specific questions should call their veterinarian or the Oakland Animal Health Lab.

Goldstein Says 1099G Forms On The Way

"Our office began mailing more than 813,000 Form 1099G's to Maryland taxpayers on January 16, and some taxpayers are likely to have questions about them," State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced.

The Maryland Income Tax Division sends the 1099G information forms to taxpayers who itemized deductions last year and received a refund from the state of Maryland. "We're required by federal law to send the Form 1099G to remind these taxpayers that the state income tax refund they received last year must be reported as income on the 1990 federal tax return," Goldstein said. But the comptroller reminded taxpayers that they need not attach the 1099G to their federal or state income tax forms.

Most questions about the 1099G's come from taxpayers who don't remember getting a refund check. "But before you call with questions, you should check your records," the comptroller said. Some Maryland taxpayers applied their refund to their 1990 estimated taxes, while others used part or all of their refund as a contribution to the Chesapeake Bay and Endangered Species Fund. Although they may not have received a refund check, they did receive the benefit of a refund.

"Another reason taxpayers might have questions about the 1099G is that it reflects all Maryland refunds credited to the taxpayer during 1990, including not only an original tax refund for 1989, but also any refunds from any amended returns for 1989 or prior years," he said.

Taxpayers who still have questions after they check their records should call the refund section at (301) 974-3701.

"Now that many taxpayers have received their W-2s and other information documents, we expect the pace of tax filing to pick up, and we're ready to help," Goldstein said.

All 15 Maryland income tax offices provide free taxpayer assistance between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. The offices will also offer extra hours of free assistance on Saturday, February 2, and Saturday, February 9. Taxpayers can call or visit the offices during those Saturdays for free state tax help from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.

"Our state tax experts will answer any questions, provide the necessary forms and even complete your Maryland income tax return free of charge, if you like. Just be sure to bring along a completed copy of your federal return and all W-2 statements," Goldstein said.

The addresses and telephone numbers of all Maryland income tax offices are listed on the back of the state tax packet and in most local telephone directories. The toll-free number for free state tax assistance is 1-800-MD TAXES.

Scouts Attend District Winter Water Carnival

The Third Annual Nemacolin Trail District King Neptune Winter Water Carnival for Cub Scouts was held recently at the Physical Education Center at Frostburg State University, according to the event's coordinator, Steve Shaw.

Over 170 Cub Scouts participated in a number of aquatic activities, says Shaw. More than 70 adults and 17 Boy Scouts were on hand to ensure the safety of all involved.

The boys were grouped according to their ability to swim. Non-swimmers competed in such games as the rope-throw rescue and wet sponge toss. The beginners had a personal flotation device (PFD) race and an underwater challenge to determine who could swim the farthest underwater. Swimmers played beach ball splash and had a wet tee-shirt race, where the participants swam in wet shirts, then peeled them off for the next Scout to pull on for his lap. All the boys participated in a pirate gold hunt.

The event was organized by leaders from all the units participating. "Nobody can do it by themselves," said Shaw, adding that the parents "really did the job."

Cub Packs involved were: 9 from Cresaptown, 10 & 11 from LaVale, 20 from Cumberland, 24 from Frostburg, 26 from Lonaconing, 27 from Keyser, 31 from Oakland, 44 from Frostburg, 49 from Grantsville, and 50 from Mt. Savage.

Boy Scouts from Troops 9 in Cresaptown, 17 in Cumberland, 24 in Frostburg, and 31 in Oakland were also on hand.

Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America is a participating agency of County United Way.

Super Bowl has had ups, downs

TIME OUT

Super Bowl gets top billing

By Steve Paschal

America's premier sporting event will celebrate its silver anniversary Sunday, Jan. 27, when ABC televises Super Bowl XXV from Tampa, Fla. The popular Monday Night Football team of Frank Gifford, Al Michaels and Dan Dierdorf will be in the broadcast booth.

Brent Musburger will serve as pre-game and halftime host for ABC's third presentation of the most-watched television program in history. He will be joined by commentators Bob Griese, Lynn Swann, Dick Vermeil, Beth Ruyak, Jack Whitaker and Jack Arute as the AFC and NFC champions clash for NFL supremacy.

During halftime, Walt Disney World will present a "Small World Salute" to 25 years of the Super Bowl. The popular music group New Kids On The Block will perform along with a cast of over 2,000 children.

Prior to the Super Bowl, CBS Sports will show a college basketball doubleheader featuring three of the country's pre-season top 10 teams. The double offering opens with the seventh-ranked Georgetown Hoyas taking on the Pittsburgh Panthers, then switches to Chapel Hill, N.C., for the Atlantic Coast Conference collision between 10th-ranked Georgia Tech and fourth-ranked North Carolina.

There's NBA action on NBC Sunday, when the Los Angeles Lakers and Boston Celtics square off in one of professional basketball's fiercest rivalries. The Celtics, five years removed from their last NBA title, are trying to erase the embarrassment of a first-round playoff loss to New York, while the Lakers are seeking their first crown in three years.

Game one of TV's most-watched shows

By Steve Paschal

In the 25 years since the National Football League championship game became known as the Super Bowl, there have been quite a few games that didn't live up to the expectations the name implies. But, cliff-hanger or blowout, ABC knows it can count on a Super Payoff in the A.C. Nielsen ratings when the AFC and NFC champions meet Sunday, Jan. 27, in Tampa, Fla.

According to Nielsen Media Research, which began monitoring the television viewing habits of the American public in July of 1960, 17 Super Bowls are among the top 50 watched programs of the last 30 years.

Super Bowl XVI between the San Francisco 49ers and Cincinnati Bengals became the top-rated sporting event of all time, garnering a 49.1 rating and a 73 percent audience share for CBS. The only programs ever to draw a larger audience were the 1983 final episode of *M*A*S*H*, the Nov. 21, 1980, "Who Shot J.R." episode of Dallas, and Roots, Part VIII, which aired on Jan. 30, 1977.

Super Bowl XVI was one of those games that lived up to its advance billing. With more than 150 million people watching, young Joe Montana led San Francisco to the first of three Super Bowl titles that gave the 49ers the undeniable right to be called the "Team of the '80s." Montana, who completed 14 of 22 passes for 157 yards and a touchdown, was named the game's Most Valuable Player. Although the 49ers built what appeared to be an insurmountable three-touchdown lead by the middle of the third quarter, they had to rally to defeat Cincinnati 26-20 after the Bengals came back to score three times in a 10-minute span.

There have been other games that truly deserve to be called "Super." Perhaps the most memorable Super Bowl of all time was played two years ago at Joe Robbie Stadium in Miami when Montana directed a 92-yard drive in the game's final seconds to beat the Bengals again, this time 20-16. All-pro wide receiver Jerry Rice was named the game's MVP after catching 11 passes for 215 yards and a touchdown.

But, there have been laughers, too. In Super Bowl XVIII, underdog Oakland faced a Washington team that had pounded its way to a 14-2 record behind the bruising running of fullback John Riggins. However, the day belonged to Raiders running back Marcus Allen, who ran for 191 yards and two touchdowns as the Raiders crushed the Redskins 38-9. Then, last year, the 49ers put the crowning touch on their dream decade by humiliating the Denver Broncos 55-10.

The silver anniversary of the Super Bowl will be ABC's third presentation of the post-season event. The ABC Monday Night Football trio of Frank Gifford, Al Michaels and Dan Dierdorf will be in the broadcast booth, while Brent Musburger will serve as pre-game and halftime host. He will be joined by commentators Bob Griese, Lynn Swann, Dick Vermeil, Beth Ruyak, Jack Whitaker and Jack Arute.

'Videosyncrasy' wholesome for young music video viewers

By Christy Bergslien

Terrified to let your kids watch MTV? You have an alternative. It's called Videosyncrasy, and it's on The Family Channel every Saturday night.

The cable network's introduction of the new 60-minute program in September was two-fold in purpose. The first was to attract a larger teen audience. The second was to offer a more wholesome music-video alternative.

"Music is the universal language of young people. We want to turn kids on to music with values without compromising on the enjoyment," says show host Jimmy Hodson.

That means no heavy metal and no rap. Instead, the program showcases artists such as Paul McCartney, Bruce Hornsby and Wilson Phillips, along with a smattering of Christian musicians.

"Being that The Family Channel is trying to reach the entire family, there is definitely a fine line of something being too sexual or too provocative, like Warrant's 'Cherry Pie,' for us to show," says producer Jeanine Davis. "Plus, we want to keep kids from getting absolutely into sex and drugs that can ruin their life."

The approach seems to be working. Viewership is high, and the network, the fourth largest in the country, has agreed to pick up the show for another 52 regular episodes and three prime-time specials.

'I Love You to Death' good source for laughter

By Steven Alan McGaw

I Love You to Death (1990)

This riotous black comedy attracted a fair amount of attention when it was released last year, but not nearly enough. True, a story of a woman who hires drug-addled crazies to murder her philandering husband may not sound like fodder for hilarity, but give it a chance. Director Lawrence Kasdan seldom misfires. Oh yeah, bear this in mind, it's based on a true story.

Kevin Kline stars as a vain, self-absorbed pizzeria proprietor who just can't be faithful to his devoted but decidedly unglamorous wife, played by Tracey Ullman. Kline views every skirt that passes by as a potential conquest. At length, Ullman finally realizes what's going on, aided by her abrasive, thickly-accented mother (Joan Plowright) and a neighborhood teenager (River Phoenix) with a fierce crush on her. Ullman decides she's had enough and wants Kline taught a lesson: death! Phoenix proposes that his two penniless, brain-fried friends (William Hurt and Keanu Reeves) act as hitmen. What follows must be the longest-running, most problem-ridden murder attempt in movies. And the funniest.

If you enjoy strong ensemble acting, catch this film. If you like stories with a pretty bizarre point-of-view, this is the one. If you're planning to kill your spouse, don't look to this movie as a primer. Just look for laughs.

Hallmark to attempt remake of Hitchcock classic

By Steven Alan McGaw

Hallmark Hall of Fame is traditionally the source of television programming of the very highest quality, from Richard Chamberlain's Hamlet to the recent Decoration Day with James Garner and Judith Ivey. That in mind, I'll try to be optimistic about the announced remake of Alfred Hitchcock's Shadow of a Doubt. But Hallmark will have to do a lot to measure up to the original.

Did you see the wonderful surprise hit of a few years back, My Life As a Dog? Director Lasse Halstrom is back with his first American release since that gem. The title is Once Around and features an impressive cast including Richard Dreyfuss, Holly Hunter, Gena Rowlands and Danny Aiello. The film's nationwide release date is Feb. 1.

Condolences to the family of actress Anne Revere, who passed away in December. Revere starred in over 30 films between 1934 and 1951. Standouts include Old Acquaintance, Gentleman's Agreement, National Velvet (for which she received an Oscar) and a riveting portrayal of Montgomery Clift's obsessive mother in A Place in the Sun. When she refused in the early '50s to testify to the House Un-American Activities Committee, she was blacklisted. Undaunted, Revere turned to the stage, winning a Tony Award in 1960 for Toys in the Attic. A great talent and a strong person, she made her mark.

Sharon Gless reunites with Tyne Daly (pictured) on CBS' The Trials of Rosie O'Neill, Monday.

Ken Wahl

Ken Wahl finds there is a life for him after leaving Wiseguy. He's got his plate full starring in two recently completed feature films, The Taking of Beverly Hills and The Favor. Additionally, Wahl is slated to star in The Stoneman as a sculptor caught in a romantic triangle between two women.

Internationally celebrated actor James Earl Jones became the two millionth United States member of the non-profit Medic Alert Foundation International, the world's oldest and largest medical identification network. "Should I ever face a medical emergency, my Medic Alert bracelet will let responders know that I wear contact lenses and have certain food allergies," Jones said.

Tass has reported that Mikhail Baryshnikov has donated a Picasso painting worth $250,000 to a telethon to help restore historic monuments in Leningrad, where he began his ballet career.

Billy Connolly, who stars in ABC's Head of the Class, has signed an exclusive agreement with Warner Bros. to star in both film and television projects. He is currently signed for 22 episodes of Class, which will continue production until Feb. 22.

Daniel J. Travanti, Jennifer Grey and Carl Lumbly star in Eyes of a Witness, a Showcase Presentation about an American whose trip to Africa to persuade his reluctant physician daughter to come home takes a nightmarish turn when he is arrested for murder. The film will be broadcast Sunday, March 24, on CBS.

ABC Sports kicks off its telecast schedule of the World League of American Football (WLAF) season March 24 with coverage of the New York Knights against the Barcelona Dragons from the Montjuic Stadium in Barcelona, Spain. The WLAF season concludes when the WLAF World Bowl is aired June 9. Five different countries, time zones and languages will be featured in the 10-team, three-division league.

A four-hour miniseries, Switched at Birth, based on the true story of two infant girls allegedly swapped shortly after birth in a Florida hospital nursery and raised for 10 years by the wrong biological parents, will be broadcast on NBC-TV in the spring of 1991. The story of Kimberly Mays and Arlena Twigg made international headlines in 1988 when genetic testing indicated the error.

Production has begun in Los Angeles on Danielle Steel's Changes, a romantic drama starring Cheryl Ladd and Michael Nouri. The drama is scheduled to air April 1 on NBC.

Longtime entertainer George Burns celebrates his 95th during the gala, star-studded special George Burns' 95th Birthday Celebration, Friday on CBS.

George Burns begins his 95th year with TV bash

Cigars, martinis keep him going

By Amy Schmidt

Oh, God! Not another birthday for George Burns. Yes, it's true. Born Jan. 20, 1896, the diminutive comedian so greatly loved by Americans begins his 95th year with a TV bash.

Funnymen and old pals Milton Berle, Red Buttons and Sid Caesar will be on hand for the broadcast of George Burns' 95th Birthday Party, Friday, Feb. 1, on CBS. Joining them are Carl Reiner (who directed Burns in Oh, God!), Kenny Rogers, Ben Vereen, Ann-Margret, Whitney Houston, Richard Lewis, Rita Rudner and Bob Saget.

Burns, himself, will perform a little stand-up comedy during the special — at an age when many people find it difficult to even stand up. Not bad for a guy who smokes 20 plus cigars and drinks six martinis a day.

The lone survivor of the Burns and Allen comedy team, he still does 25 solo shows across the country yearly, and does not plan to retire.

"People ask me why I don't retire. Retire? Retire to what?" asks the Oscar and Emmy Award-winning comedian. "I play bridge for two hours a day to get away from work. Why the hell would I want to retire to play bridge 24 hours a day?"

What's the secret to George Burns' longevity? "When death knocks on the door," he says, "I don't answer. I'm not in." He's so sure he can hold that caller at bay, he's already booked himself to perform on his 100th birthday.

So the next time your birthday rolls around, celebrate. Take it from George; it sure beats the alternative.

Byron Bill To Improve Benefits For U.S. Troops

A bill introduced (H.R. 557) by Rep. Beverly Byron (D-MD) will modify special payments and make other financial adjustments to both active and reserve military personnel to reflect the extraordinary and difficult circumstances of American troops now at war in the Persian Gulf.

"Following my September travel to Saudi Arabia to observe the operations there, it was evident we needed to take quick action to remedy health concerns, mail service, and imminent danger pay. As Desert Shield unfolded it became clear that more fine tuning of benefits and policies was needed. That has taken on an even greater urgency now that Desert Storm has begun," Byron said.

"The activation of reserve and retired forces has, in particular, highlighted the need for a number of initiatives to facilitate the transition from civilian life to the military," she said.

Byron's legislation will increase family separation pay and certain places pay, and remove the prohibition against payment of imminent danger pay when war or national emergency is declared. It will also recognize the contribution of foreign language experts in the Persian Gulf with proficiency pay despite not being certified due to the quickness of their deployment.

For reservists the bill will extend the unexpired period allowed for reinvestment of profits from the sale of a home; preserve the entitlement to a six month grace period for reservists repaying government student loans; and authorize the recall of retired officers in the highest grade held on active duty.

The measure also included a sense of Congress that the German government be approached to provide medical care for military dependents in Germany in order to replace the military resources dispatched to the Persian Gulf.

Realty To Use Recycled Paper For Stationery

Century 21 Country Time Realty, McHenry, will join 6,000 Century 21 offices in the United States in using recycled paper for all business cards and stationery.

The Century 21 system is said to be the largest user of business cards in the world. An estimated 100,000,000 cards were used by the system in 1990.

"This is one small way that our office can contribute to the ecological well being of our community and plant," noted owner Cindy Spiker. "As the largest user of business cards, we feel this is a positive gesture."

In addition to business cards, all stationery used by the individual offices, regions and International headquarters will be on recycled paper. The changeover to recycled paper will begin next month.

The Century 21 system is the largest real estate sales organization in the world, with approximately 7,000 independently owned and operated offices. Worldwide, real estate valued at more that $85 billion was sold last year by Century 21 offices.

OFF AND GLIDING are the participants in a five-mile cross-country ski race, held Saturday at Herrington Manor State Park. The participants were just happy to be there since the event was cancelled the past two years because of a lack of snow. The overall winner of the race was Mac Martin, of Aspinwall, Pa., who completed the course in 22 minutes, 47 seconds. Another race is slated for this Saturday at New Germany State Park; however, trails are somewhat thin now because of yesterday's rain. Photo by Craig Phillips.

Edwards Notes Assembly's 1991 Budget Problems

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards this week stated that the Maryland General Assembly this year is faced with financial problems that will force legislators to "look at things in a new way" when considering funding new or existing programs.

Edwards explained that it will be more necessary than ever for elected officials to look at program requests "more in-depth to determine if those programs are really necessary or just nice."

Those problems, he said, have been made somewhat more difficult as the result of Governor William Donald Schaefer's request — and the legislators' reluctant approval — of a two-week extension for the governor to submit his budget. The date was extended from January 19 to February 1.

This, in turn, said Edwards, means that legislators have two less weeks to consider requests.

The delay, according to reports, is the result of more dismal revenue estimates for the state. It is also, quite possibly, the first time a Maryland governor has had to request such an extension.

Currently, the budget deficit is estimated at $423 million, but recent reports indicate that, with the economic effect of war in the Persian Gulf, the state may have overestimated its revenue predictions for fiscal year 1992.

THE HIGHEST HONOR that a member of a Rotary Club can attain is the Paul Harris Award, named for the founder of Rotary International, and John H. Wolf, a member of the Oakland Rotary Club since 1946, recently received that honor for his many years of service to the club. Wolf is recognized as the founder of the Rotary French Fry Booth at the Garrett County Fair, a project that has raised thousands of dollars since its inception. The monies are then used for donations to support local charities and various community projects in the Oakland area. In the photo above, Wolf receives the award from Past District Governor Dr. Frank Custer, also a member of the Oakland Rotary Club. Wolf's wife, Gladys, was also present for the presentation.

Two Local Men Arrested After Shooting Incident

Two local men were arrested on Monday night by members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office after they apparently drove through Deer Park shooting out street lights with a shotgun.

William D. Ford, 34, Mtn. Lake Park, and Michael J. Miller, 26, Deer Park, were both charged with destruction of property after the 10:45 arrest made by Deputies R. Shaffer and L. Gnegy. The officers also charged Ford with driving while intoxicated (DWI).

The officers were notified of the shooting incident when a citizen called the Sheriff's Department at 10:38 p.m.

Groves Moves To Bring Sanitary Commission Under County Control

Motion Dies For Lack Of Second

Commissioner Elwood L. Groves II this week announced that motions he made to bring the Garrett County Sanitary Commission under more direct authority of the Garrett County Board of Commissioners and to request enabling legislation to allow that authority at some future point both "died for a lack of a second" from either of the other two commissioners.

Groves explained that a meeting was held recently between the county commissioners, Garrett County Sanitary District Administrator Wendell Beitzel and members of the sanitary commission to discuss and review the workings of the agency and its commission.

"After much reflection, and following that meeting, I'm still persuaded that it would be in the best interests of the county (basically on the issue of accountability) to have the Sanitary Commission, as an agency, become part of the county government," stated Groves. He noted that the agency is currently an independent one.

Commissioner Brenda Butscher, who, along with Commissioner John Braskey, was opposed to the measure, stated, "After listening to them at the meeting, I wasn't convinced the county commissioners could do a better job. I feel we would be less efficient. I think it would be very political and we would have a hard time dealing with a lot of the factors they have to deal with."

Butscher also noted that Beitzel, as administrator, is allowed to invest money from grants the Sanitary District receives, and as a result, has made a profit of "several thousand dollars," according to Butscher.

Butscher added, "One of the things that brought all this on was the Shallmar incident, and Wendell Beitzel said he did tell the county commissioners they were going down to do this job in Shallmar."

Groves responded to that statement by saying, "From my perspective, a policy had been formulated by the county

Blazes Destroy Mobile Home, Dry Run House

Two Garrett County homes were destroyed by fire this past week, including a mobile home in the Friendsville area and a house along Dry Run Road off Rt. 495.

Friendsville, Accident, and Addison volunteer fire fighters were called at 7:48 a.m. Saturday to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Friend. The Friends were standing outside of the mobile home, located along the Friendsville-Addison Road, when firemen arrived and the structure was fully involved in flames.

The cause of the blaze was believed to be material underneath the trailer that had ignited when a propane torch was used to thaw frozen water pipes.

According to Friendsville Chief Terry Spear, the structure and all its contents were totally destroyed, and he estimated the loss to be about $30,000. He said the couple did have insurance on the property.

Firemen remained on the scene for about one and one-half hours. Also called was the Northern Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

The second structure fire destroyed the newly remodeled home of William and Catherine Green Wednesday just after noon.

Deer Park and Bittinger firemen were called to the residence only to find it fully involved in flames upon their ar-

Fairer Tax System Recommended; Garrett Would Benefit Significantly

The Commission on Taxes and Tax Structure recommends changes in Maryland's tax system that would provide income tax relief to residents of all 24 Maryland jurisdictions, and direct aid to local transportation and educational programs.

"We want to restructure Maryland's personal income tax so that the burden no longer falls on those who can least afford to pay and begin to shape a property tax system that is easy to understand," said Commission Chairman R. Robert Linowes.

The entire package proposed by the commission after an exhaustive three-year study would direct a total of $462 million to Maryland's 23 counties and Baltimore City. Broadening the sales tax alone would direct $330 million to counties for local education.

Jurisdictions with the lowest revenues would benefit most from the recommendations, but two-thirds of all Marylanders would enjoy a break on state income taxes.

Garrett County will receive $2,421,000 in the Piggyback Assistance Grant. It will also receive $3,588,000 in new education assistance (net of state reimbursement for Social Security and retirement) and $1,051,000 for transportation and infrastructure improvement, or a net total of $6,418,000 plus

Gov. Schaefer Directs DNR To Re-Open State Parks

After a state-wide outcry to keep the state parks open, Gov. Schaefer has directed the Department of Natural Resources to organize the re-opening of closed parks and to plan to open other parks on their original opening dates.

Apparently surprised and pleased by the numerous offers of volunteer work in the parks, Schaefer told DNR Deputy Secretary John R. Griffin to meet with DNR Secretary Dr. Torrey C. Brown to make the necessary arrangements to open the parks on time.

The Garrett County Commissioners wrote a letter to the governor recently, asking why New Germany State Park was to be closed as the closure of it would save little money for the state.

New Germany State Park was to be closed on March 1, and a decision on whether to re-open it was to be made by July 1, which is the beginning of the new fiscal year.

Sex Offender Pleads Guilty In Circuit Court

Raymond D. McKee, 27, Mt. Savage, pleaded guilty to third degree sex offense in Garrett County Circuit Court this week. Judge Thayer accepted the plea, which came after a plea agreement, and ordered a pre-sentence investigation.

Other charges against McKee that were not prosecuted were child abuse, fourth degree sex offense, and assault and battery. The charges stemmed from a July 1990 incident at which time the defendant apparently committed the sex offense against a 12-year-old female. McKee had temporary responsibility of the child at the time of the offense, according to the court document. The incident occurred in Avilton.

Michael A. Noonan represented McKee in court.

Daniel V. Redmond Jr., 29, and Crystal A. Coddington, 19, both of Friendsville, went before Judge Thayer on charges of accessary to an abduction of a child under 12 years of age. Both defendants made an alford plea of guilty to the charge.

Ryscavage Meets With Commissioners To Express Support For Linowes Plan

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County Schools, met with the Garrett County Commissioners this week to express his support for the Maryland Commission on State Taxes and Tax Structure created by the R. Robert Linowes and his commission. Ryscavage stated that in his judgement, the recommendations of the commission have the potential to greatly improve the public services within Garrett County while at the same time reduce the overall tax burden of the vast majority of the citizens. The commissioners, however, are not in agreement with Ryscavage, and are against the recommendations.

Ryscavage presented a written review of the Linowes commission's recommendations, and explained each of his points to the commissioners. He explained that the improvements in the public services within the county would occur if two points of the recommendations are emphasized: firstly, that taxpayers, not jurisdictions, will be the focus in terms of establishing tax equity. Secondly, increased aid, if necessary, will be heavily weighted to those jurisdictions with the poorest revenue bases and greatest needs, which would in-

MR. BASS...OR IS HE? Karl Hamrick, pictured right, was the overall winner in the Garrett Bassers Club for the 1990 fishing season. Hamrick won seven of nine tournaments to earn the title of Mr. Bass and the opportunity to represent Garrett County in the state Mr. Bass tourney this spring. However, other members of the Garrett Bassers believe Hamrick achieved this feat by cheating and they have kicked him and his brother, Anthony, also pictured, out of the club, apparently stripping him of his title. See story on page A-11.

Oakland Visit Of Bloodmobile Nets 269 Pints

The American Red Cross Bloodmobile made a regular visit to the National Guard Armory in Oakland Friday and collected a total of 269 pints of blood. There was a record number of first-time donors (61), as local persons were apparently willing to give because of the war in the Persian Gulf.

Two hundred and ninety-two persons came to give blood, but 23 of them were deferred for various reasons.

It was originally announced that when the quota of 200 pints was met, no more blood would be collected. However, when the 200th donor arrived, local blood donor program officials contacted the regional Red Cross center in Johnstown, Pa., and were told to continue to take donors. The reason that there was concern about getting too much blood is that the Johnstown center can process only about 800 pints of blood per day and donations are up everywhere because of the war effort. There is concern that too many persons will donate now and, if within the next several weeks large quantities of blood are suddenly needed because of the war, there won't be a sufficient number of donors available.

Ed Majoris, blood donor resource official at the Johnstown center, said that the quota for the Oakland visit was raised to 290 because it was learned that the five other bloodmobiles that were collecting elsewhere in the region that day were not getting as big a response as in Oakland.

"We knew by mid-afternoon that we would be able to raise the Oakland quota and still stay within our 800-pint-per-day processing capability," he said, adding that the record of 61 first-time donors in Oakland was "amazing."

Twelve persons donated their eighth pint of blood and thus became one-gallon donors. There were: Kathy E. Ridder, Edward W. Rhodes, John O. Durst Jr., Mary Herring, and Cathy M. Moon, all of Oakland; Diane M. Frederick and Paul B. Fluckiger, Mtn. Lake Park; Virginia A. Dillsworth, Swanton; Beryl L. Mosser, Grantsville; and Aletha D. Dunithan, Elk Garden, W.Va.

Becoming two-gallon donors were Mary L. Harvey, Oakland, and Cheryl L. Rexrode and Kenneth B. Sukow, Accident, while Carol L. Canan and Joyce L. Colbert, Deer Park; Carl L. Fike and Carl M. Cathell, Oakland; Leonard Orendorf Sr., Accident; and Alta L. Gordon, Horse Shoe Run, W.Va., all reached the three-gallon level.

Linda Maroney, Oakland, became a four-gallon donor, Dessie B. Bowman, Oakland, reached the five-gallon level, Joseph Friend, Oakland, is now a six-gallon donor, and Lavonna B. Frazee, Friendsville, and Ralph Lichty, Oakland, both reached the seven-gallon level by donating their 56th pint of blood.

Local nurses assisting with the visit included: Wilma Minor, Cindy Kutchman, Norma Hesen, Fern Foley, Mary Catherine Speicher, Phyllis Pacheco, Virginia McCauley, Lois Cuppett, and Barbara Lipscomb.

Taking temperatures and pulse rates were Tammy Friend, Mary Kay Beachy, Michelle Alexander, and John Nelson, all emergency medical technicians.

Registration was conducted by Vava Railey, Lorraine Ledden, Dorothy Frame, Martha Lou Ashby, Dianne Thayer, and Beryldine Stanton.

Bag labeling was done by Ruth Porter, Mary Jane DeWitt, and Arletta Bittinger, while Judy Umstot, Beth Friend, Jacqueline Shirer, and Jean Grant performed hemoglobin tests.

Walkers were Carolyn Beachy, Arzella Parsons, Liz Schmidt, Artie Dixon, Rose Baker, and Mary Jo Savage, and canteen workers included Rayetta Beitzel, Freda Austin, Paula Upole, Dinah Murphy, Alice Ann Ridder, Ethel Ridder, Grace Quinet, Lorraine Mason, Arleigh Hauser, Helen Henline, Helen Schrock, and Betty Pritts.

$723,000 in real property tax reduction. Based on those taxpayers with incomes of $40,000 or less in 1988, 6,011 Garrett County taxpayers - 74 percent of all taxpayers in that county - will pay lower personal income taxes and benefit from a reduction in the real property tax rate of 14 cents.

Counties would share a total of $187 million from collections on a proposed 2 percent property tax on cars. A proposed 2 percent personal property tax on boats would direct $16 million to the Chesapeake Bay clean-up.

The income tax benefits outlined in the commission's recommendations should win support in every Maryland jurisdiction. Even in Maryland's wealthiest counties, almost two-thirds of taxpayers would pay lower income taxes if commission proposals are adopted.

Sex Offender

An alford plea occurs when the defendant acknowledges that the evidence given in court does prove him or her guilty.

Judge Thayer accepted the guilty pleas and ordered a pre-sentence investigation for both defendants. Bail was continued, according to the court document.

The charges against the pair stemmed from a July 1990 incident at which time the defendants reportedly abducted Redmond's child, who was legally in the custody of Dianna Kelly, and kept the child away from the home of the rightful parent without consent.

The alleged abduction took place in Friendsville, according to the court document.

Robert C. Hesson represented both Coddington and Redmond in court.

New Program To Assist Victims Now Available

Frances Callis

Assistance to persons victimized by sexual assault or domestic violence is now available through a new program, headed by Frances Callis through the Garrett County Department of Mental Health, Johanna Younger, clinic director, has announced.

The department on October 1, 1990, received the Victims of Crimes Assistance Grant (VOCA) which funds crisis intervention services. Frances Callis will coordinate the program. Younger noted that the Program will have its own quarters, outside the clinic located in the Professional Building, 105 South Second St., office. No. 6.

Specific services provided include:

*A 24-hr. hotline staffed 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, at the office. After hours, weekends and holidays, the hotline will be staffed by volunteers, with backup by the Emergency Psychological Services at Garrett County Memorial Hospital (GCMH).

*Face-to-face emergency services for crisis situations and to meet immediate emotional and physical needs at the Mental Health Clinic or GCMH.

*Staff or volunteer accompaniment for the victim when obtaining medical services, social services, and police and legal services.

*Shelter services will continue to be provided in Cumberland by the Family Crisis Resource Center. However, individuals needing shelter will receive help arranging transportation to the shelter through the program.

Mrs. Callis notes she is now recruiting volunteers. A training session will be scheduled for volunteers and will be announced at a later date. The 24-hour hotline will begin when the volunteer staff has been organized.

Individuals who are interested in volunteering and/or who have questions may contact Mrs. Callis at 334-9000 or 334-9053.

Two Arrested

Both Ford and Miller were released on their own recognizance after going before the Garrett County District Court commissioner.

In a separate case, Mark A. Hollis, 33, Arbutus, was arrested at Youghiogheny Mountain Resort and was charged with one count of possession of a controlled dangerous substance, one count of disorderly conduct, and DWI.

According to the police report, Dep. J. Murphy was dispatched to the area at approximately 2 a.m. on Jan. 28 after receiving a complaint from a resident. The officer found Hollis to be intoxicated and, after a search, also found him to be in possession of a single marijuana cigarette.

Hollis was released on his own recognizance.

An arrest warrant was issued for Randy L. Wiley, 27, Swanton, on the charges of battery and destruction of property. Wiley reportedly committed the battery against Susan Durst and destroyed property in her home worth less than $300.

Ricky C. Stewart, 23, Deer Park, was charged with DWI when Dep. Murphy stopped him for a speeding violation. Stewart was arrested on Rt. 135 in Mtn. Lake Park in the early hours of Jan. 26, according to the report.

A body attachment order was issued by Judge Fred A. Thayer of the Garrett County Circuit Court for Riley E. Lloyd, 44, Mtn. Lake Park. Lloyd apparently failed to appear in court on Jan. 25.

Dep. R. Sines executed the body attachment on Jan. 25.

A bench warrant was issued by the Garrett County District Court for Richard L. Uphold, 30, Friendsville. Uphold reportedly failed to appear in court. The bench warrant was served on Jan. 23.

John W. Suter, 33, Friendsville, was served a bench warrant for violation of probation. The bench warrant was issued by the Allegany District Court, according to the police report.

Dep. Crossland arrested Todd A. Crosco, 18, Oakland, on the strength of a bench warrant issued by the district court. Crosco was charged for failure to pay fines. The warrant was served on Jan. 24.

A bench warrant was issued for Stephen D. Carmines, 39, San Leon, Texas. The warrant, ordered by the circuit court, charged Carmines with violation of probation. Feller served the warrant on Jan. 24.

A fugitive warrant from the state of Kentucky was issued for Paul R. Crosier, 54, Mtn. Lake Park. Crosier was charged with non-support, and he will be extradited to Kentucky by the authorities of that state, according to police.

Detective P. Kelly served the fugitive warrant on Jan. 28.

Current Form Of County Gov't. To Be Studied

In response to a recent suggestion made by District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards to appoint a committee to study the current form of county government, the League of Women Voters of Garrett County this week met with the Garrett County Commissioners to share research on the subject and to make suggestions on the forms of government most advantageous to the county.

Commissioner Elwood L. Groves II stated that the league supports home rule, "and, if I heard them correctly, they particularly favor charter home rule as opposed to code home rule."

He explained that code home rule maintains the traditional county commissioner form of government but gives the board more authority over local issues. This, he said, alleviates the problem of every county issue having to go through the state legislative process before being enacted.

Charter home rule, he said, is in the form of a county council headed by a county executive.

League member Dorothy Leighton told the commissioners, "If my impression is correct, charter home rule gives the county more control of its destiny than code rule does." She noted that a study of the different forms of county government had been conducted by the Maryland League of Women Voters in 1986.

Leighton also stated that, with charter home rule, there would be a wider representation of the county because it calls for more members to be on the council than the current three-member board of commissioners. This would mean more voter input is represented, she said.

Commissioner John Braskey stated that the cost of county government would increase with the charter form because more officials would be drawing salaries. He also said that he didn't know if Garrett County was "big enough for charter home rule."

Leighton cautioned the commissioners not to reject the charter form because "the other is easier or more familiar." Braskey responded by saying that he hoped the league would also remain "open-minded."

League members offered their assistance to the board in their upcoming study of the different forms of government.

When Edwards made his suggestion to the commissioners in early January, he stated that the county needed to look at the alternatives available. "A lot of the local issues that now have to go through the legislature could be accomplished more efficiently at the local level.

MLP Man Found Guilty On CDS, DWI Charges

A Mountain Lake Park man was found guilty of possession of a controlled dangerous substance and driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs in Garrett County District Court proceedings last week. Judge Timothy Finan from Allegany County presided on the bench in the absence of Judge Jack R. Turney.

Franklin R. Polce Jr., 23, had pleaded guilty to both charges and was sentenced to a total of one year in jail. All but 10 days of that sentence was suspended. He was also fined $1,000 and was put on probation in the form of DWI monitoring.

A third charge of driving on a revoked license against Polce was not prosecuted because of a plea agreement.

Polce had been charged during a routine traffic stop made by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department on October 10, 1990, on U.S. Route 219 south. At the time of the stop, marijuana was found when Polce exited the vehicle.

In other District Court proceedings, Donald R. Shiflett, 27, Bayard, W.Va., pleaded not guilty but was found guilty of breaking and entering.

Judge Finan handed him a 60-day suspended jail term, fined him $100, and placed him on two years of unsupervised probation.

Shiflett had initially been charged by the Sheriff's Department when he attempted to break and enter the home of Chris and Pamela Feller, Oakland, on May 19, 1990.

In another case, Russell L. Shafer, 51, Friendsville, was found not guilty of battery. Shafer had been charged with battery on June 23, 1990, by Charles R. Friend, Friendsville, stemming from a fight at the Riverside Lounge in Friendsville.

Four counts of theft against an Accident woman were placed on the stet docket by Judge Finan.

Janet M. Wilt, 34, had been charged with stealing a gun and a car battery from Robert O. Wilt and two guns from Larry D. Wilt, both of Grantsville, on April 23, 1990. Those charges had been filed with the Maryland State Police, McHenry Detachment.

Cumberland Man Escapes Injury In Monday Mishap

A Cumberland man escaped injury Monday when he lost control of his vehicle on U.S. Route 40 and struck a utility pole.

According to reports filed by the Maryland State Police, Clarence S. Hagolin Jr., 51, escaped injury when he lost control of the 1988 Nissan he was operating as the result of a large section of slush in the roadway. The vehicle skidded across the road and struck a utility pole.

According to investigating officer, Cpl. G.M. Long, Hagolin refused medical treatment at the scene following the 10:12 a.m. mishap.

A one-vehicle mishap early Sunday morning resulted in a Swanton man being charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Robert C. Hesson, 40, was charged with DWI after losing control of the 1987 Ford Bronco he was operating on Md. Route 135, just west of the Turkey Neck Road. The vehicle reportedly struck a snowdrift on the right shoulder of the road before overturning.

Tpr. W.E. Dixon investigated the 2:35 a.m. accident.

A Clairton, Pa., man was charged with DWI, failure to furnish required identification and driver's license, and failure to give insurance information.

Rodney G. Clark, 21, was charged following a two-vehicle mishap Friday night. According to police reports, the accident occurred when Clark, operating a 1991 Ford Explorer, reportedly skidded on the icy road in the parking lot at Favorites, Oakland, and struck the rear of a 1986 Ford Mustang, operated by Tracy D. Sereno, 20, Oakland. Clark then allegedly fled the scene.

Tfc. P.R. Brown investigated for State Police.

DWI ARRESTS

State Police also noted three additional DWI arrests this past week.

Jeffrey C. Bell, 37, McHenry, was charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs by Tpr. J.T. Bentlejewski on Friday night.

Louis G. Rowe, 28, Mt. Clare, W.Va., was also charged on Friday with DWI. The arresting officer was Tfc. Robert Cuthbertson.

Sandra L. Stewart, 37, Oakland, was charged with DWI on Thursday by Tfc. P.R. Brown.

Oakland Police Note Arrests, Investigations

The Oakland City Police noted three arrests recently, including two for shoplifting, according to Police Chief John K. Sines.

Charles Pyles, 34, Oakland, was charged with shoplifting two packs of cigarettes and a bottle of brandy at the Town Beverage Center. The arrest was made on Tuesday by Pfc. Shawn Groves.

Pyles has been released on his own recognizance.

A 15-year-old male was charged with shoplifting at Proudfoot's Oakland Pharmacy on January 22.

According to police reports, the youth placed the gum inside a pouch inside his coat and was observed by a store employee. The juvenile was turned over to Wayne Wilt of Juvenile Services and released the same day to the custody of his stepmother.

Chief Sines said store owners are keeping a close watch on shoplifters and will prosecute them to the full extent of the law.

Pfc. Groves also arrested a McHenry man on Saturday and charged him with driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs.

Charged was Jeffrey C. Bell, 38, after Officer Groves received a call from the American Legion Home in Oakland with a disorderly conduct complaint. When Groves arrived, Bell was allegedly leaving in his vehicle.

Chief Sines is also currently investigating the reported theft of a purse belonging to Kimberly A. Crosco, Oakland. The theft occurred sometime between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. on Saturday.

Crosco told police that someone had removed the purse from her blue Dodge pick up truck while she was visiting her in-laws on Liberty Street. The purse reportedly contained $90 in currency and a $26 check. She told police that she was more concerned with retrieving her license and income tax papers than the money.

Persons with any information should contact Sines at the Oakland City Police Department.

Sines is also currently investigating the report of destruction of property by the manager of McDonald's in Oakland.

Reportedly, a large truck ran over a sign at the drive-up window. Damage is estimated at $500. Persons having any information should call Sines at 334-2100 or Garrett County Crime Solvers at 334-1975.

rival. The Greens and their three children, ages 10, 7, and 5, were not at home when the fire broke out. Don Gaster, a neighbor, discovered the fire and called for assistance.

The cause of the blaze was believed to be linked to a coal furnace on the first floor of the wood-frame structure. According to state fire investigators, the loss was estimated to be $20,000. The Greens did have insurance on the property.

State Workers Protest Extended Work Week, Cuts

Many state workers are reportedly protesting Governor William Donald Schaefer's executive order, set to go into effect February 6, that would require most state employees to work a 40-hour week instead of the current 35 and one-half hour week.

The order was reportedly an alternative to a previous threat that approximately 1800 state employees would be laid off in order to help balance the budget shortfall Maryland is now experiencing.

Besides the order to work a 40-hour week, which is reportedly the equivalent of an 11 percent cut in pay, state workers will also be asked to forego annual "step raises," which could cost some workers as much as $500 per year. In addition, no cost-of-living raises will be given this year, and no overtime pay will be made.

Finally, a $5 payment for health insurance will be cut from each employee.

In all, estimates indicate that the measures will cost state workers approximately 13.5 percent of their weekly income.

In response to these announcements, about 300 state employees marched outside the State House in Annapolis last week in protest of the governor's decision. That demonstration was organized by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

A statement was also issued last week by Maryland Classified Employees Association, Inc., (MCEA) Baltimore, indicating that Delegate Clarence Davis (D-Baltimore) has introduced legislation on the association's behalf that would force the state work week back to 35 and one-half hours. The bill will reportedly be considered emergency legislation that would become law as soon as it is passed.

MCEA President Joel Dan Lehman stated, "There are also many state workers who must work a second job to make ends meet, and the extended work hours may require them to give up their second jobs." He also noted that MCEA is concerned about the negative impact the executive order will have on many single-parent households in rearranging day care services.

The state reports that a savings of $4 million will be realized this year by cutting the medical benefits, about $80 million by withholding a general pay increase and about $10 million by eliminating step raises. The workweek extension is expected to net an additional $30 to $40 million savings for the state.

Reports also indicate that uncertainty still exists among state workers who may still face lay offs despite the alternative executive order.

Mrs. Judy Paugh Sworn In As Council Member

The Kitzmiller Mayor and Town Council recently conducted a swearing in ceremony for new council member Mrs. Judy Paugh. Mrs. Paugh is completing the unexpired term of council member Mrs. Crystal Shaffer, who resigned from her position in October, 1990.

Mrs. Paugh will serve on the council until February 1994. She and her husband, Roger, live on Church Street in Kitzmiller. She is the mother of two daughters.

Kitzmiller Mayor Bill White stated that he was very pleased to have Mrs. Paugh on the council.

Mrs. Edith Weeks Embarks On Second Century Of Life

by Mary I. Love

Mrs. Edith Weeks of Mtn. Lake Park is one of Garrett County's notable exceptions to the saying that "man's allotted age is three score years and ten," or 70 years. Today, January 31, 1991, is Mrs. Weeks' 101st birthday, and she carries her five score years and one gracefully.

Granted, her footsteps are a bit slower than they once were, and her vision is impaired, but she is alert and independent. She is quick to say that she has good and attentive neighbors, helpful, but not obtrusive, and she appreciates Meals on Wheels and the companionship it affords. Her three children live near enough to visit fairly often, but except for poor eyesight, which doesn't let her drive, she is largely self-sufficient.

Edith Bailey was born in Thornton, W.Va., in 1890, in a house built by her father, a Confederate veteran. She attended a one-room school, reading and re-reading the available books. She met H.M. (Buddy) Weeks when they were sled riding, and they were married in 1912.

Buddy worked for the railroad in Thornton, but soon after their marriage he was transferred, first to Oakland and then to Mtn. Lake Park in 1913, where he was a ticket and freight agent until he retired in 1952. Those were busy years for the railroad, especially in Mtn. Lake Park, for they included full summer seasons of cultural programs at the Park, with six passenger trains daily and occasional excursion trains for special events. They also encompassed two wars with heavy freight travel.

Mr. and Mrs. Weeks were active in Bethel Church in Mtn. Lake Park, which Mrs. Weeks still attends regularly. She was also in the Neighborhood Club.

Mr. Weeks died in 1978. Daughter Virginia Weeks, now Mrs. Dick Hardesty, a teacher, now lives in Leesburg, Va. The Hardestys have two daughters and a granddaughter. Mary May Weeks, now Mrs. Homer Liston, resides in Cresaptown. She has four children and three grandchildren. Son Lorraine Weeks, of Greensburg, Pa., has two children and five grandchildren.

Mrs. Weeks looks with pride on her family, but is modest and self-effacing about her own quiet achievements and contributions to the community for more than a century.

GOBA Seeks Aid In Decorating Area To Support Troops

A spokesperson from the Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA) said that an effort is underway to decorate Oakland with yellow bows to represent a strong show of support for the troops in the Persian Gulf.

The spokesperson said that GOBA had its first promotion in September 1990 when yellow ribbons were placed on parking meters with the fall corn husks. When war broke out on January 16, GOBA was apparently out of money, as membership is collected in February. Now the association is seeking donations and/or volunteers to assist in the re-decoration of the town.

Kim Flanagan, wife of Sgt. Kevin Flanagan who has been in Saudi Arabia since December, will be delivering yellow bows, made by Flowers by Webers, to local businesses. The business owners are asked to place them where they are visible to the public. Mrs. Flanagan is seeking volunteer assistance in delivering the bows, and interested persons, perhaps other spouses or military family members, may contact her by calling 334-8747.

Radio stations WXIE and WMSG may be contacted for further information at 334-1100, and will be accepting donations which will be used to decorate the town parking meters with ribbons. Donations are also being collected at Marvin's Men's Wear in Oakland, where persons may also obtain bows. They are available at Flowers by Webers as well.

The yellow bows made at Webers for businesses and the bows for the parking meters will all have a ribbon of red, white, and blue in the center.

The GOBA spokesperson also urged citizens to participate in the "Candle in the Window" effort, which was recently begun by the Oakland Fraternal Order of Police, Lodge #99. To participate, persons are asked to put a candle or a white light of any kind in a window of their home and keep it lit every evening throughout the war.

G.C. Humane Society Officers Rescue Pa. Pony

Two Garrett County Humane officers recently assisted Maryland State Troopers in the rescue of a pony in the Glencoe, Pa., area.

According to Bernadine Friend, Garrett County Humane Society director, the pony had been the victim of abuse for all of its three and one-half year life. The plight of the pony was made known when a Pennsylvania veterinarian reported the abuse to a humane agent in that area. Reportedly, that agent took no action to remedy the situation, so Mrs. Friend and another Garrett County Humane Society officer, Jane Broadwater, made the ten-hour round trip to assist in the rescue of the animal.

Mrs. Friend reported that when the pony was found at about 6:30 p.m., it was standing in the backyard of an abandoned house, between a railroad track and a state road, in six inches of snow and ice, and no food and water were seen around the pony.

The pony was then taken to an animal sanctuary in Pennsylvania for rehabilitation.

"The same caring neighbors who had been responsible for feeding the pony also welcomed us into their homes while we were there," stated Mrs. Friend.

She also noted that charges will be brought forth against the owner of the animal, and that she has contacted Pa. Governor Robert Casey to alert him of the situation since no agency has jurisdiction in that area.

Friend is currently investigating a report of a Grant County, W.Va. woman who is allegedly keeping 250 cats at her residence. The cats are reportedly in poor health and are not being adequately cared for.

It was also noted that most of the work performed by members of the Humane Society is volunteer.

GCC Twentieth Anniversary Plans Now Underway

by Joan Crawford

Persons who lived in Garrett County 20 years ago may remember how a song from a popular musical of the 60's, "The Impossible Dream," was often mentioned in reference to the new little college in McHenry that opened its doors for the first time in September 1971. Now, 20 years later, plans are being made to celebrate the anniversary with a year-long series of events in which the community will be invited to participate. Perhaps coincidentally, the musical, Man of LaMancha, from which the song was taken will be the college theatre department's offering this spring.

Under the leadership of Dr. Steve Herman, president of Garrett Community College, committees have been formed to plan the activities for the anniversary year. The celebration will probably kick off with a reception and open house on the campus in September, at which a jazz band will perform and college departments will have special displays. Other events being planned by the social committee include a student beach party, a five-kilometer run, a college concert, game shows, and possibly a formal dance. Members of this committee are Linda Fike, Margaret Perfetti, Beverly Plachta, and Pat Welch.

The cultural and academics committee, consisting of Dr. Lillian Mitchell, Beth Hurley, Dana Shimrock, and Ben Sincell, is planning special activities that will involve GCC's academic departments with presentations and displays for the students and the community. An alumni art exhibit is among those being considered.

A recognitions committee, headed by Jacqueline Shirer, is working on the historical background of the college and ways to recognize those responsible for its beginning. The GCC Alumni Association, headed by Rob Michael, will plan activities to involve GCC alumni with the celebration.

Looking into the future, a committee consisting of Dr. Herman, Tom Kierstead, and Nancy Priselac is planning a one and a half "2010 Convention" to envision what Garrett Community College should be in 20 years. Community persons, as well as Governor William D. Schaefer and Secretary of Higher Education Sheila Aery will be invited to this event, tentatively scheduled for September 27-28.

The public relations committee, consisting of Joan Crawford, Pat Gregg, and Joan Sussman, will be responsible for publicizing the celebration through news and feature stories, radio announcements, signs, a calendar of events, the Autumn Glory float, and a booth at the Garrett County Fair.

Because more persons will be needed to plan and carry out the many events being scheduled, anyone interested is asked to call the president's office at Garrett Community College at 387-6666.

Snow Ski Thefts Continue In Area

The theft of snow skis continues in the area, as the Maryland State Police, McHenry Detachment, reported that two pairs of skis were taken from the Wisp Resort last Thursday.

Jeanine Shank, Oakland, told police that someone had taken her K2 skis with Tyrolia bindings, valued at $440, and Scott Austin, Morgantown, W.Va., reported that someone had taken his Atomic skis with Marker bindings, valued at $450. Both pairs of skis had been left unattended at the time of the thefts.

Tfc. P.R. Brown is investigating the thefts.

Correction Noted

Information was omitted in a photo caption featured in last week's edition of The Republican concerning a check presented to Hospice of Garrett County by members of The Lighthouse Club from hard tack candy sale proceeds. The Lighthouse is an organization of the Garrett County Health Department.

Omitted from the list of staff members who participated in the candy making were Gerri Likens and Gina Bender. The candy flavorings were donated by Englander's Pharmacy and Proudfoot's Pharmacy.

It was also noted that Rick DiSimone, of Browning's Foodland, was instrumental in providing space at that store for the candy sale to take place.

The Republican regrets the above omissions.

We Agree, Dr. R. . . .

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County's school system, presented testimony this week to the Garrett County Board of Commissioners, urging them to support the proposal by the Commission on State Taxes and Tax Structure, better known as the Linowes plan.

We, like Dr. Ryscavage, believe that the Commission's proposal has great merit and would do much to make the allocation of state funds, particularly for education, far more equitable than it is now.

The state has begun an effort called the Maryland School Performance Program, which calls for all school systems in the state and their students to fulfill certain standards in education. However, all of the school systems do not receive the same amount of funding under the present system; thus, it is more difficult for the less affluent counties, such as Garrett, to meet these standards.

The Linowes plan does call for higher taxes, both in general sales tax (from five to five and one-half percent) to higher income taxes for persons who earn over $40,000. It also calls for a two-percent personal property tax on automobiles and boats.

The general sales tax increase would provide an additional 3.6 million dollars to Garrett County schools. The income tax hike, which would affect only 26 percent of Garrett County's taxpayers, would provide 2.4 million dollars extra in unrestricted monies. The personal property tax would send us an additional 1.5 million dollars.

We were disappointed when, after Dr. Ryscavage's testimony, the Garrett County Commissioners stated that they could not support the Linowes plan. Their reasoning was simple — they could not support any increase in taxes.

We, like everyone else, do not like new and higher taxes either. However, the simple facts of the matter are that things cost more these days and, under the present system of allocation, we are not getting our fair share of funding. A consistent, hardfast stand against tax hikes and increased expenditures ultimately results in a drop in quality, whether it be in education, the maintenance of roads, emergency management, or library services. We demand more and more of our school systems, but we are not willing to pay for it.

Yes, there is waste in government, and we have voiced our negative opinion on that fact many times in the past. But there is also gross inequity in the present system, just as Dr. Ryscavage explained.

While we think there is probably room for some alterations and amendments in the Linowes plan, it appears to us that it is an outstanding piece of work that offers the brightest picture for Garrett County that we have seen in a long time. Our commissioners will be doing us a disservice by not supporting it.

LWV THE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

Annual Holiday Get-Together Again A Success

The League of Women Voters of Garrett County recently held its annual holiday get-together with elected officials and agency representatives at the home of members Jack Jones and Connie Margison. This particularly interesting gathering, scheduled for 4-6 p.m.,lasted until 7 p.m. or so and could have gone on for a while longer had it not been for some who had other places to go.

Delegate George Edwards touched on certain issues (e.g., growth and management, land use, environmental concerns, reproductive choice, and health care) that he thinks will require major time and effort in this year's state legislature. Commissioner-elect Brenda Butscher invited anyone who has county concerns to contact her at any time, at the Garrett County Courthouse or at her home.

Oakland Mayor Asa McCain talked about improvements at Broadford Lake Park, the status of Bradley Manor, and town recycling, which the town council has deemed to be not yet feasible.

Others in attendance included Dr. Rex Archer, Garrett County health officer; Charles Teets, outgoing school board member; and Wilmer Margroff, judge of the Orphan's Court.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I am writing to ask your readers to support the West Virginia University Health Science Center. We need you to write your legislators and ask that they provide full funding for the University Health Science Center. As a graduate of the WVU School of Medicine and a lone practitioner in a WV rural community, I can not emphasize the need enough to maintain the Health Science Center at its current state. I depend very heavily on the Health Science Center as a source of information, support, and referral of my patients.

Via the recently established MARS line, I speak with various physicians in the Health Science Center. I probably speak to a physician about seven or eight times per week. This enables me to care for my patients locally with the expertise of the specialist. This provides cost effective quality medicine as well as a service for patients who are unable to make the one hour trip to Morgantown for consultation.

Over the last two years there has been a tremendous improvement in the public relations and bedside care given by the university to my patients. Comments have never been more favorable in my practice. I have never had a patient refused by them if transfer was felt to be necessary. At the same time they have encouraged me to provide quality care with frequent communication for very difficult patients. I have not been able to find that kind of support, help and assistance from physicians in private practice.

There is tremendous concern that if the Health Science Center does not receive adequate funding, that there will be significant curtailments in services provided and possibly even closing of some departments. This would certainly be catastrophic to health care in northern West Virginia. I think without the appropriate funding, it is inevitable that certain services and possibly even departments will be forced to close because of the difficulties encountered. This will certainly mean a decrease in services available to my patients. Patients will then be forced to travel from one to two hundred miles to obtain comparable services. Those services would then only be provided if they had private insurance. Institutions outside of the state of WV continue to refuse to accept WV Medicaid or private pay patients.

Without the support of the West Virginia Health Science Center it would certainly make my practice much more difficult. The sense of security that is provided in knowing that helpful specialty consultation is only a phone call away is tremendously reassuring to me in private practice. Certainly if this piece of security was removed from me, it would be much more difficult to continue practice in rural Preston County.

Again, I urge you very strongly to write to your legislators and ask for support of the West Virginia University Health Science Center with full funding.

Sincerely,

Letter to Editor:

Note: The writers of the following letter requested that it appear as a letter to the editor:

Dear Garrett County Commissioners:

A year ago, recycling was a "hot item" in Garrett County, as evidenced by a lively, well-attended meeting hosted by the League of Women Voters of Garrett County (LWVGC). Many individuals and groups were already recycling on their own, but the purpose of the January 1990 gathering was to exchange ideas and information and to find out what our county officials planned to do about recycling and reducing our solid waste stream.

At this meeting, LWVGC offered to take in sorted container glass, aluminum cans, and other metals in its Alder Street office in Oakland as a fundraiser until such time as a county-wide plan would be put into effect. Newspapers would also be accepted for a local farmer who shreds newsprint for animal bedding. In addition, LWVGC decided to ask our county commissioners to appoint a county-wide recycling committee.

Later last spring, you did indeed appoint a recycling committee, and, with the enthusiasm generated around Earth Day in April, Garrett County appeared to be on its way toward protecting the environment, conserving earth's resources, and saving landfill space.

But, where are we now in terms of progress toward that goal? True, all paperwork is in compliance with state regulations, but do we have to wait for the state to push us into the 1990s? We want to recycle now! Anyone who doubts that we're ready should stop in next door to The League of Women Voters' office, 223 E. Alder Street, where recyclables are brought in by county citizens.

In September we were told there would be sort of a pilot project implemented by December whereby two refuse collection sites — one at the northern end of Garrett County and one at the southern end — would be equipped with bins for collecting glass and cans. To date, these are not in place. What is the hold-up? Every day counts — every pound, every ton counts in reducing solid waste.

With the new Garrett County Board of Commissioners in office, The League of Women Voters asks you to please implement even the pilot program as soon as possible!

Respectfully Submitted,
The Board of Directors
League of Women Voters
Of Garrett County

To the Editor:

The Editorial which appeared in your January 11 issue hit a sensitive spot with me. When that happens, I usually wait a week or so to respond, just in case I have a change of heart.

I applaud your efforts to provide an empathetic and caring environment in our community for those families with loved ones gone to Desert Storm. Living so far from military installations robs these families from the medical call and support groups available to them. Please don't stop these efforts you've supported, even 6 months, a year, or even 2 years down the trail. Don't let people forget!

My personal sensitivity stems from the missing mentor of single parents, or both parents affected by the war. Children lose the only parents they have, and grandparents and other family members bear the burden of child care, which unfortunately includes reassuring these children that their parents have not abandoned them forever! Please extend these same efforts to those individuals!

I received the call January 17 myself, being abruptly removed from my normal environment less than four hours from my call to duty. I will make every effort to communicate with The Republican on a regular basis addressing the personal side of the war from the viewpoints of a flight nurse doing Aerovac.

Thanks to all of you who have expressed support to may family and to me. It truly is appreciated.

God Bless you all.

To the Editor:

In response to your editorial of January 24, 1991, concerning the "Bold, Interesting Proposal" of State Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Joseph L. Shilling to reduce the bureaucracy of the Maryland State Department of Education and allow for fewer state mandates and the institution of "school-based management," I offer several clarifications. If one reads the proposal more closely, you find that several of the departments housed by the State Department are being recommended to be transferred to other state agencies, and not the elimination of nearly 1,000 educational specialists.

I can only wonder if your article refers to the same Dr. Joseph L. Shilling who is in Annapolis asking the legislature to divert $20 million of state funding for education for next year to fund his Maryland School Performance Program and other pet projects. The loss to Garrett County of approximately $145,000 ($30 per student) of the funding designed to help poorer counties equalize educational funding will pay for the development of a new testing program, mandatory kindergarten, and other schools for Success initiatives. I hope you had an opportunity to read the first publication of the "Maryland School Performance Program Report, 1990 State and School Systems," which is a booklet comparing schools and is supposed to serve as a mechanism (bureaucracy) to improve instruction and includes measures (mandates) of performance to be attained by 1995. So much for eliminating the bureaucracy and state mandates.

As for the belief that each school should be permitted to use its resources to structure a learning program that best suits its needs (school-based management), teachers have been in the forefront of this educational reform movement, but the Maryland State Department of Education has been dragging their feet on these reforms. Instead, they have their own ideas, such as lengthening the school year, lowering standards for entry into the teaching profession, and instituting roadblocks to teacher initiatives we call "shared decision making." Dr. Joseph L. Shilling is also the secretary-treasurer of the Maryland State Board of Education and has been instrumental in their decisions. So much for schools designing their own learning programs for the students of Garrett County.

As a teacher and a parent, I agree wholeheartedly that the tax-paying public deserves an assurance that every educational dollar is reaching the students through instruction and not wasteful positions. I think the tax-paying public needs to review the new Maryland School Performance Program Division at the Maryland State Department of Education.

Sincerely,
Jim Raley, President

To the Editor:

I have been wanting to write this letter for some time now. I will keep it very brief.

I don't remember exactly when your paper started letting letters to the Editor exceed 300 words, but I know it's been quite some time now. I find many of the letters that you print to be almost worthy of being published as books. I would like to see your paper go back to the 300-word limit. If one can't get the point across in 300 words, then I for one say, "Hang it up." Most of these lengthy letters are repetitive and boring, to say the least.

I wish you would give this matter some consideration. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Norma J. Rodeheaver

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter in answer to the one published in The Republican on January 17, from Robert E. Watson.

He alleges that George Bush has a strangle hold on the U.N. or at least forced them to vote to please him; likewise with Congress.

While I do not agree with all our Senators and Congress and their decisions, I do give more credit than to think George Bush is the total controller.

It's almost like saying Dulles Airport could handle all air traffic with one controller in the tower.

Oh yes, Billy Graham came to the White House for prayer service. Mr. Watson, did George Bush control him also?

You call yourself a Conservative Republican. To me you sound like many of the liberals in Washington with their protest signs.

I do not for one minute think George Bush cajoled, threatened, bullied, or otherwise.

The U.N. and the Congress did not vote for war 100%. But I think it was also on many minds, how do I get to work without gas and oil? How do I get my children to the doctor without gas or oil and basically we do not want another Hitler.

Give credit where credit is due.

Sincerely,
Mrs. W.B. Keller
Cumberland

To the citizens of Maryland:

Honestly, why have I been labelled a big spender and a big taxer? I understand that many people around the state are frustrated with government in general and I guess it's easy to blame the governor for taxing and spending too much. But, unfortunately, the facts prove otherwise. My purpose here is to present to you two simple and important facts.

First, in over four years, I have approved only one tax increase -- in 1987, I signed legislation raising the state's gasoline tax by five cents per gallon. The money was used to undertake a badly needed transportation improvement program, building roads, bridges and mass transit systems and upgrading others in every area of the state. The projects were ones asked for by the counties and have both relieved congestion and made economic development possible.

No other state taxes have been raised. Not a single one. All of the additional money we have spent was generated by the state's prosperity, allowing us to meet our responsibilities without raising taxes.

Secondly, believe it or not, I can't spend any money on my own. Every year, I prepare a budget for the state -- my ideas about how I think we should spend our money. Your senators and delegates look at every single line in the budget and approve what they like and strike out what they don't. I can't spend one cent unless the legislature gives its approval. Sometimes we disagree, but they have the final word.

Lastly, a word about this year's budget. The nationwide recession has hit Maryland -- revenues are down significantly and the mandated costs of programs like welfare and medicaid are way up. We have managed the problem by cutting over $400 million out of the budget. Make no mistake, these have been painful cuts to make and every area of state government has taken its share of the cuts. People tell me that government is too big, that it must be cut back. Government has been cut back -- to the bone.

Please, take the time to study the facts about your state government. I welcome your thoughts.

Sincerely,
William Donald Schaefer
Governor

To the Editor:

There was a letter to the editor last week that told of how wrong President Bush was in attacking Iraq. This letter also told how Saddam Hussein would have accepted a compromise to withdraw from Kuwait. Evidently this person was not listening to the same news cast that I was. The ones I heard told how Mr. Hussein absolutely would not withdraw, no matter what the circumstances.

This person led your readers to believe that Mr. Bush made all these decisions on his own and that there were no other countries involved. This person must not realize that there are other countries involved, such as Great Britain, France, Italy, and many others.

I am proud to say that I stand

RELAX DEAR, IT'S JUST THE U.S. POSTAL SERVICE!

Gov. Schaefer Speaks Out

MARYLANDERS HELPING EACH OTHER
by Governor William Donald Schaefer

Every now and then I like to set aside my formal schedule and visit a group or organization that works with people. Around the holidays, I visited a soup kitchen and a shelter for homeless people, to see some of the people working on the "front lines."

In November, I visited My Sister's Place in Baltimore, which works mostly women and children, a lot of them battered. I talked to Sister Marie, and tried to find out what she might need to help the people she serves. She was worried about the weather, because it was starting to get cold, and said a lot of people who stopped by the shelter needed hats, scarves, and gloves to stay warm.

Christmas was coming up, so I talked to my staff and decided that we'd try to get state employees to collect some items for Sister Marie. Some of the public information officers, who work for each agency and department, set up "mitten trees" in state buildings to collect donations. Instead of the usual Christmas decorations, the trees were covered with scarves, hats and gloves.

Those state agencies who didn't specifically help My Sister's Place adopted organizations near their department, found out how we could help, and collected money, clothing, and food.

The state employees really responded. We were able to deliver to My Sister's Place about 330 hats, scarves and pairs of gloves. The Office of Aging collected $500 to buy food, clothing, and other essentials for two adopted families. The Department of Transportation collected 2,400 non-perishable food items, and 500 items for the "Food for the Hungry Drive" this month.

The toll collectors really made me happy. They collected nearly 4,000 toys at six toll plazas, working with the U.S. Marine Corps Reserve, a big help in making sure Maryland's needy children would have a good Christmas this year. Agencies in Annapolis adopted families and collected presents and enough food to give each house a full Christmas dinner.

These efforts were so successful that I think we might try something like that again, extend the spirit of giving to other months — not just December. We would like to start a campaign to help people who need it, probably in March.

These are some trying times for us in Maryland. People are worried about the economy, and the war in the Persian Gulf is on everyone's mind. Usually, when times are bad, more people need our help. We're asked to give more, to do more.

Everybody doesn't always answer the call for help, though. Sometimes, people want to say, "I've done enough. I have to look out for myself." But we can't afford to have that kind of attitude, because more people are going to need our help. We see it a lot in state government. We've had more requests for help from people who've lost their jobs, who are having trouble paying their bills, staying warm and putting food on the table.

In my inaugural speech Wednesday, I asked Marylanders not to turn their backs on people who need our help. It's important in this economy, and important because we have men and women in the Persian Gulf with families in Maryland who can really use our help. I'm going to promise that the state will make a difference in helping where it can.

My Citizens Assistance Network, a group of people coordinated from state agencies, has looked at the state programs available to help the families. We know that the family members need a hand with housing, job placement, counseling, taxes. Families with sons, daughters, wives, husbands, or parents serving in the Persian Gulf have a lot on their minds. We would like to give them one less worry.

We've got a lot of possibilities, a lot of areas where we can help. If you have some thoughts about how we can lend some assistance to Marylanders in need, whether it's because of the economy, the Persian Gulf war, or any other reason, I'd like to hear it. Write me: Governor William Donald Schaefer, State House, Annapolis, MD 21401.

MT. GROVE QUITE ACTIVE

Mt. Grove Volunteer Fire Department began its new year with the first month seeing changes in officers and an increase in activity.

Officers filling posts for the year are Richard Helmick, president; Bob Helmick, vice president; Larry Shaffer, secretary; Dennis Roth, treasurer; Russ Simmons, County Firemen's Association representative; Rod Stemple, sergeant-at-arms; Brad Shaffer, chief; Jeff Harsh, assistant chief; Butch Wilson, fire captain; Gary Murphy, rescue captain; Donnie Knapp, lieutenant; Judy Stemple, festival chairperson; Shirley Kight, assistant festival chairperson.

Activity as of January 26 included two meetings, six emergency calls which included two flue fires and three vehicle accidents; one helicopter landing zone set-up; four departmental trainings involving breathing apparatus, pumps/pumpers, structural search and rescue and routine maintainenance; attendance at Tucker County EMS meeting. Mutual aid assistance was the Aurora VFD, Union Ambulance and Thomas VFD.

Residents are reminded that prevention is the safest and most effective way to fight fires. At this time of year, all flues to wood or coal stoves should be checked and cleaned frequently. Because of their serious nature, all flue fires should be treated as a structure fire and the department dispatched to assist and moniter. Waiting until the fire has transferred to the structure can cause unnecessary loss and damage.

Mt. Grove VFD is in the initial stages of a fund drive to replace the aging Tanker Six. Some recent contributions have been gratefully received from Kenneth Evans, Don Roth, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Feather, Gortner Airport, Wanda Evans, Virginia Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Gay Roth and Mary Shipley. A generous donation has also been received from Coastal Lumber Company. Persons wishing to assist in this fund raising effort may address such to P.O. Box 69, Horse Shoe Run, WV 26769.

Members of the community are urged to visit the library and see the honor roll. "If any service person has been missed, let us know and a ribbon will be posted for that person," stated a library spokesman.

History Of Terra Alta Topic Of New Book By Betty Whittaker White

"Write what you know" is the advice that is always given to new authors. Betty Whittaker White has followed this advice in the book she has just completed. Between pains-taking research, and a good narrative style, the reader is convinced that she really knows "What she is writing about."

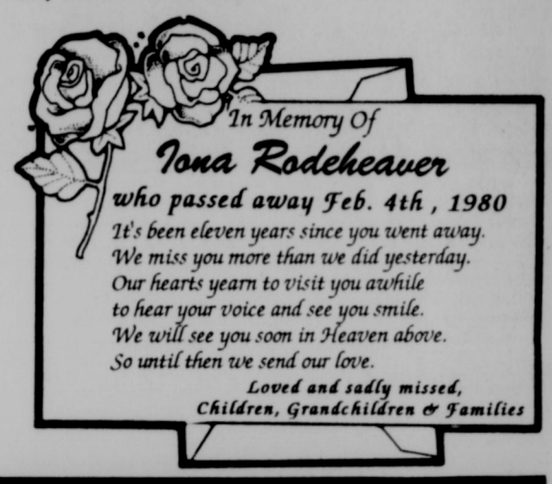
The book is called, The Past is a Key to the Future, with a subtitle, "A History Of Terra Alta, West Virginia and Its Vicinity."

In this book, Betty White has carefully chronicled the geological, archeological, social, political, and economic history of her home town and the surrounding countryside. Containing over 600 pages, it is filled with photographs and charts to illustrate the narrative material.

For quick access to various features, the book has been divided into nine major sections. These sections group together similar narrative material under such headings as "Formation of a Community," or "Events and Organizations." Each section is sub-divided into chapters which supply details to the major section headings. For example, under the "Formation of a Community," there is a chapter, "The Naming of Terra Alta."

Betty White did extensive research in composing this history book and ran across many anecdotes in the process. She includes some of them through out the book to lighten the text.

For example, in a chapter on camps in the Terra Alta area, there is the story of how the campers used to go to the railroad station at night to see the National Limited come through. They were surprised one night when this non-stop train ground to a halt just past the station platform. It seems that the engineer, on seeing so many people gathered on the station platform,thought he was supposed to make an unscheduled stop to pick up the campers as passengers.



As a "local" history book, this volume has many items of interest for everybody.

For those who are interested in genealogy there is a chapter called, "People! People!" It contains the names of people who lived in Terra Alta and the surrounding territory about 1900. History buffs will find an interesting account of previous "official names" of the town prior to the selection of the present name, Terra Alta. Perhaps those interested in rural politics will be fascinated in the fact that Terra Alta nearly became the county seat of Preston County in 1910.

People acquainted with Terra Alta citizens will be intrigued with the group photographs of community organizations. Many members of the service clubs, school, church, and fraternal groups are still active people in the town. Surprisingly, many of them still look much the same as they did 40 years ago.

A visitor will find the volume is a reliable "guide book" to points of interest in the area. The text and accompanying photographs will "whet the appetite" for anyone who wants to go exploring in the hills of Preston County around Terra Alta.

behind President Bush, the allied nations, and all the troops in Saudi Arabia, against this little Hitler.

I guess the person who wrote this letter feels that we should let Saddam Hussein take over all the Middle East, then Israel, and let it snowball, but we should wait until he gets big enough to take over a major free country, such as Great Britain (no, that would never happen). It never happened in Germany, or did it?

My personal feelings are, instead of trying to demoralize our troops and citizens, let's stand up and tell our troops how proud we are of them, pray for their safe return, and welcome them home with open arms.

I have a relative stationed in the Persian Gulf and it bothers me when there are people who downgrade our country, when there is no better place to live. I know, because I have been in other countries.

Sincerely,
Frederick D. Sanders

To the Editor:

We are all encouraged by the current military statistics from the Persian Gulf war, so far.

Apparently Saddam Hussein has no intentions of vacating Kuwait as long as he has any of his Republican Guard left to guard him. He well knows that ultimately he cannot win against the united UN forces. He hopes to divide the UN and kill as many Americans and Israelis as possible, and then possibly die as an Arab martyr, leaving the Arabic nations to destroy each other with F.A.E. and nuclear bombs. Such bombs could ultimately destroy all life here on Planet Earth.

As Richard Lugar of Indiana wrote me in his letter of Nov. 28, 1990, quote, "We are not safe if Saddam Hussein simply retreats back inside the borders of Iraq with conventional, chemical and potential nuclear weapons intact." I had recommended to President Bush in early November, that he

Marylanders Continue Entertainment Spending Despite Sluggish Economy

Marylanders spent $87.6 million on taxable entertainment during October, November, and December, 1990, or just about the same amount as during the same three months of the previous year, according to State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein. "Contrary to what you might expect, Marylanders spent about the same amount on entertainment despite the economic downturn," Goldstein said.

While spending for motion pictures, golf and athletic facilities and equipment rentals increased, Marylanders spent less on shows and exhibits, live theatre and concerts, and coin-operated amusement devices.

Statewide spending for motion pictures increased by about 4.6% over the same period last year, to more than $16 million. Spending on the types of indoor activities popular in the colder months showed increases as usual. Marylanders spent more than $3 million on athletic facilities and equipment rentals, a 2.4% increase over spending for the same quarter last year.

"The relatively mild weather through the end of December, 1990 was responsible for the 72% decrease in spending for ski rentals and ski slopes, compared to the same months of 1989, when there was significant snowfall," the comptroller noted.

Golfers enjoyed the pleasant fall temperatures and mild winter enough to spend more than $9 million in fees and rentals, up 21.3% from the same period of the previous year.

However, Marylanders spent less on coin-operated amusement devices during October, November, and December, 1990. The total spending in this category was $9.1 million, down 9.7% from the same period of the previous year.

"All of this spending for entertainment generates admissions and amusement tax revenue which our office collects for Maryland counties, cities and towns," Goldstein said. The comptroller noted that checks totaling $5,715,549 are on their way to local governments as their share of the admissions and amusement tax receipts.

"This distribution is about 2.2% less that the $5,842,799 we returned to the local governments for the October-December period of 1989," Goldstein said. "We collect this revenue at rates set by local officials and return the money to local governments each quarter."

The amount being returned to Garrett County, however, was significantly lower than for the same period last year, from $25,158 in FY 90 to $18,459 in the second quarter of FY 91.

The "True Australia" Is Seen By Local 4-H Member Through IFYE Program

by Bernice Kepple

Joyce Noel is a member of the Red House 4-H Club who for the past five years has worked hard with her animals, her sewing and her crafts projects. She has helped younger club members, has attended and exhibited at the Garrett County Fair, and, all in all, has been a very "normal" 4-H member. Last summer, however, she did something rather abnormal — she traveled to Australia as an ambassador with the International Four-H Youth Exchange (IFYE) Program.

Joyce, the 17-year-old daughter of Jean Noel-Tricket of Oakland, had made short trips to England and Alaska with other groups, but said she wanted to go to a country where she could stay longer. "IFYE offered that kind of a program," she said.

Along with 29 4-H'ers and two group leaders from 18 states, Joyce first traveled to Hawaii for four days of orientation. There they received information about the government, the transportation system, and the people of Australia. They learned that Australia covers 2.9-million square miles, about the same size as the continental United States. And although it was summer at home when they left, it would be winter when they arrived in Australia. Joyce said the temperature ranged between 34 and 50 degrees while she was there, and she was told it reaches 110 degrees in some areas in the summer.

"I don't think any orientation really prepares you for everything you need," said Joyce, "but the people in Australia were so friendly that we had no problem."

After an 18-hour flight, the group arrived in Sydney and was met by their bus driver, who was "totally Aussie." With him they toured Sydney and got their first taste of the country and its people.

They then divided into groups of one to five, and each group spent a week at a time with host families. Joyce's first "home" was Silver Wattle Sheep Station, where she spent a week and a half. Silver Wattle ran 1,000 sheep, just a few by Australian standards. But, its main purpose was to provide team management training for people from all over the world, volunteering much of their time to youth.

The IFYE delegates took the team management training course. They were given situations to picture, like crossing a moat with limited materials, and they had to come up with a solution and manage the situation as a team.

While there, she also tried absailing — a mountain climbing skill similar to repelling — down a couple hundred feet of a sheer rock face. "It was the most awesome thing," Joyce said. "I want to do it again." The Austrailians also have a version of repelling where the climber goes down head first. "I didn't try that," Joyce laughed.

As a change of pace, the group was loaded into two yuks (pickup trucks) and taken out to round up sheep. And when that got boring, they chased kangaroos. "In Australia they have more kangaroos than we have deer in this country," Joyce said, and added that all vehicles there have "roo guards" to protect them and along many of the roads there are kangaroo crossing signs.

Their hosts drove the group back into town where they toured Parliament House and stopped to shop at an "Outback" store, where a few in the group purchased driz-a-bone coats and akubra hats. "The Australian people wear them a lot," Joyce said, speaking of the coats and hats that have become popular in this country since the release of the Australian movie, "The Man From Snowy River," several years ago.

On July 4, the IFYE group was treated to fireworks and an indoor barbecue to honor America's Independence Day. "It was a great party complete with balloons," Joyce said. There was one familiar ingredient missing, though, she noticed — hotdogs. Instead of hotdogs, the Australians eat a longer, skinnier sausage with a tough skin.

Joyce noted some other culinary differences, too. It's common to be served spaghetti on toast for breakfast, and pizza comes topped with pineapple. A person gets a cookie if they ask for a biscuit. Because biscuits as we know them are unknow in Australia, Joyce fixed biscuits with chicken gravy one night for her host family. She said the biscuits turned out fine and the family like them, although the flour there made them sweeter and yellow in color. And, they were warned never to ask for a napkin because in Australia that is a baby's diaper.

The teens there speak so much slang that they are hard to understand. "Sometimes there's a real language barrier," Joyce said. Some examples she gave were "mate," when referring to a friend, and "ta," meaning thank you.

July 9 was Joyce's birthday, and her host family in Goulburn made her a birthday cake with real cream filling. The dairies there still deliver milk and dairy products to the door, Joyce said. Dairy farms there are few but large, and the cows are smaller than ours, she added. One of the dairy farms she toured while in Australia had a large-capacity roto-electric milking parlor, but just a couple of farms have silos. "They're still learning to feed from them," Joyce said.

While in Goulburn, the group was invited to have tea with the mayor, who greeted them dressed in a ceremonial red robe with gold trim. While there, pictures were taken for the local newspaper and they were interviewed on the radio. Joyce said, "We were constantly going somewhere and doing something we had never done before."

The travelers were made to feel right at home. Joyce commented that her host mother, a teacher, even looked like her own mom, who is also a teacher. "They let us call them Mom and Dad and treated us like three other members of their family. That particular family had three children, ages 11, 15 and 17. The American visitors thought it strange that the 17-year old didn't have a driver's license yet, and found out that in Australia a person is required to have a learner's permit for one year, then a provisional permit for one year, and it costs them $1,000 a year to keep a registration.

"Teens there are more mature," Joyce says, "more well-versed in life than we are. They're more reserved. U.S. teens are considered rude in general by them. We like many of the same things, though — the same kind of music, sports — and teens are involved in the same kind of school and community activities. They have their own version of our 4-H clubs, too. They are called Rural Youth Clubs, and their major projects are fashion revue and dance."

The American teens did notice some differences, however, one being the track suits (sweat pants) they all wear because blue jeans cost $100 a pair in Australia.

On July 13, Joyce's group took a nine-hour trip into the "Outback" and stayed in cabins at Warrumbungle National Park. There they were taught to properly throw a bomerang, and they climbed some of the Impossible Mountains. They also visited an animal park where Joyce was able to pet a two-month-old kangaroo and a koala bear. "Kookaburra birds woke us each morning. They sound like a pack of monkeys," Joyce remembered.

She also remembers cockatoos in the trees so thick they looked like snow. Joyce found out they are very common, but very expensive to buy. It seemed strange to the Americans that in Australia it is illegal to keep a rabbit, but they are allowed to keep ferrets which are sometimes trained to hunt rabbits. They also discovered that none of the animals native to Australia are harmful to humans.

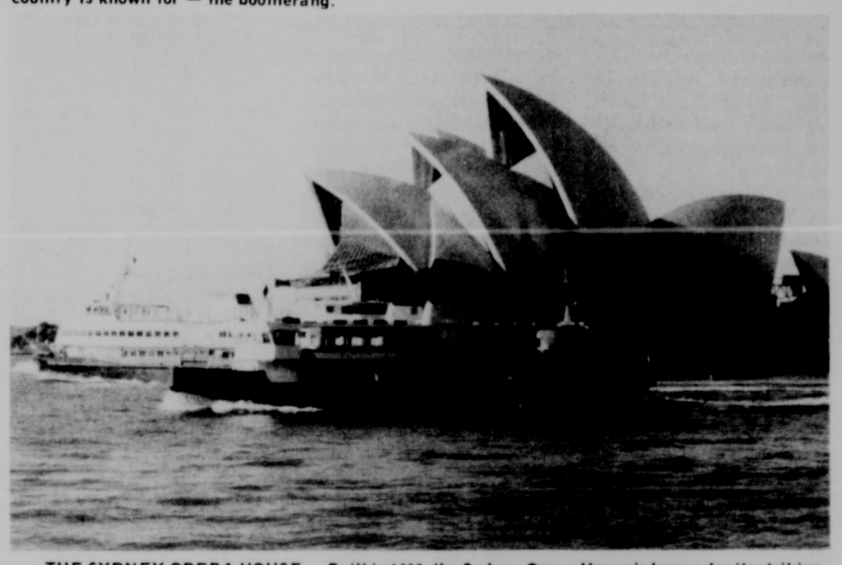
What many people in the United States know of Australia, they have learned from the movies. Joyce was told by people there that "Crocodile Dundee" was a good representation of Australians and the part of Australia where it was filmed.

On a trip south to the coast, the IFYE travelers went through Snowy River country. "There are still wild horses in Snowy River country," Joyce said. "We saw some." Merino sheep are raised on sheep stations in the sparsely settled "outback." Sheep stations of 60,000 acres which run 20,000 sheep are the average in Australia.

The Snowy River country was the only place Joyce saw even a skiff of snow during her stay, and only one of two areas of the country that gets snow. She was told that there is only one ski slope in the country, and it's very expensive.

The group drove back to Sydney and was thrilled to tour and attend a performance at the Sydney Opera House. The opera house was built in 1959 and is known for its striking architecture and unique, innovative designs. "The architecture and acoustics were so spectacular," said Joyce. "It was pure splendor."

All too soon, it was time for their flight to depart from Sydney. Many of the host families drove to Sydney to see them off. "I've kept in touch with my oldest host sister and the farm manager at the Silver Wattle Sheep Station, who plans a trip to America in the near future," Joyce said.



Their first stop on the way home, planned to break up the flying time, was in Auckland, New Zealand, where they participated in a yacht race and toured the Underwater World.

"I want Garrett County 4-H'ers in the program so bad," Joyce exclaimed. "They don't know what they're missing." After April the first-year education major at Southeastern College in Lakeland, Fla., will return home to Red House, and will be willing, anxious and available to speak to 4-H and other interested groups about her IFYE adventure.

"My trip was just so neat," she concluded. "I saw it all — government, home life, business life — a well-rounded view of the country. I got to know the true Australia."

IFYE AMBASSADOR TO AUSTRALIA — Red House 4-H member Joyce Noel is pictured above with mementos brought back from her six-week trip to Australia as an International Four-H Youth Exchange (IFYE) ambassador. Joyce is holding the Australian flag, and displayed on top of an Australian map are several pieces of currency, some seashells, a jar of gemstones, and an item the country is known for — the boomerang.

THE SYDNEY OPERA HOUSE — Built in 1959, the Sydney Opera House is known for its striking architecture and unique, innovative designs. After attending a performance there, IFYE Ambassador Joyce Noel said, "It was pure splendor."

NATIVE ANIMALS can be seen in many areas of Australia. Joyce was able to pet kangaroos and koalas, like those pictured here, while visiting an animal park near Warrumbungle National Park.

HELLO, HELLO! — An IFYE ambassador from Michigan uses one of the country's typical, modern pay phones while visiting in Australia.

International Four-H Youth Exchange

"Visit an exciting foreign country! Practice a foreign language, or learn a new language as well as non-verbal communication skills. Develop an appreciation for social, economic, political and cultural contributions of all people. Enjoy recreation, guided tours and free time for sightseeing and shopping in far-away places. Live with a host family and actively participate in family life. Form lasting friendships during an experience that will never be forgotten."

Sound like the sales pitch given by a travel agent? Well, it is. But for 4-H Club youth in this country, it's even better. It's a chance to travel, accompanied by a group leader, with youth from across the United States and meet new friends around the world. The International Four-H Youth Exchange (IFYE) Program offers youth between the age of 15 and 19 a chance to be an "ambassador" to another country for six weeks, and older youth, 19 to 25 years of age, a chance to be a "representative" to another country for six months.

Those in the ambassador program must have their application approved by county, state and national 4-H personnel. They may choose the country they wish to visit, but they are responsible for funding their own trip. Those in the representative program must also be approved, and travel as a representative of their state sharing the expense equally with their county and state.

Cooperative Extension Service 4-H agents would like to see many more local youth take advantage of the IFYE Program. The Republican will feature the stories of two Western Maryland youth who took advantage of the program and want to share their experiences with others. Joyce Noel is a Garrett County 4-H member who traveled to Australia as an ambassador, and Barbara Williams is a former Allegany County 4-H member who, as a representative, traveled to Botswana in Africa.

Interested youth may contact their local Cooperative Extension Office for more information. In Garrett County, they may call Alice Hevner at 334-1990, and in Allegany County, Sharon Diehl at 724-3320.

With this program, youth will gain much more than the average tourist by becoming involved in real life experiences in the culture of another land.

CULTURE DAY GUESTS — Second grade students at Broad Ford Elementary School are participating in a Culture Day each Wednesday. In the morning students are introduced to different countries around the world through the use of speakers, slides, pictures, films, brochures, pamphlets, clothing, or other objects made in that country. The students then go back to their rooms and locate and color the country studied on their world map. In the afternoon the students utilize what they have learned with various activities. Recently, the students met Leta Herman and Neal Parks who have spent the past several months in Mauritania, West Africa, working with the Peace Corps. Students received a first-hand account of what it was like there. Herman and Parks were dressed in the native costumes. Persons interested in sharing their knowledge or possessions from other countries with the students are asked to contact the school.

BRITISH MAN SENDS PHOTO OF LOCAL SOLDIER -- Lcpl. William Dixon Jr. of the U.S. Marine Corps has been in Saudi Arabia since Oct. 30, 1990, serving in Operation Desert Shield and Storm. He is the 19-year-old son of William and Jolene Dixon, Friendsville. In November, Dixon and his company were visited by Englishman Charles L. Jones of the Royal Saudi Naval Forces, who took a photo of the young men, shown above, and sent prints to the soldiers' families. Dixon is pictured at the far right. Jones sent a letter with the photograph, telling Dixon's parents that the soldiers "all looked to be in great shape, in very high spirits, and that they wished to send their love and best wishes to all at home." Jones also wrote that everyone in that area "without exception" appreciated the presence of the Desert Shield Forces, "which without doubt has saved the area from being overrun by Saddam's forces." The photo was taken before the war broke out, and Dixon's mother stated that he is now on the border of Kuwait, serving on a reconnaissance team. He is a 1989 graduate of Northern High School and has been in the Marine Corps since September 1989. The poem printed below was written by Dixon in October 1990.

Why Am I Here?

Written by
Lcpl. William E. Dixon Jr.
On Oct. 30, 1990

A starry night in the desert is the most beautiful thing here
My eyes blink with water,
Most people call a tear.

Living out of a pack,
and sleeping on a cot,
Wondering from day to day,
if I'm going to get shot.

I can't picture why
I am even here
While friends back home are always drinking beer.

Laughing, joking, and having a good ole' time,
While I'm in the desert
near the front line.

Doing my job
for the U.S.A.
I have to fight
what can I say?

The day I get out of here
Will be a joyous one,
For it'll be my time to laugh and have lots of fun.

Living in the desert is pretty rough.
But life as a Marine is always tough!

Huskies Flatten Flintstone Before Being Flattened By Elk Garden

The Northern High Huskies split a pair of games this past week, rolling over host Flintstone Friday night in a Mid-Appalachian League contest, 68-38, and then falling to Elk Garden Tuesday evening, 67-44, on the Stags' floor. The results left Coach Dave Bender's team with a record of 5-11 overall mark and 4-1 in the league standings.

Led by Jon Houser, who finished with 15 points, the Huskies never trailed in the game against Flintstone, as they moved out to a 19-8 lead by the end of the first period, led 34-14 at halftime, and were on top 46-24 after three quarters.

It was the eighth defeat in 11 games for Flintstone.

Also reaching double figures for the Huskies were Sam Wakefield with 12 points and Mike Fike with 11.

The Aggies shot poorly all evening, connecting on only 15 of 65 shots from the floor. Brandon Kisamore led their scoring with 11 points, while Chris Horseman grabbed 11 rebounds.

The Northern junior varsity also recorded an easy win in the preliminary game, 60-31.

Rich Braithwaite and Scott Moreland spearheaded Elk Garden's win over the Huskies Tuesday night as they finished with 21 and 17 points, respectively, to lead their team to its seventh straight win.

Elk Garden took control of the game early, leading 16-8 at the end of the first quarter, 35-22 at intermission, and 47-32 after three periods.

Jon Houser paced the Huskies with 17 points. No other member of the Northern squad scored more than four points.

For the 8-4 Stags, Travis Hartman netted nine points, pulled nine rebounds, and dished out seven assists, while Braithwaite also recorded three blocked shots and Moreland was credited with five assists.

The next game on the Huskies schedule is next Wednesday when they will host Salisbury.

Husky Matmen Record Eighth, Ninth Victories

The Northern High wrestling team recorded its eighth and ninth wins in nine dual matches this season with an easy 58-16 win over Westmar last Thursday evening, and a 52-15 thrashing of Rockwood Saturday.

The outing against Westmar was not a total success for the Huskies, however, as Allen Bittinger, ranked fourth in the state in the 130-pound division, was upset by Nathan Wilson in a 12-4 decision. Bittinger came into the match with a 17-1 record and had defeated Wilson in two previous meetings this season.

Tim Thomas, also ranked fourth in the state in the 135-pound class, pinned Westmar's Matt Mullin to improve his season mark to 17-1, while Scott Beitzel, ranked sixth in the state in the heavyweight division, pinned Jim Dye to up his personal record to 16-2.

Other Huskies recording pin victories were Dale Fazenbaker in the 140-pound class, Ron Sines, 145, Randy Dolan, 152, and Jarrett McKenzie, 160. Chris Rowe won by decision in the 125-pound bout.

Tom Kerling recorded the only pin victory for the Wildcats.

Against Rockwood, Rich Wyland, Rowe, Tom Haer, Todd Burdock, and Beitzel all won by pins, while Thomas won by decision and Bittinger and Sines were declared winners by forfeit.

Coach Lynn Brenneman's 9-1 team will compete this evening in a tri-match against Petersburg and Frankfort at Petersburg. It will get underway at 6:30 p.m.

Northern Girls Top BW, Beall; Lose To Aggies

The Northern High girls' varsity recorded two more wins this past week before being stopped last night by visiting Flintstone, 52-33. The Huskies' wins were over Bishop Walsh, 32-26, last Thursday in Cumberland and at Beall on Monday night, 29-27.

Coach Harv Speicher's team is now 10-4 on the season and will host Bishop Walsh this afternoon.

Rebecca Fratz finished with 11 points to lead Northern in a come-back win over Bishop Walsh last Thursday.

The Huskies trailed 10-4 by the end of the first quarter, but came back to tie it at 14 by halftime and go ahead 23-19 by the conclusion of the third period. They led by as many as seven points in the final period.

Jennifer Winner led the 3-11 Spartans' scoring with eight points.

Fratz and Audra Speicher each netted eight points for the Huskies in the low-scoring Class 1A contest with Beall on Monday.

The Mountaineers led into the third quarter when the Huskies tied and then pulled ahead by two. The lead exchanged hands several times before Northern took the advantage for good late in the final eight minutes.

Noel McKenzie paced Beall, now 6-6, with seven points.

The Huskies never got on track last night against Flintstone as they shot poorly from the opening tip-off.

The Aggies, who won their ninth game in 13 outings, jumped out to a 16-5 advantage in the first quarter, led 26-14 at halftime, and were on top 37-21 at the end of the third period.

Billie McCusker finished with a game-high 22 points for the Aggies while teammate Dawn Singleton contributed 10 points and pulled down 19 rebounds.

Fratz again led the Huskies' attack with 18 points and 15 rebounds.

The Northern junior varsity was victorious in the preliminary contest, defeating the Aggie jayvees, 33-16. Lisa Stephens led Northern with 14 points, and Connie Martin recorded 10 for Flintstone.

Local "Mr. Bass" Booted Out Of Bassers Club On Cheating Charge

There is no doubt that Karl Hamrick is a good fisherman. In fact, the available evidence suggests that he is an outstanding fisherman, particularly when it comes to catching bass. He has the trophies and the witnesses to substantiate that claim.

However, there is another group of anglers who dispute the claim, alleging that his success is the result of cheating. In fact, the majority of the Garrett Bassers Club felt so strongly about it that they voted him out of the club in December and, consequently, have apparently stripped him of his Garrett County Mr. Bass title, an honor which would have made him this county's representative in the 1991 state Mr. Bass competition this spring.

Hamrick, a resident of Mtn. Lake Park, won seven of nine area tournaments this past season, amassing a total of 91 pounds of bass in Maryland and another 20 pounds in Pennsylvania to result in his being named Mr. Bass.

His brother, Anthony, and a friend, Frank Cummings, were his partners in most of those tournaments and they, too, were voted out of the Garrett Bassers Club in December.

"It was on April 22 of last year, during a tournament at Deep Creek Lake, that we were confronted by Steve Friend, who was appointed by the other club members to confront us, accuse us of cheating, and tell us to quit the club," Hamrick said. "He said we were to turn in our jackets and our club dues would be refunded.

"But we refused to drop out of the club," he continued, "so in September the club changed the by-laws to call for a vote on every member at the end of the year to decide, by simple majority, whether or not they would remain members of the club or be voted out. I know they did that just to get rid of us."

Karl Hamrick had been a member of the club for six years, Anthony had been in for four years, and Cummings joined just last February.

In an attempt to prove his innocence, Hamrick agreed to take a he detector test, a test that the club agreed to pay for, if he took the test at a time that would suit the club members. Hamrick was advised by a lawyer not to take the test, but he decided to do it anyway, on his own. He traveled to Hagerstown for the test, given by COPS, Inc., which revealed that Hamrick was telling the truth. He has a copy of the examination results, signed by Dan Seiler, the examiner.

However, because Hamrick took the test on his own schedule and not in the presence of club members, the club did not pay the $250 fee and did not accept the results.

Doug Schenk, president of the Garrett Bassers, said, "We wanted to be there to ask certain questions. But he didn't give us that opportunity."

When asked if the club had any evidence of cheating by the Hamricks or Cummings, Schenk admitted, "No, we don't have any evidence." But he quickly added, "There is just no way that any fisherman can win as many tournaments as he did. A lot of clubs started to accuse him of cheating and it was beginning to give our club a bad reputation. It was just a mess, and we knew we had to do something."

When asked what other clubs were beginning to suspect cheating by Hamrick, Schenk responded, "Clubs from down East."

When asked why Cummings was also voted out of the club, Schenk said, "It was his mouth that got him into trouble."

Schenk added that he "really felt bad" about the entire situation. "I like Carl and Anthony. They are both good fishermen. But there is just no way that one guy can win that many tournaments. If they are that good, they should be in the pros," he said.

Ken Adrejak, president of the Maryland Bass Federation, was contacted about the situation and said he hoped the matter could be handled equitably and at the club level, without publicity.

"It was really unusual to hear this about the Garrett Club," he said, "because they have a very good reputation down our way. There are often personality conflicts in the clubs, but this is the first time that one person (Hamrick) has ever been targeted this way by the majority of the members."

Because there are 78 clubs under Adrejak's jurisdiction, he said that he really doesn't have time to intervene in all of the intra-club difficulties, but he said the Garrett County issue was discussed at a meeting between him and the regional directors last month.

Tom Swaim, of Berkeley Springs, W.Va., who fishes in a Hagerstown club, is the western regional director and was also contacted about the controversy.

"I have fished against the Hamricks and I know they are very good fishermen," Swaim said. "I think the mistake the Garrett club has made is to allow the same partners to fish together in all of the tournaments. In our club we draw for partners every tournament. That way, there is never any question about cheating, plus it gives you a good chance to fish with different members and get to know them. I was shocked when I heard that the Garrett County club doesn't do it that way.

"However, I also believe that before they accuse anybody of cheating, they should have the facts," he continued. "If they thought they had a problem early in the year, then they should have addressed it then. I have been Mr. Bass for our club for three of the past four years and if Mr. Hamrick is 'clean,' then I know how he must feel."

When asked if Hamrick should still represent Garrett County in the state Mr. Bass event, Swaim said, "Even if he has been kicked out of the club, in my opinion, he has won the right to compete as Mr. Bass. Again, if they don't have any evidence, then that title should not be taken away from him."

Hamrick is also concerned about his reputation in future tournaments now that he has been accused of cheating and kicked out of the club. "It's just not right that I have been treated this way," he said. "I take a lot of pride in fishing and, yes, I have a few secrets that I want to keep to myself about how I catch fish. But they are perfectly legal. Every fisherman has a few secrets.

"I want to be able to compete as Mr. Bass, but more importantly, I just want to clear my name," he said.

When Cummings was asked why he backed Hamrick, even to the point of being kicked out himself, he said, "I'm not that concerned about my reputation in future tournaments. My question is, though, where do they (the club members) get the right to treat people like trash?"

Whether or not there will be intervention into the matter from the regional or state level is still not clear. If there is, it will have to be soon if Hamrick is to be Garrett County's Mr. Bass, because the deadline to have the tournament fee into the state organizers is next week.

JUST A SAMPLE of Karl Hamrick's bass catches this past year are displayed in the above photo. He is now the center of a controversy involving the Garrett Bassers Club, the members of which claim that no one can fish with such success unless he cheats. Despite a total lack of evidence, Hamrick has been voted out of the club and it remains to be seen whether or not he will represent Garrett County in the state Mr. Bass tournament.

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources announces the beginning of the 27th Annual Maryland Sportfishing Tournament.

The tournament is a year-round program offering citations and patches to Maryland licensed anglers who catch trophy size fish that meet or exceed established weights. The tournament, that began January 1, is open free to all participants who fish in Maryland's waters.

Entry blanks are available at weigh stations that are located at tackle shops, marinas and many other locations throughout the state.

Catch, Release Fishery Activated For Fishermen

Maryland's Department of Natural Resources (DNR) announces a cooperative conservation program with Fishing in Maryland magazine. DNR's Fisheries Division is encouraging the catch and release of specific fish species in Maryland's waters.

The Catch and Release program will award anglers who fish Maryland's waterways with a citation and patch to those who catch, measure and release their trophy-size fish alive. These trophy-size must meet established lengths.

To participate in this program, anglers, before releasing their fish, are required to measure the fish from the tip of the nose to the tip of the tail and fill out a entry card that can be obtained from a weigh station. The entry card should be accompanied by a photograph or signed by a witness who saw the fish caught, measured and released alive.

In addition to the citations and patches, anglers will have their names and as many pictures possible published in the next year's annual edition of Fishing in Maryland magazine.

Details of this program are available from DNR's Maryland Sportfishing Tournament office (800)-688-FINS or Fishing in Maryland. The magazine is available at many tackle stores and book stores.

Eligible species and minimum lengths for Catch and Release citations in 1991 are (fresh water): largemouth bass, 20 inches; smallmouth bass, 18 inches; bluegill or pumpkinseed, 10 inches; carp 30 inches; catfish, 20 inches; crappie (black and white), 12 inches; gar, 20 inches; muskellunge/tiger muskie, 30 inches; yellow perch, 12 inches; chain pickerel, 20 inches; northern pike, 30 inches; brook trout, 14 inches; brown trout, 18 inches; rainbow trout, 18 inches; walleye, 25 inches.

DNR Issues 2,100 Citations To Fishermen

The Department of Natural Resources' Maryland Sportfishing Tournament issued over 2,100 citations, patches, and date bars to anglers who successfully caught fish that met the required weight while fishing during the year-long tournament.

Anglers could submit their entires in the freshwater, Chesapeake Bay, and Atlantic Coast divisions. The freshwater division led with 1,116 citations issued, Chesapeake Bay had 293 tallied, Atlantic coast came in third with 293 and the restructured Catch and Release category followed with 98 citations being awarded throughout the year.

In the freshwater division, two of the largest fish caught were taken from Deep Creek Lake. A one-pound, 10-ounce yellow perch was caught last May by Christopher Hiner, Cumberland, and a 10-pound, one-ounce walleye was caught on August 14 by Lewis Ansel, McClellandtown, Pa.

Lakers Capture First Half, But Trojans Come Back For Easy Win

The Garrett Community College Lakers won the first half of their game last night against nationally ranked Allegany Community College in McHenry, 37-31, but the Trojans came back with a tenacious defensive effort in the second half to record an easy win, 82-58.

It was the 22nd win in 24 starts for the Trojans, who are 7-0 in Maryland JUCO American Division rankings, while the Lakers fell to 15-7 overall and 5-2 in the JUCO. A GCC win would have put the Lakers in a tie with the Trojans for the top spot in the conference.

The Lakers led the entire first half with good shooting and a defensive press that kept the game at a pace slower than the Trojans wanted. They held a 9-6 advantage in the early moments and Bruce Boldley connected with a three-pointer and a 10-footer to give the Lakers a 14-6 lead.

After a timeout, the Trojans came back to score 12 of the next 16 points to cut Garrett's advantage to 21-18 at the 9:10 mark, but they could get no closer the rest of the half.

The Lakers made good on 15 of 33 shots from the floor in the first half, while ACC hit only 14 of 38 attempts.

It didn't take long for the momentum to change hands in the second half, as the Trojans came out and scored 16 of the first 18 points and take the lead for good. A short jumper by Corey Wallace at the 17:01 mark gave ACC its first lead at 41-39.

The Lakers stayed close for the next several minutes and cut ACC's lead to two points, 49-47, when Chris Greene bucketed a pair of free throws. But the Trojans followed with a 12-3 run that put the game out of reach.

All-American candidate Chuckie Moore led the Lakers in scoring with 18 points, well below his 28-point average, while Boldley finished with 17 points.

The Trojans were led by Wallace with 22 points, followed by Paul Carter with 19 and Adam Johnson with 15.

Coach Dennis Gibson's Lakers will travel to Essex CC this Saturday, host Dundalk CC on Sunday, and then travel to Winchester, Va., next Wednesday to take on the Shenandoah junior varsity.

Lakers Embarrass Mount Aloysius, Then Defeat Baltimore Red Devils

The Garrett Community College Lakers built up plenty of momentum for last night's game against the nationally ranked Allegany Community College Trojans (see separate story) by crushing Mt. Aloysius last Thursday evening, 106-48, in McHenry and then defeating visiting Community College of Baltimore Saturday night, 89-72.

The pair of victories upped the Lakers overall record to 14-6 and their JUCO mark to 5-1.

Bruce Boldley, who plays point guard for Coach Dennis Gibson's squad, was impressive in several categories in the easy win over Mt. Aloysius last Thursday, as he netted 12 points, grabbed 10 rebounds, dished out 10 assists, and recorded 10 steals.

Six other Lakers also reached double figures. Chris Greene, Earl Hemby, and Clarence Morgan netted 16 points apiece, Carlos Williams finished with 14, Jesse York scored 12, and Carlos Trotter contributed 10.

Coach Gibson cleared the bench and every Laker played at least 20 minutes of the game. Garrett finished with 60 percent shooting from the floor.

All-American Chuckie Moore, who is averaging just under 28 points per game, did not play because of a sore ankle.

The Lakers, who led 42-20 at halftime, trailed only once in the game, when Chris Rupert recorded the first two points of the game on a lay-up to give his team a 2-0 advantage.

Garrett out-rebounded the visitors, 52-33.

None of the Mount Aloysius players reached double figures. Rupert finished with nine points, as did Matt Blach and Whitney Simpson. The defeat dropped their record to 5-13.

Moore was definitely back in the line-up on Saturday night against Baltimore, as he scored 25 points, 19 in the second half, and pulled down eight rebounds.

Things did not begin smoothly for the home team, however, as the Red Devils held GCC scoreless for over 10 minutes in the first half and led 25-8 with 7:55 remaining. The ice was finally broken and a nine-point spurt by the Lakers narrowed Baltimore's lead to 33-26 with 2:06 remaining in the half. A three-pointer by Trotter in the closing moments made it 35-30 at intermission.

The Lakers finally tied the score at 51 at the 13:34 mark of the second half and again at 65 with 6:40 remaining. The last lead the Devils had was 67-65 on a bucket by Tony Roberts. The Lakers responded with 13 unanswered points to go on top 78-67.

Also reaching double figures for the Lakers were Derek Young with 14 points, Greene with 11, and Trotter and Williams with 10 each. Young also pulled down a team-high 12 rebounds.

Pacing Baltimore's scoring was Roberts with 16 points.

Southern Girls Top Flintstone, Fall To Wildcats

Despite a disappointing record, the Southern High School girls' varsity basketball team recorded a big 68-44 win against an 8-2 Flintstone team Friday afternoon in Oakland, a win that avenged an earlier 78-67 loss to the Aggies.

However, the Rams were outmatched, 54-35, last night against the area's top team, Westmar, as their record dropped to 2-9.

Shelly Cannon and Michelle Duling led the Rams' 55 percent offensive effort from the floor against Flintstone as they finished with 19 and 17 points, respectively. Khrystie Browning also reached double figures with 11 points and grabbed nine rebounds, Kathy Gibson netted nine points, and Cannan also was credited with six assists.

The Rams held a comfortable lead throughout the contest, jumping out to a 17-6 advantage by the end of the first quarter, leading 38-17 at halftime, and 52-30 after three quarters.

Billie McCuster led the Aggies in scoring with a game-high 23 points.

The Southern junior varsity was also victorious in the preliminary game, embarrassing the Flintstone jayvees, 46-19, behind a 20-point performance by Ingrid Carlson. Tina Martin paced the visitors with 13 points.

Dawn Sloan, the area's leading scorer, led the 14-1 Westmar Wildcats last night with a 23-point effort, while Marcie Wildman contributed 16 points and 10 rebounds.

The Rams played evenly with the Cats in the first quarter and led 17-15 at the end of that period, but Westmar grabbed the momentum and out-scored the Rams in the second quarter 15-3 to take a 30-20 halftime lead. The Rams never recovered and trailed 46-26 after three periods.

Cannon again paced Southern's scoring with 12 points and Gibson finished with 11.

Coach Don Stemple's Rams will entertain Bishop Walsh this Saturday.

The Southern junior varsity was victorious in the preliminary game over the Westmar jayvees, 38-27. Ingrid Carlson led Southern with 14 points and Carrie Newcomb finished with 10.

Rams Out-Muscled By Frankfort Before Being Upset By Spartans

Sluggish play, injury, and the flu bug led to a pair of defeats for the Southern Rams this past week, one on Friday night against powerful Frankfort, 63-44, on the Falcons' floor and the other last night at home in an upset to Bishop Walsh, 61-47.

Richard Beckman, the Rams' 6-5 center and second leading scorer, had to miss the Frankfort contest because of a hip injury and saw limited action last night against the Spartans.

The losses dropped the Rams to 11-4, a mark they will put on the line this Friday night at home against a strong Allegany team.

Southern's Brett Rice, the area's leading scorer, was controlled reasonably well by the Falcons; however, he still led the Rams with 20 points.

Southern fell behind early and never recovered, as a shot by Andy Scott gave the Falcons a 14-3 lead six minutes into the game. They maintained a double-figure lead the rest of the way to record their 13th win in 14 starts and up their Potomac Valley Conference mark to 5-0.

The Falcons led 18-5 at the end of the first quarter, as they connected on 8 of 13 shots, while the Rams managed to make good on just two of 10 shots and committed six turnovers.

The Rams trailed 32-19 at halftime and 44-27 after three periods.

After falling behind by 20 early in the final stanza, the Rams cut the margin to 13 on two jumpers by Nathan Dixon and three foul shots by Britten Martin, but they could get no closer.

Rice was the only Ram to reach double figures. Martin finished with nine rebounds.

Chris Whiteman paced the Falcons with 16 points, Greg Whiteman netted 13, and Andy Scott finished with 12. The 6-11 Scott also grabbed 10 rebounds and had seven of the Falcons' 11 blocked shots.

The loss last night to the Bishop Walsh Spartans was as much a shock to Ram fans as it was a surprise to Spartan followers, since BW came into the game with a modest 4-9 record. However, going into the contest Southern Coach Tom Bosley was concerned.

"Their record was not too impressive, but their entire team is composed of returning starters from last season," he said.

The Rams were never really in the game, as the Spartans moved out to a 14-6 lead by the end of the first quarter and led 33-15 at halftime. They came back somewhat in the third stanza which ended at 41-29 and they cut the Spartan lead to nine points in the fourth period, but could get no closer.

Rice again paced the Rams with a game-high 26 points, but was again the only Southern player to reach double figures.

Greg Clucas led BW with 19 points and Brad Paye finished with 15.

The Rams were also outrebounded by 10.

Laker Women Fall To Trojans, Then Top Baltimore, Anne Arundel

The Garrett Community College women's basketball team won two and lost one this past week to bring their record to 6-5 overall and 5-3 in the Maryland JUCO rankings.

The Lakers, coached by Dennis Gibson, were defeated by arch rival Allegany CC Friday evening, 62-53, in McHenry, but then came back to whip visiting Baltimore CC on Saturday, 53-48, and roll over Anne Arundel CC Tuesday night, 69-53, also at McHenry.

Marcia DeBerry led the Lakers and all scorers in the ACC contest, as she finished with 20 points, but Tonya Christner netted 18 and Tyra Keplinger and Tammy Tinkey each recorded 14 points for the Trojans.

The Lakers trailed throughout the contest, down 36-19 at halftime. ACC led by as many as 20 points in the second half.

DeBerry was also credited with six assists, while teammate Kim Copeland pulled a game-high 17 rebounds.

For ACC, Keplinger and Christner grabbed 13 and 11 rebounds, respectively, and Renee Mullin had six assists.

Details of the Laker win over the Baltimore Red Devils were not available.

Kim Copeland was the big gun for the Lakers Tuesday evening against Anne Arundel, as she pumped in 19 points. Karen Gurrera was right behind with 18 points, DeBerry finished with 15, and Tracey Henline netted 14 in the balanced attack.

The Lakers took control of the contest early, as they scored 21 of the first 25 points of the game and led 36-25 at halftime. They also finished with a 48-29 advantage in rebounding.

Henline pulled 17 of those rebounds for the Lakers and Copeland grabbed 13 to go with her three blocked shots.

Anne Arundel did pull to within eight points, 50-42, with an eight-point run late in the second half, but a bucket by Copeland and two free throws by Gurrera restored the Lakers' comfortable lead.

Southern High Matmen Record Four Victories

It has been a busy, but reasonably successful, week for the young Southern High School wrestling team, as the Rams competed in a tri-meet last Thursday evening at home, the Potomac Valley Conference Tournament Saturday, also in Oakland, in another tri-meet Tuesday night at Keyser, and finally in a dual meet last night at East Preston.

Out of all of those matches, the Rams came out with a win over Allegany and a loss to Clay-Battelle Thursday, one individual championship in the PVC event, wins over Keyser and Central Preston Tuesday, and another victory over East Preston last night (see separate story on the East Preston match).

The Rams were edged by Clay-Battelle, 42-34, and then rolled over the Allegany Campers, 52-22.

Clay-Battelle also defeated Allegany, 59-15.

As a team in the PVC championship, the Rams did not fair well, losing to the tournament champion Berkeley Springs, 57-17, to Petersburg, 45-23, to Keyser, 45-18, and to Frankfort, 43-28.

Gary Sweitzer did bring home an individual champion trophy for the Rams in the 112-pound division.

Other individual titles were won by: Eric Risinger (102), Brian Day (125), Jason Unger (145), Adam Clark (152), and Matt Kanady (189), all of Berkeley Springs; Bobby Fleming (119), Jay Barr (145), Jimmy DuVall (171), and Shannon Biser (unlimited), of Keyser; Billy Riggleman (135) and Shawn Sites (160), of Petersburg; and Shane Fridley (140) of Frankfort.

Earning victories for the Rams in the Keyser/Central Preston tri-match Tuesday night were Burgess, Sweitzer, Strawser, Mike DeWitt, Skipper, Livengood, and Philyaw against Keyser, and the same wrestlers plus Jason Rush against Central Preston. (See box scores for specific details.)

sponsor Kuwaiti pilots and plans to drop a nuclear bomb on Baghdad similar to those dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki in 1945. That would hopefully get rid of Saddam Hussein, and let Iraq recover and become a productive Arabic nation, similar to the way that Japan recovered, and is now a major productive nation for the rest of the world. Iraq has bountiful natural resources for the purpose. Only, if Saddam Hussein can be eliminated.

Most civilized people abhor the mass destruction of a nuclear bomb. A small nuclear bomb cannot be developed. A critical large mass of U-235 uranium has to be concentrated in one place for the bomb to explode. One bomb could wipe out a large city such as Baghdad and the surrounding area for 2-5 miles. It was estimated that the bomb dropped on Hiroshima killed 70,000 people; and the one on Nagasaki, 100,000 people.

But, the Japanese war was ended and a peace treaty signed within two weeks. With conventional weapons the Japanese war could have lasted up to 5 years, with not only many thousands of casualties, but complete destruction of Japanese businesses and civilian homes. Our bombs in the long run actually did a great service to Japan.

According to TV pictures, Saddam Hussein has reinforced concrete bunkers, three or four floors underground. No ordinary attack could ever penetrate or damage them. His elite troops, The Republican Guards,are reported housed in similar underground accommodations. Nuclear bombs are about the only way of reaching Saddam or his elite troops. Several nuclear bombs are reported available on U.S. ships in the area.

To minimize massive civilian casualties, the date, time and place for nuclear bomb drops could be publicized. Civilians could get out to safer areas.

After several bomb drops, if they did not get Saddam personally, he might be willing to consider surrendering, if his personal survival were assured.

In fact, the serious threat of nuclear bomb drops might be adequate to cause a quick surrender, without further "life and property. The treaty so signed, like the treaty with Japan, should involve complete disarmament, and destruction of Iraq's military equipment and facilities, plus reparations of Kuwait for damages caused in the Kuwait invasion.

The U.N. should also agree to help Iraq recover and start new non-military businesses in Iraq. With the rich farmlands in the Tigris and Euphrates valleys, Iraq could become the bread basket for the Middle East. Iraq also has massive oil and mineral resources, and could develop an extensive line of useful consumer products. But, only if Saddam Hussein can be displaced.

Many persons with whom such a nuclear bomb attack has been discussed, agree with the above proposal. Many of course, do not. One was Sue Ducat, producer of the TV program, "Washington Week In Review." Here is a quote from her letter of November 13, 1990: "A nuclear bomb cannot be used to kill only one person. Therefore, if the Kuwaiti people dropped the bomb on Iraq, millions of innocent people would die along with Saddam Hussein."

Had "Washington Week In Review" even mentioned such a possibility back in November, it is remotely possible that Saddam Hussein might have heard about it, and might have reconsidered his actions leading up to the situation presently confronting our troops in Saudi Arabia.

I still think one or more nuclear bombs dropped on Iraq would be the quickest and least destructive means for ending the present Persian Gulf crisis.

Sincerely,
D. Noel Obenshain

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter in response to some of the letters that I have been reading about the firing of Jim Kreyenbuhl. I am not aware of the full story behind his case, but I believe credit should be given where it is due in all cases, be it in Jim's case or the "condition of the golf course" itself.

You see, I am the wife of one of the men who works for the ground maintenance. From what I can see, Mr. Kreyenbuhl does not have anything to do with the condition of the grounds themselves; maybe in past years, but not recently. My husband is one of the men who got up in the middle of the night to water the greens when there was a drought in Garrett County. These men are the ones that are out in the hot sun all day long mowing and caring for the course.

As for the new equipment that has been purchased over the past few years, from where I stand that looks like a board decision and not one of Mr. Kreyenbuhl's.

Mr. Kreyenbuhl should be given the credit he is due, be it as a golf pro, manager of tournaments, etc., but the men who work on the grounds themselves should also be given their fair share of credit and appreciation, too.

Found Guilty

E. Carr, 25, Friendsville, was found guilty of driving on a revoked license. A charge of possessing a concealed handgun in his vehicle was not prosecuted. A pre-sentence investigation was ordered in the case.

Carr had been charged on September 28, 1990, during a routine traffic stop by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department. A search of the Carr vehicle reportedly revealed a handgun on the front seat that was allegedly concealed with a coat.

The stop occurred on U.S. Route 219, just south of the Mayhew Inn Road.

commissioners and, to the best of our knowledge, had the support and full concurrence from the Sanitary Commission. This was the result of two important meetings we had with Beitzel prior to the Shallmar incident."

Groves added that he had "zero impact" on the Shallmar situation, as well as no input, but, he said, "The heat came right to this office."

He noted that if the Sanitary Commission were to be brought into the county government system, it would function much like the relationship between the county government and the Garrett County Planning Commission.

"The Planning Commission has their own area of expertise and then they advise us of their decisions. The board interacts with the administration and they interact with us," stated Groves.

He did emphasize, though, that he felt the Sanitary Commission had "basically done a good job." He added, "I have a great deal of respect for those people — they take a lot of heat."

Health Department Study of Drug Abuse

It was also announced by the Garrett County Commissioners this week that Dr. Rex Archer, Garrett County Health Officer, reported the results of a statewide survey indicating that Garrett County junior and senior high school students ranked first in the state in alcohol consumption.

Attempts to contact Dr. Archer for more detailed information on the study were unsuccessful but, according to Deputy Health Officer Jay Cross, the study is conducted annually by the Maryland State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene and the Juvenile Justice Advisory Council, in conjunction with the State Department of Education, and is a random sampling survey.

Cross warned, though, that the sample represented over 50 percent of the junior and senior high school population so is "a competent study with good information."

He noted that a problem also exists with other drug use by that population.

A detailed story about the survey results will appear in next week's edition of The Republican newspaper.

Board of Education Budget Process

In other news from the commissioners' office, a meeting was held between the commissioners and Charlotte Sebold, newly elected president of the Garrett County Council of PTAs, to hear her concerns about the manner in which the Garrett County Board of Education budget is administered.

"She was concerned about the amount of money in the budget as well as the process, which is quite cumbersome to say the least," stated Commissioner Groves.

Sebold stated that, at the beginning of the school year, "the budget looked good, but the instructional supply funds were then cut by at least 50 percent by the education board."

"So, even though more money was applied to the education budget, funds were shifted from instructional supplies to capital programs (the Southern High School renovation), thus, defeating the commissioners' attempt to provide more money for those services," stated Sebold.

"How can we keep the quality of education up in the county if money is taken from that effort to be put into another?" she asked the commissioners.

Sebold then invited the commissioners to the next meeting of the Garrett County Council of PTAs to hear the presentation of the education budget by Garrett County Superintendent of Schools Dr. Jerome Ryscavage. The meeting is scheduled to be held February 28, at 7 p.m., at Northern Middle School.

State Budget Effect on Local Projects

Also this week, the commissioners discussed the impact the state budget deficit might have on some local projects dependent on state funds.

Commissioner Groves stated, "We don't know the full impact of the state revenue shortfall, but we will be more cautious in our planning, and some projects will have to be put on hold."

When asked what projects might be impacted the most, Groves stated that the Glendale Bridge project is "very much dependent on state funding, despite the large amount of county funds involved and the $1 million no-interest loan."

"The State Highway Administration assures us their commitment is still good but the timing is somewhat in question. So until we get a firm commitment on the availability of funds this year, the Glendale Bridge project has been greatly slowed in its progress," he added.

He noted that if the budget shortfall situation continues for very long, the project may not be started this coming fall, as planned.

Timber Bridges

Commissioner Butscher reported that the possibility of building timber bridges in the county was discussed this week between the commissioners and the Garrett County Roads Department.

Timber bridges, she said, have been successful in West Virginia, and would save the county a great deal of money when implementing its bridge replacement projects.

Timber bridges differ from traditional bridges in that the understructure is built with treated wood instead of steel and cement. Commissioner Groves reported that studies show them to be "just as durable, if not more so, than steel and cement bridges."

Groves also stated, "We're trying to do as much as we can with the least amount of money." He added that, since timber bridges involve a relatively new type of engineering, the construction of them would involve more preliminary planning.

Groves also reported that federal grants are available to help with the cost of the timber bridge projects.

"I feel our engineers can develop the expertise needed, and Garrett County could be in the forefront in timber bridges in the state."

Junkyard Permit Hearing

A public hearing was held this week by the county commissioners to hear a request by Wayne VanSickle, White Rock, to obtain a permit for a junkyard. Two citizens were present to oppose the permit grant.

Groves stated that the record would remain open for two weeks for any other citizen input, either verbal or written.

Groves stated, "Unless there are significant reasons to oppose or significant opposition from the community, the permits are normally approved because most of the cases involving licensing are already junked areas. Basically, you're bringing unlicensed, unregulated, unofficial junkyards into the program."

He added, "The regulated junkyards are fenced in and, so, alleviate a negative impact on the neighborhood."

Commissioner Butscher stated, "One of the things brought up by one of the protestors was that oil might be going into a nearby river. Before we make a decision on the junkyard permit, we want to check this out."

Ryscavage

clude Garrett County.

Ryscavage addressed the issue of personal income tax. The commission recommends a widening of the tax brackets as well as an increase in the rates. He explained that the over-all result will be those citizens with incomes of less than $40,000 annually will benefit from the increase, while those who earn more than $40,000 will pay more. In Garrett County, Ryscavage said, this would benefit 74% of the population. In other words, nearly three fourths of the county's citizens would not pay the higher tax.

Also on the subject of personal income tax, Ryscavage said that this recommendation couples with the suggestion of a "dual-rate schedule," which means one rate schedule for the state income tax and another rate schedule for the local income tax. This dual-rate would replace the current "piggyback" arrangement which only tends to create greater funding disparities between the rich and poor jurisdictions, Ryscavage said. The combination of these recommendations would net approximately $102 million in additional revenues while at the same time create a more progressive income tax which serves to shrink the local revenue disparities.

The commission recommends that those funds raised by revising the personal income tax be utilized to bring all jurisdictions to the median estimated per capita revenue figure for fiscal year 1991. This is in recognition, Ryscavage explained, of providing minimal resources to all jurisdictions to meet their basic responsibilities. Garrett County would receive an estimated additional $2,421,000 as a result of this recommendation. Those funds would be used for general county-wide expenditures at the discretion of the county government.

Ryscavage then explained the subject of general sales tax. His report said that "the commission has recommended several changes to broaden the sales tax base. While making these recommendations, the commission made a particular point to reject broadening the base to include food, drugs, and residential utility services because it would make an already regressive tax much more regressive. To emphasize this point, it should be noted that although much of the broadening of the base has to do with services, those services considered a necessity (such as medical and educational) have been excluded."

To meet new and increasing demands, however, the commission's recommendation concerning general sales tax suggests a one-half percent increase in the sales tax rate, raising it from five percent to five and one half percent. The broadening of the tax base together with the one half percent tax rate is projected to raise approximately $455 million in new revenue while lessening the regressiveness of the sales tax.

In a later press conference, Commissioner Brenda Butscher expressed her rejection of the tax increase, saying that "we're the ones who will be paying the five and a half percent increase." It should be noted, however, that the increase is only to be one half percent, added to the already instated five percent tax.

Ryscavage explained the commission proposes to use $300 million of the revenue gathered from the broadening of the tax base for additional elementary and secondary education aid. The distribution of these funds will be tilted toward the school systems with below average resources in an attempt to achieve state-wide equity. To achieve the goal of adequacy, the commission recognized a need for additional school aid in all state school districts.

A further inequity in the current school aid distribution was recognized by the commission, Ryscavage said, concerning retirement and social security costs. The commission recommended that in the future, a cap should be placed on social security and retirement benefits. The benefits are currently based on the salary of a education employee; therefore, because rich counties are able to pay their teachers and administrators higher salaries than poor counties, the state is responsible to pay those higher benefits to the richer county's employees. Ryscavage said this disparity causes serious problems in education funding.

The commission recommends that increased retirement and social security costs brought about because of increased wages should be subtracted from educational aid given to counties. If this recommendation is adopted, Garrett County is projected to net an additional $3,588,000 in state aid to public schools in fiscal year 1992, according to Ryscavage's report.

Finally, Ryscavage discussed the subject of real property taxes, which he said was the most significant of the recommendations. The Linowes Commission's recommendations concern 1) returning the state property tax levy to locals with the condition that this return be used only for reducing local property tax rates, and 2) imposing a state personal property tax of two percent on motor vehicles and boats. The second recommendation would direct the state to return half of the revenues generated to the counties for transportation-related improvements.

Ryscavage explained that the real property tax would provide the county with an additional estimated $1,051,000 to use for transportational needs.

This recommendation brought the most criticism from the G.C. commissioners. Commissioner John Braskey stated that he had heard from his constituents that the two percent tax would not be a welcome change at all. Commissioner Elwood Groves stated that "of all the talk about this thing (Linowes plan) being progressive--more taxes on something as necessary to modern living as a vehicle looks quite regressive to me."

Ryscavage explained that the idea behind the tax was that those with the greater ability to pay more (such as car and boat owners) would pay more while, at the same time, the monies generated would relieve local property taxpayers of some of the property tax burden. He stated that the return of the state property tax to the local jurisdictions would result in tax reduction of as much as $.14 in the local tax rate.

Braskey asked if the recommendations of the Linowes Commission had to be accepted as a whole. Ryscavage stated that he felt there could be amendments made to the plan, and that separate parts of it could be rejected or accepted.

Ryscavage noted one loss that Garrett County may experience as a result of one recommendation. The commission recommended the elimination of several minor state tax and fee sources which are shared with local governments. These include the excise taxes on cigarettes, liquor, and beer, the net income tax on savings banks and savings and loan associations, corporate filing fees, and proceeds from the sale of abandoned property. It is estimated that Garrett County would lose approximately $141,000 in revenues as a result.

Ryscavage ended his presentation by asking the commissioners to support these recommendations, stating that the suggestions are put forward with the goal of making the tax structure more fair for tax payers. Also on the issue of fairness, Ryscavage said, was the equity between counties proposed by the commission. As Garrett County is one of the poorest counties in Maryland, the area would benefit greatly from the commission's recommendations, Ryscavage explained.

In a later press conference, the commissioners continued to reject the recommendations. Groves said that more income for the county would mean more taxes for the citizens.

New Construction Trades Classes Slated At GCC

A specialized training program designed to meet the growing need for productive, skilled employees in the construction trades will soon be underway at Garrett Community College.

According to a GCC spokesman, the training is designed to prepare students with the capabilities they'll need to enter the building trades this summer. Students will be trained to assume positions as carpenter helpers, electrician helpers, or carpet installers. They will also be equipped to function effectively in retail sales associated with building materials as well as in service, remodeling and maintenance positions.

This 18-week class, scheduled to start in February, is offered in cooperation with the Western Maryland Consortium.

Tuition for the class is funded by the Job Training Partnership Act, so it is free to those who qualify economically. Financial help is also available to meet related expenses.

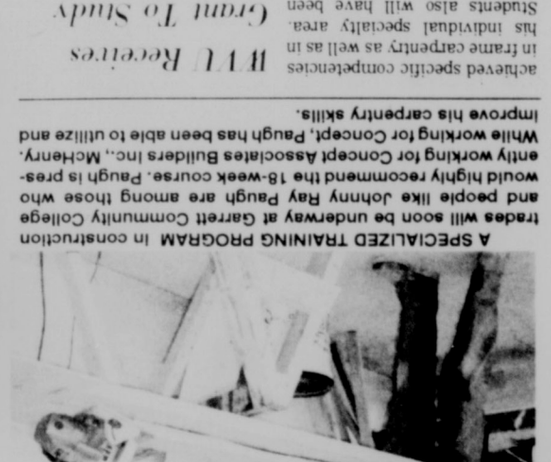
Students, who range in age from 18 to 59, will begin studies by learning trade terms, blueprint reading, and retail selling fundamentals. They will then progress to "hands on" learning activities in Frame Carpentry. This includes learning how to frame walls, ceilings and roofs, as well as how to build steps and do repairs. Their final learning will involve specialized in 10-week sessions in either masonry, plumbing, electrical wiring, or finish carpentry.

Upon completion of the course, each student will have achieved specific competencies in frame carpentry as well as in his individual specialty area. Students also will have been trained in appropriate work habits, getting along with co-workers, and employer-employee relations. In the summer, those students who have demonstrated a high level of competency in all areas will be ready to join the building trades work force.

The college is currently recruiting students for the new class. Those wishing more information about enrollment should call Lynne or Sandy immediately at 387-6666, Ext. 180.

The USDA Forest Service has given $1,097,060 to the Department of Forestry at West Virginia University in five grant awards which will be used to study the potential effects on pest-control agents used in the state to control gypsy moths.

Dimilin (the trade name for Diflubenzuron) is an insecticide compound used to suppress or eradicate gypsy moths. It is sprayed in forest areas annually to interrupt the growth of the gypsy moth during molting.



Another agent is Bacillus thuringiensis or Bt, a sporeforming bacterium found throughout the environment which can be used in solution and sprayed on foliage twice a year. Bt paralyzes gypsy moths when they eat it.

These compounds have been rated as safe to use by the USDA. However, some WVU scientists are concerned with possible adverse effects these compounds may have on the ecosystem and wish to monitor their effects.

Three awards totaling $995,860 will be used to study the potential effects of dimilin on aquatic macroinvertibrates through field monitoring and through laboratory studies for two years and to study the effects of dimilin on leaf litter through laboratory studies for two years and to study the effects of diflubenzuron on leaf litter is the principal investigator.

Another study will be conducted for three years in the Fernow Watersheds through blacklight trapping, burlap banding of trees and collecting foliage samples. The USDA Forest Service awarded $25,500 for this study. Dr. Linda Butler is the principal investigator.

WVU Receives Grant To Study Moth Pesticides

New Trades Class Will Train Students

A SPECIALIZED TRAINING PROGRAM in construction trades will soon be underway at Garrett Community College and people like Johnny Ray Paugh are among those who would highly recommend the 18-week course. Paugh is presently working for Concept Associates Builders Inc., McHenry, while working for Concept, Paugh has been able to utilize and improve his carpentry skills.

Kimberly Spiker Joins Additions Staff At GCHD

Kimberly Ann Spiker recently accepted a position with the Addictions Program division of the Garrett County Health Department. She will provide individual and group alcohol and drug counseling and education for adolescents and adults.

Ms. Spiker graduated from Allegany Community College in May 1980 with an associate of arts degree in mental health technology. She also has over 400 hours of specialized addictions training offered by the Office of Education & Training in Addictions Services and other community workshops. She was employed at the Allegany County Health Department for the past seven years. For three of those years, she conducted drug and alcohol groups at the Backbone and Savage Mountain Youth Centers. The last four years, she was employed by the Jackson Unit Adolescent Treatment Unit in Cumberland.

Ms. Spiker is a native of Western Maryland. Her parents, Robert and Gay Spiker, reside in Gilmore.

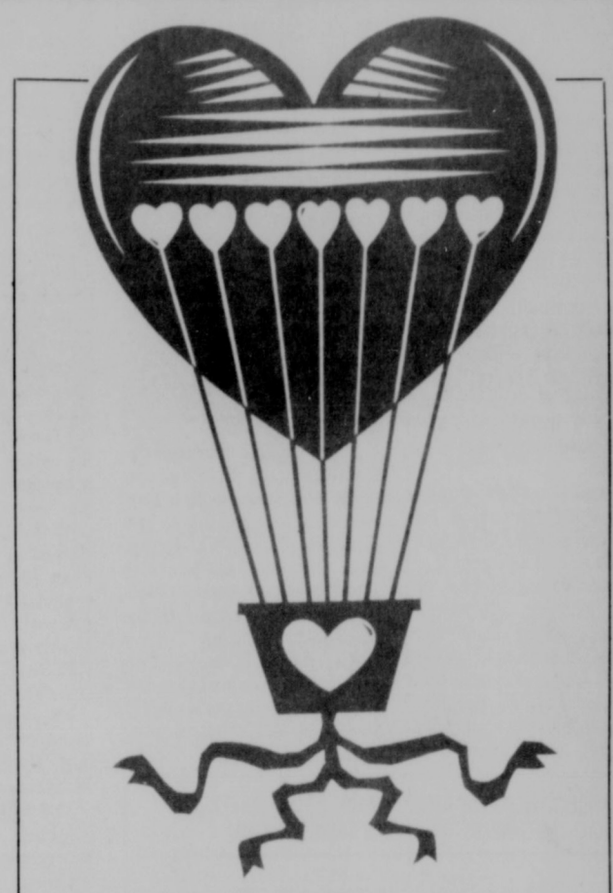
Big Brothers, Big Sisters Group Organizes

Members of the Garrett County, Maryland Big Brothers/Big Sisters Board of Management held their monthly meeting on Tuesday, January 22, 1991, at the Conference Room of the Garrett County Department of Social Services. Action taken included approval of the Agreement for Garrett County Branch Office with the Big Brothers/Big Sisters of the Alleghenies, Inc., under whose direction the local organization was formed and will operate.

Board President Larry Bruch introduced Dan Seib, Oakland, who has been hired to head the Garrett County Branch. Tentative arrangements have been made with St. Paul's Methodist Church in Oakland for office space. A grant from the state through the Garrett County Health Department has been approved for receipt in the near future.

Most of the meeting involved organizing the 1991 Bowl-A-Thon, to be held Saturday, April 5, at Par-Matt Lanes in Oakland. Anna Bishop and Brenda McCartney will serve as co-chairpersons for the event. Committee chairpersons include Nancy Nemith, Corporate Team Sponsors; Robert Ulino and Roger Strouse, Door Prizes; Larry Bruch, Incentive Prizes; Dan Seib, Bowler Gift Bags; and Lisa Thayer, Publicity. All who participated in the successful 1990 "Bowl for Kids' Sake" event will be contacted.

Other fund-raising ideas were discussed, but action was tabled until completion of the Bowl-A-Thon.



Dan Seib announced that lists of Little Brothers and Little Sisters have been started. All persons who might be interested in serving as "Bigs," Anyone over the age of 18 will be considered. Until the office and a phone number are established, interested persons are asked to contact any person mentioned above or the office of the Big Brothers/Big Sisters of the Alleghenies, Inc., at (301) 724-2742.

The USDA Forest Service awarded $75,700 for a two-year study of the effects of Bt applications and gypsy moth defoliation on non-target Lepidoptera and the food of the endangered Big-eared Bat. Dr. Robert Whitmore is the principal investigator of this project.

WVU Offers Mine Fire Training; Fire Brigades Making A Comeback

Nothing is more terrifying to a coal miner than being underground when a fire or explosion occurs.

Experienced mine rescue teams typically deal with such emergencies, but it may take four hours or more for them to arrive at the mine site.

During that time the fire is spreading. It may result in a fire so extensive the mine may have to be sealed. Training miners to immediately respond to a fire could save lives, equipment, the mine and jobs.

Virtually no formal mine fire training program has been available for the everyday miner – until now.

West Virginia University's Mining Extension Service (MES) and Fire Service Extension (FSE) teamed up and designed a mine fire training program to teach miners in coal, metal and non-metal mines how to immediately respond to a mine fire.

The MES was established in 1913 to train coal miners – the first outreach facility in the nation to do so. MES is a division of WVU's College of Mineral and Energy Resources (COMER).

Dr. Douglas Elliott, acting associate director, and Bill Moser, project director, coordinate the mine fire training programs. Both have first-hand underground mining experience.

The FSE, located on Monongahela Blvd. across from the state police barracks in Morgantown, is a division of the WVU Extension Service, and provides all of the fire-fighting training for fire departments, the chemical industry, heavy industry and hazardous material (hazmat) work throughout the state. WVU Professor J.T. Hodges provides fire training.

MES and FSE pooled their expertise and have taught mine fire training courses for the last few years to coal, metal, and non-metal miners at the National Mine Health and Safety Academy in Beckley. Moser and Hodges have been conducting the hands-on fire-fighting training at the mine academy.

Although these divisions have the experience and training to teach emergency fire training programs, they found there is no fire training center in the state where they can teach fire training courses. As a result, they and Dr. Leo Misagi, affiliated with the mine academy, wrote a proposal to establish a mine fire training facility. They sent the proposal to the assistant secretary of the U.S. Dept. of Labor through federal Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA) channels and also contacted U.S. Senators Robert C. Byrd and John D. Rockefeller.

Both senators were interested in the proposal, and Sen. Byrd responded with the recent announcement of a $1.5 million allocation to establish and staff a mine emergency and fire-fighting training program at the academy.

Moser anticipates that within the next two years, a simulated mine will be built at the mine academy where everyday coal miners can learn how to contain and extinguish mine fires. Hodges is hopeful the new facility will have several entry ways with tracks, coal cars and conveyor belts to simulate a coal mine.

"We hope to have a multi-purpose facility similar to Lake Lynn," Hodges said. "The biggest problem is the unknown. With an underground mine emergency – is it a fire or an explosion? Mine fire gases must be monitored in order for miners to know when they must evacuate the mine. There are problems resulting from air changes and explosions. We are trying to prepare miners for quick, rapid response to fire: to contain it and extinguish it."

Mine fires present special problems. Mines are often located in remote areas. The mine fire may occur in workings 650 feet underground at the mine face which could be 4 miles from the mine entrance. Coal mines usually contain explosive, toxic or asphyxiating gases which are released or changed during a fire or explosion and must be monitored. Additionally, standard mine equipment, such as conveyor belts used to transport coal out of the mine, emit toxic fumes when they burn.

"Now the average miner has to fight the fire with whatever is available," Hodges said. "That miner might have fire-fighting equipment or only bags of rock dust. (Rock dust is used throughout mines to reduce the chance of explosion because rock dust renders coal dust non-explosive.)

Moser said, "Years ago, mines had fire brigades for immediate response to a mine fire – similar to the fire brigades formed to respond to house fires. Coal companies are calling us because they want to start fire brigades at their mines."

Coal companies can request Moser and Hodges to visit the mine site and examine their fire-fighting equipment to evaluate their response to a mine fire.

Although most mines are in minimum compliance with MSHA standards to respond to a fire, coal companies are finding out they don't have the capability to put out a mine fire. They are revamping their programs for in-house fire protection – their purchases, location and storage of fire-fighting equipment. Some mines are even building fire houses, fire cars and storage facilities underground, Moser explained.

"Our two-day training sessions show a company what they need to do to respond to a fire rather than letting it continue to burn and wait for rescue teams to arrive," Moser added.

The WVU mine fire training program covers hands-on training in:

*The basics of total mine-fire emergency preparedness.

*The chemistry of fires.

*Fire-fighting safety and wearing protective clothing.

*Self-contained breathing apparatus (a device fire-fighters use which provides air while they are fighting a fire).

*Using a hand-held fire extinguisher, nozzles, appliances with hoses, water-flow pressures, storage of hoses, how to use foam to fight fires.

*Training in smoke.

"It's important to note that this fire-fighting training enables the miner to go back to his or her mine as a knowledgeable fire person. This training results in changes in attitude and behavior that reduces the chance of a fire occurring at their mine simply through having this awareness," Elliott noted.

Class size is limited to 12 to 15 miners to enable individual instruction. The program is available from April through November at the mine academy. For further information, contact Moser at (304) 293-4211.

Moser added, "We're the only facility in the United States giving mine fire and fire-fighting training. It's a real credit to WVU, COMER and FSE that we are the nation's first such facility."

Red Cross Notes Changes In Blood Drive Procedures

The Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross has announced the implementation of procedural changes within their blood drives to maintain the safest possible blood supply for the area. The Garrett County Chapter is one of 43 chapters within the American Red Cross Blood Services, Johnstown Region, who are instituting the revisions.

Barbara Demuth, Blood Services Nursing Director for the 40-county Johnstown Region, said that these changes provide uniform donor criteria throughout the Red Cross to determine if the potential donor is healthy enough to donate.

The procedures comply with FDA requirements of the national Red Cross Blood Services; and are a part of the revolutionary changes taking place within the national Red Cross blood program to help ensure the highest quality blood and blood projects.

Demuth explained that the volunteer health history nurse will ask potential donors a variety of important questions about their medical and personal history. The responses are kept strictly confidential. "These questions are absolutely necessary to screen potential donors and guard against the transmission of infectious diseases. Although the questions may seem very personal to some, they are only asked in an effort to provide the safest blood supply possible."

Demuth said that the questions are combined with other safety measures to determine if a person is healthy enough to give blood. The potential donor's temperature, pulse, and blood pressure are taken, and a drop of blood is withdrawn to determine if the person has enough red blood cells to give safely. In addition, the potential donor is asked to read a fact sheet about giving blood and the measures being taken for the safety of the donor and the blood recipient.

Demuth continued to say that the donation itself is tested for hepatitis, viruses, syphilis, the AIDS antibody, and certain other viruses. If the tests show that the blood should not be transfused to someone else, it is destroyed and the donor is notified of the test results.

Demuth said that the key to maintaining a safe blood supply is to have healthy people continue to donate blood. Anyone age 17 or older who weighs at least 110 pounds can donate every 56 days.

The Johnstown Region Blood Services is committed to meeting the total blood needs of residents in its 40 county area, and of patients in its 65 hospitals it serves in Maryland, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia.

MSP Addresses Public Awareness Of War Impact

Maryland State Police have established a 24-hour informational exchange between federal, state, and local public safety agencies in Maryland to heighten the state's public awareness of Middle East developments and their possible impact locally.

"Vigilance and awareness are the key," stated Captain John P. Cook, Commander, Criminal Intelligence Division. Appearing on the Maryland State Police Radio Program, a weekly public service broadcast, Captain Cook said Maryland State Police will serve as a central clearinghouse for local intelligence gathering activities.

"The best prepared community is a well informed community," added Cook. "We want to remind Marylanders to be alert for any unusual or suspicious activity and to immediately report such activity to local law enforcement authorities."

Maryland State Police are coordinating the informational exchange following a public appeal by Governor William Donald Schaefer to work cooperatively with local law enforcement authorities to maintain open lines of communication.

"Maryland is among the best prepared states in the country when it comes to coordinated law enforcement response in matters related to terrorism," stated Captain Cook. "Although there have been a few pranks, there have been no viable threats," Captain Cook said. In addition to cooperation among public safety authorities and the citizens of Maryland, Captain Cook called on members of the media to handle threat or terrorist information responsibly.

"The media can play a positive role by sharing information with appropriate authorities to insure that it is accurate and (responsibly) informative."

The Maryland State Police Radio Program is a weekly public service radio broadcast carried on approximately 50 radio stations in Maryland and the District of Columbia. The program is supported by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and the Maryland Department of Transportation.

Portions of this program are also carried on the Maryland State Police Newsline, (301) 653-4275.

Deciding what to watch will be a tough task

By Amy Schmidt

The movie offerings are so good this week, you'll need to hook up every VCR you own.

Sunday will be a Nielsen ratings toss-up with ABC presenting the first part of the Western miniseries Son of the Morning Star, CBS airing the Hallmark Hall of Fame presentation Sarah, Plain and Tall, and NBC premiering the popular 1987 theatrical release Good Morning, Vietnam, starring comic Robin Williams.

Filmed entirely on location in Montana, Son of the Morning Star reenacts the downfall of the controversial and flamboyant General George A. Custer. Gary Cole stars as Custer; Rosanna Arquette plays his wife; and Rodney A. Grant, who starred in Kevin Costner's Dances With Wolves, plays Crazy Horse. The miniseries, debuting Sunday and concluding Monday, should be of epic proportions.

Always good are the Hallmark Hall of Fame presentations. Two impressive big screen stars, Glenn Close and Christopher Walken, are cast in Sarah, Plain and Tall. A widower, Walken advertises for a mail-order bride and mother to live on his Kansas farm and care for his two children. Close responds.

Monday, Cheryl Pollak stars in The Marla Hanson Story on NBC. This compelling drama is based on the real-life ordeal of model Marla Hanson after she was disfigured by attackers.

Rosanna Arquette plays Custer's devoted wife on ABC's Son of the Morning Star, concluding Monday.

Kellie Williams stars as Laura Lee Winslow on the ABC comedy Family Matters, Fridays.

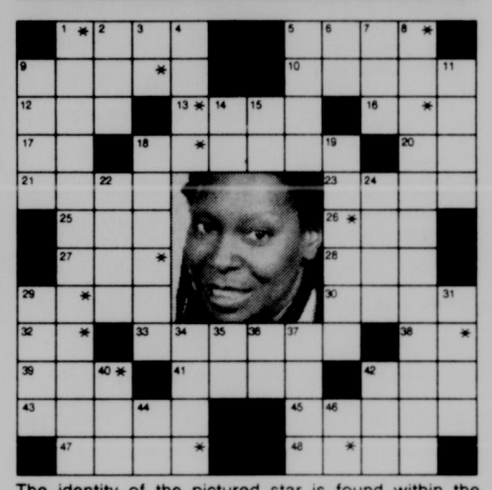
Easy-going style a plus for actor Hal Holbrook

By Candace Havens

Hal Holbrook arguably is one of the finest actors on television today. The five-time Emmy Award-winner can now be seen weekly on the popular CBS comedy Evening Shade.

He portrays Evan Evans, father-in-law to Wood Newton — and his contemporary, which just happens to be a sore point with Evans. The show centers around a family living in a small Southern town, a place where Holbrook's easy-going style fits right in.

Holbrook was born in Cleveland, Ohio, and raised in South Waymouth, Mass., by his grandparents. At the age of 7, he was sent to a New England prep school until the start of his high school years, when he was sent to a military academy. He did his undergraduate studies at Denison University.



Having begun his career doing summer stock, his reputation as an actor grew when he started doing a Mark Twain impersonation, which he took from off-Broadway to Broadway, winning a Drama Critic's Circle Award.

When he brought his characterization to television in Mark Twain Tonight, he received his first Emmy nomination. Holbrook went on to play a variety of roles on stage and television and has even made some feature films.

He is married to another popular television star, Dixie Carter, and the two-some share a home in Southern California.

Custer's Last Stand dramatized

ABC reenacts Battle of Little Bighorn

By Amy Schmidt

War Party. Dances With Wolves. The time was right for the adaptation of Evan S. Connell's best-selling novel, Son of the Morning Star, recounting the Battle of the Little Bighorn.

After all, it's been almost a year to date since Lonesome Dove made its debut, and audiences are hankering for more. Son of the Morning Star should appease them. The four-hour epic miniseries chronicling the Plains Indians Wars and General George A. Custer premieres on ABC Sunday, Feb. 3, and concludes Feb. 4.

Midnight Caller's Gary Cole stars as Custer; Rosanna Arquette (Desperately Seeking Susan) plays his wife, Libby; Rodney A. Grant (Dances With Wolves) portrays Crazy Horse; and Dean Stockwell (Quantum Leap) depicts General Phil Sheridan. The screenplay was written by Melissa Mathison, Academy Award-winner for E.T: The Extraterrestrial and wife of actor Harrison Ford.

Son of the Morning Star (which was the name given Custer by his Indian scouts) traces the general's volatile military career in the West and his crucial role in the U.S. government's brutal war of attrition against the Indians. The Sioux Indians had already been displaced by settlers moving West and had made a treaty with the government, giving them the rights to the Black Hills in South Dakota. But after gold was discovered in the Black Hills, President Ulysses S. Grant ignored the treaty, and the rush was on to get the gold and move the Indians out.

On June 25, 1876, under a sweltering sky on a grassy ridge in Montana, Custer and 265 officers of the Seventh Cavalry perished swiftly at the hands of one of the largest-ever Indian gatherings, led by chiefs Sitting Bull and Crazy Horse. Custer's Indian scouts had estimated their numbers, but he had refused to believe them.

Filming Son of the Morning Star on location in Montana required extensive planning. A number of the people who worked on Kevin Costner's Dances With Wolves worked on this film as well, including Doris Leader Charge, who served as the Sioux language and cultural adviser. Leader Charge and teacher Albert White Hat translated the script of Son of the Morning Star into Lakota, the language of the Sioux.

Cathy Smith, a 19th century Plains Indian expert and renowned Indian beading and quill artist, also worked on both films. Smith was dedicated to making Son of the Morning Star right. She even went so far as to locate the original manufacturers of Italian glass "trade beads" used for barter with the Indians.

Today, a small museum marked by a high-flying American flag overlooks the white crosses on the hill where Custer's men perished. At the reservation across the freeway, known as Crow Agency, Mont., it is small consolation. The economy is bad, but the movie industry is a boon. Residents can only hope more films like War Party and Son of the Morning Star soon will be "movin' to Montana."

'Scarecrow' one of Pacino's best performances

By Steven Alan McGaw

Scarecrow (1973)

Watching Francis Ford Coppola's The Godfather, Part III (and it is magnificent) reminded me anew what a marvelous actor Al Pacino is. And Scarecrow is surely one of his best performances.

Pacino is a moody, sullen drifter, on the road once more after leaving his wife. He meets up with the considerably more optimistic (but no less solvent) Gene Hackman, who steadfastly believes everything will be all right as soon as he realizes his dream of opening his own car wash. Together they share a series of sometimes comic, sometimes frightening adventures as they travel across America. Both are surprised at the strong friendship that emerges between them.

Both actors (certainly, two of the best) deliver strong performances; Pacino, in particular, arouses sympathy for a character that might not seem too sympathetic. Terrific supporting work comes from Dorothy Tristan, Eileen Brennan, Richard Lynch and the always reliable Ann Wedgworth. Directed by Jerry Schatzberg, the film also boasts evocative cinematography by Vilmos Zsigmond.

Some critics found this film too depressing, too dreary. I disagree; the film is simply very involving, and surely that's the point. Treat yourself to a fine film by watching Scarecrow.

Disfigured model's story dramatized

Marla Hanson fights for victims' rights

By Amy Schmidt

Model Marla Hanson's career was just beginning to take off in 1986. Having worked as a fashion coordinator in the New York garment business, she had finally put together her portfolio.

Then on June 19, 1986, everything changed. Two thugs, hired by a jilted admirer, attacked Marla, slashing her face with razor blades.

The incident made headlines. Even New York Mayor Ed Koch made a public expression of sympathy. But during the trial prosecuting Steve Roth, the perpetrator, Hanson found herself victimized all over again.

Monday, Feb. 4, The Marla Hanson Story will premiere on NBC. Cheryl Pollak (Hull High, Pump Up the Volume) will play the title role.

In a recent interview, Hanson said she wanted the film made in order to speak out about victims' rights. "I felt at the end of the trial process that I'd been violated by the system," she said.

Lacking evidence, the defense attorney tried her instead: "I was called a slut, a prostitute, a racist. Everything that was said about me had a long-lasting effect and created a stigma. The stigma hurt worse than the actual cuts."

And it didn't end there. Modeling agencies, a jilted admirer — and even Hollywood — wanted a piece of Marla. A number of production companies threatened that if she refused to sell them the rights to the story, they would get the story from Steve Roth.

Today, Marla Hanson is a student at New York University. She has undergone plastic surgery, but she is not modeling.

John Ritter guest stars in 'Anything But Love' return

John Ritter

Anything But Love, starring Jamie Lee Curtis and Richard Lewis, returns to the ABC prime-time schedule on Wednesday, Feb. 6. John Ritter guest stars in the first three episodes as an award-winning photojournalist and ladies' man extraordinaire.

The Hallmark Hall of Fame presentation Sarah, Plain and Tall, airing Sunday, Feb. 3, marks the producing debut of actress Glenn Close. Close thinks she's learned the answer to being a successful producer. "Surround yourself with the very best people in the business," she says. As examples she cites her co-star, Christopher Walken, director Glenn Jordan and costume designer Van Broughton Ramsey.

Actor Ian McKellen was made a knight, and actor Marius Goring was made a commander of the British Empire in the New Year's honors list for their services to the queen and country. McKellen is one of the leading British actors of his generation. Goring's movies include The Red Shoes and The Barefoot Contessa.

Entertainer Jerry Lewis was named the 1991 television inductee into the Broadcasting Hall of Fame by the National Association of Broadcasters. Lewis, whose annual TV telethons have raised more than $525 million to aid people with muscular dystrophy, will be honored April 17.

The NBA All-Star Stay in School Jam, an hour of entertainment with an educational theme, will be telecast live simultaneously by NBC, TNT and Nickelodeon. The show, airing Saturday, Feb. 9, will originate from the Charlotte, N.C., coliseum, site of the NBA All-Star Game, and will be part of the NBA's All-Star Weekend festivities. The telecast marks the first time a broadcast network has joined cable in a live simulcast special.

CBS Entertainment and Linda Bloodworth-Thomason and Harry Thomason's Mozark Productions have entered into the largest and most comprehensive production commitment CBS has ever made with a single production company. Creators of Designing Women and Evening Shade, the production company is granted five firm series commitments.

Regularly scheduled programming may be interrupted, delayed or pre-empted by coverage of the Middle East crisis.

'Sarah, Plain and Tall' touches a deep chord

Glenn Close plays nice stepmother

By Mary Ann Townsend

One of the main themes throughout Sarah, Plain and Tall surprised even its author, Patricia MacLachlan.

MacLachlan wrote the piece based on a story her mother once told her and wanted to focus on good people coming together to make good things happen.

She did that in her story about a mail-order bride who enriched the lives of a widower and his two children, and that story airs as a Hallmark Hall of Fame presentation Sunday, Feb. 3, on CBS.

But MacLachlan also struck a deep chord in today's split families with her theme that stepmothers can be good role models.

"I had not really thought of her as a stepmother; I just thought of it as mothering, period," the author said. "I got more aware of that after we were filming and after Hallmark talked about the stepmother theme, which they loved."

"Stepmothers have been picked on forever," said co-executive producer William Self. "They're like mothers-in-law. But this is a nice stepmother story. It shows that a stranger can come into a family and love the children as if they were her own. There are a lot of adopted children in America and a lot of stepmothers, and we think Sarah is going to have special meaning for them."

Glenn Close makes her producing debut on Sarah, Plain and Tall, and also stars in the title role. "The story of Sarah bringing love to a lonely, motherless family touches a deep chord within us all," Close said.

Tax Preparation Help Available Free At FSU

Free help preparing 1990 income tax returns is available through VITA, the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance program, sponsored by the IRS, announced Connie Groer, CPA, chair of the FSU Department of Accounting and VITA site coordinator.

Help with basic federal and Maryland income tax returns will be offered from February 2 through April 13 by volunteers from FSU's School of Business accounting students who have been trained and approved by the IRS.

VITA offers free assistance to taxpayers who file Form 1040EZ, Form 1040A or a basic Form 1040 federal tax return. Volunteers will alert taxpayers to special credits and deductions for which they may be eligible.

"To schedule an appointment for VITA assistance, call 689-4388," said Ms. Groer. "The student volunteers will work Tuesdays from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. at the University's Lane Center and on Saturdays from 10:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. in the Community Room at the Country Club Mall. Taxpayers must schedule an appointment in advance."

Taxpayers who visit a VITA site should bring the tax packages mailed to them by the IRS and the state, Forms W-2 from all employers, interest statements from banks (Forms 1099), a copy of last year's return if available and any other relevant information about their income and taxes.

Volunteer faculty members will oversee the 22 student workers who are predominantly from the local area. The volunteers include the following students: Maxine Bates, Jeffrey Conner, Karen Hill, Kevin Howser, Michelle Perdew, Roxanne Shaffer, Kim Strain and Jim Yutzy from Cumberland; Joanne Beal, Linda Oester, Dan Otto and Laurel Swauger from Frostburg; Jennifer Foreman and Amy Oleksik from LaVale; Sandy Michaels, Mt. Savage; Philip Rodeheaver, Accident; Valerie Dunithan, Friendsville; Linda Litten, Rawlings; Anna Holaus, North Beach; Romil Aparentado, Baltimore; Kenneth Hardy, Wheaton; and Jennifer Dailey, New Jersey.

State Tax Offices To Be Open On Weekends, Holidays

With W-2 forms due to employees by January 31, many state taxpayers are ready to work on their 1990 Maryland income tax returns. These taxpayers can take advantage of several convenient opportunities for free state tax help between now and the end of February, Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced.

All 15 Maryland income tax offices will offer the following extra hours of free taxpayer assistance during two upcoming weekends and two state holidays when most state offices will be closed: Saturday, February 2, 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.; Saturday, February 9, 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.; Tuesday, February 12 (Lincoln's Birthday), 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m.; Monday, February 18 (Washington's Birthday), 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m.

State tax experts at all 15 locations will answer questions, provide the necessary forms, and even complete Maryland income tax returns free of charge. Taxpayers must bring a completed copy of their federal return and all W-2 statements to take advantage of this free service.

The addresses and telephone numbers of all Maryland income tax offices are listed on the back of the state packet and in most local telephone directories.

Combat Zone Declaration To Yield Tax Relief

The designation of the Persian Gulf as a combat zone triggers a number of federal tax relief provisions for taxpayers serving in Operation Desert Storm.

According to H.J. Hightower, director of the Baltimore District of the Internal Revenue Service, members of the armed forces and support personnel in the Persian Gulf assigned to Operation Desert Storm will not have to file their 1990 federal income tax returns until at least 180 days after they depart from the Persian Gulf. No penalty or interest will be charged during this period on any tax due for 1990.

IRS also will suspend all tax return examinations and actions to collect any back taxes owed by these taxpayers for years prior to 1990 until at least 180 days after the taxpayer leaves the combat zone. During this time no penalty or interest will be added to any tax due.

"These relief provisions apply not only to armed forces and support personnel serving in the Operation Desert Storm combat zone but also to their spouses," said Hightower.

Military pay received by enlisted personnel while serving in the combat zone is exempt from income tax. For commissioned officers, up to $500 a month can be excluded from income. The exclusion generally extends to periods of hospitalization resulting from injury or sickness suffered while serving in the combat zone.

In the event a member of the armed forces dies while serving in the combat zone, no tax is due for the year of death or any prior year in which the person served in the combat zone. In addition, any unpaid tax for years prior to service in the combat zone is forgiven.

The combat zone designation is effective Jan. 17, 1991 and covers Iraq, Kuwait, Saudi Arabia, Oman, Bahrain, Qatar, United Arab Emirates, Persian Gulf, Red Sea, Gulf of Oman, certain parts of Arabian Sea and the Gulf of Aden.

Hightowers emphasized that taxpayers, including spouses and others acting on behalf of a taxpayer in the Operation Desert Storm combat zone, should call (301) 962-2590 in Baltimore, or 1-800-TAX-1040 (1-800-829-1040) elsewhere in Maryland or the District of Columbia for additional information on federal tax matters. If they receive correspondence about any collection or audit matter covered by these relief provisions, they should contact IRS immediately so that the action may be suspended.

Dr. H. Delany Named Interim FSU President

Dr. Harold Delaney, executive vice president emeritus of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities, has been named interim president of Frostburg State University. The announcement was made last week by University of Maryland System Chancellor Donald Langenberg and the appointment becomes effective February 10, 1991.

Dr. Delaney recently retired after working with AASCU for nearly 10 years. His original academic discipline was chemistry, having earned the B.S., M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in that field at Howard University. He holds an honorary degree, L.H.D., from Towson State University.

For 21 years he served as a faculty member in the Department of Chemistry at Morgan State University (formerly College) in Baltimore. During that time he also held the positions of Chairman of the Department and Dean of the College. He left Morgan State in 1969 to join the Central Administration of the State University of New York (SUNY) system where he held positions of associate university dean for university college, acting vice chancellor for university colleges, and associate provost for undergraduate education.

In 1972 he accepted appointment as vice president for student services and special programs in the General Administration of the 16-campus system of the University of North Carolina. He left the University of North Carolina to assume the presidency of Manhattanville College in Purchase, N.Y. Later he became one of the associate directors of the National Institute of Education in Washington, D.C.

Dr. Delaney attended high school in Greenfield, Mass., and Providence, R.I., where he was graduated from Central High School in a class of 654 students.

Prior to beginning his teaching career, which spanned nearly a quarter of a century, he worked for two years during World War II as a chemist on the Manhattan Project at the University of Chicago.

Married to the former Geraldine East, he has two sons: one is a chemist and the other is an investment broker. He and Mrs. Delaney also have five grandchildren.

He is listed in both Who's Who in the East and Who's Who Among Black Americans.

Since retiring, he has served as a consultant to Governors State University, Saginaw Valley State University, the University of the District of Columbia, and the Office of Educational Research and Improvement of the U.S. Department of Education.

From about August 1, 1988, to July 31, 1989, he served as Assistant to the Chancellor of the University of Maryland System.

From August 15, 1989, to July 31, 1990, he served as acting president of Chicago State University.

Nicaraguan Art On Display At FSU

A collection of Nicaraguan Contemporary Art will be on exhibit at Stephanie Ann Roper Gallery on the campus of Frostburg State University January 25 through February 13. This will be the first exhibit of Nicaraguan Art in the United States since imposition of the embargo in the early 1980's.

Some 60 paintings and drawings by 32 young artists will be included.

Xavier Arguello, Cultural Attache of the Nicaraguan Embassy, Washington, D.C. will present an opening lecture, "Contemporary Nicaraguan Art," at 6:30 p.m., Friday, January 25 in Dunkle Hall, Room 218. The formal opening and a reception will follow in Roper Gallery.

The exhibit is made possible by a grant for the Inter-American Development Bank.

Curator of the exhibit is Dr. Jose Rodeiro, of FSU's Department of Visual Arts. Dr. MacGregor O'Brien, of FSU's Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures and Coordinator of the Nicaraguan Program,was also instrumental in acquiring the exhibition.

The exhibition will tour Salisbury State University, The Organization of American States Headquarters, Washington, D.C., and the Nicaraguan Embassy, also in Washington.

A full-color catalog of the works will be available by the end of the Frostburg exhibit.

The public is invited and admission to the lecture, reception, and exhibition is free.

Local Inn To Feature "Heart Smart" Dinners

The Silver Tree Inn Restaurant will be featuring "heart smart" dinners during the month of February, which has been designated American Heart Association's Heart Month. Each time a featured dinner is selected, the Silver Tree Inn will donate a dollar to the American Heart Association, Western Maryland Division.

Recipes for the dinners were taken from the American Heart Association's low-fat, low-cholesterol cookbook. The book is designed to be a guide for those individuals who want to keep track of their daily fat and cholesterol allowance.

"The Silver Tree Inn is proud once again to make diners aware of the many opportunities for exciting dining, while maintaining a healthy diet," stated Elaine McDonald, part-owner of the Silver Tree Inn. "The Silver Tree always strives to meet the dietary needs of its public by having regular heart smart meal menu items, but during February which is heart month, we feature different heart smart meals as specials each week of the month. In addition, we donate one dollar to the American Heart Association when a diner selects a featured item."

McDonald added that the proceeds will go to the AHA's research and programs. Last year alone, 39,000 individuals in Allegany and Garrett counties were reached by these programs.

Information on the promotion or on how to obtain a cookbook can be obtained at the Silver Tree Inn; free pamphlets on diet and nutrition can be obtained by calling the American Heart Association, Western Maryland Division, at (301) 724-4011.

Annual Senior Citizen Writing Contest Underway

Governor William Donald Schaefer has announced the kickoff of the fourth annual "Maryland You are Beautiful" Senior Citizen Creative Writing Contest. Designed for all Maryland residents, age 60 and over, the contest encourages seniors to reflect and write on the theme, "Maryland: Through Your Eyes."

"Seniors are excellent role models for all generations, with their wealth of wisdom and experiences," said Governor Schaefer. "Each of the entries we receive in the contest tells a new story, shares a special idea, proving that the insight of our senior citizens should be shared with everyone."

Contest rules are as follows: Contestants must be a resident of the county where their entry is submitted; only one entry per person; entries are limited to 600 words or less; entries must be submitted on 8½ x 11 inch paper; entries must be double-spaced, either typed or hand-printed; entries must include the author's name, address and phone number; and entries must be postmarked on or before Tuesday, April 9, 1991.

The Grand Winner in each county and Baltimore City will be recognized by Governor Schaefer at an awards ceremony and luncheon in Annapolis in June. Grand winners also receive a Maryland Getaway Weekend, donated by hotels and restaurants across the state. All entrants will receive a recognition certificate from their local elected official.

"As usual, we have a great group of sponsors," said Floraine Applefeld, director of the "Maryland You are Beautiful" Program. "They are: the Maryland Office on Aging; WJZ-TV; Azzam Jordan and Geer Advertising Design; and Marley Gallery of Contemporary Jewelry." The contest will be promoted in Maryland's 23 counties and Baltimore City by the local Area Agencies on Aging. Getaway Weekend donations were secured with the support of Maryland's Destination Marketing Organizations.

"These entries will be works of art," said Rosalie Abrams, director of the Maryland Office on Aging. "Each one will paint a unique portrat of Maryland as our seniors see it."

MCEA Suspends Dues For Members In The Military

The Maryland Classified Employees Association announced that it has suspended the collection of union dues from its members in the National Guard or Military Reserves who are called to active duty by the President.

These MCEA members will still be considered full, active members of the Association despite their dues suspension. Delegates to the MCEA Convention in September voted to change the Association By-laws to support this action. As of this week, MCEA has approximately 50 members whose dues have been suspended by their call to active duty.

"We realize the dedication these individuals have to their country and appreciate their efforts to protect the rights not only of United States citizens, but the rights of people all over the world," said MCEA President Joel Dan Lehman.

"We also appreciate the financial hardships some of these individuals are going to face. This is one way MCEA can help out," Lehman added.

Handbook On Treating Mine Waters Published

"The purpose of this handbook is to provide the user with appropriate information to make the handling of ammonia for treating mine waters both safe and environmentally sound," says Ben Faulkner, a biologist and environmental consultant. Faulkner is the author of Use of Ammonia in Treating Mine Waters, a handbook published by the West Virginia Mining and Reclamation Association.

Treating mine water with ammonia is not a new practice, but using ammonia over other neutralizing agents is becoming more popular within the mining history. This increase in use means that careful training and timely information is needed so that ammonia will be used safely and effectively.

"The book was written for coal operators and regulators, and should also benefit policy-makers and researchers," says Faulkner. He is currently working with the National Mine Land Reclamation Center at West Virginia University surveying mine operators in southern West Virginia on reclamation techniques. Information for the handbook came from a numer of sources, including the survey of operators.

The handbook consists of seven chapters: general information, safety and handling, regulations, biology, surface water applications, coal preparation plants, and troubleshooting.

Copies of the handbook are $5.00 each and can be ordered from the West Virginia Mining and Reclamation Association, 1624 Kanawha Boulevard, Charleston, WV 25311; telephone 304-345-5318.

Better Homes, Gardens Float Wins In Parade

The Tournament of Roses float sponsored by "Better Homes and Gardens" members in the annual New Year's Day parade was awarded the National Trophy for the best depiction of life in the U.S. - past, present or future.

"This is the second year in a row our float has captured one of the 102-year-old Tournament's top prizes," said Karen F. Spiker, president and broker of A&A Realty\Better Homes & Gardens, McHenry and Oakland. "And once again, we feel our float represents the Better Homes and Gardens image very well."

This year's float, titled "Home for the Holidays," had a distinct Currier and Ives look centered around a Victorian skating party. Special features of the float include skating couples in late-19th century clothes, an intricate Victorian gazebo, and trees and lamp posts hung with icicles.

The float was created by award-winning designer Raul Rodriguez and was closely tied to the holiday season and the theme of this year's parade which was "Fun and Games." Rodriguez also designed last year's "Better Homes and Gardens" float, which received the Governor's Special Trophy for the most whimsical entry.

Lorne Brown, judging chairman of the Tournament of Roses, said Tournament judges were attracted to the beauty of the float and "its exemplary craftsmanship and detail."

The Tournament of Roses parade was shown on all three major TV networks, the Fox Television Network, the Tribune Network, and the Spanish International Network. Viewership was estimated to be at more than 100 million in the United States and more than 300 million in the international market.

A&A Realty\Better Homes and Gardens has been a member of "Better Homes and Gardens" Real Estate Service since 1986. "Better Homes and Gardens" was formed in 1978 as an extension of "Better Homes and Gardens" magazine and is one of the nation's largest real estate networks with more than 680 members and more than 1,400 offices and locations.

BUILDING GOD'S TEMPLE

If you have ever attempted a minor repair or a major project, you know that without the proper tools, your enthusiasm quickly turns into frustration. You need tools that you can depend on.

We are God's tools. Our faith in Him must be strong enough so it is not damaged or distorted by those who might attempt to destroy it. Faith is the very foundation of God's house. He proclaims in Matt. 16:18 ". . . on this rock I will build my church . . ."

Invite a friend to church this week. When we shine with the love of God, it is reflected onto everyone we meet. As His tools, we can build His house even larger by bringing others to Him, that they may experience the peace and happiness they find there. 1 Cor. 3:16 asks us: "Do you not know that you are God's temple and the God's Spirit dwells in you?"

With the spirit of God dwelling in us, we shall surely build God's kingdom on earth . . .

one soul at a time.

Macbeth Presented To Local High School Students

Some 300 students from Northern and Southern high schools were treated to a live production of "Macbeth" this week. The play, presented by the Shakespeare in the Schools Company, University of Pittsburgh, was held at Garrett Community College and was funded by the Garrett County Arts Council.

The Arts Council is an organization comprised of volunteers whose primary function is to distribute tax dollars to various county agencies and other groups for the promotion of the arts. As an arm of the Maryland State Arts Council, it is the source of funding for many programs and art exhibits that take place in the local area.

Through its Artists in Education program, the Garrett County Arts Council is able to benefit students in the local schools. This was the source of funding for the performance of "Macbeth," as well as for past programs, including the performances of "Imagimime," the Mt. Top Brass Quintet, and Ann Saslov, pianist.

Tickets may be purchased at the door for $3 per person, $5 per couple, and $1 for children ages 12 and under. For more information, persons may contact the Center at 746-8824.

The Garrett County Arts Council is also a major source of funding for programs of the Garrett County Choral Society and the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival.

President of the Arts Council is now George McDowell, assistant professor of music at Garrett Community College. Members of the board of directors include Frances Acton, administrative secretary; Joan Crawford, publicity chairman; Rosanne Sherwood, Dorothy Leighton, Mary Love, Ronald Skidmore, Ben Sincell, Esther Yoder, Albert Ringer, Mark Ravenscroft, and Gary Galloway.

Tax Assistance Available Free To Local Seniors

The AARP Senior Tax Program in Garrett County, sponsored by the Area Agency on Aging, is now underway. Bea Crosco, volunteer coordinator, has recruited tax volunteers Arzella Parsons, Betty Foy, and Nordeck Shaffer, who have been trained and certified to provide this service for seniors.

A full schedule of times and places where seniors may come on a walk-in basis to receive assistance with the completion of federal and state tax forms will be in next week's issue of The Republican. This is a free service to Garrett County senior citizens.

The tax preparers will be at the Ruth Enlow Library, Oakland, on Thursday, February 7, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. For more information, persons may call the Agency at 334-5856.

NEW TANKER FOR DPCVFD — The Deer Park Community Volunteer Fire Department recently placed into service a 1991 Freightliner Tanker, replacing the department's 1964 International. The vehicle has a capacity of 2,500 gallons and is equiped with a 500 gpm W.S. Darley pump, along with numerous other pieces of fire suppression equipment. The unit was fabricated by 4-Guys, Inc., Meyersdale, Pa. Funding for the new tanker was realized with a grant/loan of just under $100,000 from the Maryland State Firemen's Association Emergency Assistance Trust Fund and the State of Maryland Department of Budget and Fiscal Planning. Pictured receiving the keys from Barney Miller, member of the Board of Review for the MSFA Emergency Trust Fund, right, is Deer Park Chief Fred Collins Jr.

Mental Health Staff Honored By Advisory Comm.

The Garrett County Mental Health Advisory Committee recently held its annual luncheon for the purpose of honoring the staff of the Garrett County Mental Health Department and showing their appreciation of the work the staff has done.

Services provided by the mental health staff include psychologicals, diagnosis, therapy and community rehabilitation.

The state requires that the advisory committee include the following positions: the county health officer, the regional mental health director and a representative of the residential unit of a state facility who serves the county.

The governing body of the county then appoints representatives from the county department of education, the local department of social services, the mental health association (Garrett County does not have one), a practicing physician, a mental health professional, a member of the clergy, a member of the legal profession, an individual who has or is now receiving mental health care, an individual who is a relative of a mental health care recipient, a member of the local law enforcement team, and at least three members of the general public.

Currently, the committee has an opening for a practicing physician.

Taxes Affected By Gulf Combat Zone Designation

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said President Bush's executive order designating the Persian Gulf area as a combat zone will affect the Maryland income tax situation of military personnel serving in the combat zone.

"The president's January 21, 1991, executive order concerning Operation Desert Storm means that, after that date, income earned by enlisted grade, regular warrant and commissioned warrant personnel is exempt from Maryland income tax for any month or part of a month they are serving in the combat zone under military orders," Goldstein said. Commissioned officers' income is exempt up to $500 per month.

"I am proposing emergency legislation to also adopt a federal provision allowing military taxpayers 180 days after they leave a combat zone to file a Maryland income tax return, file for a refund or file an appeal to the Maryland Tax Court," he said.

Goldstein also reminded military personnel of a unique Maryland income tax break which will apply to residents who were deployed to the Persian Gulf before the president's executive order.

"Under Maryland law, military personnel can exclude up to $15,000 in active duty overseas pay. The exact amount of the tax exempt income declines relative to the total military pay (both United States and overseas combined) between $15,000 and $30,000," he said.

The 1990 Maryland income tax packet includes a worksheet and instructions to help taxpayers compute the exact amount of income that is exempt under the overseas pay tax break.

Military personnel or their families with questions should contact the nearest Maryland income tax office or call 1-800-MD TAXES.

National Conservation Teacher Nominations Now Being Accepted

Nominations are being accepted for the National Conservation Teacher of the Year Awards Program by the Garrett Soil Conservation District. The competition is open to any full-time teacher working at the kindergarten through twelth grade level who has developed an outstanding conservation education program.

The National Conservation Teacher of the Year will receive $1,000 in cash and an expense-paid trip to Reno, Nevada, for the 1992 annual convention of the National Association of Conservation Districts. The national second place winner will receive a $500 cash award and the first place regional winner in each of seven areas will receive $200. Awards are also presented in each state and U.S. territory.

The awards program encourages development of creative learning experiences in natural resource issues for young people. Any teacher in a public or private school in the conservation district who puts emphasis on natural resource conservation as a regular part of the instruction is eligible for nomination.

Interested teachers can obtain additional information and nomination forms from the Garrett Soil Conservation District, 334-1900. Nominations must be turned in to the District by March 1. The awards program also honors conservation districts which have effectively stimulated or conducted conservation education programs.

The awards program was initiated in 1974 by the National Association of Conservation Districts, a nonprofit, nongovernmental organization representing nearly 3,000 conservation districts in the United States and its territories. The program is cosponsored by ICI Americas Inc., Agricultural Products Division.

Farming In Maryland ..... Bernice Kepple, Farm Editor

MDA Opposes Changes To Ag Commission

A bill by Del. Marsha Perry, (D-Anne Arundel) has been introduced in the 1991 Maryland legislative session which would expand the Maryland Agricultural Commission from a panel of 17 members to 19 members by adding an environmental representative and a member of the general public to represent consumers. They, like other commission members, would be appointed by the governor to three-year terms.

According to Steven A. Connelly, a special assistant at the Agriculture Department's intergovernmental relations office, the Schaefer administration is opposing the legislation. "Although things may change in the next few days, we are presently opposed to this bill," Connelly said.

The commission, which proposes agricultural improvements, promotes the industry and advises the secretary of agriculture on farming matters, is currently made up of 17 members, all from the agricultural community.

"Absolutely, the consuming public, the taxpayer, should be represented on an advisory commission," Del. Perry said. "It's (the commission) advising the secretary of agriculture, and there is no one from the general public on it."

Perry also is concerned about the lack of representation of the environmental community.

Because environmentalists and farmers disagree on certain agricultural issues, particularly the use of pesticides, they need to be "sitting at the table with each other," Perry said.

Although Connelly said that Perry has made some "very good points," he plans to advise Agriculture Secretary Wayne A. Cawley Jr. to oppose her bill.

There are a number of emerging agricultural groups who want a seat on the 17-member commission, and they are as important as groups representing environmentalists and consumers, Connelly said.

He said that the aquaculture, horse breeding and turf industries all want representation on the commission. The panel now has members representing dairy, poultry, livestock, tobacco, nursery, horticulture, field crops and vegetable industries along with the veterinary profession and the Maryland State Grange and Maryland Farm Bureau.

Perry said she is not sure how the legislation will be received in the Legislature, but believes that the state's budget woes will not hurt the bill's chances.

"There is no tremendous cost for this program," she said. The commission members are volunteers who receive $500 to $600 in travel and food expenses.

Connelly, however, said that any amount is too much in the light of the budget shortfall. "Any money is some money," he said.

Connelly added, however, that the nature of the bill could make it attractive to the General Assembly. "It's tough to oppose the addition of public members to boards and commissions."

Canola . . . Becoming a Popular Oil Crop

The growing interest in Canola is part of the country's present health kick. It contains only about 6.8% saturated fat, compared to sunflower seed oil which contains 11% and soybean oil which contains 15%.

At the present I don't know of any canola being grown in Garrett County. In fact, it may be questionable if winter canola can survive our average winters. However, there are two kinds of canola — winter and spring. Winter canola is planted 3-4 weeks before winter wheat. Experts say that minimum of 30 days planted before a hard freeze. Some even say 6-8 weeks before a hard freeze. This would mean planting in mid-August for our area. In order to survive winter the plants need to establish 6 to 8 leaves, grow 8 to 10 inches high and have a root ½ inch in diameter. Even if plants survive the winter, yields might be greatly reduced if the crop is not properly established in the fall.

Canola must be low in glucoside content and erucic acid, otherwise it is just inedible rapeseed. Because of this, it is necessary to plant certified seed. Select your variety on the basis of winter hardiness more so than yield potential.

Ther is a lot more you need to know about canola if you plan to grow it. Call my olffice for additional information (334-1990).

Powerful . . . Alfalfa Meeting Coming Up

Mark March 12 on your calendar. Garrett County is hosting the Maryland/Delaware Forage Council meeting on Alfalfa Production. Speakers will include experts from Beachley-Hardy Seed Company, FFR Corporation, Agway Experimental Farm, Pioneer Seed Company, Water and Loomis Seed Company, Penn State University and the University of Maryland. The meeting will be held at the Bittinger Fire Hall. There will be more information forthcoming.

LIVESTOCK ASSOCIATION PRESENTS PLAQUE — Ralph Miller, 1990 Garrett County Livestock Association president, is pictured at a recent meeting presenting a plaque of recognition to LaVerna Evans for completing seven years as secretary/treasurer for the Association. In that time, she handled close to one-half-million dollars as a result of selling 707 4-H/FFA members' animals at the annual Livestock Association Sale held during the Garrett County Fair, plus her many other duties as secretary/treasurer.

Farmers Should Be Alert For Feed Contamination

Dairy farmers who purchase feed should again be alert for possible aflatoxin contamination. Reports from dairy cooperatives in the south and south central states indicated aflatoxin has been present in corn, cotton seed meal and hulls. Aflatoxin has carried over into milk, and several members of these cooperatives have incurred heavy losses due to dumped milk.

Local state departments of health/agriculture continue to monitor the milk supply for aflatoxin. Though aflatoxin contamination has not been a problem in this area, feed brought in from surrounding states should always be suspect. Farmers are therefore advised to seek assurance from feed suppliers that their food stuffs are free of aflatoxin contamination.

1990 Farm Bill Seminars Set Across Maryland

The 1990 Farm Bill has made numerous changes in farm programs and the rules and procedures associated with those programs. In particular, there is an added emphasis on the marketing of production and an opportunity to introduce new crops to farms.

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) in cooperation with the Department of Agricultural and Resource Economics and the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, University of Maryland, will hold a series of seminars, the most convenient for Garrett County farmers being February 27, in Room 121 of the Hagerstown Junior College, Advanced Training Center, Hagerstown.

The scope of the day-long course is to introduce farmers to the provisions of the 1991 program and address financial and marketing decisions they should consider this season.

The seminar will begin at 8:30 a.m. with "1990 Farm Bill in Perspective" by Dr. Earl Brown, Ag. Economics; followed by "Set Aside Requirements" by Carol Wathen, ASCS; "Deficiency Payment Rates and Schedule" by Carlo Wathen, ASCS; "Triple Base Flexibility and Pay 92" by Steve Peterson and Carol Wathen, ASCS; and "1991 Loan and Loan Deficiency Program" by Carol Wathen, ASCS.

After a break for lunch, the agenda will continue with "Economic and Export Situation" by Dr. Earl Brown, Ag. Economics; "Marketing Implications of the 1990 Farm Bill" by Dr. Jim Russell, Ag. Economics; and "Program Cropping Alternatives/Estimating Profits with Computer Spreadsheets" by James Downes, Dr. James Hanson, and Dale Johnson, Ag. Economics. The seminar will wrap up at 3:30 p.m.

A complete list of locations and registration forms are available from the local ASCS or Cooperative Extension Service. Registration forms must be returned by February 8.

Loving Memories of "Pap"

Your gentle face and patient smile, with sadness we recall,
You had a kindly word for each, and died Beloved by all.
The voice is mute, and stilled the heart, that loved us well and true.
Bitter was the trial to part from one so good as you.
You are not forgotten, Pap, nor will you ever be,
As long as life and memory last, we will remember thee.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore.
As time goes by, we miss you more.
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your vacant place.
You now have great-grandchildren,
You'll never get to hold
But they'll grow up knowing you,
For stories they have been told.

Lovingly remembered by:
Daughter, Son-in-law, grandchildren and great-grandchildren

Westvaco Notes Special Military Call-Up Policy

Westvaco Corporation, in an effort to lessen the financial impact experienced by its employees called to active duty as a result of the Persian Gulf situation, has implemented a special military call-up policy, according to an announcement locally by Mike Heagle, Luke Mill personnel manager.

Under this policy, Westvaco will make up the difference between an employee's base pay and his or her military pay for up to 90 calendar days of active duty. This special call-up policy also extends the continuation of health care benefits to employees and their covered dependents for up to three months of active duty.

Heagle added that this special military call-up policy for the Persian Gulf War is retroactive to August 1990. It applies to employees who have been called-up since that time or may be called up, as well as employees who were activated and have already returned to work.

DHMH Reports Confirmed Cases Of Influenza

The season's first laboratory-confirmed cases of influenza were reported January 23 by the Epidemiology Disease Control Program of the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH). Outbreaks of influenza-like illness in several nursing homes have been reported and surveillance indicates that all regions of the state have been affected.

The influenza virus from the Maryland cases was type B. Nationally, 10,019 culture specimens have been submitted this season; 192 were positive for influenza, 183 (95%) of these were type B, and all type B viruses thus far characterized have been B/Yamagata, a subtype included in this year's influenza vaccine. Therefore, there is a good chance that the vaccine will be effective.

"It's not too late to receive influenza vaccine," said Timothy Cote', M.D., DHMH medical epidemiologist. Dr. Cote' urges people over 65 years of age, those with chronic illness, and health care workers to ask their physicians about influenza vaccine.

Influenza is characterized by fever, malaise, cough and muscle aches that generally last three days to two weeks. Persons with influenza symptons should drink plenty of fluids, rest, and consult their physicians if symptoms worsen or continue.

Children under 18 should not be given aspirin for influenza symptoms since such treatment has been linked to Reye's Syndrome, a severe pediatric disease. Instead, children should be treated with acetaminophen products.

Additonally, a vaccine is now available to protect against the most common form of pneumonia. Pneumococcal pneumonia can be a serious complication of influenza. If they have not already received a dose, all persons over 65 years of age and those with chronic diseases should get the pneumococcal vaccine. Unlike influenza vaccine which needs to be repeatedly given every year, pneumococcal vaccine is effective for at least five years.

Cranesville Area House Leveled By Thursday Fire

A Cranesville area house was leveled last Thursday afternoon by fire believed to be caused by hot sparks from a wood stove flue.

Oakland, Terra Alta, and Deep Creek volunteer fire fighters, as well as the county air cascade vehicle from Bittinger VFD and the Southern Rescue Squad, were called at 12:56 p.m. and, upon their arrival, found the two-story wood-frame house owned by John and Diane Wolfe fully involved in flames. The house was located about three miles west of the Youghiogheny Mountain Club along Cranesville Road.

Mr. Wolfe told firemen that he was in the basement of the house when he heard a roaring sound in the flue of a wood stove located in the basement. He first thought it was just the wind; however, when the sound got louder he went outside and observed smoke coming from the eaves of the house and flames on the roof. The blaze quickly engulfed the attic area and continued downward, aided by high winds.

Mrs. Wolfe, who is the executive director of the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, was at her office in Oakland at the time of the fire.

Wolfe said he and a neighbor were able to remove some clothing, a few pieces of furniture, and some antiques from the house before flames kept them from re-entering the house. Most of the items in the basement of the house, including a washer, dryer, and various tools, were also salvaged by fire fighters.

The Wolfes said their property was insured. They are currently residing in a nearby mobile home and plan to rebuild at the same location this spring.

Firemen remained on the scene until 4:40 p.m. There were no injuries reported.

R&S ENTERPRISES DESTROYED — This structure fire which began at about 8:30 a.m. this morning totally destroyed R&S Enterprises, a gun/sport business located along U.S. Rt. 219 about four miles south of Oakland. Oakland and Deer Park volunteer fire fighters were called to the scene, as was the county air cascade vehicle currently being housed at Friendsville VFD, and the Southern Rescue Squad. There was reportedly at least one injury. Firemen were still on the scene at presstime and further details were unavailable.

Black Bear Management Plan Being Developed By DNR

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is reportedly "making steady progress" in the development of a black bear management plan for Maryland, according to a DNR official. This was announced following a two-day meeting held between bear biologists from Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and New Jersey.

During the past year, DNR has conducted a series of public meetings on black bears in Maryland to solicit input from the public. The result of those meetings, according to a recent press release, was "consensus to manage the black bear so as to maintain a viable population, while minimizing the land-use impacts (crop and livestock depredation) to landowners who host this species, and public bear contact anxieties."

The final management plan is scheduled to be released this summer, at which time another series of meetings will be held to solicit comments on the management options. Those options will include increased public education to foster a better understanding and tolerance of the black bear, refinement of procedures for handling and addressing nuisance bear complaints and the establishment of a regulated harvest of bear in Maryland.

A DNR official noted that no commitment has yet been made to implement a bear hunting season. This option will be addressed at the public meetings on the management plan and in the forum of the annual hunting season public meeting in March 1992. DNR will reportedly make a decision about the bear season based on the input received at those meetings and any other input.

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards stressed that, if a hunting season for bear were implemented, it would be one of a "very limited" nature and not "an open hunting season." He noted that it would be based on a lottery system to diminish the bear population to the maximum the habitat could support.

Former Oakland Resident Injured By Bomb Blast

Frederick Ridder, 24, Harrisonburg, Va., formerly of Oakland, was injured Tuesday when a bomb that had been placed on the top of his car exploded.

A family spokesman said Ridder sustained extensive lacerations and powder burns on the face as well as a ruptured eardrum. Ridder is the son of Benjamin and Helen Ridder, Oakland.

Although the bomb was said to have been wrapped in yellow ribbons, officials said there was no evidence to link the blast to terrorism. Pieces of the bomb were reportedly found 76 feet away.

Firemen Called To Courthouse Tuesday Evening

Two local fire departments were summoned to the Garrett County Courthouse Tuesday at about 8 p.m. when a large portion of the complex was filled with smoke.

A dispatcher for the Garrett County Office of Emergency Management (911), who was actually choking because of the smoke, called the Oakland and Deer Park VFDs at 7:54 p.m. after thick smoke had filled both that office and the jail. Personnel from the sheriff's office removed prisoners from their cells and housed them in a garage area that was not affected by the smoke.

The source of the smoke is still undetermined, but was believed to be caused by a dust or lint build-up in a heating duct. A search of the entire courthouse complex was conducted and the point of origin was never found.

Firemen remained at the scene until 9:40 p.m. There were no injuries.

Jury Selection For Murder Trial Affects Many

A change of venue murder case being held in Garrett County Circuit Court has affected several local citizens this week, as the jury selection for the case spanned two full days and involved 120 people. The choosing of the 14-member jury was finalized late Tuesday, and the trial for Robert Bedford, 28, Baltimore, began Wednesday morning.

Bedford is charged with first degree murder and rape of a 57-year-old Catonsville woman, Florence Joan Jung. Counts of burglary and theft have also been lodged against Bedford, stemming from the same incident. The crime occurred on Nov. 2, 1986, at the residence of Ms. Jung.

Security has reportedly increased at the Garrett County Jail since Bedford has been incarcerated, as the defendant himself warned local police officers that if the opportunity presented itself, he would attempt to escape from custody. As many as six policemen were present at the courthouse for the first day of the trial, according to reports.

The honorable Judge Fred A. Thayer is presiding at the trial, which is scheduled to continue until late next week.

Manning, Lucas Sex Offense Case Heard In Court

Oakland residents Roberta Manning, 34, and Randy R. Lucas, 19, went before Judge Fred A. Thayer last Friday to face charges of child abuse and sex offenses. Both Manning and Lucas were allegedly involved in the ongoing sexual abuse of a 14-year-old male occurring over several months in 1990.

Roberta Manning pleaded guilty to child abuse after a plea agreement, according to the court document. Judge Thayer accepted the plea and ordered a pre-sentence investigation. Manning's bail was revoked, by order of the court, and she was remanded to the Garrett County Sheriff.

Charges against Manning that were not prosecuted were second degree rape, second degree sex offense, unnatural and perverted sex practice, and incest. The charges were brought against the defendant on October 31, 1990, when police received a tip that sexual abuse was occurring to the 14-year-old boy.

Also charged at that time was Manning's husband, Donald W. Manning Sr. Manning has yet to face his charges of child abuse and sex offenses, as his trial was continued last Friday, according to the court document.

John R. Toston defended Mrs. Manning.

Randy Lucas pleaded guilty to second degree sex offense. Thayer accepted the plea and ordered a pre-sen-

Farm Accident Claims Life Of Oakland Boy

A farm accident near the Mellott Road Monday claimed the life of a four-year-old Oakland boy who was visiting his foster grandparents, according to reports filed by the Maryland State Police, McHenry Detachment. The boy was struck and run over by a bulldozer in a farm lane.

Tilton Lee DeWitt Jr. died at the scene as the result of severe head injuries sustained in the 11:15 a.m. accident.

The mishap occurred when Harold Homer Mellott, 62, Oakland, was removing snow from a farm lane off the Mellott Road with a Case 350 bulldozer. The boy was reportedly pushing a bicycle behind the bulldozer and Mellott was unaware he was there. The bulldozer became stuck and then backed up knocking the boy down and running over his head, according to investigating officer, Tfc. R.T. Wilson.

Responding to the scene were the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad and the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, according to a spokesman from Garrett County Emergency Management.

Born December 26, 1986, in Oakland, Tilton DeWitt Jr. was a son of Milton Charles DeWitt Sr. and Donna (Schramm) DeWitt.

Also surviving are one brother, Nicky Allen DeWitt, and one sister, Vannessa Jean DeWitt, both at home; two half-brothers, Milton C. DeWitt Jr., Frostburg; and Daniel A. DeWitt, Oakland; one half-sister, Mrs. Billi Jo Harman, Oakland; paternal grandmother, Mrs. Ocie B. DeWitt, Oakland; maternal grandparents, Walter Schramm, Ringwood, N.J., and Karen and Alden Walden, North Plainfield, N.J.

Friends were received in the Durst Funeral Home, Oakland. A service will be conducted today at 2 p.m. at the Crellin Assembly of God Church with the Rev. Ray Beahm and the Rev. Harold Harman officiating.

Interment will follow in the Taylor-Sines Cemetery.

The family requests that in lieu of flowers, memorials be directed to the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad or the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department.

Edwards Seeks Commissioner Input On Education Board

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards has introduced a bill (House Bill 553) that would allow the chairperson of the Garrett County Board of Commissioners to serve as an ex-officio member on the Garrett County Board of Education. He sponsored the bill following a request from the county commissioners' office in an attempt to alleviate the "negative public debate" that has occurred between the two boards in the past, according to Edwards.

Edwards explained that an ex-officio position would be a non-paid, non-voting position but would allow the commissioners' board to have more access to and direct input into the decisions made by the education board.

"I also feel the commissioners should be more involved in the decisions of the school board because of the large amount of the county budget that goes to them," stated Edwards.

"Hopefully, issues will then be ironed out before the two boards get into a public debate over them," he added.

Brenda Butscher is the chairperson of the Board of County Commissioners.

In other news from the delegate's office, it was announced that he has also introduced a bill (HB 533) that would exempt a vehicle carrying wooden pre-fabricated roof trusses from the current load extension limits which are set at 10 feet.

The bill would extend that length to 12 feet, meaning that the load may extend 12 feet beyond the rear of the vehicle.

In addition, the law now stated that the trusses must be loaded in an inverted manner, with the flat side down. When the trusses are unloaded, they must then be turned right side up.

The bill would allow for "safer hauling mechanisms," said Edwards, because the weight would then be more evenly distributed on the vehicle.

The bill was introduced following a request made to Edwards by representatives of Rigidply Rafters, Inc., Pleasant Valley.

Edwards has also recently introduced a bill (HB 614) that would make it a separate criminal offense to use a rifle, pistol, shotgun, revolver, or any other assault weapon in the commission of a felony or a violent crime. The bill would also apply specific penalties for the offense.

It is scheduled for a hearing before the House Judiciary Committee Thursday, February 14, at 1 p.m.

Rep. Byron To Hold Meeting In Oakland Feb. 14

Rep. Beverly Byron (D-MD) will be in Garrett County next Thursday, February 14, to hold a Town Meeting at the Oakland Town Hall beginning at 5 p.m. The meeting is scheduled to last for an hour-and-a-half and is an open forum for all constituents to speak on issues of concern to them with the congresswoman.

While in Garrett County, Mrs. Byron will also be holding separate meetings with the county commissioners and the Garrett Central Committee. She will also be presenting a check for part of the proceeds from the annual Byron-Holly Hills Charity Golf Tournament to Habitat for Humanity at a 4 p.m. ceremony at the Oakland Town Hall.

The following day Mrs. Byron will be making several stops in Allegany County.

Hung Jury Results In Life Term For Tichnell

The trial of Richard Danny Tichnell in Calvert County Circuit Court was declared a mistrial by order of presiding Judge Thomas A. Rymer yesterday, resulting in a life sentence for the defendant. Tichnell was convicted of first-degree murder ten years ago after slaying Garrett County Deputy Sheriff David Livengood on Jan. 18, 1979.

The jury was to decide if Tichnell would be sentenced to death, or given life in prison. According to a Calvert Co. Circuit Court spokesperson, the jury could not decide and was declared hung, which according to the law results in a life sentence for the defendant.

Tichnell will most likely be eligible for parole at an undetermined point in time, according to the spokesperson. The defendant had been sentenced to die three times in the past decade, successfully appealing each sentence.

Child Passenger Safety Awareness Week Supported By State Police

Maryland State Police are joining federal, state and local highway safety experts for National Child Passenger Safety Awareness Week in Maryland from February 10 through 16. The theme for this year's observance, "It's as simple as ABC (Always Buckle Children)" underscores the life saving benefits of properly securing and positioning children in child safety seats. The majority of the seven child deaths recorded on Maryland highways last year could have been avoided if each child had been properly secured.

"It doesn't take a crash to cause serious injury among unrestrained children," stated Deborah Baer, president, Maryland Child Passenger Safety Association. Appearing on the Maryland State Police Radio Program, a weekly public service broadcast, Baer called on parents to buckle their children.

"A sudden stop can throw a child around a vehicle with the force equivalent to dropping the child from a third floor window," Baer added. The Maryland Child Passenger Safety Association is hoping this year's awareness campaign will improve correct use of child safety seats. The association is reminding parents to perform a three point safety check before

Sharer Sentences Convicted Rapist To Shorter Term

Robert D. Smith, 22, Deer Park, was given a new trial in Garrett County Circuit Court after a previous ten-year sentence handed down to him on rape charges was stricken in October. The retrial occurred because of a flaw in the plea agreement which prompted Smith's lawyer, Robert C. Hesson, to advise the defendant to withdraw his guilty plea and request a new trial.

Judge Fred Sharer presided at the trial last week, at which time Smith pleaded guilty to second degree rape. Judge Sharer accepted the plea, and ordered the defendant to serve five years in the Maryland Department of Corrections. The judge then suspended two years of the sentence and ordered the balance of the term be served in the Garrett County Jail.

Smith reportedly raped a 14-year-old female in December 1989, and was charged with second degree rape, third degree sex offense, and assault and battery. The defendant had originally pleaded not guilty to the charges in the summer of 1990, then changed his plea to guilty in August after a plea agreement was apparently settled upon by the State's Attorney's office and the defendant's lawyer.

DESERT STORM SUPPORT GROUP FORMING — Family members of the local troops now serving in the Persian Gulf are forming a support group which will employ the assistance of Garrett Counseling, Inc. The first meeting is scheduled to be held Thursday, February 7, at 7 p.m. More information may be obtained by calling Garrett Counseling at 334-2281. Shown above are some of the members of the support group who have already "unofficially" met to distribute yellow ribbons to businesses in the downtown Oakland areas. The event was organized by Kim Flanagan, Oakland. Pictured above, left to right, are Christy Stoner, Jessica Stoner, Faye Bittinger, Shelly Stoner Upole, Freddie R. GNB Names Hospice As Recipient Of Charity Golf Tourney Proceeds

Garrett National Bank announced recently the recipient of the 1991 Charity Golf Tournament proceeds. This year's recipient will be Hospice of Garrett County, Inc.

This will be the third annual tournament and is scheduled for Friday, July 26, 1991, at the Oakland Country Club.

Milford E. Beckman, president of Garrett National Bank, stated, "Our criteria involves a local charity that is primarily funded with local monies. In the past two years, we have raised in excess of $24,000 for Garrett Organization for the Handicapped and the Children's Book Fund at the Ruth Enlow Library. This year we hope to be equally successful."

Brenda Butscher, executive director of Hospice, and Wayne Johnson, president of Hospice, both stated how pleased they were with the bank's decision to give the proceeds to Hospice.

"In view of financial changes taking place now with additional salary expenses not incurred before, this could not have come at a better time. As everyone knows, prices continue to go up and now that we must employ our own registered nurse, these proceeds will help greatly. We are very appreciative of Garrett National Bank's choice this year," said the Hospice representatives.

Voters League Hears County Health Officer

Dr. Rex Archer, Garrett County health officer, was the speaker at the January 28 public meeting of the Garrett County League of Women Voters.

Among the health department functions and goals noted by Archer were assessment monitoring and surveillance of local health problems, and the resources needed for dealing with these problems.

He also spoke of policy development and leadership to assure that high-quality services for the protection of public health in the community are available and accessible to all persons. He said the health department is also responsible for informing the public about the health services available, and seeing that the community receives proper consideration in the allocation of federal, state, and local funds for public health.

Dr. Archer, who assumed the local health officer post in April of last year, said that when he arrived the Garrett County Health Department had no mission statement. One has since been written and the staff of 85 is now using the slogan "Working Together for a Healthier Tomorrow."

During a question and answer session, it was noted by Dr. Archer that Maryland has one of the highest cancer rates in the nation, that the percentage of substance abuse (alcohol and drugs) is higher in Garrett County schools than in Baltimore City, and that local incidents of teen prostitution have been noted.

Frostburg Man Found Guilty On Theft Charges

A Frostburg man was found guilty on three counts of theft by Judge Jack R. Turney in Garrett County District Court proceedings last week, according to court records.

James F. Braunschweiger, 18, was sentenced to three years in the Maryland Department of Corrections for each count of theft. Judge Turney suspended all the jail time except for time already served by Braunschweiger.

Additionally, Braunschweiger was fined $50 on each count and was ordered to serve three years of supervised probation. In a plea agreement with the State's Attorney's Office, two counts of malicious destruction of property were not prosecuted.

Braunschweiger had been charged stemming from an October 6, 1990, incident at Deep Creek Lake when he reportedly attempted to steal a 1987 Ford Bronco owned by James Pritts, a 1988 Pelican paddleboat owned by Harry F. Dunkin, and a 1986 Oldsmobile belonging to John Franz Jr. He allegedly damaged both vehicles.

In other District Court news, Roy F. Arnold, 57, Oakland, was found guilty of one count of theft. He was given a 90-day suspended jail term, fined $50, and ordered to serve six months of unsupervised probation.

Arnold had been charged with theft on October 11, 1990, when he stole $72.33 worth of merchandise from L.A. Joe in Mtn. Lake Park. A store employee told police he witnessed Arnold placing the items under his coat. When confronted, Arnold allegedly admitted to taking the articles.

Brian L. Kidwell, 24, Lonaconing, was found guilty of theft and handed a 90-day suspended jail term. He was also ordered to pay a $50 fine and was placed on six months of unsupervised probation.

He had been charged on October 16, 1990, when he was reportedly observed taking a pair of pantyhose from the shelf at Buckel's Store in Bittinger and then attempted to obtain money by returning them to the cashier. He also admitted to the theft when confronted by the store manager.

Todd T. Moore, 27, and Morris R. Yeager, 28, both of Cynthiana, Ky., were each found guilty on possession of a controlled dangerous substance and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Both men were given a 90-day jail term (all but 48 hours was suspended), $100 fines, and six months of unsupervised probation.

The men were arrested on October 15, 1990, by the Department of Natural Resources Police at New Germany State Park when they were found to have marijuana and CDS paraphernalia in their possession.

Clayton L. Donham, 33, Mtn. Lake Park, was found guilty of possession of a controlled dangerous substance. Judge Turney sentenced him to 30 days in jail (all but 48 hours was suspended), fined him $50, and placed him on six months of unsupervised probation.

In a plea agreement with the State, a charge of possession of CDS paraphernalia was not prosecuted. A third charge of driving while license is suspended was also not prosecuted because Donham produced evidence that his license was valid at the time of his arrest.

Donham had been charged on April 21, 1990, during a traffic violation stop by the Maryland State Police. A subsequent search of his car revealed a plastic bag and a pipe containing marijuana.

A 17-year-old juvenile (tried as an adult) from Deer Park was found guilty of one count of malicious destruction of property. In a plea agreement, a second charge of destruction of property was placed on the stet docket.

The young man had been charged as the result of two incidents in September of 1990. On September 1 he had been charged with destroying a 1979 Chrysler belonging to Edward Henn Sr., Deer Park. On September 10, during Circuit Court proceedings, he reportedly destroyed a lamp on the defense counsel's table.

He was sentenced to 60 days in jail with credit for time served and ordered to pay a $50 fine.

At a sentence revision hearing last week, Steven J. Beitzel, 27, Grantsville, was given probation before judgment in lieu of his initial sentence handed down last July that included a six-month suspended jail term, a $50 fine, and one year of supervised probation.

At that time, Beitzel had been found guilty of one count of second-degree rape. A total of 14 other counts against Beitzel were not prosecuted because of a plea agreement.

The other charges included four additional counts of second-degree rape, five counts of child abuse, and five counts of battery.

Beitzel had been charged stemming from incidents that occurred between December of 1989 and May of 1990 when he allegedly had vaginal intercourse with a female under the age of 14.

In another sentence revision hearing, Jonathan L. Miller, 24, Keyser, W.Va., was given probation before judgment after initially being found guilty of possession of marijuana. At the earlier sentencing in October of 1990, he was sentenced to 60 days in jail (all but 48 hours was suspended), given a $50 fine, and placed on six months of unsupervised probation.

Miller had been charged on June 2, 1990, by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department when a deputy witnessed him smoking marijuana in the parking lot of Stonehenge Lounge on U.S. Route 40, east of Grantsville.

Steven F. Durst, 37, Oakland, had a charge of theft against him placed on the stet docket.

Durst had been charged with theft by the Oakland Radio Station Corporation which alleged that Durst had stolen cash and cash receipts from May through August of 1989. Gary Daniels, co-owner of the station, told police that Durst had taken $1,764 from a total of $4,365 for a promotional concert tour and transportation fund.

At an October hearing, Durst's attorney asked the court for credits in the amount of $650-$750 for money owed to Durst by the radio station. The judge granted those credits pending the outcome of the case, according to court documents.

Robert D. Albert, 32, Oakland, had a charge of endangering others while intoxicated and a charge of assault against him placed on the stet docket at the request of the victim, Patricia J. Chapman. The judge ordered Albert to stay away from Chapman.

Albert had been charged stemming from a September 20, 1990, incident when he reportedly became drunk and threatened Chapman and her family at her home.

David A. Duda, 26, Canonsburg, Pa., had a charge of impersonating a police officer placed on the stet docket.

Duda had been charged on June 26, 1990, by the DNR police following a boating accident on Deep Creek Lake. At that time, he produced identification stating that he was a police officer with the Cecil Township Police Department in Pennsylvania.

Jamie D. Martin, 18, Gormania, W.Va., had a charge of trespassing against him placed on the stet docket. He had been charged with trespassing on August 11, 1990, by Browning's Foodland, Inc. The judge advised him to stay off Browning's property on off-business hours.

Clayton L. Cox, 28, and Edward J. Rippon, 30, both of Baltimore, each were found not guilty of CDS possession and CDS paraphernalia possession charges lodged against them on July 13, 1990, by the DNR police. Both men had been arrested at Swallow Falls State Park when a park ranger observed them smoking marijuana. However, the State was unable to prove its case against the pair.

CRANESVILLE AREA HOUSE LEVELED — The residence of John and Diane Wolfe, located at Lake Ford near Cranesville, was leveled by fire last Thursday afternoon after sparks from a chimney apparently ignited the roof of the two-story house. High winds caused the blaze to spread so rapidly that, upon arrival by fire fighters, the structure was fully involved in flames. See story.

Edwards' Bill May Lead To Negotiating Fee For Teachers

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards this week introduced a bill (HB 642) that seeks to authorize the Garrett County Board of Education to negotiate a service or representation fee with the employee organization that is the exclusive representative for public school employees.

The intent of the bill was explained by District 1 Senator John Hafer, who also supports the bill. "It is important to note," he said, "that this is strictly enabling legislation, and not a mandate. It puts the responsibility where it belongs -- with the school board."

Hafer further explained that the bill will include amendments that "grandfather out" any certified teacher who does not currently belong to an employee organization. The bill does not apply to custodial or cafeteria staff workers who are represented by their own negotiating organizations.

Hafer stated that the bill was introduced at the request of the Garrett County Teachers' Association. He explained that the bill gives the board of education the option of negotiating with an employee organization but does not make it necessary for them to do so.

"Washington County has had that same authority for five years and has not opted to use it," he stated.

Abortion Issue Addressed Early In Gen. Assembly

The Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee approved a bill this week that would keep most abortions in Maryland available but would also require that a parent be notified before a minor has an abortion. The Senate will now begin debates on the issue of abortion.

Members of the House Environmental Matters and the Senate Judicial Proceedings committees last week listened for a total of five hours to testimony on 12 bills relating to the abortion issue -- an issue that failed to be resolved during the 1990 session even after the Senate was stalled with eight days of anti-abortion filibustering.

In order to deal with the abortion issue more effectively this year, the legislature scheduled the emotional issue early in the session, according to reports, which also indicate that other dominant issues must share the stage this year. Those issues include a state budget shortfall, tax restructuring and land growth.

While abortion-rights proponents have reportedly promised to fight against the parental notification clause of the bill, abortion opponents will attempt to add even more restrictions.

The bill approved this week would allow abortion until the time in pregnancy when the fetus can survive outside the womb. After that time, an abortion would be allowed only if the mother's health or life were endangered or if the fetus were deformed.

Despite legislators' attempts to expedite the process of passing an acceptable abortion law, reports indicate lengthy delibrations will take place on the Senate floor.

Hafer Opposes State-Ordered 40-Hour Week

District One Senator John Hafer has co-sponsored an emergency action bill that seeks to suspend Governor William Donald Schaefer's recent executive order requiring state employees to extend their work week from 35 and 1/2 hours to 40 hours per week.

Word was received today that, because of a deluge of complaints from state workers, the executive order by Governor Schaefer was rescinded and the 35 and 1/2 hour week was temporarily restored. Schaefer reportedly stated that more time was needed for the workers to adjust to the 40-hour work week.

Governor Schaefer signed an executive order earlier this month that will require about two-thirds of all state employees to work a 40-hour week with no extra pay. The order was made in an attempt to offset the state budget shortfall.

Based on the number of calls and letters Hafer reportedly received from state employees in his voting district protesting the order, Hafer joined forces with Senator Mary H. Boegers (D-Montgomery) to introduce the emergency legislation.

The bill would suspend the executive order until July 1, 1992, and would also call for a detailed account of the savings by the state if the order takes effect.

Ban On PAC Contributions

Both the House and Senate presidents this week proposed a limit on political action campaign (PAC) contributions, as well as a ban on campaign fund raising by lobbyists in Maryland, based on reports that such special interest groups were too influential in the lawmaking process and in the election of state officials.

Specifically, the proposal (introduced by Senate President Thomas V. Mike Miller Jr. and House Speaker R. Clayton Mitchell Jr.) would place an $8,000 limit on PAC contributions; would require lobbyists to disclose all gifts, meals and presents to any official by name, place and amount; prohibit the sale of fundraising tickets by lobbyists; and ban them from serving as officers of political action committees or on a candidate's finance committee.

The bills will be introduced in both houses.

According to a report issued recently by Common Cause of Maryland, PAC contributions to incumbent lawmakers in Maryland rose 71% during the last four years, and resulted in contributions of over $3 million to General Assembly candidates during the 1990 election.

No New Welfare Recipients

Governor William Donald Schaefer recently signed a proposal that would prevent any new clients from being accepted into the state welfare system during the current fiscal year, reportedly citing the fact that the state cannot afford to support the growing number of welfare-eligible individuals.

The proposal, initiated by the state Department of Human Resources, also calls for the state's disability payment program to toughen its eligibility standards. A program that pays lawyers to represent low-income clients in 12 rural counties would also be eliminated.

The cuts are reportedly designed to offset a $9.4 million shortfall in the public assistance program, which is designed to benefit individuals who do not qualify for federal welfare programs.

Off-road vehicles

The House Judiciary Committee recently considered a bill that would allow police to seize any off-road vehicle used to trespass on private or state property, and would increase the maximum fine for the offense from $250 to $1,000.

The legislation was reportedly drafted in response to reports of teen-agers recklessly driving motorized two- and three-wheeled vehicles on city streets and school grounds in urban areas. In rural areas, damage to crops and terrain have been reported, according to Maryland Farm Bureau's John Miller, a supporter of the bill.

Reports have also indicated that youths often act as couriers for drug dealers while operating the vehicles.

Cigarette Access

Three bills aimed at making the purchase of cigarettes more difficult for minors have been proposed recently by a coalition of Maryland health groups. The tax on a pack of cigarettes would also be raised by 20 cents under the proposed legislation.

One bill would ban all vending machines that contain cigarettes; another would limit the machines to bars and places where minors are not allowed, and a third would require that the machines be operated only with tokens that could be purchased over the counter.

The bills will be considered by the Ways and Means Committee.

A spokesperson for the tobacco industry reportedly stated that the bills were being proposed merely to "hassle" adult smokers.

NEIGHBORLY ASSISTANCE -- Several members of the Amish community in Pleasant Valley responded to R&S Enterprises this morning after the business, located along U.S. Rt. 219 south of Oakland, caught fire and was ultimately destroyed. Above, they assist the owners of R&S by carrying numerous items out of the burning structure.

Incidents Of Theft, Breaking, Entering Reported To Police

Three incidents of breaking, entering, and theft were recently reported to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, according to police documents. The losses suffered by two individuals totalled over $1,000 in property damage and stolen articles.

A meter reader for the Potomac Edison Company noticed during his rounds that an unoccupied trailer, owned by David A. Monahan Sr., Baltimore, and located on Foxtown Road, had evidently been broken into sometime between Jan. 1 and Feb. 1. The employee contacted the Sheriff's Office after he saw that the front door of the trailer had been pried open.

Dep. C. Feller inspected the area and reported that the door was indeed standing open, causing the furnace to run continuously. He also reported that cabinets and drawers in the home had been opened, and that damage had been done to the aluminum door and door frame.

A microwave was apparently stolen at the time of the break-in, as well as a television set. Total losses in damage and stolen property were estimated at $847.

In a separate incident, two cabins at the Piney Mountain Hunting Club were reportedly broken into during the week of Jan. 20 to 26.

At the hunting camp of James Elsey, Oakland, unknown culprits gained entry to the cabin by breaking the garage door, causing $100 in damage to the door jamb. Once inside, the culprits reportedly ransacked closets and drawers. They removed a $150 cassette player and a $50 stereo.

Dep. D. Crossland investigated the crime, and reported that the suspects apparently slept in two beds in the cabin. He also reported that the culprits apparently attempted to start a Dodge Ram Charger parked beside the cabin, as well as an International Scout. The attempts were unsuccessful, however.

Another cabin near Elsey's was also broken into, according to the report. The cabin is owned by Elaine Dugan, and was unoccupied during the time of the incidents. The suspects apparently gained entry by breaking a small window and reaching inside to unlock the door.

To date, there have been no items reported missing by Ms. Dugan. An investigation is continuing into the crimes.

Gary Galloway, principal of Friendsville Elementary School, reported a destruction of property incident at the school to the Sheriff's Office this week. He told police that an unknown vandal had apparently shattered a window with some sort of blunt object.

Friendsville Elementary has suffered numerous acts of vandalism recently, according to the police report. An investigation into the incidents is continuing.

Various Cases Heard In G.C. Circuit Court

Several cases have been heard in Garrett County Circuit Court recently, involving persons charged with controlled dangerous substance (CDS) violations, theft, and escape from custody.

James L. Nicholas, 26, Deer Park, pleaded guilty to a charge of manufacture of a CDS and one of possession of drug paraphernalia.

Judge Fred A. Thayer accepted the guilty plea and ordered a pre-sentence investigation. Nicholas's bail was continued.

The charges against the defendant stemmed from an Oct. 1990 search and seizure of his home, executed by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force. At the time of the search, officers recovered marijuana plants and seeds, as well as a gram scale and other CDS paraphernalia. Other charges made at the time that were not prosecuted included possession of marijuana and possession with the intent to manufacture.

Defense counsel for Nicholas was John R. Toston.

Randall L. Spangler, 24, Accident, pleaded guilty to a theft charge in circuit court last week. Thayer accepted the plea and committed Spangler to one year in the Garrett County Jail.

Thayer then suspended the term and ordered two years of supervised probation.

The theft charge against Spangler stemmed from a Nov. 1990 incident at which time he apparently broke into the G & W Lumber with an accomplice. The two men then removed items worth over $2,000 from the place of business.

Robert E. Watson represented the defendant.

Richard R. Reynolds, 25, Baltimore, pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of marijuana. Judge Thayer accepted the plea and ordered a pre-sentence investigation. Bail was set at $1,000, and Reynolds was released from custody.

The possession charge was lodged against Reynolds in June 1990 when park rangers at Deep Creek Lake State Park observed the defendant in the act of smoking the illegal substance. The rangers then made the arrest.

Reynolds had no counsel, according to the court document.

Two young men were tried on escape charges last week. Judge Thayer presided at one hearing while Judge Fred Sharer presided at the other.

Brian K. Miller, 18, Cumberland, allegedly escaped from the Backbone Mountain Youth Center on Oct. 25, 1990. He pleaded guilty to the charge of escape, which Thayer accepted.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered and bail was revoked. John R. Toston defended Miller.

James F. Braunschweiger, 18, Frostburg, pleaded guilty to Judge Sharer to the charge of escape. Sharer accepted the plea and committed the defendant to the Garrett County Jail, reducing the term to time already served. Braunschweiger has served 109 days, according to the court document.

Sharer also ordered three years of supervised probation.

The escape charge was given to the defendant after he left the Meadow Mtn. Youth Center on Oct. 5, 1990.

John R. Toston represented the defendant.

Sex Offense

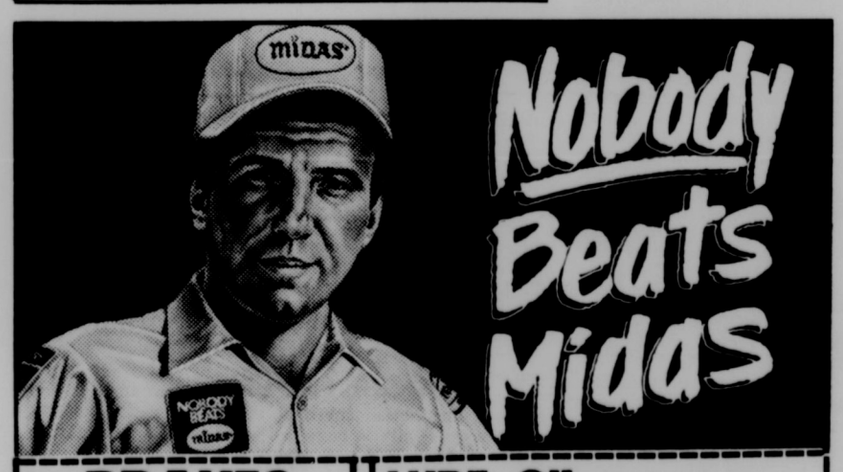
tence investigation. Lucas's bail was revoked.

Lucas was also charged with third degree sex offense and unnatural and perverted sex practice. These charges were not prosecuted.



Charges against Lucas stemmed from his apparent sexual abuse of the same 14-year-old. When asked when and where the abuse occurred, Lucas reportedly said that it often happened during boy scout meetings in a hidden area. Lucas was the leader of the scout troop, according to the court document.

Defense counsel for Lucas was Robert C. Hesson.

A Victory? . . .

The Maryland Classified Employees Association is celebrating this week because Governor Schaefer has decided to postpone his executive order that state employees work 40 hours instead of 35 and one-half hours per week. The state workers were originally supposed to begin working a 40-hour week, without additional pay, effective February 6. About two-thirds of the state's employees now work a 35 and one-half hour week.

Governor Schaefer maintains that the longer workweek without the additional pay would save the state about $52 million. The MCEA stated, however, that the longer workweek would "cause a further financial strain on employees, and disruptions in their child-care arrangements, schedules for part-time jobs, and other responsibilities." The MCEA president, Joel Dan Lehman, added, "We understand that the State is in a serious financial crisis. But it's very unfair to squarely balance the budget on the backs of State employees, who already will lose a cost-of-living adjustment, salary increments, and a health-care benefit."

We would like to remind President Lehman and the other state employees that the financial crisis the state is experiencing has a negative effect on ALL of its citizens, not just state employees. Those of us in the private sector, who are already working at least 40, and sometimes considerably more, hours per week are also experiencing financial strain, and many of us have no automatic cost-of-living adjustments and salary increments. Many have NO health benefits or retirement whatsoever provided by their employers, primarily because their employers can't afford to provide them.

Most employees in the private sector also do not get an average of one paid holiday per month as state employees do.

We wonder what many now-retired workers of just three or four decades ago, whose average workweek was probably 50 or more hours, think of a 35 and one-half hour workweek, and all of the "hardships" it would cause today's state employees if they had to expand their workweek to 40 hours.

Is this just sour grapes, or jealousy on our part? Perhaps. On the one hand, the MCEA should be congratulated for successfully defending their stand and the benefits of their members. However, the rest of us taxpayers should have some say and we should be allowed to question all of this since we are among those paying the salaries of our state employees.

Gov. Schaefer Speaks Out

STRAIGHT TALK FROM THE STATE HOUSE
by Governor William Donald Schaefer

I remember as a young boy listening to the radio, and hearing the president of the United States talking about the state of the nation. Not everyone liked what the president, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, had to say. Those were very difficult times, and his news wasn't always good. But he talked to us anyway, and gave us some straight talk during those fireside chats. I think we need more of that kind of straight talk today.

People are wondering a lot these days about state government, how it is run, how decisions are made. I hear people on radio talk shows, and see the letters they send me, so I know there are many concerns. I also know there are a lot of misconceptions, sometimes because people only hear half the story. There are two big points I want to clear up, because I think it's important especially now, when we are in the middle of a difficult period with the budget, that everyone get the whole story.

I've gotten the reputation in four years as a "tax and spend" governor, a label that suggests all I have done is raise taxes and spend the money freely. That's not the way it is. In over four years, I have approved only one tax increase. That was in 1987: I had just come in office, and the overriding sentiment was that we needed a five-cent per gallon increase on gasoline. I signed the legislation, and we used the money to start some badly needed transportation projects. That money was spent on some really basic projects — new roads, bridges, mass transit systems. Every area of the state benefited from that increase, so that we could provide our citizens the safest travel possible. It was a wise investment.

Since 1987, no other state taxes have been raised — not one. All of the money we have spent was generated from revenues, allowing us to meet all our responsibilities without raising taxes.

Secondly, I can't spend any money on my own. That may be hard for some people to believe, but it's true. I can't spend a penny without approval from the legislature. Each year I come up with a budget for the state, a proposed spending plan that includes my thoughts about what our priorities should be. Then your senators and delegates look at every single line and decide what they like and don't like about it. We don't always agree on every point, but the legislators have the final word.

Finally, a word about the budget we're preparing for the new fiscal year, and the budget we're operating in right now. The recession that's affecting every state is also affecting Maryland. Revenues are down, and mandated programs the federal government says we have to support, like Medicaid, are way up. We have kept on top of our budget by cutting more than $400 million in programs and initiatives. They have been painful cuts, but we have tried to make the best decisions we can, having every area of state government take its share of cuts. People are always telling me that government is too big, that it needs to be cut. Government has been cut back — to the bone.

Please take the time to look at the facts about your state government. If you have any thoughts you would like to share with me, I want to hear from you. Write me: Governor William Donald Schaefer, State House, Annapolis, MD 21401.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

This quote was brought to my attention and I feel that it is worthy of passing on.

"Every gun that is made, every warship launched, every rocket fired signifies, in the final sense, a theft from those who hunger and are not fed, those who are cold and are not clothed. This world in arms is not spending money alone. It is spending the sweat of its laborers, the genius of its scientists, the hopes of its children . . . This is not a way of life at all in any true sense. Under the cloud of threatening war, it is humanity hanging from a cross of iron."

To the Editor:

I'm sitting here tonight, trying to put my finger on just what it is that sets the Iraqis apart from the rest of the world and renders them so despicable that we feel compelled to bomb them into oblivion for all time. I'm reminded of those horrible tales that told us about those fiendish Iraqi soldiers bayonetting Kuwaiti women, removing babies from incubators and turning hospitalized people out into the streets. It turned my stomach! And then I remembered why we despise them so.

It also brought back memories of a platoon of American Marines descending upon the South Vietnamese hamlet of Xuan Ngoc in September of 1966 and raping teenage girls and then shooting them in the head. And while they were at it, they gunned down entire families as they sat, bound and terrified outside their huts wondering why the valiant Americans were doing such a thing to South Vietnamese people.

And then there was My Lai or "Pinkville" as it came to be known in the Spring of 1968. Remember Lt. Calley and Charlie Company and the four hundred and thirty villagers massacred in the ditch alongside the rice paddy? It seems that we Americans and those Iraqis share a bit of common ground when it comes to meting out cruelty during times of conflict. Because "war logic" invariably clouds our perceptions of what is acceptable behavior and what is not, atrocities committed by all sides are bound to occur. War breeds ghastly behavior, whether the perpetrators be brown, black, or white, Moslem, Gentile or Jew. The point is we are all equally capable of surrendering our humanity when we allow ourselves to be "rationalized" into armed conflict.

As a former medic during the Vietnam "conflict," I was witness to what happens to soft tissue when hot metal sears through it at accelerated velocity. I recall the piteous pleading for me to, ". . . stop. Please Stop!" as I raced to pack sterile dressings on third degree white phosphorous and napalm burns before the full effect of the morphine wore off. This is the legacy that we as human beings are turning over to our children if we once again fail to grasp the absurdity of giving up on peaceful endeavors and opt for warfare as the solution to the world's problems.

There will always be dictators and despots in this world. There will always be clashes between different religions and overly intolerant politics. History has proven it so. The voice of reason must be given a chance where irrationality has taken hold or any chance for a world at peace will be lost. This end cannot be achieved by issuing ultimatums and posting deadlines. Fifty-five thousand men and women lie in their graves and it appears that we Americans have either forgotten the lesson of Vietnam or maybe we have collectively made a conscious decision to ignore the lesson altogether.

To the Editor:

I would like to commend Israel on their restraint in the Persian Gulf War.

Although they have been under attack for almost two weeks they have shown to the United States that their support of our efforts to hold the multi-national forces together has been in our best interests.

I have always been a strong supporter of Israel and as a Christian I admire their courage and fortitude against enemies past and present.

When the war is finally ended it is my prayer that God's chosen people will be treated fairly in regards to the Palestinian question and that the United States will continue to recognize Israel's right to the occupied territories.

In the Holy Bible, Genesis 15:18-21, God made a covenant with Abraham that not only the occupied lands but others as well would be Israel's forever.

If you believe the word of God to be the absolute truth then you will agree that Israel is the key to America's being blessed or cursed.

Genesis 12:3 clearly describes God's pronouncement that those that bless Israel will be blessed and those that curse Israel will be cursed.

I sincerely hope that a future Mid-East peace conference will protect Israel's sovereignty and protect her from those who would try to circumvent God's commandment.

Let us pray for the peace of Israel and that the Arabs will see that the one True Living God has Israel in the palm of His hand and that He will intercede on behalf of Israel and defeat their enemies.

As prophecy continues to be fulfilled, I believe that Jesus Christ is about to return and to begin His thousand year reign on David's throne in Jerusalem.

World, if you want peace in the Middle East stop rebelling against God's covenant promise that the Jews have the inherent right to the land between the two great rivers in the promised land in the Middle East!

To the Editor:

In this recent war conflict, I have become very upset with a topic that has been televised.

I am a non-smoker; however, I am very alarmed with the issue of the non-smoking rules, especially those pertaining to the veteran hospitals.

I find it very disturbing that the men and women who have fought for our freedom, who have fought for our freedom, who have returned home injured and miamed are now having one more priviledge taken from them.

I'm sure there are people who cannot tolerate cigarette smoke, but I think there could have been a room set aside for those who do smoke. I think it's a shame that the ones who once fought for our freedom do not have the freedom to smoke a cigarette.

I think it's sad that our veterans have to stand out in frigid temperatures to enjoy their right to smoke. I feel sure if we were to fill their shoes, we would then understand that cigarettes are mostly a crutch or a way to calm one's nerves.

The thing that troubles me most about this is, worldwide, you can daily see protestors burning our American Flag, and we're told this is their freedom of expression. Meanwhile, some where in another part of our country our American veterans aren't allowed to smoke a cigarette. I truly feel we should get our priorities straight.

And just who are these protestors? Don't they have jobs or responsibilities? Not the average person could afford to miss work to protest, so what kind of life do these people lead?

Other countries would not tolerate such an act, but because we have men and women who are willing to fight for our freedom, these few are allowed to disgrace their country. I think Merle Haggard said it best in his song "Fightin Side Of Me." If you don't love it, leave it!

Well, before I close, there is something I've wanted to do for a long time. I'd like to take this opportunity to personally thank all Vietnam veterans, for they have been our true un-sung heroes. They should "Walk Tall and Proud" and we should hang our heads in shame!

Meanwhile, support our troops in Operation Desert Storm, and God bless America!

Sincerely,
Connie L. Miller

In response to your Article about Garrett Bassers last week, the paper states that Mr. Hamrick won the Garrett County Mr. Bass title. We know of no such title existing.

There may be a Garrett Bassers' Mr. Bass, but not for the county. We also have a bass club in Garrett County and there is no limit on the amount of clubs or Mr. Bass titles a county have. Please research your articles about bass clubs more thoroughly before stating things you have little knowledge of as fact.

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to the article about the Garrett Bassers Association concerning Karl Hamrick, Anthony Hamrick, and Frank Cummings.

I can understand some of your (Hamricks,' Cummings') bitterness towards the Garrett Bassers Association. But the truth of the matter is that a change in by-laws provides for a yearly vote on membership of "all members." A majority vote against a member automaticly releases that person from the club. I must remind you that when the by-laws were made there were no protests from any of you. In fact, the vote was unaminous in favor of the by-laws. Any member could have been released from the club. I'm sure I received some no votes myself.

Karl, Anthony, and Frank were released for no other reason. Beliefs by some club members and your actions towards those beliefs may have given you more no votes than you suspected you would receive. Whatever actions you three take against the Garrett Bassers Association, if any, will be handled with the above reasons as rebuttal.

I must tell you I am disappointed in the recent article in The Republican, who inevitably was the victim for printing misguided information, such as there being a Garrett County Mr. Bass representative, which is totally wrong. There can be any number of clubs and Mr. Basses from every county We know there is at least one other club in Garrett County. Some counties have many clubs and each has a Mr. Bass.

It was your right to publicly bring out what we had decided to keep private.

As you know our meetings are on tape and we plan to release all tapes that pertain to this matter to the "Maryland Bass Federation." We plan to pursue this matter no further.

Sincerely,
James Pocratsky

To the Editor:

It would seem the quickest way to get answers from The Garrett County Commissioners is to write a letter.

We would like some questions answered. Who approached the commissioners for a ½-mile by 40'-wide road to be constructed off Swallow Falls Road now known as Mellott Road?

We would also like to know if the three property owners who reside along this road shared in the financial cost of construction of the road bed.

We know of other roads in the county that property owners have gone to the commissioners for county miantenance with more taxpayers residing along them that were denied, because they did not meet county specifications. All some needed was some brush cut and existing road widened. These were also denied.

We know of 647 feet of road off Leighton Drive that the property owners petitioned the commissioners about. They said in order for the county to maintain this road it would have to be brought up to county specs — 50-foot right-of-way, road bed brought up to specification at cost of property owners of $4,800.00, culverts placed, and an area for a turn-around.

This is the reason for this letter. In the summer of 1990, the commissioners built a road over state-owned ground. The Roads Department sent a crew to clear timber and brush from this right-of-way. This was 40 feet wide and ½ mile long. Then they took the equipment in, cut a road bed, hauled stone for the bed, and finally tarred and chipped the road. They also erected a no-outlet sign.

Why was this road given approval? Was this construction at county expense, or did the property owners pay for culverts, stone for the road bed, etc.?

The second question we would like answered, in the 11/1/90 issue of The Republican, page A-14, John E. Hinebaugh placed an open letter to the Garrett County Commissioners. It was

The Mind Wanders

Breezes of Hope
By Mary Sincell McEwen

I love winter weather--the clean snow that crunches in the cold, the sculpted drifts with curled edges, the white fat flakes that gently waft down, turning this way and that... yes, I love winter, the slowed time of shortened days and of cozy rooms that offer comfort from the sometimes savage wind that whips about, sending white clouds of snow spiraling upward. The change of seasons keeps me on keel. I have always looked forward to each change, every year. It provides a needed sequencing in my life.

The days of late have not been very wintery, though. At first these days of spring-like warmth bothered me, just as they do every other year. I want winter during winter--I need the weather to follow the proper course. And besides wanting more winter, it is simply frustrating for even us winter-lovers to have this "teaser"--some warm days when we can smell the sweet fragrance of soaked earth and the other scents of spring while all the time knowing that snow will surely fall again before winter's end. This isn't the beginning of spring, it's only a reminder of it. Today is just February 7 and this is Garrett County--spring simply isn't here yet.

So as I walked last Sunday, breathing in the warmer air and gazing at the wispy white clouds scattered across the wide azure sky, I thought of spring and of promises. I thought that perhaps this mild weather is a promise. A promise of spring, a promise of good things to come. Spring will be here--no matter how many snows fall between now and then--spring will indeed bloom, filling our world with the color of apple blossoms and the fragrance of lilacs.

I like to think now that there are other promises in these troubled times. One promise I try to remember is that the war will end. It has to end. And even though there are bound to be bad times, horrible times, between now and then, the war will be over one day and we will get on with our lives. Hopefully, we will not suffer the loss of loved ones, but rejoice in their homecomings.

And in our own lives there are promises. Times of turmoil and stress brought on by differences between people, by prejudices, by short-sightedness and misunderstandings--these trying times will indeed pass. I think I remember these promises when I pull back from the everyday drudgeries of living so that I can see the beauty of life, the sheer wonder of it. And life is a miracle, full of promises.

So I am reminded, as the grass once bent down by the frigid snow once again stands upright and as the water from melting ice courses swiftly along the streets, I am reminded that spring will come. The war will end. These times shall pass.

LWV THE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

Are YOU Recycling With The League?

If not, why not? If so, read on for some basic guidelines.

1. Separate by type of material and color of glass:

a. GLASS: (clear, brown/amber, green — container glass only)

b. STEEL/TIN CANS: (don't forget lids and caps — use a magnet, which attracts tin and steel)

c. ALL-ALUMINUM CANS ONLY: (vs. bi-metal, which contain both steel and aluminum; again, use a magnet, which does not attract aluminum)

d. OTHER ALUMINUM: (pie pans, aluminum caps of plastic soda bottles, some cat and dog food cans, some pull-top lids to tin/steel cans, aluminum foil, etc.; again, use a magnet)

e. BI-METAL CANS: (contain steel and aluminum; use a magnet)

f. NEWSPRINT: and only newsprint (not shiny inserts, catalogs, magazines, junk mail, church/association bulletins, etc). Passing on all your unwanted paper to the League gets it out of your house, but not out of our landfill — it just creates extra work for someone else to sort it all out. Please think about what you pass on to the League.

2. Rinse out all containers! (reasons should be obvious)

3. Double-bag container glass (preferably in paper vs. plastic) or use a box!

4. Bag, box, or bind newspapers on all four sides. Newspapers brought in loose to the League office tend to scatter about and are difficult for the farmer who picks them up to handle.

5. If you want to turn in paper bags, do so separately. If you shop at Browning's Foodland, take enough paper bags back for your next shopping trip and get four cents credit for each one filled with your groceries.

6. Don't turn in styrofoam and plastic products to the League. There is no way to recycle these items in Garrett County other than reusing them, except that Oakland SuperValu now has a bin for plastic shopping bags. And don't give us your cardboard, either. Try Paul Dove of Paul Dove Enterprises.

7. Discard other glass such as mirrors, lightbulbs, beverage and serving glass, window and windshield glass, etc., in your own trash or take them to a county dumpster. These items are not recyclable with container glass because they are composed of other materials not used in container glass. If the container glass is "contaminated" with other types of glass, the recycler won't get as much money per pound and, ultimately, neither will we or anyone else who fails to recycle with care.

8. Don't throw out canning jars — someone may be able to use them again. Instead, donate them to a thrift shop, save them for a yard sale, or pass them on to someone who cans a lot (e.g., Amish women).

Food Should Not Be Sent To U.S. Troops

The Defense Logistics Agency is asking Americans to refrain from sending food products to the U.S. armed forces stationed in the Persian Gulf area.

The Agency said the request is being made for two reasons: there is a fear that terrorists might plant bombs or other explosives in food packages, such as in cookie tins; and that the U.S. Postal System is already swamped with sending critical materials, such as medical supplies.

The Agency is requesting that persons in the States send only letters, postcards, and videocasettes to the troops.

Harman Discusses Effects Of Clean Air Act On GC

Edgar Harman, director of Environmental Health Services, anticipates that the new Federal Clean Air Act will not affect Garrett County as much as the more highly developed areas of Maryland, according to a news release from the Garrett County Health Department.

The Clean Air Act of 1990 was signed into law on November 15, 1990, by President Bush. The act contains numerous provisions for controlling and reducing emission to the air. The bill seeks to reduce urban smog, cut acid rain pollution by half, increase auto emission control standards, and reduce substantially toxic chemical emissions from industrial sites. Some major provisions are: Coal burning electric power plants will be required to reduce sulfur dioxide emission by roughly one half by the year 2,000; industries must install "maximum achievable control technology" for certain chemicals by the year 2,000; new emission controls will be required on automobiles; and cleaner burning gasoline blends must be sold in cities with the worst smog problem.

Substantial progress has been achieved in improving air quality throughout Maryland since the first Air Quality Regulation went into effect in 1967, according to the release. The existing national air quality standards are met throughout the state except that carbon monoxide standards are frequently exceeded in congested areas near Bladensburg and in Baltimore City. Summertime ozone violations occur in the Baltimore and Washington, D.C. regions as well.

Garrett County will be affected by the new act in some ways. Harman expects new industries that propose air emissions will need to meet more stringent requirements. New vehicles will be more costly because of additional emission controls equipment. Electricity will become more costly as coal fired generators take steps to control their sulfur dioxide emissions. Harman does not expect vehicle inspections to extend to Garrett County; however,it is anticipated that Frederick County, and possibly Allegany County, will become involved with vehicle inspections. The Baltimore and Washington, D.C. areas have had vehicle emission inspection requirements for several years.

The main benefit of implementing the Clean Air Act will be healthier air for everyone, according to the press release.

transporting children in vehicles. Parents are urged to properly secure the child safety seat to the seat of the vehicle, harness the child in the safety seat, and properly position the safety seat.

Maryland's Child Safety Seat Law requires children under three years of age to be restrained in an approved child safety seat. Children who are three to five years of age must be positioned or secured in a safety seat or seated and properly secured in a fastened seat belt or seat belt/shoulder harness.

"The kickoff of this year's awareness campaign will involve the support of the Maryland State Firemen's Association," stated Barbara Beckett, executive director, Maryland Committee for Safety Belt Use. The organization represents fire fighters at more than 300 fire stations statewide.

The Maryland State Police Radio Program is a weekly public service broadcast carried on approximately 50 radio stations in Maryland and the District of Columbia. The program is supported by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and the Maryland Department of Transportation.

Deep Creek Lions Finalizing Plans For 18th Annual Winterfest Event

The Deep Creek Lake Lions Club is finalizing plans for the 18th annual Winterfest, slated for Feb. 22 to Mar. 3.

For 18 years, this small club has done a "lion-size job" with Garrett County's second-largest festival, according to Ed King, president of the club. He said that Winterfest has evolved from its beginnings as the Wisp Ski Patrol's "Yakapah Garbola Parade," a costume parade which celebrated the farewell to winter and a welcome to spring. The Lions Club co-sponsored Winterfest, along with the Wisp Resort, and through the years the Club has been influential in developing the present week-long festival.

Events of the past have included the world-famous Budweiser Clydesdale horses, snowmobile hill-climb races on "The Face," and the enhancement of the Yakapah Garbola parade. There have been thrills for contestants as well as spectators in the races for bikini-clad skiers and those who skied across the ice-covered pond.

Winterfest '91 has been designated as "the official Maryland Winter Event of the Season."

The Deep Creek Lake Lions Club has a membership of only 20 and has raised numerous funds for charitable causes. This Club is one of the highest-ranked in Lions International in ratio of funds raised to number of members, according to King.

"One of the most rewarding projects is the Club's blind skiers program for qualifying students from the Maryland School for the Blind," King said. "To hear one of these young children speak about being able to ski, something his or her parents wouldn't dream of doing, makes it all so special."

Wade Grove is chairman of this program which hosts five different groups of students each for a three-day visit at Wisp. Condominium owners this year donated use of their units to house the students and their adult chaperons. The children are treated to skiing, swimming, snowmobiling, and homemade ice cream, among other activities.

"The bottom line of this effort, in addition to providing three fun-filled days, is for these children to have this opportunity to develop confidence and build their self-image and, through this very special way, help to prepare them for their future," Grove said.

Mrs. Trudy Pickrel is donating her time to head up the instruction on the slopes for the blind skiers.

"Other forms of charitable support," King added, "are projects for handicapped children, community rescue squads, fire departments, the Hospital Foundation, and individuals in need. Our national charitable contributions are directed primarily to programs for the blind, such as eyeglasses, leader dogs, research for vision, and help for diabetics."

The Lions Club has an official pin of Winterfest, which has become a collector's item, especially for those people who now own the complete set of 17 pins. Each year there is a pin of a different design. The sale price is $3 and they are available by calling 387-6386.

The official kick-off of Winterfest, organized by the Lions Club, is a dinner highlighted by the crowning of the Winterfest Queen. This is a popular event among local business and professional people who have been supporters of Winterfest and the Lions Club through the years. The evening, slated for Feb. 22, includes open bar, food, and dancing until 1 a.m. at Will O' the Wisp.

The Lions Club is also active on the Winterfest General Committee and will be involved in organizing other activities and events throughout Winterfest. The complete events brochure of Winterfest '91 is available at most Deep Creek Lake establishments and at Wisp Resort.

State Association Of Forestry Boards Convenes

Members of the Maryland State Association of Forestry Boards from the 23 counties and Baltimore City met February 2 in Orchard Beach Fire Department near Pasadena. The meeting's agenda began with a panel discussion of the recommendations of the Governor's Task Force on Trees and Forests. The panel consisted of Charles Adams, American Society of Landscape Architects; Steve Bunker, Chesapeake Bay Foundation; Claire Lincoln, writer and author; Ollie Kitchen, Westvaco Corporation; and Allegany County Forestry Board members.

Chris Holmes, U.S. Forest Service, co-chairman of the Governor's Conference, was the keynote speaker. Holmes stressed the need for groups such as the forestry boards to get involved in planning efforts with the Governor's Conference on Trees and Forests and the 2020 Growth Commission. "The forestry boards and other conservation minded groups can have their greatest impact if they stay involved and keep informed," Holmes said.

Garrett County Forestry Board members John Forman, Oakland, and Carroll DeWitt, Accident, represented the Garrett Forestry Board at the Winter Association meeting.

Gifted, Talented Summer Centers Deadline Changed

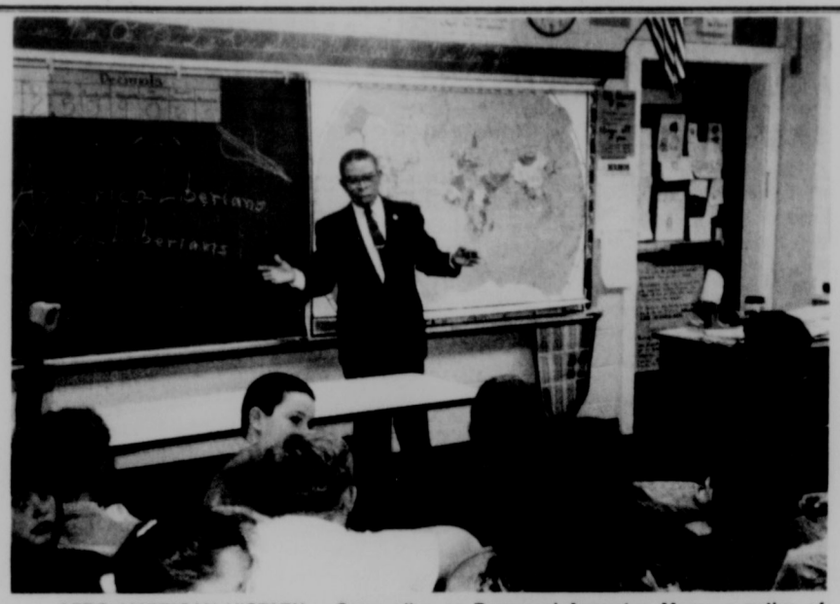
The Maryland Summer Centers for Gifted and Talented Students program has moved the application deadline to Thursday, Feb. 21. This is the deadline for postmarking applications to the centers.

The deadline listed in brochures and application forms is Feb. 15. Feb. 21 now replaces that deadline.

The summer centers at 12 sites provide opportunities for 2,600 students in the performing arts, mathematics, the sciences, the humanities, writing, leadership, economics and international studies. Programs serve students entering grades 4-12.

For information on the centers, students may contact their school principal, guidance counselors, or gifted and talented coordinators. Information is also available from the State Department of Education by calling (301) 333-1910 or 333-2353.

Non-Credit Film Course Available Now At GCC



The three-credit course, "Films Around the World," (HUM 292), being given at Garrett Community College on Monday afternoons during this spring semester, has been opened to the public as a non-credit offering, according to a college spokesman. Interested persons may register for the course through the Continuing Education office of the college by paying a specially arranged fee of $20.

Students will see a different foreign film each week, preceded by an introduction and followed by class discussion. Students taking the course for credit will have a take-home examination and final paper to write for their evaluation in the course. Students auditing the course or taking it as a non-credit offering will not have these course assignments.

Instructors of the film course, Jack DuBose and Dr. Gail Herman, have planned a series of films that represent twelve different countries and that show their varied cultures, customs, and values.

Next Monday's film will be Black Orpheus, a Portuguese film depicting the love story of Orpheus and Eurydice, set in contemporary Rio De Janeiro during carnival time. Other films scheduled to be shown are: Breaker Morant (Australia), Hiroshima, Mon Amour (France), The Gods Must Be Crazy (Africa-Britain), The Seventh Seal (Sweden), World of Apu (India), Babette's Feast (Denmark-France), My Life as a Dog (Great Britain), and The Official Story (Spain). Several others, yet to be announced, will be shown.

Anyone desiring further information about the film course may call Jack DuBose at the college, 387-6666.

AFRO-AMERICAN HISTORY -- Came alive as Reverend Augustus Monu, a native of Liberia, spoke to Ms. Debbie Hinebaugh's 5th grade class at Broad Ford Elementary School. The presentation, which included Liberian music, history, and culture, was the culminating activity to a unit of study about Afro-Americans and their contributions to American society. This study, which was conducted in conjunction with Martin Luther King Day and Black History Month, included student research projects of Afro-American inventors and statesmen, and was taught by Mrs. Mary Beckman who is completing her student teaching in Mrs. Hinebaugh's classroom. Rev. Monu is pastor of the Swanton United Methodist Charge.

U.S., Maryland Flags Exempt From Sales Tax

With the nation at war, an increasing number of people are buying American flags to show their patriotism and support for their fellow Americans fighting in the Persian Gulf.

"We are getting many calls from customers and shop owners asking how the Maryland sales and use tax applies to purchases of flags," says State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein. "Sales of American and Maryland flags and government documents are exempt from Maryland sales and use tax, but the tax applies to sales of flags of other states and nations."

The comptroller said his office is notifying local chambers of commerce and trade associations about the sales tax exemption on flags and asking them to make their membership aware of the exemption.

Customers who can document that they have been charged sales tax on American and Maryland flags can get a refund of the taxes they paid. "You can call the Taxpayer Service Section of the Sales and Use Tax Division at 225-1300 in Baltimore, or toll-free 1-800-492-1751 from elsewhere in Maryland to get a refund application form," the comptroller added.

Schaefer Seeks National Ban On Assault Weapons

Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer this week introduced a resolution before the National Governors' Association winter meeting to prohibit the "sale, transfer and possession" of assault weapons on a national level. This reportedly followed his request to the Maryland legislature to restrict - and eventually ban - the weapons on a state-wide level.

Schaefer was reported to have said that only "limited success" would be achieved by the states if "a broader effort" were not made as well.

Assault weapons are defined as semi-automatic weapons, such as the Uzi and the AK-47, and are widely used by drug dealers and other criminals, and are considered to be no match for police service revolvers.

Schaefer reportedly stated that the weapons were designed for military combat, not as sporting weapons.

Only one other National Governors' Association policy has been made on guns in the past. That policy came in 1989 when the governors endorsed an increase from five to 10 years in jail as the penalty for using the weapons in a drug felony or violent crime, according to a spokesperson for the association.

Maryland became one of the first states, in 1988, to issue a ban on small handguns. A seven-day waiting period is currently in place for potential buyers of the assault weapons.

Garrett Forestry Board Discusses 1991 Activities

The Garrett County Forestry Board met January 29 at the Forest, Park & Wildlife Office at Mt. Nebo to discuss the Board's activities for 1991. The School Reforestation project, which is funded through Governor William Donald Schaefer's Green Shores program, will be a big part of the Board's activities this spring.

The goal of the school reforestation project is to help educate students about the benefits of trees as a natural resource, for watershed protection and other environmental benefits. Last year seven schools participated in the project, and this year six schools have applied. Each school interested in participating in the project must submit a plan showing what they wish to plant on the school grounds, along with a description of how the tree planting will be incorporated into the curriculum for the students.

The citizens participation group which is involved in the initial planning effort for the development of a management plan for Savage River State Forest met January 23 to lay the groundwork for public workshops which will be held to gain public input. There will be a series of workshops held across the state to gain input into the management of Savage River State Forest. The workshops will begin at 7:00 p.m. at the locations and dates: February 21, Grantsville Elementary; February 21, Frostburg State University, Lane Center; and February 22, Broad Ford Elementary.

All users of State Forests should make an effort to attend these workshops. The input from these workshops will greatly affect the future management of not only Savage River State Forest, but all other state land, according to a Board spokesman.

Lake Advisory Committee Adds New Members

The Deep Creek Lake Management Office has announced several changes to the Deep Creek Lake Advisory Committee. The committee is a group of local citizens who serve to review and make recommendations to the Secretary of Natural Resources on all matters that concern the management and maintenance of the lake and buffer strip.

The two newest members to the committee include County Commissioner Brenda Butscher and Herb McCrobie, a resident of Garrett County who was appointed by the county commissioners.

Existing committee members include Del Carpenter and Bill Sisler who also were appointed by the county commissioners. Delegate George Edwards is a committee member, as is Ed King who represents the Property Owners' Association. Helmuth Heise serves on the committee as a representative of the Deep Creek Lake Businessman's Association. The alternate committee member is Robert Stuck, Oakland.

Mid-Winter Bald Eagle Survey Results Noted

The results of this year's mid-winter bald eagle survey were 115 bald eagles and two golden eagles counted in mid January at the state's two major eagle concentration areas. Aberdeen Proving Grounds at the head of the Chesapeake Bay attracts the largest number of wintering eagles in Maryland. During the survey this year, 65 bald eagles and one golden eagle were counted on the Army facilities and along the Susquehanna River where many of these birds feed. Blackwater National Wildlife Refuse, near Cambridge, counted 50 bald eagles and one golden eagle there.

"The numbers recorded this year were average since the survey was initiated in 1979," says Glenn Therres, supervisor of DNR's Nongame and Urban Wildlife Program. The numbers that first year were only 44 bald eagles and have been as high as 263 counted last winter. "The number of eagles wintering in Maryland fluctuates with the cold weather," explains Therres, "and since we had a mild December here the eagle numbers were less then last year when we had frozen conditions during the same period."

The mid-winter survey is part of a national bald eagle survey coordinated by the National Wildlife Federation. Last winter 13,574 bald eagles were found in the lower 48 states. The first year 9,815 eagles were counted.

This survey is not a total count of bald eagles, but serves as a gauge nationwide of the population status of this endangered species. In Maryland, many more eagles occur in the state than are counted on the survey. "Because the survey targets the major wintering areas in Maryland, most of our breeding population is not counted," explains Therres. Last year 123 pairs of bald eagles nested in Maryland.

Southern High's Yearbook Takes Medalist Award

The Highlander Yearbook of Southern High School received word last week that it had won a Medalist first place award from Columbia University, New York City, in its Annual Critique for 1990 yearbooks.

The yearbook received 941 points out of a possible 1,000 for a 94.1 percent grade to acquire the first place award.

The Medalist rating is then granted yearbooks selected from first place ratings for special qualities evident to the judge, characterized as the personality, spirit, or creative excellence of the entry.

The staff also received two All-Columbian Awards for special merit in "Concept" (cover, theme, organization, reference aids) and "Photography."

Earlier in the year, the Highlander staff was notified it had won a first place award from the Maryland Scholastic Press Association attaining a score of 91 percent.

A third award granted to the 1990 Highlander was a Showcase Award presented by the Herff Jones Yearbook Company. This is given for outstanding achievement in the area of Yearbook Journalism. Yearbooks receiving this award are then used in national displays at yearbook workshops and seminars.

The editor of the 1990 Highlander was Tara Wildesen, now a student at David Lipscomb University, Nashville, Tenn. Other students involved in the production of the 1990 yearbook were Angie Bittinger, Tom Burns, Missie DiSimone, Stacy Moran, Mel Tasker, Scott Hamilton, Coit Custer, and Sharon Piper.

The theme was "No Limits" and used a red and white on black cover. It included 16 pages of full color in the opening as well as four color ad pages. Douglas E. Buckley is the yearbook advisor.

SHOWING OFF their award-winning skills are Tammie Ball, darkroom editor; Brenda Paugh, and Dan Cuppett. These students, along with Angie Bittinger, received special recognition as Columbia University awarded the Highlander Yearbook an All-Columbian award in photography. The students shot and printed all of the yearbook's black and white pictures.

Frostburg's MBA Program Sets New Records

Several new enrollment records were set in the spring 1991 semester by the Frostburg State University Masters of Business Administration Program.

According to Dr. Thomas F. Hawk, MBA chair, the figures of 453 students registered for 760 classes surpasses the previous all-time records set last fall. Eighty-three new students entered the program in the spring semester.

The program, which is offered through centers in Frederick and Hagerstown as well as Frostburg, set new records in all three locations. At the Hagerstown location 151 students registered for 234 courses. Frostburg set an enrollment record with 241 students taking 284 classes; at Frederick, 149 students registered for 153 courses.

According to Dr. Hawk, 90 percent of MBA students are taking one or two courses and 41 percent are women.

Since the spring of 1971, nearly 2,000 people have completed the master's programs at the three FSU locations. Nearly all of these individuals have worked full-time while pursuing their degrees as part-time students in the evening, Hawk added.

Dennett Road Parent Advisory Council Meets

Dennett Road's Parent Advisory Council (P.A.C.) held a parent meeting on January 31 in the school cafetorium. Forty people attended, including 31 parents and nine staff members, four of whom are also parents of Dennett Road students.

Clark Sharpless, school principal, welcomed everyone. The meeting was chaired by Mrs. Linda Fleming, Chapter I resource teacher. She first thanked parents for having completed and returned questionnaires regarding school volunteerism. She also announced the following schedule of P.A.C. events:

Feb. 4-8 - National School Counselors' Week, with Feb. 8 slated as Dennett Road's "School Counselor Appreciation Day" for Les McDaniel. A dessert reception will be held in his honor from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the school's Chapter I room.

Feb. 12 - Parent workshop for construction of kindergarten packets for 1991-92 students will occur from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Chapter I room. Parents are invited to come for all or any part of the day. Much help is needed for the completion of this project, as packets must be ready by mid-April. A pizza lunch will be served for the group, or parents may also elect to eat lunch with their children at their regularly assigned lunch periods. If doing the latter, parents are requested to notify Mrs. Teets that morning of their intended school lunch purchase.

Feb. 22 - County P.A.C. meeting will be held at Friendsville Elementary School, 10 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. Lunch will be served. A car pool for interested parents will leave Dennett Road at 9 a.m. Parents are asked to contact Fleming or Mrs. Donna Cook if able to participate.

The following people reported on recent activities of various school committees or groups: Mrs. Bonnie Friend (P.A.C.) event, "Parents Go to College"); Mrs. Elizabeth Shiflett (School Beautification); Mrs. Pat Bowser (County Council of PTA's); and Mrs. Donna Cook (School Volunteers).

Fleming introduced a panel of Dennett Road teachers who presented a program on "Grade Level Expectations at Dennett Road School." Each teacher explained the minimum achievement levels required of students for promotion to the next grade level. The teachers were: Mrs. Lisa Carr, kindergarten; Mrs. Pat Foley, first grade; Mrs. Lu-Jean Bosley, second grade; Mrs. Helen Fitzwater, third grade; Mrs. Norma Rickman, fourth grade; and Mrs. Irene Sigel, fifth grade. The panel's presentation was followed by a question and answer period. Several parents raised questions regarding the uniformity of grade-level requirements across the county and the state. Also, concern was expressed over how the school ranks among other state elementary schools, in terms of level of difficulty if instructional materials presented and achieved student skills.

According to the principal, grade-level expectancies vary from school to school within the county, as each school has developed its own standards. However, he added that there is an emerging county-level interest in developing more of a consistency among schools. Also, he stated that Dennett Road is found at the upper-middle range of grade-level difficulty when compared to other Maryland elementary schools.

Another parent raised the issue of the MSPP (Maryland School Performance Program) and the need to work "energetically" across all grade levels and academic areas to further advance student skills.

The meeting concluded with the awarding of a door prize donated by Proudfoot's Pharmacy. This was a pastel-accented straw wreath which was presented to Mrs. Lisa Carr.

Correction Noted

In an article that appeared on the front page of last week's issue of The Republican concerning the annual Winterfest celebration, it was incorrectly reported that the kick-off celebration would be Friday, Feb. 22, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at the Wisp Resort in McHenry. It should have stated that the kickoff event would be Friday, Feb. 22, from 6:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Will O'the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake.

GOP Women Meet To Plan '91 Activities

The Southern Garrett County Republican Women's Club met January 29 at Red Run Inn to discuss events and programs for the 1991-92 year. The programs are focused on national, state, and local issues.

Ruth Umbel, club president, is planning to attend the Board of Directors meeting in Annapolis on March 16.

Maryland Federation President Janet Greenip, Crofton, was in Garrett County last Thursday and met with President Umbel. She will also be the guest speaker at the March 26 meeting of the local club at Red Run Inn.

Meeting dates for the club will remain the same -- the fourth Tuesday of each month. All members are reminded that the 1991 state convention will be held at the Wisp Resort in McHenry October 5-6.

The Maryland Federation is composed of 42 clubs in the state and membership is 2,280. Republican women desiring to join the local club or obtain more information are invited to contact Ruth Umbel or any other present member of the club. Current members will soon be receiving a schedule of meeting dates, times, speakers, and locations, along with information on fund-raising activities.

Columbia Gas Helping Those Affected By War

Columbia Gas of Maryland, Inc. is concerned about customers whose income and ability to pay winter heating bills have been affected by a call-to-duty in the Persian Gulf War, according to a company spokesman.

The company is urging affected customers to contact their local office to check into a variety of programs and payment arrangements that are available to help them during difficult times.

Trained professionals at Columbia are ready to help with information and advice on assistance programs, budget payments, and extended payment arrangements, said the spokesman.

Customers may call the gas company office at the telephone number listed on their bills. Confirmation of military duty will be requested when the individual payment arrangement is confirmed.

"Throughout the year, Columbia encourages its customers to call to discuss personal crises that make bill paying difficult," the spokesman concluded.

Use Of Seat Belts, Safety Seats To Be Emphasized By MSP

The Maryland Chiefs of Police Association and the Maryland Committee for Safety Belt Use, Inc., will be challenging Maryland's law enforcement community to participate in a two-month long campaign to promote safety belt and child safety seat use. Enforcement of Maryland's safety belt and child safety seat laws will be the focal point of this program. Target date and program evaluation will be for a two-month period beginning February 1, and continuing to March 31.

This program falls in line with the barrack and agency goal for 1991 — higher driver/passenger compliance with the seat belt law and higher compliance with the child safety restraint law. Higher compliance will reduce the loss of life and injuries associated with motor vehicle accidents, according to the MSP.

Troopers have been instructed to identify misuse and non-use of safety belts and child safety seats, and take appropriate enforcement action upon non-compliance to the law. Troopers will also be participating with the Maryland Committee for Safety Belt Use in identifying survivors.

At the time of a vehicle accident, troopers identify individuals whose lives were saved, or injuries significantly reduced because they were wearing a safety belt or were properly restrained in a child safety seat.

There will also be periodic surveys conducted at various locations to estimate the compliance rate with the seat belt and child restraint laws.

Maryland law requires children from newborns to three years of age to be restrained in an approved safety seat. Children 3 to 5 years of age must wear a seat belt or be in an approved safety seat whether in the front or back seat. The fine for a violation is $35.

The driver of the motor vehicle and the front seat passenger must wear seat belts. The fine for a violation is $25.

JOB PLACEMENT — The Job Placement Center of Garrett Community College is here to serve students and community members, said a college spokesman. The center offers many free services, such as: job placement services, job counseling, job-related resources and orientation sessions on job skills, interview and job search techniques, and resume writing. The spokesman noted that most people face some kind of challenge in developing their resumes. Several students and community members had been unable to tackle their resumes because they had perceived unfavorable or unusual circumstances in their professional or educational background. Since developing a resume can be a challenge, many have taken advantage of the Free Resume Writing Program provided at the center. "These satisfied users are able to write resumes successfully with a minimum of time, effort, and anxiety, and a maximum of professional results," said the spokesman. Persons desiring assistance may call the center at 387-6666, ext. 180, and talk with Sandy, Lynne, or Pat. Pictured is Lynne Glotfelty, left, job placement specialist, helping John Hetrick, freshman at GCC, as he prepares his resume.

Motorists Advised Not To Abandon Cars In Storms

Maryland State Police and the Maryland State Highway Administration are warning motorists not to abandon disabled vehicles on Maryland's interstate highways during winter storm emergencies.

"We have a rotating schedule of certified towing companies which will be used to immediately remove vehicles which are blocking or impeding the flow of traffic," stated Lieutenant Charles D. Tyler. Appearing on the Maryland State Police Radio Program, a weekly public service broadcast, Lieutenant Tyler cited motorist safety as the reason for the new strict enforcement policy.

"During the last snowstorm, motorists who abandoned their vehicles had returned to them, standing in the roadway while shoveling out their vehicles," Lieutenant Tyler stated. "This is extremely hazardous."

Maryland State Police recommend that motorists who become disabled should raise the hood and activate the vehicle's four-way emergency flashers to signal the need for emergency assistance. Motorists are encouraged to remain inside the vehicle until assistance arrives.

The Maryland State Highway Administration has assigned daily emergency traffic patrols in the Baltimore-Washington areas during morning and afternoon rush hour periods to assist Maryland State Police with traffic control. The patrols provide basic mechanical services for motorists in need of emergency repairs or assistance. SHA personnel also assist with variable message signs advising motorists of trouble ahead. The electronic signs also provide the motoring public with alternative detour information.

"We are asking motorists to keep flashlights and reflective materials handy for use during highway emergencies," added Lieutenant Tyler. "During major winter storm emergencies, it is helpful to clear all windows, mirrors and lights (of snow and ice) to maximize visibility."

The Maryland State Police Radio Program is a weekly public service radio broadcast carried on approximately 50 radio stations in Maryland and the District of Columbia. The program is supported by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and the Maryland Department of Transportation.

FSU, University Of Baltimore Offer Dual Degree Program

Frostburg State University has signed an agreement with the University of Baltimore allowing students to earn both undergraduate and law degrees in six years rather than the seven it now takes to complete both programs.

The agreement establishes a dual degree law program, beginning July, 1991. Students will attend FSU for approximately three academic years (earning at least 91 credit hours), then the University of Baltimore School of Law for approximately three academic years.

After completing all academic requirements at FSU (including general requirements and requirements for their major), and after completing the first year at the School of Law (accruing no fewer than 120 combined credits), the student will be awarded a bachelor's degree in his/her chosen major by Frostburg State. Upon completing all requirements for graduation from the School of Law, the student will be awarded the Juris Doctor degree from the University of Baltimore.

The objective of the dual-degree program is to permit highly qualified FSU juniors the opportunity for early entry to the University of Baltimore law program. The first 29 credits of law study will count also as the final 29 credits of undergraduate study. Any student who meets the criteria is eligible for the program. Students may choose any major.

Frostburg State, in addition to being named one of the 15 best buys in American higher education by Time, Inc.'s Fall 1990 Money Guide, was also shown by that publication to be among those institutions sending the highest percentage of graduates on to law school.

"The Bachelor's/Juris Doctor Program best serves students committed to an accelerated academic pace. This program will provide significant rewards to students who are well organized, highly motivated and committed to academic excellence," says Dr. Walter Lackey, pre-law advisor and associate professor of political science at FSU.

For more information on the dual degree program in law, contact Dr. Lackey, at FSU's Department of Political Science, 689-4386.

MDE Collects $1.5 Million In Penalties

The Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) collected $1,475,768 in civil penalties for violations of environmental laws and regulations during 1990, a 15 percent increase from 1989. MDE is the regulatory agency responsible for enforcing laws concerning the handling and disposal of hazardous waste, air, water and sediment pollution as well as other matters of environmental concern.

"In the past year we've documented increased compliance with environmental regulations from major and minor industries in Maryland," said Maryland Secretary of Environment Robert Perciasepe. "During the next year we'll maintain our aggressive inspection and enforcement programs as we work to protect and restore Maryland's entire environment."

Of MDE's five administrations, the Hazardous and Solid Waste Management Administration (HSWMA) collected the largest amount of civil penalties, $633,263. The HSWMA regulates and enforces the proper storage, handling and disposal of municipal and industrial solid waste, hazardous wastes and industrial wastewater discharges.

Penalties collected by the HSWMA included: $300,728 for hazardous waste violations, $276,535 for water pollution violations, and $56,000 for violations of oil pollution laws.

The Sediment and Stormwater Administration (SSA), responsible for statewide programs designed to reduce the polluting effects of stormwater run-off and sedimentation of state waters, collected $239,385 in civil penalties. This represents more than a 100 percent increase from 1989, when the SSA collected $104,900 in penalties.

In addition, for the first time ever, criminal penalties were issued as a result of a sediment pollution case prosecuted by the Environmental Crimes Unit (ECU) of the Attorney General's Office. With support from MDE inspectors, the ECU successfully prosecuted a Charles County developer for violations occurring at a St. Mary's County construction site.

During 1990 the ECU prosecuted seven corporations and nine individuals. These prosecutions resulted in 105 days of jail time served, as well as a total of $210,751 in fines.

MDE's Air Management Administration (AMA) collected $452,600 in penalties last year, including $220,000 from the Bethlehem Steel Corporation (a $1.07 million civil suit against the company is pending court action.) The Water Management Administration (WMA) brought in $111,270 in fines and the Toxics, Environmental Science and Health Administration (TESHA) added another $39,250

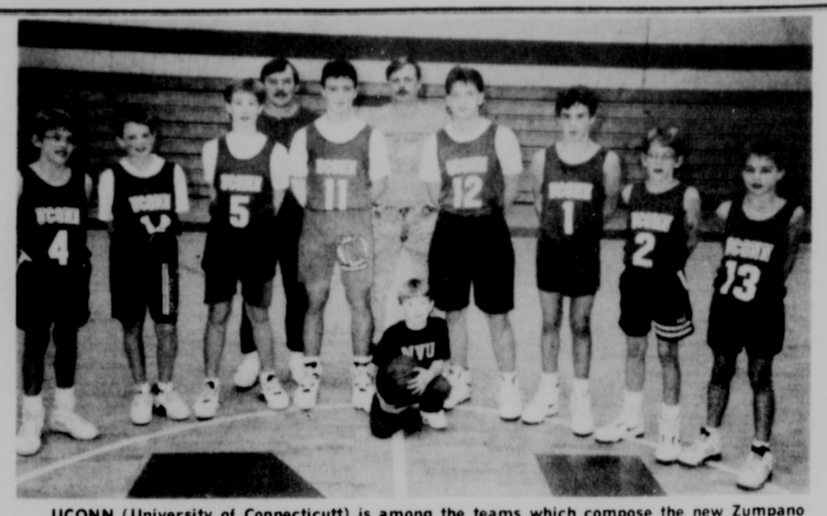
Over 30 Assoc. Begins Season



The Over 30 Basketball Association began play this week, as Shaffer Ford nipped Bausch & Lomb, 52-51, in the first game of the season.

The more aggressive B&L squad had an opportunity to capture the win, but let it slip away with 14 seconds remaining. Rob Michael led all scorers with 17 points for Shaffer Ford, while Chris Lattimer led B&L with 15. Rich Schick led the defensive effort for B&L.

Despite a 26-point performance by Brian Selders, Beachy Lumber was defeated by Garrett Mine Service, 53-50. The game displayed the shooting skills of former Southern standout Randy DiSimone with 18 points, while former Northern star Greg Hinebaugh netted 13 for Beachy Lumber. The game was tied at halftime, but the third quarter proved to be the winning period, when Garrett Mine outscored Beachy's by the victory margin of three points.

Coors, powered by Oren Yoder's 16-point second quarter effort, opened its season with an easy win over Garrett Construction, 98-61. Southern basketball coach Tom Bosley netted 24 for Coors while brothers Dan and Dave Bosley combined for 27 more points for the winners. Jim Bosley scored 23 points in his first appearance in the Over 30 division.

Next week's action will pit Beachy Lumber and Coors at 7:30, Shaffer Ford will play Garrett Mine Service at 8:30, and Garrett Construction will take on Bausch & Lomb at 9:30. All games are played at Southern Middle School.

Lakers Bounce Back For Two Wins On The Court, Another By Forfeit

After losing to arch rival and nationally ranked Allegany Community College last Wednesday night, the Garrett Community College Lakers came back this past week with three straight victories to improve their season mark to 20-7 and their JUCO record to 7-2.

Coach Dennis Gibson's team recorded a JUCO win over Essex CC Saturday night in McHenry, 81-59, rallied to defeat Dundalk CC in another JUCO contest Sunday afternoon, also at home, and then picked up a forfeit win over Shenandoah College junior varsity last night. The Lakers will attempt to keep their streak going this Saturday night at home against a powerful Prince Georges Community College.

Although All-American candidate Chuckie Moore sat out 13 minutes of the first half against Essex because of foul trouble, he still emerged as the leading scorer for the Lakers with 16 points, while Derek Young recorded 14 points and six blocked shots, and Carlos Williams finished with 13 points.

The Lakers were trailing 8-4 in the early moments when Chris Greene netted a three-point shot and Williams sunk a pair of free throws to give GCC the lead for good. They stretched their advantage to 39-25 by halftime.

The Lakers moved out to a 21-point advantage in the second half (52-31), Essex came back to cut the lead to 11 at 58-47, and then Williams and Moore led the Lakers back to an 18-point advantage. A three-pointer by Carlos Trotter with three minutes remaining gave the Lakers their biggest lead of the evening, 78-52.

Pacing Essex was Gary Dixon with 16 points, while Barry Evans finished with 13 and Mark Weaver and Mark Hall each added 10 points.

Out of the Laker line-up were Clarence Morgan, who has a thumb injury and Jesse York, who had the flu. Earl Henby, who finished with nine points, substituted for Moore in most of the first half.

Moore also led the Lakers' scoring with 16 points Sunday against Dundalk, but it was a 13-point second half effort by Marcus Spencer that led the GCC rally. Spencer finished with 15 points, Young added 14, Bruce Boldley scored 12 and Greene contributed 11.

Dundalk (14-10) led by two points at halftime, 36-34, but the Lakers opened the second half with a 14-2 scoring spurt to take control of the game and lead by about 10 points the rest of the game.

Moore also finished with nine assists and Boldley was credited with 11.

The Lions, who had upset Hagerstown Junior College the previous night, were led by Deon Levi with 19 points and Reshawn Blakney with 16 points and 14 rebounds.

This Saturday night's game against Prince Georges CC will be the final home contest of the season for the Lakers. It will be "fan appreciation night" at the Laker gym, where all fans will be admitted free of charge and free hot dogs will also be available.

Also in that game it is anticipated that Chuckie Moore will break the all-time GCC scoring record.

Rams Nipped By Allegany, Keyser, Flu Bug; Record Falls To 11-6

Health problems continue to plague the Southern High Rams, who were edged this past week by two foes they had beaten on the road earlier in the season. Coach Tom Bosley's squad was nipped by the Allegany Campers Friday evening, 53-51, and then fell by the same margin Tuesday night to visiting Keyser, 60-58. The Rams will attempt to break a four-game losing streak this Friday at home against Northern.

Although Bosley never makes excuses for his team's losses because of health problems among his players, there is no doubt that a hip/groin injury to 6-5 center Richard Beckman and influenza viruses affecting several other players played major factors in the Rams' recent difficulties. While Beckman played in both the Allegany and Keyser games, his performance was obviously hampered by his injury. Point guard Jeremy Bosley missed both games because of the flu and forward Britten Martin was ailing with a similar bug during the Keyser game.

Although Bosley did not want to comment on record about the officiating in the Allegany contest, several other Ram fans were outraged by the officials' performance, particularly in the closing moments of the game.

The Campers took a 13-11 lead by the end of the first quarter, but Southern held a 27-19 advantage at halftime and led 37-32 after three periods.

Allegany chipped away at Southern's lead and cut the margin to one point, 49-48, before a jumper by Brett Rice gave the Rams a 51-48 edge at the 1:30 mark; however, those were to be the Rams' last points of the game.

Fred Wilson, who led the Campers with 24 points, knotted the game at 51 apiece with a bucket and free throw. A missed shot by Rice, on which he was knocked to the floor, was rebounded by Wilson, who fed Dan Bauer underneath for the winning bucket.

With seven seconds remaining, a pass intended for Rice was picked off by Wilson and time expired.

Rice led all players by hitting his average of 28 points, while Beckman grabbed 11 rebounds and Greg Inglese recorded five assists. Rice also pulled down seven rebounds.

Also reaching double figures for Allegany was Bauer, who finished with 14 points.

The victory was the 10th in 13 outings for the Campers.

It was a last second jump shot by Jason Davis Tuesday night that gave Keyser its revenge over the Rams, who had nipped the Golden Tornado in overtime in Keyser last month.

The Tornado led the entire game, with the exception of the final five seconds, when the Rams tied the score at 58-58. Keyser led 18-12 at the end of the first quarter, was on top 28-25 at halftime, and held a 40-39 edge after three periods.

The Rams were down 58-52 with 1:05 left in the game. A shot by Martin with 29 seconds remaining made it 58-54, which was followed by a bucket by Beckman with 18 seconds left to cut the lead to 58-56. Beckman then stole the inbounds pass and tossed the ball to Rice, who was fouled. Rice hit both ends of his one-and-one to tie the score.

After a timeout, Davis took a long pass and fired the game-winner from about 18 feet as time ran out.

"We really blew it defensively in the last five seconds," Bosley said. "We never should have allowed that long pass to set up Davis's shot."

Davis led all scorers as he finished with 26 points, Jay Twyman recorded 14 points, Justin Smith added 11, and Ryan Burke netted 10.

Pacing the Rams' scoring was Jason Brenneman, who played his best game of the season and finished with 15 points. Beckman had 13 points, while Rice was held to a season-low eight points. Martin pulled down a dozen rebounds for the Rams, while Inglese was credited with eight assists.

"We have six games left on our regular schedule and we need to win five of them to make the playoffs," Bosley said. "I know we have the talent to do it, but it would certainly help if we could get our team healthy."

NHS Matmen Defeat Rams For 12th Victory

The Northern High School wrestling team continued its winning ways this week by whipping the Southern Rams Tuesday afternoon in Accident, 48-27. It was the 12th win in 13 dual matches for the Huskies, who are just one win away from tying their all-time best record of 13-1 in the 1988-89 season.

Northern's Tim Thomas, who won the 135-pound bout on points, Bittinger, and Tim Beitzel, heavyweight, are all ranked in the top five statewide in their respective weight classes.

The Huskies picked up two wins last Thursday in a tri-meet with Peterburg and Frankfort, defeating the Vikings, 41-32, and topping the Falcons, 49-26.

Other double winners for the Huskies were Rich Wyland (119), Randy Dolan (152), and Todd Burdock (171).

Southern Girls Rip Spartans, Fall To Campers

The Southern High School girls' varsity embarrassed Bishop Walsh Saturday in Oakland, 73-30, and nearly upset top-ranked Region I 2A opponent Allegany last night in Cumberland, but the Rams' fourth quarter rally was stopped short and they lost, 57-52. The results left the Rams with a 3-10 record.

Kathy Gibson led the Rams against the BW Spartans Saturday, as she pumped in 21 points, while Shelly Cannon finished with 17 and Khrystie Browning netted 14. Eleven of Gibson's points came on 14 attempts at the foul line.

Michelle Duling contributed nine points and six assists for the Rams.

Southern was never threatened in the contest, holding a lead of 17-5 at the end of the first quarter and 38-17 at halftime. It was the 14th defeat in 17 games for the Spartans.

Stacey Becker paced BW with 10 points.

Last night against Allegany, the Rams led 12-10 at the end of the first quarter, were down 28-20 at halftime, trailed 43-32 after three periods, and then came back to trail by only two points in the fourth period, but they could get no closer to the 12-2 Campers.

Tina Kearchner led Allegany by finishing with 25 points, while Amy Beeman netted 13.

Michelle Duling had a big night for the Rams as she, too, poured in 25 points on nine field goals, including three three-pointers and four free throws.

The Rams will return to action this Friday when they host Northern.

State, County Jobless Rates Rise In Dec.

After months of holding strong against the national economic downturn, Maryland's economy has begun to show signs of softening as the estimated unemployment rate climbed from 5.3 percent in November to 6.0 percent in December, according to statistics released this week by the Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development (DEED).

In Garrett County the jobless rate increased from 11.2 percent in November to 11.4 percent in December. The December rate the previous year was 6.0 percent.

Nationally, the unemployment rate rose from 5.8 percent in November to 5.9 percent in December.

During the month, Maryland's civilian labor force declined by 13,971 persons to 2,484,142 while employment dropped by 30,256 workers to 2,335,981 and joblessness increased by 16,285.

The labor force in Garrett County dropped from 12,977 in November to 12,821 in December. Of those totals, 1,452 were unemployed in November and 1,464 were joblessin December.

Hiring activity in the state continued in general merchandise, apparel and food stores, health services, trucking and local government.

However, employment declined as a result of seasonal drops in food processing, hotels, amusements, agricultural services and business services. The decline also follows national downward trends noted in construction, the auto manufacturing industry and restaurants - as consumer discretionary spending declines.

"Under these conditions, obviously more demands are being placed on Maryland's Unemployment Insurance program," said J. Randall Evans, secretary of economic and employment development. "It is encouraging to know, however, that during this period our local office staff are doing all they can to provide the fastest and most convenient service possible for our citizens who need and are eligible to receive unemployment insurance benefits."

"It is also comforting to know that the Maryland Unemployment Insurance Trust Fund remains solvent and that procedures are in place to keep the fund replenished."

In the Baltimore metropolitan area, the rate of joblessness rose from 5.6 percent to 6.8 percent over the month. The estimated unemployment rates in the region ranged from 4.0 percent in Howard County to 9.8 percent in Baltimore City. Layoffs, particularly in the automobile manufacturing industry and holiday shutdowns in other manufacturing industries contributed to employment declines in that area.

In the Maryland suburbs of the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area, the unemployment rate rose by 0.2 percent up to 4.2 percent with the largest increase noted in Calvert and Frederick counties. Sizeable layoffs in food stores pushed up the unemployment rate in Calvert County from 5.2 to 6.0 percent while Frederick County's job losses in manufacturing, construction and local government forced the county's unemployment rate to climb from 5.9 to 6.6 percent.

Unemployment in Western Maryland during December left 9.5 percent of the labor force unemployed, up from 8.4 percent in November. Washington County's employment declines in construction and manufacturing were noted to have forced the unemployment rate up from 7.4 to 8.8 percent.

In the Southern Maryland and Eastern Shore areas, labor force activity resulted in a slight drop in the area's unemployment rate from 8.0 percent to 7.9 percent. This drop was forced by a drop in the labor force which helped to offset seasonal job losses in food processing, agribusiness and eating and drinking establishments.

Statewide, local unemployment rates ranged from a low of 3.3 percent in Montgomery County to a high of 15.3 percent in Worcester County.

without adequate ventilation in the rooms and areas in which they operate. Finally, smoke detectors do not operate when they are needed, because batteries were removed or allowed to expire without being checked or replaced. These readily preventable scenarios show up all too often proving that knowledge of safe heating practices and maintaining fire safety in the home during the winter months must be reinforced through public fire safety education and opportunities afforded me through articles such as this.

This winter, as your State Fire Marshal, I join with the nation's other fire officials to urge you to take heating equipment seriously. Please take the time to properly install and maintain the equipment and take extra care at all times when using heating equipment and be certain your smoke detector is functioning properly.

If you are confused about what local ordinances allow, or want to know how you can make your home as fire-safe as possible, I urge you to contact your nearest Office of the State Fire Marshal or your local Fire Prevention Bureau. Fire protection professionals are your best source of fire prevention and fire safety information. By working together, we can avoid the continued tragedy of home heating related fires in our State.

Rocco J. Gabriele

March Of Dimes Implements New Grants Program

The Allegany/Garrett County March of Dimes will implement a Small Grants program for its division area.

The foundation is seeking grant proposals to prevent birth defects, to ameliorate their consequences for patients and their families, and to improve the outcome of pregnancy.

A birth defect is defined as an abnormality of structure, function, or metabolism, whether genetically determined or resulting from environmental influence during embryonic life.

A birth defect may cause disease from the time of conception through birth or later life. Low birthweight is included within this definition.

The interests of the March of Dimes include the broader aspects of pregnancy outcome.

Proposals that will receive favorable responses are ones that:

* Explore innovative, non-traditional programs for the delivery of prenatal care;
* Encourage transportation, referral, and communication among facilities in the division area to increase services provided to high risk clients;
* Develop information systems to track the health care provided for the prenatal period and the outcome of pregnancy;
* Provide ongoing services and the education for children and their families affected by a birth defect;
* Develop or expand programs for health care professionals addressing the topics of identification of high risk individuals, advances in the genetics and birth defects, and prevention of preterm delivery;
* Develop or expand programs for public education addressing the topics of nutrition, drug use/abuse, and sexually transmitted diseases;
* Interface with schools in the development and implementation of programs related to human development including genetics, embryology, and behavior;
* Develop and implement programs on reproductive health in a community-based setting;
* Provide community oriented support groups which will address the psychosocial and educational needs of children and families affected by a birth defect.

Proposals will be rated on their relevance to division and chapter funding priorities. Grants of up to $5,000 will be awarded.

Requests are reviewed quarterly and are awarded to recognized institutions or agencies only and not to individuals. A grant may be requested for a maximum two-year period, but the approval to fund requires executive committee action on an annual basis.

For further information and to receive an application packet, persons may contact Trish Morgan, community director of the Allegany/Garrett County division, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays at 301-722-5818.

Postmark deadline for the quarter is March 1, 1991.

The March of Dimes proposal package should be sent to 111 South George Street, Cumberland, Maryland 21502.

Maryland Job Service Helped 46,000 Job Seekers Find Work

The Maryland Job Service of the Department of Economic and Employment Development (DEED) in 1990 helped more than 46,000 job seekers find work in Maryland, according to Paulette Hall, executive director, Deed Office of Employment Services.

The Maryland Job Service, which operates 34 offices statewide, is a one-step job placement service that matches private and public sector employment opportunities with job seekers. Using the latest computer technology, the Maryland Job Service last year referred an average of 1,300 job seekers a week to employers looking for good workers from anywhere in the state or the nation. Over 15,000 Maryland employers used the service posting nearly 70,000 job openings with the Job Service.

Job seekers who use the Maryland Job Service include professional and technical workers, college and high school students and graduates, and veterans. Listed among the employers that place job orders with the Maryland Job Service are hospitals, hotels, manufacturers, printing companies and grocery store chains.

"We take job orders from companies all over Maryland," Mrs. Hall said. "Many of these employers rely on the Maryland Job Service exclusively to find their workers because it is convenient and cost effective."

The Maryland Job Service provides a variety of customized services to both employers and job seekers. Through the Maryland Job Service, job seekers can get help in preparing a resume, completing job applications and handling job interviews. Some offices have Job Finding Clubs where job seekers are taught techniques in finding job leads and contacting potential employers. Maryland Job Service staff will also look for job opportunities based on an individual's qualifications when no suitable job is listed in the system. Applicants uncertain about their skills may be tested to determine their employment potential and other qualified applicants may be referred to job training programs at local employment training agencies.

In addition, veterans get priority service and job seekers who traditionally have difficulty finding work may find the task a little easier as a participant in the federal Target Jobs Tax Credit (TJTC) or bonding programs. The Maryland Job Service also certifies workers as alien labor and assists migrant and seasonal farm workers to find jobs.

As the largest employment service in the state, the Maryland Job Service provides these services at no direct cost to either the employer or job seeker.

To get the best results when looking for work through the Maryland Job Service, applicants are advised to be prepared with the proper information to help make the process go smoothly. Maryland Job Service officials offer the following suggestions to anyone needing assistance at any of the Maryland Job Service offices statewide.

1. Plan to arrive at the office between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. Monday through Friday. (Arrive early enough to allow time for testing and to attend several interviews.)

2. Arrange for the most convenient means of travel to and from the office according to the established office hours.

3. Dress suitably for any job interview you may attend that day.

4. Bring a detailed outline of your employment background and work experience including work history, education, interests and talents, as well as copies of required work licenses and cards indicating union memberships.

5. Veterans should bring their military records (DD Form 214) and applicants seeking professional job opportunities should bring resumes.

6. Be ready to identify the types of jobs you want to pursue.

7. Ask about special services that may improve your appeal to employers such as the Targeted Jobs Tax Credit and the Federal Bonding programs.

8. After registering with the Maryland Job Service, use your time at the office wisely by using the self-service job search system.

9. Bring something to occupy your waiting time such as a newspaper, magazine or book and remember the application process will be faster and more efficient if you are patient and cooperative.

10. Beyond visiting your local Maryland Job Service office, metropolitan area residents should call the Maryland Job Service Jobline to get up-to-date job information through a telephone access library. For detailed Jobline information, the public may call (301) 333-5353.

Anyone who wants help finding a job or who wants help filling a job opening should call the Maryland Job Service at (301) 333-5353 or visit any local office of the Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development (DEED).

A spokesperson for the Living for Christ Conferences has announced that there are still openings for interested persons to register for the fifth annual conference entitled "Mountaintop '91." The event will be held on March 1-3 at the Lakeview Resort in Morgantown, W.Va.

According to a spokesperson for the conference, this get-away weekend for men and women will feature Evelyn Christenson, best-selling author and world-known speaker, who will present the topic: "What Happens When God Answers."

Other session titles are "What God Expects to Happen When He Answers," "Why God Does Not Answer," "Two of God's R's--Repent and Be Reconciled to God," "Our Relationships With People," and "The Surprising End to Our Prayers."

"A Festival in Celebration of God's Grace" is a special event planned, headlining the award-winning pianist and vocalist Richard Allen Farmer, according to the spokesperson.

Other features of the weekend will include two seminars: "Tabernacle Portrait of Christ," which is a presentation of how each element of God's tabernacle symbolizes Christ's mission and ministry on earth; and "Being Healthy in God's Temple," which is an aerobic workout with a discussion of physiology and nutrition.

Convicted Rapist

The plea agreement stated that if Smith pleaded guilty to the second degree rape charge, then he would receive no more that three years in prison. However, the State's Attorney's office apparently did not advise Judge Fred A. Thayer of the agreement, and the judge did sentence Smith to ten years in the Md. Dept. of Corrections during an October 1990 trial. It was at that time that the defendant withdrew his plea and requested a new trial.

"The defendant's plea was entered into based on the State's Attorney's agreement as to a recommended sentence (of no more than three years), which the State failed to do," Attorney Hesson wrote in the notice of the plea withdrawal.

Judge Thayer accepted the withdrawal, stating in his written order that "the State did not recommend a sentence of not more than three years; indeed, the State made no recommendation at all except 'incarceration.'"

Smith was remanded to the custody of the G.C. Sheriff after the trial, and began serving his prison term.

Locally the workshop will be held Friday, February 22 at Broad Ford Elementary School, Oakland.

A snow date for the Garrett County meeting will be Tuesday, February 26, at Garrett Community College -- 7 to 10 p.m.

Information collected at the Workshops will be used to draft a Savage River State Forest Management Plan. The plan will be used by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) for resource management at Savage River State Forest for the next 10 years.

Letter to Editor.....

Dear Troops and Families,
We may not understand the reason why
There has to be war and good men die.
We may not understand the differences in men,
Their ideas of power and how they must win.
We may not understand the innocent who suffer the same,
Who have no cause and are not to blame.
We may not comprehend the urgency in which we defend,
We have only to trust God, on Him depend.
We may not have loved ones or know of any who Stand on strange soil and are praying their training will get them through.
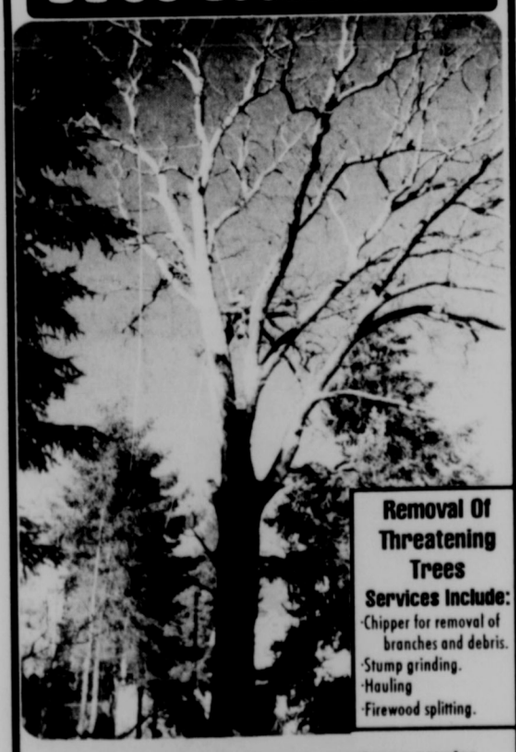
God help us if we sit complacently by,
Not praying, caring, or having a tear in our eye.
Dear Lord, help us to know and to understand,
That not only the troops, but their families need a helping hand.
So, as we have family and friends around us today,
Please take the time to support and take the time to pray.
We may not understand war and what it brings,
But God knows and is in control of all things.



With support and love,
Kathy Savage and Family

Operation Peace

The news flash came across the screen as dreadfully expected.
A plight for peace in foreign lands, all efforts made, rejected.
Operation Desert Storm with all its great alliance,
Met face to face with destiny in raging, mad defiance.
From this great land of freedom where we share tranquility,
We've sent our soldiers, brave and strong, to front hostility.
The courageous love for country and their families left behind,
Dominates above defeat or war of any kind.
Mountains formed of desert sand; the heat at times immense.
They've pitched a temporary home of military tents.
Our comrades face, with caution, Iraq's lethal poison gas.
The soldiers, sailors, and marines took on a deadly task.
The world's eyes are watching as the conflict seems in vain.
What will it take to penetrate this man Saddam Hussein?
A multitude of prayers are sent to shield our men from violence.
We pray the battle roar of bombs soon weakens to a silence.
Our stars and stripes wave proudly for lives laid under fire.
God only knows how desperately it's peace that we desire.

DNR Officials Hold Briefing On Reorganization

Maryland Department of Natural Resources Secretary Dr. Torrey C. Brown and Assistant Secretary for the newly formed Department of Public Lands James C. Dunmyer held a press conference this week in Garrett County for the purpose of explaining the reorganization of the Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

The reorganization of DNR was implemented, according to Dr. Brown, in an effort to "better tell our story," to foster a clearer public understanding of DNR's goals and to better balance the multiple interests in the public parks and forests.

Brown also explained the formation of the Department of Public Lands, stating, "The objective there was to put all the agencies that deal with land and with the people who use that land together so they could better coordinate and focus on those two things that are naturally together."

Brown noted that, over the next six-week period, the department will be reviewing public information it has and expects to receive. "More people will be involved earlier on all decisions that we make concerning public land," he stated.

It was also emphasized by Brown that the Department of Public Lands will concentrate on fulfilling the multiple use/interests related to the state parks and forests. Currently, he said, a total of 3.9 million visitors pass through the 350,000 acres of public land in the state. Therefore, he noted, "How we use the land for the visitors is the most important thing."

DNR Liaison Gary Yoder added, "By obtaining more input from the public during the planning process for the state lands, we will be able to strike a better balance between all the various land-use interests. In that way, we will then be able to make the best possible decision for all those concerned."

Yoder also stated that DNR has been re-evaluating its goals for the last two years. "We realize that, in large part, we have failed to educate the public about our decisions and why they were made," he said.

When asked about concerns by Garrett County government officials that the five-year timber harvest plan for state forests was behind by millions of board feet, James Dunmyer responded, "The planning process does need improvement but it's important that a grand plan include broad objectives and goals that can then be made more specific. It is sometimes necessary to be flexible with the grand plan in order to do this."

Dr. Brown also responded to that concern, stating, "In the early 1900's, the goal was to cut everything down -- all the trees, as quickly as possible. The goal for the 1990's is very different. That goal is to appropriately use the forests for all interests represented and to have no net loss, or a net increase, of trees."

Yoder concluded the conference by noting that public input meetings will be held on February 21 and 22 at a location in Grantsville and at Broad Ford Elementary School, respectively. More specific information on those meeting dates will appear at a later date.

While in the county, Brown and Dunmyer also met with Brenda Butscher, recently elected to the Garrett County Board of Commissioners. They were also visiting on behalf of Governor William Donald Schaefer who expressed an interest in obtaining "a more in-depth look at the state," according to Brown.

DWI Arrest Made By Oakland Police

Officer Shawn Groves of the Oakland City Police Department arrested Concetta M. Burns, 34, Mtn. Lake Park, and charged her with driving while under the influence of alcohol.

The arrest was made on Tuesday at 6 p.m. at the intersection of Third and Oak streets in Oakland.

Officer Groves also noted that a stolen vehicle was recovered from the parking lot of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland.

Reportedly, a hospital employee told police that the 1978 Chevrolet had been parked in the lot for some time. A check revealed that the car had been stolen about a month ago from Frederick County.

The vehicle was registered to Leslie R. Sovocool Jr., Thurmont.

Letters

a written response to an open letter of advertisement placed 10/25/90 concerning the County Clerk's salary (Mr. Robert Fousek's). It stated, "No less than seven known requests have been made on this issue."

To our knowledge, this issue is still a mystery to Garrett County taxpayers. Article 25, Subtitle 24, of Maryland Annotated Code requires that all EXPENDITURES of county government be published as public information.

Also in the same issue of your newspaper, Brenda Butscher, then candidate for county commissioner, entered a PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE TO ALL PEOPLE of Garrett County. It stated. "If elected, there will be open government. All data will be made available to show what material — services are being paid for by each disbursement from the County Treasurer's office.

We are requesting a TOTAL INCOME for the County Clerk — yearly salary; vehicles allotted for his use; does he receive a refund for mileage with travel expenses? Expense accounts available to him; does the county furnish his petrolum? Any other county positions? Does the county pay his health insurance? At what cost? Is money allocated for a business phone at home?

Commissioners Butscher, Groves and Braskey, it's past time for this information to be made public, or are you going to still try to keep the taxpayers in the dark?

To the Editor:

Maryland is already one of the states categorized as "Tax Hells." It ranks only behind places like New York and District of Columbia in the money it takes from its citizens as a percentage of their income. Now we are being told the state needs more.

I agree that there is no shortage of worthy causes on which to spend public money. Spending money is always the easy part. Yet, the state's revenue shortfall is because Maryland is suffering. Sales are down and more people are unemployed. Business are struggling to survive. How can it make sense to demand more hard earned dollars from people already taxed more than citizens in 45 other states? Is Maryland going to end up like New York where people are fleeing to other states escape the high taxes?

Raising taxes always hurts the economy.

Richard Wilkes

To the Editor:

The Cruel Hoax(?) of Maryland's "Referendum."

Most informed people in the state of Maryland probably think they have the "right of voter referendum." After all, we do have Article XVI of the Maryland Constitution, entitled, THE REFERENDUM. It even begins, "The people reserve to themselves power known as the Referendum, by petition to have submitted to the registered voters of the State . . ." NOT what the VOTERS want, but what the LEGISLATORS decide is appropriate for the Referendum sham.

Maryland's REFERENDUM has more to do with smoke and mirrors, and political legerdemain, than power reserved for the people. We, the people, have the RIGHT of Referendum only if they, the politicians, say we do. For example: An Act (Law), or a part of an Act, may be petitioned to voter Referendum, AFTER the fact of LEGISLATIVE MANIPULATION, but no "proposition" may be petitioned DIRECTLY to the voters of Maryland, as Proposition 131 in California was, which now sets limits on the soncecutive terms an elected state official may serve.

THE VOTERS OF MARYLAND HAVE NO RIGHT OF PETITION DIRECTLY TO STATUTORY LAW, OR ON CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS, OR ON ANY OTHER MATTER OF IMPORTANCE TO THE PEOPLE!

Where then is the power ". . . the people reserve to themselves . . .?" It is nonexistent, for the power of the Referendum in Maryland, resides in the hands of the politicians, not the people as originally intended.

The original (William J.) Ogden Amendment to the Constitution, dated January 29, 1914 was entitled, "AN ACT to amend the Constitution of Maryland by adding thereto a new Article to be entitled `Article XVI,' providing for `The INITIATIVE and Referendum,' and to provide for the Submission of said Amendment to the Qualified Voters of the State for adoption or rejection." ("Qualified Voters," at the time, was a euphemism for, "White, Male voters only!)"

The politicians eliminated voter "INITIATIVE," thereby gutting the Bill, and actually CONSOLIDATED MORE POWER IN THEIR OWN HANDS; a classic circumvention of the original intent of the Bill. Despite this institutionalized "stacked deck" against us, the voters of Maryland MUST fight for TERM LIMITATIONS, it's the only way "WE THE PEOPLE" can get OUR governments back from career politicians. Nothing less than the survival of our country is at stake here.

Respectfully,
Ronald R. Rowan

To the Editor:

I read with a smile the comment of one of your readers in last week's edition, describing me as a "Washington liberal."

In the 12 years I edited and published a newspaper, I was often called an "ultra-conservative" and sometimes a war hawk. One reader even accused me of being three steps to the right of Attila the Hun. But no one ever described me as a liberal.

In truth, I was a vociferous hawk during the Vietnam War. I believed in it. There, we were fighting Communism at the height of its expansion. We had spent 20 years trying to contain a world system which vowed our destruction and in truth threatened liberty everywhere.

Nor am I against all wars. Unfortunately, armed conflict is sometimes the only alternative in a dog-eat-dog world. But war is costly, tragic, and unpredictable. It should only be used as a last resort, and certainly should never be used in anything but the national interest.

And I despised the cowardly no-win policies of Lyndon Johnson, who sent boys off to die with no hope of victory. General Douglas MacArthur was correct when, during the Korean conflict, he said that limited war is inherently immoral. At least President Bush is not going down that path.

In those days, if three bearded hippies gathered at a street corner in San Francisco to burn an American flag, a gaggle of liberal reporters were present to record it, and it became the lead story on CBS that very night.

Although much of the "anti-America movement, supported by the media and abnegatory intellectuals. The net result was a frenzy of self-hate by Agnew called the "nattering nabobs of negativism." Too often their message was rejection of not only the war, but of America itself, and all of its most traditional values. In fact, America's self image has never recovered from those dark days of Vietnam.

Today, with Israeli interests involved, the media supports the war. Instead of glorifying the protesters, as it did the "flower children" of the sixties, it vilifies anyone who speaks against the war and equates opposition to the war with betrayal of the troops, despite the fact that many who oppose the war are patriotic, middle class Americans, who love their country.

I cheered former Vice President Agnew's stand against the "protesters" and wrote several speeches for him during those years.

But the Middle East is different.

I sincerely believe that this war is against America's and the world's interests. I believe the United States is being used as a surrogate for Israel, and I cannot support Israel's denial of human rights to its own citizens, or its acts of genocide against the Palestinians. The killing of 21 Palestinians and wounding of another 140 on the Temple Mount on October 8, 1990, and the shooting of dozens of Palestinians since then, has gone almost unnoticed in the press, while the occasion of a few Scud missiles falling near Tel Aviv has resulted in a hysteria of press coveraged.

In his recent book, "Goldwater," former Arizona Senator Barry M. Goldwater noted that the Israeli lobby could without effort produce 50 votes in the Senate on any issue of interest to the Jewish state needing to secure only one additional to carry the vote. If Americans will take time to review the events leading up to this war, including the United States' assurance to Saddam Hussein that we would not interfere in any war between Iraq and Kuwait, which was reported in the October 1, 1990, issue of "The Wall Street Journal," as well as the efforts of the Israeli lobby to produce the desired vote for war in the United States Congress, they will surely see a shocking record of influence over the United States government by a foreign power.

My letter of January 14, 1991, was written intended to be published before the war began. I do not wish to do anything to prolong this war or undermine those brave young Americans in Arabia.

I am, however, saddened to think that young Americans are ordered into the desert to kill and perhaps die themselves in a war that is not ours to fight and in which, even in victory, we must ultimately create more problems than we solve.

Sincerely,
Robert E. Watson

To the Editor:

What is black and gooey when wet; treads into homes and stains carpets? What offensive material dries to a brown dust which is sucked into the air by every passing automobile? What glutinous muck builds up on the sides of roads to poison greenery and eventually seep into rivers and lakes? What is this matter which so disgusts homeowners, vacationers and weekenders?

You can see it on Rt. 219 in Oakland. It is a high, repulsive looking mound of black, gray, brown filth that sits by the side of the road. Some say it is the dross of coal mines.

The next time you pass it, look and feel empathy for all the drivers who have to load, unload, spread, and breathe the foul stuff. And then ask: "Why do we and the environment have to suffer from a thoughtless purchase of material which seemingly does as much harm as it does good?"

How much nicer and cleaner and healthier winter life would be if we used some good old sand. They do it in other states.

Sincerely yours,
Herb Sutcliffe
Deer Park

To the Editor:

Each winter when the temperature drops, a predictable trend begins in our communities. Households all over the State use their heating equipment more and as a result some homes experience a fire.

In the State of Maryland heating equipment remains one of the leading causes of home fires. Heating equipment is the leading cause of home fires in the United States. Its victims? More than 800 people die from heating equipment related fires each year in the United States. During 1989, there were nine (9) heating related fire deaths throughout the State of Maryland. Many of these home fires strike the most vulnerable segment of our population -- the very young and the very old.

In most cases the heating equipment involved is not at fault. What is especially frustrating to me is the carelessness and ignorance of the people using the equipment. Time and time again the Office of the State Fire Marshal finds fires start because, clothing, bedding or furniture is placed too close to electric heaters; space heaters are being over taxed as the only means to heat a home; or woodstoves are improperly maintained and used.

Chimneys, we also find, go uninspected or uncleaned from one year to the next. Portable kerosene heaters are fueled unsafely with the wrong fuel, or are even used in areas where they are illegal -- such as apartment buildings. Gas-fueled space heaters are sometimes used

Several Arrests Made By G.C. Sheriff's Office

Members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department made several arrests this week on various charges, including child abduction, assault and battery, destruction of property, and several driving while intoxicated (DWI) violations.

Steven W. Guthrie, 30, Oakland, was arrested on Feb. 3 on the charge of abducting a child under the age of 12. Dep. D. Welch served the arrest warrant, which was issued by the Garrett County District Court. Guthrie was later released on his own recognizance.

There were no details of the incident in the police report.

Kevin L. DeBerry, 28, Oakland, was arrested for assault and battery against a juvenile on Feb. 2 at 2:40 a.m. DeBerry was reportedly intoxicated at the time of the incident, and grabbed an 11-year-old female's arm, bruising it in the process. He also apparently threatened to set the child on fire if she moved from the staircase where she was sitting.

Dep. C. Nolan made the arrest. DeBerry posted bail and was released.

Sharon M. Duling, 43, Oakland, was charged with disturbing the peace, trespassing, and destruction of property on Feb. 3. Duling apparently came to the residence of Thomas H. Swank, McHenry, at 3:50 a.m. and refused to leave. She then damaged a storm door and broke windows, according to the report.

Dep. D. Welch made the arrest.

Robert E. Locke, 20, Oakland, was arrested on the strength of three bench warrants on Feb. 3, according to a police press release. The bench warrants were issued by district court on the charge of violation of probation.

Locke's original charges were felony theft, misdemeanor theft, and destruction of property. Dep. D. Welch made the arrest.

Four counts of the unauthorized use of a vehicle were brought against David A. Leary, 24, Oakland, after he apparently used a car against the wishes of its owner, Brenda Leary. Leary reportedly took the car on Feb. 1 and drove to West Virginia. Dep. Gnegy made the arrest.

Dep. Crossland responded to a call concerning a suspicious person on Feb. 3. After locating the person, Leonard A. Lease, 37, Westernport, Crossland discovered that Lease was wanted in Frederick County for failure to appear in court.

Lease was scheduled to face charges of resisting arrest, battery, and a controlled dangerous substance violation. Crossland arrested Lease for failure to appear.

Donald E. Friend, 26, Swanton, was arrested on Feb. 2 for DWI. Dep. J. Murphy charged Friend during an investigation of a property damage accident on Rt. 39 in Oakland. Friend was released after signing the citation.

Ricky A. Moats, 29, Terra Alta, W.Va., was charged with DWI on Feb. 2 at 12:20 a.m. Moats was arrested by Dep. Murphy on Third Street in Oakland after the defendant reportedly failed to yield right of way to the officer's vehicle.

Brian D. Heckler, 22, Aurora, W.Va., was arrested for DWI on Monte Vista Road on Feb. 2. Dep. Murphy stopped Heckler when he observed the defendant driving erratically, according to the report. The arrest took place at 2:10 a.m.

William D. Ford, 34, Mtn. Lake Park, was charged with DWI on Feb. 2 by Dep. R. Shaffer. The arrest occurred at 11:30 p.m. on Peach Street in Deer Park.

Ford was also charged with destruction of property at the time of arrest, according to the police document.

Gary E. Feller, 23, Loch Lynn, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant issued by district court. Feller reportedly violated his probation. Dep. Crossland made the arrest on Jan. 31.

A bench warrant was issued for Carol E. Tressler, 43, McHenry, for failure to pay fines incurred for bad check charges. The bench warrant was reportedly served to Tressler in Allegany County.

William A. Riggleman was served a bench warrant for failure to appear in court. Riggleman turned himself in to the Sheriff's Office on Feb. 4, according to the report.

CAC Receives More Funds For Fuel Assistance

Garrett County Community Action Agency has received an additional $200,000 for the Maryland Energy Assistance Program and is now accepting applications. All persons who have not received MEAP Benefits since October 1, 1990, are encouraged by CAC officials to apply.

MEAP will provide assistance to eligible low-income, elderly, and disabled households in Garrett County.

Renters, roomers, and boarders are also eligible to apply for MEAP. To date, nearly 2,100 applications have been filed.

Applications can be filed at Garrett County Community Action Agency at 360 W. Liberty Street in Oakland on a walk-in basis, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Individual MEAP benefits are based on the type of fuel used and household income. For example, the gross income eligibility standards for one is $785 maximum, two persons $1,053 maximum, three persons $1,320 maximum, and four persons $1,588.

The benefit is sent to the heating supplier after certification of the application.

Renters whose heat is included in their rent will receive a letter indicating that a benefit was sent to the landlord. That amount is deducted from rent payments.

The Garrett County Energy Assistance program began sending out benefit checks the week of October 15.

Application benefit payments are made to vendors within 10 days after approval.

According to Energy Director Bob Rodeheaver, MEAP is a one-time-per-year assistance benefit. It will only partially lower heating costs. Clients are urged to continue to make regular payments for utilities and heating to avoid shut-offs and heating crises.

In the event of emergency situations, it is possible to have delivery of the fuel benefit provided within 24 hours. Proper documentation of income must be provided in advance of this emergency delivery. All emergency deliveries will be deducted from the regular benefit.

Individuals with questions or wishing to make an appointment in Garrett County should call 301-334-9431.

Persons who are recently unemployed may be eligible to receive fuel assistance. Eligibility is based on the previous 30 days' income from date of application.

SUNDAY SALE OF ALCOHOL

The Bible is clear regarding drinking: "Do not get drunk . . .".

For many years Garrett County has enjoyed Sunday without alcohol sales. However, those who seek the shrinking dollar would tell you we cannot prosper without Sunday sales of alcohol.

Let's look at what has happened in Garrett County during the last ten years without sales of alcohol on Sunday: Our population has increased by nearly 2,000 people. In the Deep Creek area we have over 500 new condominiums, an overloaded sewage system and a lake on which the DNR threatens to limit use of boats.

Just a light perusal of the situation will reflect that we have progressed (if you are using the dollar as a guide) to a point of saturation.

Why do we need sales of alcohol on Sunday to contribute to violence, broken families, DWI's and boat and automobile accidents? Can't we see the destruction it causes?

Please voice your opposition to this new proposal. If you cannot speak out, pray for those who will.

R RX EVERY CHILD SHOULD HAVE GOOD TEETH

It is a mistaken notion that "Baby" teeth do not need care just because the body replaces them with "permanent" teeth. Imperfect "Baby" teeth often cause many later-life dental problems.

Every child should be taken to a dentist at about two and a half years to three years of age. By then all the "Baby" teeth will be in. The dentist will check for minute signs of decay, or any malformations which can cause later troubles. Dental patients under four years old have an average of three teeth that need fillings. If dental-aids are needed, whether it be a child's toothbrush or a good tasting effective tooth paste, we have a complete stock.

The date was Good Friday, April 14, 1865. A hush fell over the audience as the curtain rose upon "Our American Cousin" at the Ford Theater in Washington D.C.

From his balcony box, President Abraham Lincoln was viewing the play when suddenly the unmistakable "crack" of a pistol pierced the atmosphere! Lincoln slumped into unconsciousness, felled by the bullet of John Wilkes Booth, a southern sympathizer in the Civil War.

Abraham Lincoln was tall and thin in stature, with sharp features in contrast to his gentle heart and an honest nature . . . "with malice toward none, with charity for all."

Having struggled from his humble birth in a log cabin to become a self-educated lawyer, and ultimately the sixteenth President of the United States, Lincoln believed in "government of the people, by the people, and for the people."

The rising sun, on the morning of April 15, 1865, found Lincoln stilled forever, claimed in the darkness by death. Yet, his impact upon our nation would not be destroyed. Though the life of Abraham Lincoln had ended, a new era of freedom had begun.

GLORIFY GOD IN YOUR BODY

February 10, 1991

Background Scripture:
1 Corinthians 6:9-20
Devotional Reading:
1 Peter 1:13-21

There are lots of different ways of glorifying God — in song, praise, literature, art, tithes, deeds of mercy and love, among others. But Paul tells us there is yet another way in which we not only can glorify God, but must: "So glorify God in your body" (I Cor. 6:20).

I may be wrong, but I suspect that is not a way in which many of us choose to glorify God. Why? For one thing, Christians have frequently undervalued the importance and value of the physical body. Influenced by ancient heresies, some Christians actually despised the human body and thought they were closest to God when their physical bodies were most discomforted or even in pain. Some Christian monks slept on hard boards with blocks of wood for pillows so that they could be more acceptable to God by denying the body. Under this same influence — which was quite contrary to early Christian belief and practice — the church came to regard the sexual relationship as a necessary evil at best and celibacy to be the highest Christian ideal.

ANTI-BODY

Much of this anti-body prejudice still influences people today. But Christianity of all the religions in the world has placed great impor tance on the human physical body. The writers of the four gospels were careful to tell us that Jesus was physically resurrected on the first Easter and throughout the gospel narratives are tale upon tale of Jesus's concern for the physical maladies of people. This is why Christianity has historically been more concerned with the physical welfare of people than other religions. It affirms and elevates the human body as our God-given human condition.

So Paul writes to the church at Corinth, "The body is not meant for immortality, but for the Lord, and the Lord for the body" (6:13b). Rather than being base and disgusting, an impediment to our spiritual development, as some have viewed it, the physical body is good and important and belongs, not to our lower self, but to God. If our bodies are not evil in themselves, their worth depends upon the use to which we put them. So if we do something evil or base with our bodies, we demean some thing inherently good:" ". . . the immoral man sins against his own body" (6:18).

BODILY TEMPLES

Paul carries this thought a step further when he says, "Do you not know that your body is a temple of the Holy Spirit within you, which you have from God" (6:19) When we misuse the body — through sexual misconduct, self-indulgence, physical self-abuse or neglect — we sin not only against our own selves but the presence of God within us. Paul uses still another analogy: "Do you not know that your bodies are members of Christ? Shall I therefore take the members of Christ and make them members of a prostitute? Never!" (6:15). What we do with our physical bodies cannot help but affect deeply our relationship with Christ.

The key, therefore, is what we do with these wonderful God-given bodies of ours. We glorify God in them, not by denying them, but using them and caring for them in a way that acknowledges that they belong to God. I cannot glorify God in my body if I misuse it sexually. As one man put it, "I can take God with me into my bedroom, but not just any bedroom."

So, glorify God in your body.

'Bambi' premieres on TV for first time ever

By Christy Bergslien

For the first time in five decades, the classic animated feature Bambi comes to television. The beloved young deer and his friends Thumper, Flower and Faline can be seen this week on The Disney Channel, Feb. 10, 11, 13 and 14. (Check listings for times in your area.)

Derived from the book by Felix Salten, Bambi was five years in the making. Its technical and artistic qualities rank it a classic by animation experts and historians.

As most people will recall, Bambi is a happy little fawn until his mamma doe is shot and killed by hunters. Poor Bambi must learn for himself to forage for scarce amounts of food in the dead of winter. But when spring comes, all is well when Bambi becomes a buck and falls in love.

Although the story of Bambi focuses on how the young deer blooms with the seasons, the real show-stopper is the floppy-eared, foot-stomping bunny, Thumper. Thumper is an example of Disney's "personality animation," in which music, more than dialogue, tells the story and reveals the personal qualities of the animals.

Disney handpicked a group of top artists to learn animal anatomy and locomotion before producing Bambi. In fact, a sampling of animals was kept in a pen outside the animation building for the group to watch and study.

TV PIPELINE

Al Pacino began his craft watching others as an usher

By Polly Vonetes

Q: I have heard of Al Pacino for many years, but only recently did I discover his great talent. Could you please give me a brief bio, including his debut picture? Also, is there an address where I could write to him? —Teresa McAllister, Keokuk, Iowa

Al Pacino

A: Al Pacino was born Alberto James Pacino on April 25, 1940, in New York City to Salvatore and Rose Pacino. He began acting as a child. Working as an usher in a movie theater, he initially learned his craft by watching some of the biggest stars on screen. He later studied drama with famed acting coach Lee Strasberg and put his training into practice by performing in repertory theater in Boston. Pacino first gained critical attention in 1968 when he received an Obie Award in the Actors Studio Workshop production of The Indian Wants the Bronx. He went on to gain wide acclaim in the Lincoln Center presentation of Camino Real and on Broadway in Does a Tiger Wear a Necktie? for which he won a Tony in 1969. His first feature film, Me, Natalie, was in 1969. Write to him: c/o Actors Studio, 432 W. 44th St., New York, NY 10036.

Q: Can you give me the mailing address of Beatrice Arthur, who plays the part of Dorothy on* The Golden Girls *series? Also, could you tell me if she was a student by the name of Helen Hansen at Robert E. Lee Jr. High in the late '30s in Miami, Fla.? —James McClure, Harker's Island, N.C.

A: Bea Arthur was born on May 13, 1923, in New York City. She was raised in Cambridge, Md. Her biography does not mention that she ever lived or attended school in Florida. Write to: Bea Arthur, c/o The Golden Girls, 846 N. Cahuenga, Hollywood, CA 90038.

Q: Where and what is* Falcon Crest *doing? Is it off the air for good? —Ray Stermitz, Gardiner, Mont.

A: I am afraid Falcon Crest has disappeared from the prime-time schedule forever. You may find it in syndication someday, but there will not be any new episodes. The series is no longer in production. I, too, was sorry to see it go. It was one of my favorites.

Q: I read in the* Commercial Dispatch *that Isabel Sanford was born in 1917. That would make her 73 years old wouldn't it? Would that also make her older than Sherman Hemsley? —Dorothy Washington, Brooksville, Miss.

A: She certainly doesn't look it, but Isabel Sanford was born on Aug. 29, 1917, in New York City. She was in the theater for 30 years before deciding to come to Hollywood. Sherman Hemsley, born on Feb. 1, 1938, could very easily have played her son on The Jeffersons.

TIME OUT

Pro, college basketball set

By Steve Paschal

The stars of the NBA will shine Sunday when NBC televises the league's annual All-Star Game, but a double-shot of big-time college basketball on CBS and ABC will make it hard for many basketball junkies to keep their hands off the remote control.

While Michael Jordan, Isiah Thomas and the rest of the best in the NBA are putting on their mid-season show in Charlotte, N.C., Nevada-Las Vegas and Arkansas, the top two teams in the pre-season college polls, will clash in the first half of a CBS twin bill that also features Duke and Louisiana State. ABC will counter with Purdue at Indiana followed by either Arizona at UCLA or Illinois at Minnesota.

The Runnin' Rebs of Nevada-Las Vegas proved they were the dominant college team in the nation last year when they crushed Duke by 30 points in the NCAA Championship Game. This year they're gunning for a second straight national championship after a miracle ruling by the NCAA. The ruling allowed the Rebs to escape sanctions that banned them from post-season play because of recruiting violations by Coach Jerry Tarkanian.

Arkansas is in the process of giving the Southwest Conference one last round-ball lesson before moving on to the Southeastern Conference. The Razorbacks, who were pre-season favorites to take the national title before UNLV returned to the picture, are still expected to be among the final four in Indianapolis March 30. Led by All-American point guard Lee Mayberry and massive center Oliver Miller, Arkansas is out to erase the stigma of an upset loss to Duke in their NCAA semifinal match last year.

'Guns of Paradise' rides again

Matthew Newmark grows with role

By Amy Schmidt

ABC's The Young Riders now has company on the dusty trail of TV westerns. That's because CBS has picked up Paradise as a mid-season replacement for Fridays.

Now in its third year and retitled Guns of Paradise, there will be a lot more shoot-outs this roundup (hence, the addition of Guns to the title) as star Lee Horsley dons the role of town marshal. It's tough enough that Horsley's character is faced with raising his sister's kids, but this season Ethan Allen Cord will face a tough challenge from newcomer John Terlesky, who plays a gambling gunfighter new to the town of Paradise.

"There will be a lot more violence, sex, and stuff like that," (within acceptable guidelines, of course) clarified cast member Matthew Newmark, who plays Horsley's nephew Joseph on the show.

His character is 13 on Guns of Paradise, but in real life Newmark is 14 going on 19. It's not that Matthew isn't a kid. He most certainly is. It's just that he seems much older, with a startling voice that's fathoms deep and the maturity of a burgeoning actor who's already been in the "biz" for four years.

Newmark got his start on Knots Landing at the age of 8. It was then that producers decided to cast him in Guns of Paradise.

Much like Newmark is growing into an adult actor, so will Joseph, his character, develop into a man this season, said the young actor nonchalantly.

Most of that growing will be done on a Disney-owned ranch in Newhall, Calif., where Guns of Paradise is shot. "I love it," said Matthew of the series' shooting location. "You get to ride horses and do all that stuff. We're out on a ranch — not always in a studio — and it's just better for kids."

And Matthew had this to say about his co-star Lee Horsley, "He's really nice. He's really a great guy. He has two kids of his own, so he's really good with kids and helps out and gives us support. We really got lucky."

Fourteen-year-old Matthew Newmark's character will do some growing up this year on Guns of Paradise. Newmark plays Joseph Carroll on the western, which was retitled and picked up as mid-season replacement on CBS. The drama airs Fridays.

So, did Matthew, a native Southern Californian, have to learn how to ride a horse for the series? "No. I've always known how to ride a horse," he said, an air of pride in his voice. (A picture of Newmark as a bouncing baby riding a galloping stallion entered my mind.)

Although Matthew is an only child, he says he's "not really" spoiled. All of the money he makes he's "keeping in the bank; saving it for college."

For fun, the actor competes in outdoor activities, and soccer is his sport of choice. He is a varsity player, has won two state championships, and has competed in Europe, where he was recruited by a Swedish team.

What's on the horizon for Matthew Newmark? "For now I'll just keep going with Paradise, and we'll see what comes up next." Is acting what he wants to do with his life? "I think so," he says. "I really enjoy it. I'd like to keep going if I can." And how about pro-soccer? "That wouldn't be bad at all," he agreed excitedly.

Comedy, drama, western on this week's agenda

By Amy Schmidt

Big should be a big hit when it airs on network TV for the first time Sunday, Feb. 10, on ABC. Tom Hanks puts in a superb performance in this story about a 12-year-old who wishes he were "big" only to wake up and discover he's 30. Elizabeth Perkins plays Hanks' adult girlfriend. Monday on the network, Joanna Kerns and Harry Hamlin star in Deadly Intentions ... Again? The thriller centers around a paroled man's plot to wreak revenge on the people who first sent him to prison.

The search for Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz look-alikes is long over. CBS has found Frances Fisher and Maurice Benard to star in Lucy & Desi: Before the Laughter, airing Sunday. The drama is an unauthorized account of the famous TV couple's stormy married life. Tuesday, Feb. 12, on CBS, Bewitched star Elizabeth Montgomery plays a very wicked woman indeed in Sins of the Mother.

A helicopter news team tracks an escaped criminal in The Chase, a true story airing Feb. 10 on NBC. The real-life incident occurred almost three years ago to date in Denver, Colo. Robert Beltran and Ben Johnson co-star. Monday on NBC Raymond Burr finds it complicated to defend a mafia boss in Perry Mason: The Case of the Maligned Mobster.

Young Guns airs Monday on Fox.

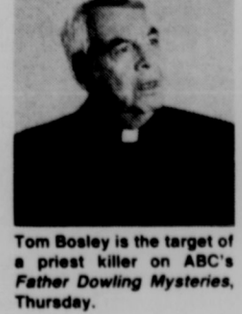
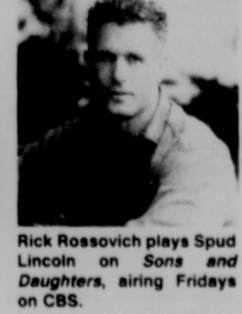
Third-graders sell story to Steven Spielberg

By Steven Alan McGaw



Here's a story you'll like. Three schoolchildren in Waynesboro, Va., recently sold a script to Steven Spielberg. The three imaginative eighth-grade girls sent a 200-page storybook outlining their idea for an episode of the syndicated Tiny Toons Adventures to Warner Bros., which handles the show's distribution. Enough people liked what they saw, the material eventually found its way to Spielberg and the rest is history. The girls and their families will be flown to Los Angeles sometime soon, courtesy of the producers. The episode, titled Buster and Babs Go Hawaiian, will air next fall.

George Lucas has announced plans for a TV series titled Young Indy, looking at the pre-pubescent years of adventurer Indiana Jones. Production begins in the spring at locations all over the world.



A belated bravo to Paul Newman and company, who sent over 500,000 bottles of Newman's Own Old-Fashioned Roadside Virgin Lemonade to the men and women participating in Operation Desert Shield. It was probably pretty welcome in the desert this fall.

Condolences to the family and friends of actor Kiel Martin, who died last month of lung cancer. Martin, best known for his portrayal of detective J.D. LaRue on Hill Street Blues, was 46 years old. What a shame.

Tom Bosley is the target of a priest killer on ABC's Father Dowling Mysteries, Thursday.

Rick Rossovich plays Spud Lincoln on Sons and Daughters, airing Fridays on CBS.

Dylan (Anthony Denison) poses as a janitor to combat terrorism on ABC's Under Cover, Saturday.

Janice Felty and Frank Kelley star in Mozart's Cosi Fan Tutte, broadcasting Friday on PBS.

Look-alikes Frances Fisher and Maurice Benard star in Lucy & Desi: Before the Laughter, chronicling the famous TV couple's stormy married life, Sunday on CBS.

Georgia Emelin and Ben Johnson are abducted by a dangerous criminal on the run in The Chase. The drama is based on true events and broadcasts Sunday on NBC.

'The Chase' reenacts news team's ordeal

Ben Johnson calls movie stunts 'scary'

By Amy Schmidt

Academy Award-winner Ben Johnson (The Last Picture Show) sounded as relaxed as a cowboy could be in a recent conversation from his Mesa, Ariz., home. The former world champion steer roper and western film veteran of 50 years told us about his latest movie, The Chase, airing Sunday, Feb. 10, on NBC.

The Chase is a true story. On Feb. 8, 1988, an escaped Texas convict robbed a Denver credit union, killed a police officer, and then took an elderly man hostage. Hearing the police dispatch, a Denver helicopter news team set out in hot pursuit of the criminal.

Co-starring with Johnson in the reenactment are Robert Beltran (Scenes from the Class Struggle in Beverly Hills), Barry Corbin (Last Flight Out), Casey Siemaszko (Young Guns), Ricki Lake (Hairspray) and Megan Follows (Anne of Green Gables). The movie was filmed in Denver along the actual route of the pursuit.

Despite the fact that Ben Johnson began his career as a stuntman and has acted in scores of movies, he said the chopper stunts of The Chase nonetheless were hair-raising: "They flew around under these high-line wires and one thing or another, and it was kind of scary," said Johnson.

Newsman Mike Silva, who was the real-life helicopter pilot on the scene in 1988, did nearly all of the stunt work for the film.

Johnson said he, like many of the people working on the film, was impressed by Silva's flying skills. "If he rides a horse as well as he drives that machine," said Johnson, "why he's a pretty good hand."

Garrett Realtors President Helps Begin Campaign

REALTORS, GOVERNOR KICK OFF CAMPAIGN — Karen Spiker, president of the Garrett County Board of Realtors, is pictured with Michael Yerman, president of the Maryland Association of Realtors, and Governor Wm. Donald Schaefer, in the State Capitol in Annapolis immediately following the kick-off of the "Do It Now! Buy a Maryland Home" campaign.

"Now is the time to buy a house," urges Karen F. Spiker, president of the Garrett County Board of REALTORS, Inc. This same advice is presently being widely promoted in the Maryland Association of REALTORS (MAR) "DO IT NOW! Buy a Maryland Home" campaign, designed to inform home buyers and sellers of the advantages found in today's housing market.

Similar advice has appeared recently in both national and local publications such as "Newsweek," "The Washington Times," and "The Baltimore Sun." In "Survival Tips," an article in "Newsweek's" January 14 "Riding Out the Recession" issue, Jane Bryant Quinn states, "Prices are weak and mortgage rates falling — a window that rarely stays open for long. Lower rates bring out buyers and prices start up."

The January 4 issue of "The Washing Times" quotes the National Association of REALTORS' statement, "Nationwide more Americans are able to afford a house because of a drop in prices, an increase in income, and stable interest rates." The article also reported the latest U.S. Commerce Department statistics which indicated a 2.8 percent increase in new house sales during the latter part of last year.

The overall message of these publications and MAR's "DO IT NOW! . . ." campaign stresses advantages to buyers and sellers alike. Sellers in Maryland and in many other locales may take advantage of the declining interest rates, at present the lowest in the last 10 years. According to Spiker, buyers may choose from a wide selection of homes with financing to fit most pocketbooks. Current median sales prices offer value for expenditure, especially in home ownership. In the past five years alone, home values in Maryland have risen an average of 10-20 percent annually in most counties.

"In Garrett County, we have seen a dramatic rise in property values over the past five years," said Ms. Spiker. "Although it seemed as though that demand dropped off somewhat in 1990, acutal transfer statistics at the clerk's office for the county shows that we had 1,952 property transfers in 1990 in comparison with 1,993 in 1989 — only a 2% difference. We are pleased to be able to join in with our fellow realtors around the state to promote this 'DO IT NOW' campaign and to help our buyers and sellers realize that there has never been a better time to buy their own home. Our local banks are even doing their part by reducing their mortgage rates and, in some cases, even eliminating discount points from the closing costs to make homes even more affordable."

MAR's "DO IT NOW! . . ." campaign continues through February and will culminate in a statewide Treasure Hunt, February 23-24.

DEED Steps Up Efforts To Help Unemployment Insurance Claimants

In an effort to ease the process of filing for unemployment insurance benefits, the Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development (DEED) is offering more personal service to assist persons visiting DEED offices statewide, according to Charles O. Middlebrooks, assistant secretary for employment and training.

"In recent weeks, more people have been applying for unemployment insurance benefits and job search assistance, particularly in our Baltimore office," Middlebrooks said. "We are trying to make these visits as comfortable as possible for each claimant, and we want to make the application process easy and convenient."

At the downtown Baltimore office, staff has been transferred to assist in the claims processing effort. In addition, specialists are being trained to address individual claimant needs and to guide individuals through the unemployment insurance system.

When applying for benefits, claimants also are advised to be prepared with the proper information to help make the process go smoothly. DEED officials offer the following suggestions to anyone needing assistance at any of Maryland's 26 offices of Unemployment Insurance.

1. Plan to visit the Maryland Unemployment Insurance office alone.

2. Plan to arrive at the office between 7:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. Monday through Friday. (Offices are usually less busy toward the end of the day and toward the end of the week.)

3. Arrange for the most convenient means of travel to and from the office according to the established office hours.

4. Allow a generous amount of time on the day of your visit to complete the application process. (Normal business hours for most offices are between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.)

5. Bring your social security card or be prepared to give your social security number on the day of your visit. Ex-federal government employees should also bring Form 50, Form 8 and paycheck stubs to indicate wages paid during the most recent 18-month period of employment. Ex-servicepersons should bring a completed DD Form 214.

6. Be prepared to present birth certificates, social security cards, baptismal certificates, court adoption documents and/or school records for each dependent under the age of 16 to be claimed. No more than five dependents are allowed per claimant.

7. Use your waiting time wisely to ensure that you have the most accurate and complete information concerning your employment history and wages.

8. Review the brochure "What You Should Know About Unemployment Insurance in Maryland" for basic information about the Unemployment Insurance law and your eligibility, requirements and rights as an unemployment insurance claimant. This brochure is available by calling (301) 333-5306, or writing: Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development, Office of Unemployment Insurance, 1100 N. Eutaw Street, Room 501, Baltimore, Maryland 21201.

9. Bring something to occupy your waiting time such as a newspaper, magazine or book.

10. REMEMBER:

* Maryland law requires most employers to support the Maryland Unemployment Insurance Program. It is your right to apply for these benefits during this temporary period of unemployment.

* The application process will be fast and efficient with your patience and cooperation.

* Your eligibility will not be determined on the day of your first visit to the office.

* Any follow-up visits to the office must be made on your report day as indicated on your Claimant identification Card or on the day and time of a scheduled appointment.

Bar Offers Free Legal Advice to Military Families

Maryland families of military personnel serving in the Persian Gulf War may contact the Maryland State Bar Association's "Operation Desert Storm" hotline, 1-800-492-1964, and receive free legal advice from a panel of volunteer attorneys. This newly created MSBA pro bono service is offered to assist military personnel and their families who are now faced with pressing legal matters as a result of the war. These families are encountering difficulties with everything from paying debts, repossession, landlord/tenant matters and interest rates to guardianship and employment leaves of absence. The volunteer attorney will give free legal advice on any legal situation the family may face over the phone, and will arrange additional services if necessary.

The Maryland State Bar Association is a professional, non-profit, voluntary membership association comprised of nearly 15,000 attorneys across the state of Maryland, which monitors judicial and legislative issues in the state, offers legal education opportunities and promotes leadership within the legal profession. MSBA develops and sponsors public services programs to ensure the delivery of quality legal services to all citizens and is committed to furthering the efficient administration of justice for all under the law.

Enlarged Maryland Tax Packet Available For Sight-Impaired

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein says his office has developed, for the first time, a large-type state tax packet for sight-impaired taxpayers. It is double the print size of the regular tax packet. Sight-impaired taxpayers can call toll-free 1-800-MD TAXES to obtain a free copy.

Mr. Goldstein also expressed thanks to Montgomery County Delegate Leonard H. Teitelbaum for his assistance in calling attention to the need for a special tax packet for the sight-impaired.

The enlarged version of the tax packet was printed at the state prison in Princess Anne in Somerset County.

The comptroller said the enlarged type version of the Maryland tax packet is another effort to help taxpayers with special needs.

"Blind taxpayers are eligible for the normal $1,200 personal exemption plus an extra $1,000 personal exemption," Mr. Goldstein said. "In addition, Maryland law provides for a deduction of up to $5,000 for expenses incurred by a blind person for a reader, or up to $1,000 incurred by an employer for a reader for a blind employee."

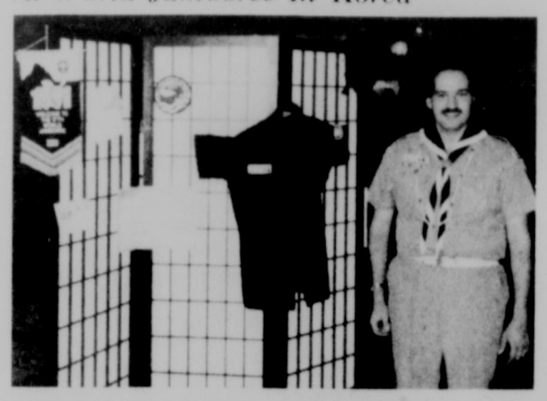
Increase Seen In Number Of Canada Geese Wintering In Md.

The 1991 mid-winter waterfowl inventory released recently by the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) shows a 32 percent increase in the number of Canada geese wintering in Maryland as compared to 1990. The waterfowl inventory was taken January 2 through January 10 by three aerial survey teams made up of biologists and pilots from the DNR, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, The Grand National Waterfowl Hunt Club and the Chesapeake Wildlife Heritage.



During the recent inventory, survey teams recorded 331,923 Canada geese. This is the highest mid-winter Canada goose counted recorded for the state since 1988. It also is consistent with a 31 percent increase in geese found in the state this past fall during the annual November Canada goose survey, compared to a year ago.

"This year's increase in the mid-winter survey is probably a collective result of a reduced harvest caused by mild weather, a preponderance of older, wiser geese in the population and the effects of the more conservative gunning regulations currently in effect," noted Gary J. Taylor, wildlife director. "Preliminary information from the 1990-91 waterfowl season suggests that young geese made up a minor part of the goose kill, although age ratio data will not be available from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service until late spring." Taylor cautioned that we need to continue to be conservative in our management for this species in order to facilitate its recovery.

All species of waterfowl counted by the survey teams this year totaled 689,977 compared to 436,400 in 1990. The number of ducks recorded was up 70 percent over last year. Dabbling and diving ducks increased 34 and 101 percent, respectively. Also recorded in greater numbers were mallards, black ducks, widgeon, green-winged teal, scaup, bufflehead, and ruddy ducks. Snow goose numbers were significantly higher this year while tundra swan and brant were about the same as 1990. Only canvasback and goldeneye counts were lower than a year ago.

Local Scoutmaster To Be On Staff At World Jamboree In Korea

John Smith, Scoutmaster of Boy Scout Troop 31, Oakland, will serve as a staff person when thousands of Scouts from around the world meet at the World Scout Jamboree XVII, Korea, August 8-16, 1991.

Smith has been interested in Korea, its language, culture and customs since 1985 when, while vacationing in Hong Kong, he decided to visit a serviceman friend stationed in Korea. The friend was out on maneuvers, but Smith said he found the eagerness of the Korean people to help him made "a tremendous impression on me."

Smith has since taught himself the Korean language, has modified his diet to include many Korean foods, and regularly attends the Korean United Methodist Church in Morgantown, W.Va. He served as a Korean interpreter at the 1989 National Boy Scout Jamboree.

At the last World Jamboree, held in Australia in 1987, John served as a second assistant Scoutmaster for one of the American Troops. He met Scouts from around the world and has remained in contact with them. He recently received an invitation to the wedding of a Tahitian Scout he met there. Jason Cheney, Troop 17, and Doug Minnick, a Scout from Keyser, also attended that World Jamboree.

The site of the 1991 World Scout Jamboree is Korea's Soraksan National Park, located in the eastern province of Kangwon. From the bustling city of Seoul, serene, majestic mountains rise from the "Land of the Morning Calm" and lead to Kangwon. The Jamboree site is approximately 126 miles from Seoul. Some of the planned activities include camping, aquatics, exploring Korean folklore and crafts, performances of traditional Korean dance, and visits to temples and other historic sites.

Boy Scouts interested in attending a World Scout Jamboree can call Shawn Smith at the Scout Service Center, (301) 729-1300, for more information. Interested Scouts must be at least 13 years of age and have earned First Class rank by January 1, 1991, and not yet 18 years old by September 1, 1991.

4-H Club To Be Considered For Loch Lynn

The Garrett County 4-H Program will be holding a meeting in Loch Lynn to explore the possibility of starting a 4-H club in that community. The meeting, open to the public, will be held February 11, at 7 p.m. in the Town Hall. All youth ages eight and older, their parents, and other adults are urged to attend. Alice Hevner, Extension Agent, 4-H, will present a program about 4-H and answer questions individuals might have.

Youth and adults from other areas that are interested in joining 4-H or starting a club are invited to attend the February 11th meeting or may contact the Extension Office at 334-1990 for additional information about 4-H or having a meeting in their community.

The Maryland Cooperative Extension Service's programs are open to all citizens without regard to race, color, sex, handicap, religion, age or national origin.

On Honors List

The Art Institute of Pittsburgh has announced that Jeannie Frazee of Bruceton Mills, W.Va., has been named to the Honors List for the 1990 fall quarter. Jeannie, the wife of David Frazee, is enrolled in the Music and Video Business program.

The Art Institute of Pittsburgh offers two-year career training programs in art, design, music/video and marketing including various majors. Graduates earn an associate degree in specialized technology or business. The Institute is accredited by the Accrediting Commission of the National Association of Trade and Technical Schools.

Community College Month Is Proclaimed

Governor William Donald Schaefer has signed a resolution proclaiming February 1991 as Maryland's Community College Month.

The proclamation highlights the history of quality education provided by the State's 17 community colleges, and the institutions' success in educating more than 109,868 credit students in the fall 1990 semester.

This marks the highest enrollment ever achieved by the state's 17 community colleges, and the third consecutive year that more freshmen enrolled in Maryland community colleges than in four-year institutions.

In signing the resolution, the governor encouraged all citizens to "recognize the value and opportunities available in Maryland's community colleges, which fulfill a vital function within the state's higher education system."

Local Resident Interning With Social Services

Tamra Kelley, Oakland, a student at Frostburg State University, is interning with the Garrett County Department of Social Services as a part of the requirements of the social work major program at FSU.

Internships are a requirement of the social work major. The semester-long commitment, for which the student earns 12 credit hours, is taken in conjunction with a three-hour senior seminar.

Regular Meeting Of GOBA Held

The Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA) held its regular monthly meeting on January 8 at Cornish Manor. Eleven people were in attendance, according to the minutes.

Sandy Major from Garrett Community College presented information to the group concerning services available to employers through the college, including free small business counseling, classes and customized training, and job placement services for businesses and community members. Persons who wish for further information may contact Ms. Major at 387-6666, extension 180.

Jack Jones, president of GOBA, completed a map for the Vacation Guide. He told the group that The Republican office has the current list to be included in the guide. Persons are asked to contact the paper office to confirm their listing or to see their proof. Any GOBA or Commerce District Management Authority (CDMA) member should be listed, according to the minutes.

GOBA's Santa Claus, Ron Friend, did not want any payment for his services, but asked that a donation be made to the Special Olympics instead. A motion to donate $50 to the organization carried unanimously.

The 1990 GOBA's Christmas promotion was discussed at the meeting. The winner of the grand prize was pleased with his winnings, which amounted to $400 in "GOBA Bucks," according to the minutes. He was able to spend the bucks at the store of any participating merchant.

Over 12,000 people entered the Christmas Promotion drawing in the first four weeks of the event. The estimated number of total entries was 20,000. GOBA members were pleased with the outcome, and urged other businesses to get involved in the promotion next year.

The next meeting of the association will be held on Tuesday, February 12, at Cornish Manor at 1 p.m.

Correction Noted

In a story concerning the Garrett County Humane Society's rescue of an abused pony in last week's issue of The Republican, it was incorrectly reported that state police officers who assisted with the rescue were from Maryland. The police officers were, in fact, from Pennsylvania.

It was also incorrectly stated that most of the work performed by members of the Garrett County Humane Society is volunteer. All of the work is volunteer.

The Republican regrets the errors.

Barbara Williams Considers Her Stay In Botswana The "Thrill Of A Lifetime"

HOME FROM HALFWAY AROUND THE WORLD — Not only was Botswana, Africa, halfway around the world, the culture there made Barbara Williams, of Allegany County, feel as though she had stepped into another world entirely. As an IFYE Representative, Barbara said the six-month stay was "the thrill of her life." Above, in her Bel Air home, Barbara is surrounded by baskets and other gifts given to her by the people she visited and hated to leave at the end of her stay.

A 1,000-YEAR-OLD TREE — This tree, in one of the villages visited by IFYE Barbara Williams, is one of many in Botswana to reach more than 1,000 years of age. The fruit of the tree produces seed that must be eaten by an elephant and go through the animal's digestive system to break down enough to germinate and grow, showing the dependence the country's plants and animals have on each other.

PHANE, BON APETITE! — Mophane worms, commonly called phane, are a favorite food in Botswana. They are collected from the mophane trees and eviscerated. After being cooked on hot ashes for 15 minutes they can be eaten or stored, and provide a good source of protein and last for several months until the next harvest. Before being eaten, it is necessary to remove the head and the rear end; then rub two worms together vigorously to remove legs and spines. It's an acquired taste, IFYE Barbara Williams says, but found the snack to be delicious after she got up the nerve to try it.

by Bernice Kepple

An exciting six-month stay in a remote, little-known African country with a culture much different than that of the United States, ending in a whirl-wind tour of several European cities, was the thrill of a lifetime for 23-year-old Barbara Williams of Bel Air in Allegany County.

Barbara, the daughter of George and Kay Williams, is a graduate of the University of Maryland who studied one semester and worked one summer in London, England. That, along with the experiences of her father and her cousin, encouraged her to apply to the International Four-H Youth Exchange (IFYE) Representative Program.

Barbara's father was an IFYE delegate to Algeria in the 1950s, while a cousin in West Virginia was a recent IFYE representative to Taiwan. "My cousin advised me to apply," Barbara said. "She said it's a nice amount of time to get away and get to know a country — long enough to forget about everything else and just enjoy it."

The trip to Botswana began on June 20. Her first stop was at the National 4-H Center in Chevy Chase, Maryland, for a five-day orientation program. "I found it especially rewarding to meet the other IFYEs and find out about their expectations and fears." There she met the only other IFYE traveling to Botswana — Shawn Evans from New Hampshire.

After two days of travel, they arrived in Gaborone, the capital of Botswana. Jennifer Yucavitch, last year's IFYE and this year's National 4-B (the equivalent of our 4-H) advisor, picked them up at the airport. "She said that she knew who we were when we stepped off the plane," Barbara said. "We had IFYE written all over us."

Barbara says her first impression was that it was colder than she had expected. The temperature was 60 degrees, and although she had expected it to be warmer, that is as cold as it gets there in winter. "The first week we were there, it didn't seem like we'd left home," she said. "We stayed in a Travel Lodge that was very nice, met Peace Corps volunteers and attended a 4th of July celebration hosted by the U.S. Embassy. We also treated ourselves to a movie almost every night. The kind direct from Hollywood. 'Beverly Hills Cop' and 'Uncle Buck' to name a couple."

But when the day came to go to her first host family, things changed — made a complete reversal. "We went from two-way traffic on tarred roads, to dirt roads, to ravines, to what looked more like a path than a road. Shawn and I looked at each other and said, 'Where are they taking us?' As it turned out, it wasn't that bad. I was to spend two-and-a-half weeks in a small village called Lentsweletau and Shawn in Kopong."

The two IFYEs were to get one week of intensive language instruction before reaching the villages. The language school was not in session when they arrived, however, so they received none. The official language of the country is Setswana, but many of the people speak English. The Bushmen have their own language, and people in the north speak Kalonga. "Just as we got used to one language and one family, it was time to move," Barbara said.

She made 12 moves in all, and found that family life there is very different. "The whole society centers around women because the men must go to South Africa to work in the mines," Barbara said, adding that "the women run the show." She explained that families there are very extended. "A lot of the women are teachers. Older women care for the very young. Kids are very well behaved, very responsible. They can take care of themselves quite well."

Barbara was not able to meet any teenagers while in the country, explaining that the senior secondary schools the teens attend are far away from the villages, and the teens stay with family members near the school while attending.

Instead, she spent much of her time at home with the grandmothers and the small children. "They helped me each day with my Setswana and introduced me to some of the traditional foods such as Bogobe and Fat Cakes and taught me how to prepare them." Bogobe, she said, is one of the staple foods and looks a bit like Cream of Wheat and tastes kind of like elementary school paste. "Good thing I liked paste as a kid," she laughed.

She spent many of her afternoons visiting village officials and going to schools to meet members of the 4-B Clubs. The 4-B Clubs are centered around elementary school children. However, they are open to those not in school as well. Barbara was well qualified to speak to 4-B members about 4-H. An eight-year member of the Bel Air 4-H Club, Barbara completed sewing, cooking, photography, and small pets projects, and was also a junior leader before graduating from 4-H.

There the children showed her the projects they were working on, including sewing, knitting, crocheting, wood-carving, and traditional dancing. "Dancing is a very popular project because it costs no money and they are very poor," Barbara explains. "Part of the problem is that they can't afford the materials required to even start a project. However, in other ways the kids are very inventive. They seem to have the ability to make something out of nothing."

One of the most interesting examples of this is a "Tonka"-type truck made out of "Coke" cans and coat hangers, or just wire. This is a simple toy that produces endless enjoyment, and is one of the items the 4-B members make and sell because it costs them no money, Barbara said.

"The children in Botswana are curious about our country," Barbara continued. "What they think they know about us are the typical American stereotypes — that we are all rich, have big homes and big cars." Very few people there have television, she added. "One family had a TV because the man of the house was chief of one tribe and was involved in the government."

"Normal" food was hard to come by for the IFYE delegates. In the big towns they bought spaghetti and tomato sauce and had an "American food night" for their host families. Barbara confirmed that "usually the food wasn't bad, although it was not always tasty."

During her stay, Barbara had the opportunity to experience many interesting foods. Subsistence farming is still the rule in rural Botswana, the main crops being sorghum and white seed corn. Mothogo, a sorghum porridge, is first stamped with a mortar and pestle into a fine powder. The powder is then added to rapidly boiling water and is allowed to simmer for

BOTSWANA YOUTH HOLD A 4-B COMPETITION — Dance and music are very popular 4-B Club projects in Botswana because they cost no money and the people are very poor. Other projects taken include sewing, knitting, crocheting, and woodcarving. Some of the club members earn money for their projects by making and selling "Tonka"-type trucks from "Coke" cans and coat hangers. Very inventive and with the ability to make something out of nothing, the children construct this simple toy that produces endless enjoyment.

WILDLIFE AND UNSPOILED WILDERNESS make Botswana unique. In addition to the giraffe and monkey pictured here, the wildlife parks protect lions, kudu, impala, buffalo, hippopotami, crocodiles, baboons, warthogs and, of course, elephants.

ELEPHANTS ARE OVERPOPULATED in Botswana's huge game reserves. Very little poaching is reported, and the only danger to the herds are natural predators, like lions. IFYE Representative Barbara Williams says she doesn't know why anyone would want to hunt elephant anyway. It would be no challenge, she says, because humans can get so close to the animals. The elephant Barbara is pictured with below, however, decided it didn't appreciate the intrusion and charged after this picture was taken.

15-20 minutes. The porridge is served thin for breakfast and made thicker for a later meal.

White seed corn is ground into mealie meal (mealie is the British term for corn). It is cooked the same way as the mothogo and is the staple diet of most people. This is called bogobe and is usually eaten with meat of some form or relish. Barbara explains that it is eaten by removing a handful with the right hand and kneading it into a ball then dipping it in the relish before eating. The relish consists of meat, domestic or wild, cooked green vegetables, again domestic or wild, cooked insects, and fresh uncooked vegetables.

Beef is by far the most popular food and is served with almost every meal. Goats are popular with small farmers because they are easier to keep and slaughter for family use, especially since there is no refrigeration. Breads are also an important part of the diet. The dough for all breads is the same. However, there are several ways to prepare it. The most common is fried bread dough, borotho ja mafura, or fat cakes. The dough is kneaded into small doughnut-sized balls and cooked over the fire for approximately 15 minutes.

"My favorite," Barbara said, "is matemekwane, which is boiled bread. The bread dough is formed into large balls and placed into boiling water. It is left to boil for approximately one hour and served and eaten with soup made from meat and various vegetables."

Mophane worms, commonly called phane, are a favorite food. They are collected from the mophane trees and eviscerated. There are several methods of cooking them, the most common being to place them on hot ashes for 15 minutes, after which they can be eaten or stored. They provide a good source of protein and last for several months until the next harvest. "It took me a while to get up the nerve to eat one, but when I finally did I found them to be a delicious snack," Barbara admitted. "An acquired taste, I guess. Before eating one, it is necessary to remove the head and the rear end (I can't tell the difference). Next, take another phane worm and rub them together vigorously to remove legs and spines. Then it is ready to eat. Yum! Bon appetite!"

Barbara says she has also eaten donkey and ostrich, and found the food of Botswana anything but boring. "Every meal was exciting and sometimes a challenge to get through. I often finished my meal before asking what I was eating."

One routine task Barbara was able to observe was re-dunging a hut. Most families stick to the traditional form of shelter — a simple mud round hut with a grass roof. This is also the most practical because all of the materials including the land are free. "Dunging of a hut is like painting a house," Barbara said. "It extends the life of the building and helps to insulate. In Botswana, it has become a form of art. Different colored sands are mixed with the cow dung and the hut is then covered with decorative swirls. Some are decorated for a special occasion such as a wedding, but the most popular is Independence Day. Important scenes such as a big kill from a hunt or just simple zebra stripes help to individualize, as each hut has its own distinctive character. It is a source of pride between neighbors to have a nicely decorated home."

Barbara was in Botswana on the country's Independence Day, and related some of the nation's history. A former British Protectorate, Botswana became free on September 30, 1966. The old British flag of red, white and blue was replaced by the Botswana flag of blue, black and white. The thick black band in the center represents the African majority of the people, and the thin white stripes represent the whites. The whole thing together stands for the non-racist or interracial policy of Botswana. The blue background stands for the sky and rainwater, which is the source of all life.

At independence, Botswana was one of the poorest countries in the world. Today, it is among the richest of the developing countries. This is mainly due to large mineral deposits, cattle production, and a growing tourism industry. Botswana has large deposits of diamonds, coal, and soda ash, as well as small quantities of asbestos, gold and manganese. Cattle is another large source of income that the Botswana have encouraged. The new government took measures to control disease and veterinary cardon fences were erected throughout the country. As a result of these measures, cattle numbers increased dramatically. Tourism is the fastest-growing industry in Botswana. With some of the most varied wildlife in all of Africa, the country attracts visitors from all over the world.

A big "highlight" of the trip for the two IFYEs was their do-it-yourself safari. Barbara says that Botswana is a land of contrasts, about the size of Texas. It contains the arid Kalahari Desert, the green swamps of the Okavango Delta, sleepy villages and expansive game reserves. It unquestionably has some of the best game viewing in the world. They wanted to see it all, and began their safari with a short train trip outside of the country to Victoria Falls.

Victoria Falls, or as it is called locally Mosi-o-Tunya (Smoke That Thunders), is considered one of the Seven Ancient Wonders of the World. It is the largest and truly one of the most magnificent falls in the world. It is 30 stories high, approximately 4,500 feet wide, and over one million gallons of water per second plunge over the edge to the base of the falls.

Upon arrival at the falls, from the statue of David Livingston (the first European to see and report the falls to Europe in 1855), the most famous sideview is visible. From this viewpoint, a rainbow is formed from the mist and the thunderous roar of the water fills the senses. From there, a path through a rain forest (created by the constant mist from the falls) will take visitors to various views of the falls and the eight gorges, most over 100 meters high and cut over millions of years by the raging Zambezi. "The spray is very cooling on a hot African day," Barbara declared.

Hitchhiking back to Botswana, the two rented a four-wheel drive truck for a week and drove into Chobe Big Game National Park. The park covers an area of 7,000 square miles in northern Botswana, with habitats ranging from swamp and floodplain to dry lake bed, sand ridges, and forest.

"Chobe is ranked among the finest parks in all of Africa; and after having visited for a week, I can see why," Barbara said. "Apart from gravel and sand roads, there is no development. It remains an unspoiled natural wilderness, best known for its huge herds of elephants. Lion, giraffe, kudu, impala, buffalo, hippopotami, crocodiles, baboons, and warthogs can easily be spotted in the bush.

"We drove four hours to see lions, and while we were driving along, a monkey jumped into the truck! We saw plenty of lions — up close. They had gorged on an elephant, and just wanted to lie around for a couple of days," Barbara explained. "Although we camped in designated areas, a water shortage brought elephants into camp. We were charged by an elephant, and found that it could run real fast. It didn't pursue us far, but we were scared! Another night, we discovered lions walking around our tent and decided to sleep in the truck. We saw it all,

International Four-H Youth Exchange

"Visit an exciting foreign country! Practice a foreign language, or learn a new language as well as non-verbal communication skills. Develop an appreciation for social, economic, political and cultural contributions of all people. Enjoy recreation, guided tours and free time for sightseeing and shopping in far-away places. Live with a host family and actively participate in family life. Form lasting friendships during an experience that will never be forgotten."

Sound like the sales pitch given by a travel agent? Well, it is. But for 4-H Club youth in this country, it's even better. It's a chance to travel, accompanied by a group leader, with youth from across the United States and meet new friends around the world. The International Four-H Youth Exchange (IFYE) Program offers youth between the age of 15 and 19 a chance to be an "ambassador" to another country for six weeks, and older youth, 19 to 25 years of age, a chance to be a "representative" to another country for six months.

Those in the ambassador program must have their application approved by county, state and national 4-H personnel. They may choose the country they wish to visit, but they are responsible for funding their own trip. Those in the representative program must also be approved, and travel as a representative of their state sharing the expense equally with their county and state.

Cooperative Extension Service 4-H agents would like to see many more local youth take advantage of the IFYE Program. The Republican will feature the stories of two Western Maryland youth who took advantage of the program and want to share their experiences with others. Joyce Noel is a Garrett County 4-H member who traveled to Australia as an ambassador, and Barbara Williams is a former Allegany County 4-H member who, as a representative, traveled to Botswana in Africa.

Interested youth may contact their local Cooperative Extension Office for more information. In Garrett County, they may call Alice Hevner at 334-1990, and in Allegany County, Sharon Diehl at 724-3320.

With this program, youth will gain much more than the average tourist by becoming involved in real life experiences in the culture of another land.

Collapse Of Trade Talks Leaves Many Uncertainties

Editor's Note: Many U.S. agricultural commodity groups had major concerns about the Uruguay Round of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) multilateral trade negotiations held last December in Brussels, Belgium. No agreement was reached at the Brussels meeting, the last of a four-year round of talks. Negotiators, however, crafted a "continuation" of the talks to avoid the appearance that they had broken down irretrievably.

U.S. farm groups are concerned with a paper presented at the last minute as a "basis for negotiations" by Swedish Agricultural Minister Mats Hellstrom which calls for a 30 percent reduction in farm supports over five years, using a 1990 base period. The 1990 base year is a particular problem for many U.S. farm commodities because their support levels have turned out to be particularly low this year.

In addition, the Hellstrom paper calls for establishing minimum levels of access for agricultural imports representing at least five percent of domestic consumption of the products concerned. This would likely require a significant expansion of U.S. imports of dairy and other products currently subject to import quotas under Section 22. The National Milk Producers Federation, for one, is firmly opposed to any Uruguay Round agreement that allows greater access to U.S. milk and dairy product markets.

The Congressional deadline for reports from the various private sector advisory committees appears to have been the end of January to enable the administration to present a trade package to Congress by March 1 — the final deadline. There is no knowledge of this having been done at this time, and no knowledge of what effect the war in the Gulf is having on world trade talks.

The following article by Paul Drazek, American Farm Bureau Federation trade specialist, poses some questions prompted by the collapse of the Brussels trade ministers meeting in December. The article is reprinted, with permission, from the January 7 issue of "Farm Bureau News."

Collapse of GATT?

Is the Uruguay Round dead? If not, what happens next? Will the European Community (EC) make the necessary concessions in agriculture to allow an acceptable agreement to be achieved? If the Uruguay is dead, what will this mean for U.S. agriculture? How should the United States react?

The Outcome from Brussels

The Uruguay Round is not dead, but the prognosis is not good. The European Community did not buckle under to the enormous international pressure to make concessions in its farm programs that was generated by the Brussels meeting. The EC may now feel, therefore, that the pressure is off.

Arthur Dunkel, director general of the GATT, has been asked to consult individually with key countries in the coming weeks to determine whether renewal of talks in Geneva at a lower level would serve any purpose. A meeting of world trade negotiators was scheduled last month in Geneva.

What it will take for Progress

If the EC can indicate that it has any flexibility in agriculture, the talks could resume. If the EC remains locked into its current position, however, further talks could only occur if the United States and other countries back down from their position that the entire Uruguay Round depends on a substantial agricultural agreement.

A possibility exists that non-agricultural interests will apply sufficient pressure to abandon agriculture in order to salvage the rest of the Uruguay Round. Three factors work against this: a package without agriculture would be tough to get through Congress; it would cause many developing countries to withdraw from other key parts of the Uruguay Round (e.g. services and intellectual property); and the non-agricultural interests in the United States may not be that strongly insistent on a Uruguay Round deal. In fact, a number of interest groups — labor, textiles and maritime — are opposed.

Chances for EC Concessions

EC flexibility in agriculture is minimal at best but also dependent on internal EC pressures from non-agricultural interests to "save the trade round." Flexibility would be possible only if political commitments were to be made to EC farmers that their incomes would be protected in some acceptable fashion.

No one knows if non-agricultural interests in the EC can muster enough pressure to force EC concessions in agriculture, or if they would want to. European industry is preoccupied with EC economic integration in 1992, and may not care that much about the multilateral negotiations.

European farmers have not been prepared politically for any significant change in their farm support programs. Such preparation would take time, and should have been started by EC officials months or even years ago. Instead, EC farmers apparently have been told that they would have nothing to fear from the Uruguay Round and may even gain additional import protection from soybeans and corn gluten feed.

The Remaining Time Frame

The absolute deadline for the administration to present a trade package to Congress is March 1. Such a package need not be absolutely complete, but it must contain the broad elements of the final agreement. Also, the administration must send to Congress reports on the agreement from each of the private sector advisory committees. It has been assumed that the basic agreement would have to have been obtained by the end of January.

The administration could ask Congress for an extension of its negotiating authority, say for a year. This would depend on Congress deciding that a good agreement could be reached if negotiators were given more time.

No Agreement Equals Trade War?

What happens if the Uruguay Round is dead? First, it must be stressed that the GATT, itself, is not dead. Current GATT rules and disciplines in world trade will continue in force.

Unfortunately, these rules are ineffective or non-existent in some areas. Rules on agricultural export subsidies are weak, and clear rules on some import barriers (for example, the EC's variable import levies) are virtually non-existent. The purpose of the Uruguay Round was to correct these types of problems.

While the GATT will go on, most trade specialists feel it will be weakened as an instrument to govern world trade. This will occur, it is assumed, because of increased bilateral trade disputes, a more likely drift toward protectionism, and an increasing trend to establish bilateral or regional trading blocs.

A number of bilateral agricultural disputes have been on hold during the last stages of the multilateral talks. Any one or all of these may become minor, or even major, trade wars. These include U.S. complaints against the EC's oilseed processing subsidies and Japan's rice import prohibition. U.S. retaliation for either of these measures — if it were to come to that — might be necessary and appropriate. But such action would be seen as adding momentum to a major trade war.

Effects of a Trade War

If a trade war results, many American farmers, along with those in other countries, would be hurt. Retaliation invariably results in counter-retaliation, and then counter-counter-retaliation. As the world's largest agricultural exporting nation, the United States feels the effect of unfair trading practices more than any other country. And, the United States has the most to lose from a trade war.

Trading Blocs

A likely reaction in the United States will be the call for expanded bilateral or regional trading blocs. The argument will be that the United States can only counter the inward-looking EC trading union, and its likely future enlargement in Europe, by negotiating similar arrangements within the Western Hemisphere, or even a broader Pacific Basin free trade agreement.

The first step, already in the works, is a free trade agreement with Mexico. The prospects for this agreement probably were enhanced by the Brussels failure. Congress is more likely to authorize the negotiations not just because of the protectionist attitude of the EC, but also because of the strong negotiating stance taken by administration negotiators.

Revisit the 1990 Farm Bill?

Throughout the development of the 1990 farm bill, Congress, the administration and the private sector agreed that the bill should be written with the expectation that the Uruguay Round would fail. While other countries urged the United States to "take the lead" in the GATT talks by reducing subsidies and the EEP (led by the EC), the decision was made that any changes in the farm bill required by the talks would be made after they were completed.

The farm bill was designed, therefore, to keep U.S. agriculture competitive in world markets by restraining loan rates, increasing planting flexibility and maintaining the export enhancement program. The budget package modified the farm bill in some respects by reducing producer payments and the funding of the EEP (from $500 million to $450 million per year), but it also included a triggered response mechanism if the GATT negotiations failed.

This mechanism would work as follows: 1. if a GATT agreement has not been enacted by June 30, 1992, the administration would be authorized to waive acreage limitations on wheat, feed grains, upland cotton or rice for the 1993-95 crops, would be authorized to increase EEP spending to $1 billion per year and would be required to institute a marketing loan program for wheat and feed grains; and 2. if an agreement has not been enacted by June 30, 1993, the administration would be required to consider waiving all future budget cuts in agriculture required by the budget package.

If the farm bill is revisited, the focus likely will be on the reintroduction of full EEP funding and ways to make U.S. farm exports more competitive — such as reducing loan rates or introducing marketing loans.

The Effect on U.S. Agriculture

What might the failure of the GATT negotiations mean for U.S. agriculture? In the short term, very little. The existing environment for agricultural trade will not immediately change. Foreign unfair trade barriers will remain in place and continue to inhibit U.S. farm exports. The EC's export subsidies, now around $12 billion per year, will continue unchecked. And the GATT will continue to permit both.

In longer term, the effect is less clear. New market opportunities overseas will not be opened. We will continue to lose export sales because of EC export subsidies. A wide range of other problems will not be resolved (Canadian transportation subsidies, health regulations being used as trade barriers, seasonal quota restrictions on fresh fruits in Nordic countries, and high tariffs on value-added products in many countries). The United States will continue to adjust production to supply, and the EC will continue to not do so. And, a trade war is a possibility.

The world economy apparently will not now be given the shot in the arm that a successful Uruguay Round would have provided (especially in debt-strapped developing countries) and this must be seen as a negative for U.S. farmers.

Many Issues Set Tone For U.S. Farm Exports To Mid East

Export bonus and credit guarantee programs for nations in the Middle East should help offset the loss of U.S. farm exports to Iraq and Kuwait, according to the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Despite the war with Iraq, Paul Drazek, a trade specialist for the AFBF, said ships loaded with American commodities for other nations in the region continue to sail unimpeded to their destinations.

"I doubt that the war has had any serious effect on trade with Egypt, Israel or Saudi Arabia," he said. "There is a minimal, if any, impact on our exports to those countries. Trade is still moving."

Agreeing with Drazek's assessment of shipping, John Parker, an economist specializing in the Middle East for USDA's Economic Research Service, said issues such as credit availability could cause more export fluctuations than the war itself.

"Other than the loss of exports to Iraq and Kuwait, exports to most of the rest of the nations in the region should be up," Parker said.

U.S. farm sales in the region may not dip much from the 1990 fiscal year, according to the USDA economist. Last year the United States exported about $2.76 billion of farm goods to the Middle East.

"Of that amount, $496 million in trade to Iraq is going to disappear unless some really good things happen — unless there is somebody other than Saddam Hussein in power before the end of fiscal '91," Parker said.

Hard red winter wheat and rice topped Iraq's farm imports from the United States last year, while its corn and soybean meal purchases were also major. Kuwait's $50-$60 million bill was mostly soybean meal, corn and a variety of processed foods, according to USDA's Parker. But the news isn't all gloomy.

Saudi Arabia could actually boost its purchases of U.S. agricultural products from around $500 million to $700-$800 million in the 1991 fiscal year. That is mainly due to the barley export enhancement program and a larger demand for poultry, according to Parker.

"Barley could make up about a $100 million increase, while the rest would be diversified purchases of poultry and things like fruit juices," he predicted.

Despite the recent cash purchase of 700,000 tons of U.S. wheat, credit guarantees will be a key factor in Egypt's future purchases of American farm commodities, according to Parker. However, no credit guarantees under the GSM-102 program have been issued to Egypt this fiscal year. The GSM-102 program guarantees a private lending institution that the Commodity Credit Corporation will stand behind loans made to a purchasing country.

Elsewhere in the region, Parker says that even Jordan, which is trying to toe a neutral line in the conflict, is considered a growth market for U.S. farm exports. Due partially to the huge influx of refugees fleeing the conflict in Iraq, Jordan will soon become a $300 million customer.

Other Middle East nations such as Turkey also are expected to help fill the void in U.S. farm exports left by Iraq and Kuwait. However, AFBF's Drazek says the best way to ensure the stability of U.S. farm exports to the region is to end the war as soon as possible.

Off-Farm Grain Storage Capacity Reported For U.S.

Capacity of off-farm commercial grain storage totaled 9.11 billion bushels in the United States on December 1, 1990, down three percent from December 1, 1989. Thirty states and the New England states showed decreases from last year and 10 states recorded increases in capacity. The capacity in Maryland and Delaware totaled 63 million bushels on December, 1989, and 66.2 million bushels on December 1, 1990, up five percent.

Off-farm grain storage capacity includes all elevators, warehouses, terminals, merchant mills, other storage, and oilseed crushers which store grains, soybeans, sunflower or flaxseed. Capacity data exclude warehouses used to store only rice or peanuts, oilseed crushers processing only cottonseed or peanuts, tobacco warehouses, seed warehouses, and storage that handle only dry edible beans.

Off-farm grain storage facilities totaled 13,225 on December 1, 1990, 292 fewer than on December 1, 1989. The number of facilities in Maryland and Delaware totaled 98 in both years.

December Weather Was Unseasonably Warm In Maryland

Maryland weather for December 1990 was unseasonably warm with heavy precipitation. Temperatures for the month averaged 42.5 degrees, 5.8 degrees above the normal of 36.7 degrees. Western and North Central Maryland averaged 37.1 and 41.7 degrees, respectively. Southern Maryland west of the Bay and the Eastern Shore averaged 45.3 and 44.5 degrees, respectively.

Precipitation for December averaged 5.32 inches, 1.87 inch above the normal of 3.45 inches for December. Western and North Central Maryland averaged 6.00 and 6.39 inches, 3.00 and 2.83 inches above normal. Southern Maryland west of the Bay and the Eastern Shore averaged 4.67 and 4.22 inches.

HEARING AIDS
DO YOU HAVE FEEDBACK OR WHISTLING WITH YOUR HEARING AID?
ARE YOU CONTINUALLY ADJUSTING THE VOLUME?
This is a common complaint that we hear from many hearing aid users. With the new Cleartone hearing aids you will not have feedback once the hearing aid is completely in your ear. You will not have to continually adjust the volume control, because the hearing aid will automatically reduce the loud noises for you.
We have found that it even helps those who have Tinnitus "ringing ears".
Come in today for a no-cost hearing evaluation and demonstration of the hearing aid!

Property Rights Debate Is Raging Across Nation

A debate is raging across the United States over the constitutional rights of private landowners versus the right of government agencies to regulate lands for "the public good."

The debate is playing out in the wheat fields of North Dakota over the issue of preserving wetlands, in the forests of Oregon, where the spotted owl is the issue and over abandoned railroad lines destined for bike trails in Missouri.

Does government have the authority to take regulatory action which diminishes the value of property? If it does, should there be compensation, and who should pay? A two-day Property Rights Symposium held last week in Spokane examined those issues. The Washington State Farm Bureau co-sponsored the meeting.

"The biggest challenge facing farmers today is their ability to make full use of their land, and to do it in the best manner possible," said Richard Krause, assistant legal counsel for the American Farm Bureau Federation.

He cited current and potential government regulatory actions covering wetlands, endangered species, open space and recreational trails that are threatening U.S. farm interests.

"Increasingly, private property owners are being asked to bear the burden and costs of government decisions — decisions that are made in the interest of the public-at-large that reach beyond the protection of public health and safety," Krause said.

The government has gone beyond the bounds of the Endangered Species Act, Krause told the group. "What was originally enacted for the protection of plants and animals has become a land-use statute of the first order," he said. "Resources are regulated just for the sake of the resource, not the original intent of the Act."

Edward Connor, chief of the Property Rights Section of the Pacific Legal Foundation, told the Spokane audience "a real struggle is going on in the courts over property rights, with tremendous pressures from all sides. It's a struggle that is pitting property owners against government regulatory agencies."

Connor said the argument comes down to who will bear the costs for "perceived" benefits to society.

"Should a few people bear the costs, or should the funds be derived in another way?" he asked. "If society wants to protect the 'endangered' kangaroo rat in Southern California, then society should have to pay, and the courts must decide what is proper compensation to the affected landowner."

Krause and Connor contended that many government actions result in diminished land values with no compensation.

"Government has the right to regulate, but when it goes too far, that constitutes a 'taking,'" Connor concluded.

Eric Mayers, general counsel for the Environmental Law Institute, acknowledged that conflicts exist in today's society. He called for greater collaboration between public and private interests.

According to Mayers, we all must "look for better says to guide the use of land." But, he said private and public interests often may disagree on what is just compensation.

Ron Zumbron, president of the Pacific Legal Foundation, said affected landowners should turn to the courts for relief.

"Much has happened in the courts in the past four years. The judicial branch is the place for you to seek relief," he said. "It must be full-speed ahead, but people must have the courage."

In an evening address to the symposium audience, AFBF economist John Hosemann warned that infringement of private property rights will lower the standard of living for all Americans.

"Private property rights are the basis for all economic progress," he said. "While experts worldwide are thrashing and debating the future of the Soviet Union, it seems pretty clear to me. Without the fundamental right to own and control property, there is no reason to establish markets as the Soviets are attempting to do.

"Unless people can feel secure in their ability to retain the fruits of their labor, there is little incentive to save and to expand the fund of capital — the tools and equipment for production and for better living."

Economic arguments dictate that private property rights remain inviolate. Economics tells us that private property, free trade and peaceful cooperation promote economic efficiency and enhance human welfare, according to the AFBF economist.

Trent Clark, chief legislative aide to U.S. Senator Steve Symms (R-Idaho), said Congress is re-examining the impact of excessive regulation.

"Too often in the past when Congress has lacked money to provide programs, they regulate instead," he said. "The collision between regulatory action and personal property rights is causing a much needed debate. Environmental goals and principles are undefendable in the absence of private property rights."

Sen. Symms was the originating author of Senate Bill 50, the Private Property Rights Act, now co-sponsored by 20 senators. If enacted, the legislation would require federal agencies to consider the impact of their decisions on property rights. If a "taking" results from a federal action, the act would require that a less intrusive action be taken.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my father, Ed Lewis, who passed away on February 3, 1984

How comforting the memory of a father's special love . . .
I think of the joy he left behind . . .
Of his cheerful smile and laughter,
I think of his loving words and deeds
That will live forever after,
I think of all these wonderful things
And even though he's gone,
Within my heart and memory
My father will live on.

Sadly missed by daughter Jeannie

Maryland-Soviet Farm Exchange Program Noted

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley Jr. announced increased opportunities for Maryland farmers to participate in exchange programs with their counterparts in the Soviet Union. "These are unique opportunities to visit and meet people from another culture," Cawley said.

Currently, the Soviet Union's State Commission for Food and Procurement is looking for Maryland farmers and their wives who are interested in visiting the Soviet Union for two weeks visiting Soviet farms as well as tours of Moscow, Leningrad, Kiev and other historic sites. The Soviet Union takes care of all expenses except round trip air fare between New York and Moscow.

Reciprocally, the Soviets also are looking for Maryland farmers who would be willing to host Soviet farmers on their farms. The Soviet farmers would work together with their American hosts and learn modern methods of cultivation.

The Maryland Department of Agriculture, in cooperation with the University of Maryland System, currently has six exchange agreements in place with various Soviet organizations. These agreements involve exchanges of students, professors, scientists and other specialists for periods of time from two weeks to six months.

For more information on the Maryland-Soviet exchanges, those interested may contact Robert L. Walker, deputy secretary, Maryland Department of Agriculture, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, MD 21401, phone 301-841-5881.

Maryland Cattle Industry Convention and Trade Show

The 1991 Maryland Cattle Industry Convention and Trade Show is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, March 8 and 9 at the Sheraton Inn in Hagerstown. This is the fourth annual convention held jointly through the cooperation of the Maryland Beef Breed Associations with leadership from the Maryland Cattlemen's Association and Beef Council. The convention has grown in size each year and attracts producers from five neighboring states for two days of informative, educational and enjoyable programs. Many allied industry representatives come to interact with and update the beef producers on the latest innovations, technology and products available to assist key producers. The trade show is certainly a highlight of the program. If you would like to have additional information, call my office (334-1990).

Ridiculous! . . . But They Are Out to Do You In

The Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, JoAnn Smith, in an address to the National Cattlemen's Association, warned, "some signs are already there" that environmentalists are targeting the cattle industry. She said, "I believe the new decade will see a focus on environmental impact of agriculture, particularly beef production." She went on to say, "Two issues: methane from cattle contributing to global warming and knocking beef production as wasteful of land, water and other resources, and there is apparently a revival of the 1970's complaint that feeding grain to livestock contributes to world hunger." It's difficult to figure these extremists out. I guess they want to exterminate all of the cattle from the face of the earth.

Attention . . . Grade B Milk Producers

The State of Maryland, Division of Milk Control, is in the process of drafting rules and regulations to govern manufacturing grade milk (Grade B) and milk products in the State of Maryland. As part of the process, the Division of Milk Control is holding a public meeting on Wednesday, February 27, 1991 at 7:30 p.m. at the Garrett Community College, Tech Building, Room TC-260. Representatives from the State Division of Milk Control will be present to discuss the proposed regulations, and to receive comments. If you would like to review the proposed regulations prior to the meeting, I have a couple of copies at my office. If you have questions, contact William Zepp, Division of Milk Control, 1-301-791-4779. I would advise you to attend this meeting to protect your interests.

New Center At WVU Links Wood Producers With International Traders

The word apex means the summit or the highest point. At West Virginia University, APEX stands for the Appalachian Export Center for Hardwoods, the new agency striving to link Appalachian producers of forest products — especially the region's hardwoods — with international traders throughout world markets.

Conducting research in those markets and providing the technical assistance necessary to export goods also are important components of the center.

Dr. Ramsay Smith, APEX director, has high hopes for the agency which began operation in July 1989. "Our hardwoods: oak, maple walnut, yellow-poplar, black cherry and others, are increasingly in demand as a top-quality, furniture-grade product of lasting value," Smith said. "We aim to make our hardwoods even more popular internationally and to assist the domestic industry supply the growing demand."

APEX explains to producers how hardwoods headed for foreign markets should be cut, marked, dried, graded and packaged — since many Appalachian producers are unaware of such details — in order to satisfy foreign customers, Smith noted. To meet the goal, the center's staff, experienced in international trade and forestry, conducts market research on foreign markets and provides technical assistance to the region's producers, provides information on wood technology, financing, market conditions and other aspects of international trade in forest products.

The center will become a comprehensive clearinghouse of information on international trade in forest products. The increase of value-added exports of Appalachian hardwood products is a major concern.

Value-added components are those components or products whose value has increased because of added manufacturing steps. For example, logs are raw material; lumber and furniture are value-added. The center assists Appalachian producers by investigating what foreign markets want and alerting domestic producers to those preferences.

It then links reliable domestic suppliers with foreign customers, explained Tim Powers, international trade specialist at APEX. The primary Appalachian hardwood species exported include: red oak, white oak, black cherry, yellow poplar and ash, according to Smith. Producers in the Appalachian sector export to over 60 nations.

The Appalachian region spans from the northeast corner of Alabama to the southeast corner of Maine. Some of the major importers include Pacific Rim nations (Japan, Korea, Taiwan, Singapore), European countries (the United Kingdom, Germany, Italy, Spain, France, Belgium-Luxembourg and Denmark), Canada and Australia.

Japan leads the group by importing over $334 million worth of hardwood products in 1989. Having worked with Japanese import markets for five years, Smith is optimistic about future growth in that market. "Japan has ample money, and housing construction there is booming with over 1.6 million housing starts per year. Japan imports Appalachian furniture, windows, doors, cabinets, flooring, paneling and finished wood products. The younger generation shows continued interest in having natural wood products since it means bringing nature into the home."

Although 66 percent of Japan is forested, approximately two-thirds of its forest products are imported. "Japan imports that much because their wood is expensive to harvest, is of questionable quality or it is immature," Smith added. "Land prices and the cost of warehousing and other factors make importing U.S. wood products attractive and economical."

After World War II, Japan changed its fire codes to limit building multi-family dwellings with wood because fires spread quickly from house to house, Smith explained. Approximately 40 percent of the new houses are single-family units, with an increasing number built with hardwood flooring and trim.

Principal hardwood product exports include: lumber, furniture parts, veneer, logs, chips, plywood, flooring, railroad ties, molding and siding. According to statistics supplied by the U.S. Department of Commerce, the value of U.S. wood exports rose from $1.3 billion to $1.6 billion during the first quarter of this year.

The total value of U.S. hardwood exports climbed from $1 billion in 1988 to $1.3 billion in 1989, Smith noted. During the first quarter of 1990, Japan had imported over $746 million worth of wood products from the U.S., well ahead of Canada, which spent an estimated $277 million for U.S. exported goods. APEX tracks national figures on hardwood exports, but tracking Appalachian wood products that are exported is extremely difficult, Smith explained.

"Many states do not collect these statistics, they are tracked through the U.S. customs districts located at a variety of individual ports. Determining the origin of state's shipments is virtually impossible," Smith said. He estimated the total value of all exported U.S. wood exports was approximately $6 billion in 1989.

It is ironic that statistics of West Virginia's wood exports and those of other states are no longer tracked by the states' governmental agencies. Neither the USDA, the West Virginia Division of Forestry, nor congressional offices were able to provide statistics on West Virginia's wood exports.

For instance, wood products shipped from West Virginia may travel through the Port of Pittsburgh or the Port of Baltimore. The state where the port is located gets the credit for those wood products. This lack of data could become a problem for APEX which needs such data to project future hardwood demands, noted Smith, who is establishing a database similar to the University of Washington's Center for International Trade in Forest Products (CINTRAFOR) — a similar trade development center serving the wood industry in the Northwest.

In addition to lack of information and exporting know-how, other obstacles can affect the Appalachian export industry. The gypsy moth invasion of regional timber stands could cause major timber losses because gypsy moths feed on the best hardwoods.

West Virginia has about 30 percent of the hardwoods in the Northeast, and oaks (the gypsy moth's favorite food) comprise about 43 percent of the timber volume.

Of the gypsy moths, Smith said, "We are very concerned. In order to promote our product, we have to be able to project what our resources will be in the future." Additionally, transportation and various costs associated with international trading can add to domestic costs, which in turn, affects export rates, according to Dr. William Luppold, project director with the USDA Forest Service. Luppold analyzes domestic and international hardwood product markets.

West Virginia's bountiful timber products are, and will continue to be, a reliable resource for the state's economy. Smith is optimistic about the continued growth of Appalachian hardwoods in international markets. "We grow nearly two-and-half times as much hardwood as we cut, which ensures a long-term, sustainable supply," he said.

According to Ed Murriner, assistant forestry administrator for forestry utilization and marketing, state Division of Forestry, "There are about 10,000 employees on the payroll for the whole West Virginia wood industry." Murriner estimates the state exports about half of its wood products to domestic and foreign markets.

"West Virginia annually exports about 300 million board feet — at $1 per board foot, that amounts to $300 million. Logs provide about 100 million board feet — at 50 cents a board foot, that amounts to 50 million. Pulp wood provides 279,000 cords of wood — at $50 per cord, that amounts to about $13,950,000. There are no pulp mills in the state," Murriner noted. These are annual figures, he explained. The USDA/Cooperative State Research Service recently awarded APEX a $550,960 grant that is matched equally by WVU.

Botswana

and I took tons and tons of photos.

"One of the most exciting areas I visited was the ecologically unique Okavango Delta," Barbara added. The world's largest inland delta, it covers 9,000 square miles in northwestern Botswana. The Delta is considered to have the most varied bird and animal viewing in the world. "I found the best way to see the Delta was to rent a dougout canoe, complete with poler. There is nothing quite as relaxing as a cool river cruise. The animals coming down to drink as the canoe glides by makes an unforgettable sight." Barbara concluded that although she was not a tourist, if she had been, she couldn't imagine a better place to be.

Barbara said she never got homesick. "It was always fun. The people were all very friendly. My hosts were always asked where they got the white person, so we usually spent the first couple of days in a village meeting the people — important people like the chief, police officers and teachers.

"I did not look forward to leaving. They took me in as one of their own and made me feel comfortable — not like an outsider. It seemed that just when I was becoming used to them, it was time to pack my bags. I really enjoyed fixing meals by the fire and spending the evenings outside looking at the star-filled sky getting to know the children. Leaving them was very difficult."

Barbara is available for talks and presentations to clubs and civic organizations, and engagements can be scheduled by calling the Allegany Extension Office at 301-724-3320.

"My advise about the IFYE Program to everyone out there, is — do it!" Barbara said. "If you're not sure what you want to do with your life, take a year off from school and do it. You'll never be sorry you did."

Estimates Of HIV Cases Cut By 75 Percent

The AIDS Administration of the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH) has revised its estimate of the number of individuals in Maryland who are infected with human immunodeficiency virus (HIV), the virus which causes AIDS, to 16,000 approximately one-quarter of the past estimate. Administration officials point out that this is a conservative estimate of the size of the affected population and will be used for budgetary purposes.

The current estimates have been produced by Ivan Kramer, Ph. D., assistant professor of physics at the University of Maryland at Baltimore County, through a computer model. Dr. Kramer developed and tested the model by using AIDS case data from San Francisco and New York City.

The model, which includes factors such as the degree of infectiousness, the contacts between individuals, and numbers of people susceptible to infection, depends on the accuracy of the numbers of reported cases, the transmission rate among groups-at-risk, and the incubation period of the infection, among others. Exact information is not available for many of these factors and, consequently, the resulting case projections may be affected. Dr. Kramer's model consistently falls within the lower range of other national projections.

The discrepancy between the AIDS Administration's past and present estimates is due to the previous practice of calculating the estimated number of infected individuals by multiplying cumulative AIDS cases by a factor of 25 to 30 as suggested by the federal Centers for Disease Control (CDC) based on similar observed ratios in other areas of the country.

"Because the computer model is based on the actual numbers of AIDS cases reported to the health department, it probably underestimates the true number of HIV-infected persons in Maryland since physicians fail to report cases and occasionally, while individuals die as a result of HIV infection, the illnesses they develop do not meet the AIDS case definition, leaving them uncounted as cases," said Kathleen F. Edwards, Ph.D., R.N., Director of the DHMH AIDS Administration.

Therefore, says Dr. Edwards, case projection from a mathematical model is only one of several methods employed to calculate the size of the epidemic. The other primary way is to generalize from data only recently available obtained by testing of anonymous blood samples for the presence of HIV antibody, an indication of infection. Those studies show that as many as 20,000 to 30,000 Marylanders may be infected in 1990, but cannot be used to project future numbers like the computer model.

Projected future cases are needed for budgetary planning.

Former Oakland Resident Accepted In Ph.D. Program

Thayer Sentences Several In G.C. Circuit Court

Judge Fred A. Thayer of the Garrett County Circuit Court handed down sentences to several defendants recently for various crimes, including burglary, storehouse breaking and entering, and violation of probation.

William P. Gank, 17, Oakland, who was indicted by the Grand Jury in September 1990, pleaded guilty in a January trial to the charge of burglary. Thayer accepted the plea and ordered a pre-sentence investigation at that time. Then on Thursday, Jan. 31, Thayer sentenced Gank to 30 months in the Maryland Department of Corrections.

The judge then suspended 18 months of the sentence and ordered that the balance be served in the Garrett County Jail. Gank will receive two years of supervised probation upon release, and shall enter the Massey Unit of the Finan Center.

Gank's charge stemmed from a September 1990 incident at which time he reportedly broke into the residence of Ferdinand Bauman at Fricks Crossing and ransacked the home, shattering a glass table top and setting fire to wash cloths and other cloth items. The Garrett County Sheriff's Office investigated the incident and made the arrest.

Defense council for Gank was John R. Toston.

Brett M. Cosner, 18, McHenry, was sentenced to one year in the Garrett County Jail on the charge of storehouse breaking and entering. Judge Thayer then suspended the sentence, and ordered one year of supervised probation. One condition of the suspended sentence is that Cosner continue his high school education until graduation.

Cosner was charged with the violation after a September incident at which time he apparently broke into the dwelling of Thomas Sanders and removed bottles of alcoholic beverages worth under $300.

Defense attorney for Cosner was John R. Toston.

In a separate case, David L. Kitzmiller, 29, Swanton, pleaded no contest to the charge of violation of probation. Judge Thayer ordered that the original sentence of 10 months in the G.C. jail be reimposed. He then suspended 6 months of the term, and extended Kitzmiller's probation to two years upon release.

The original charge against Kitzmiller was pos-

VALENTINES COME IN MANY FORMS, and these two that appeared on the Glendale Bridge this morning were among the more clever that we have seen this year. Icy Roadways Cause Several Mishaps Sunday

Icy roadways in the county Sunday caused three accidents, according to reports filed by the Maryland State Police, McHenry Barrack.

A Mtn. Lake Park woman and her daughter were taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad where they were treated and released following a 10:15 a.m. mishap.

Tpr. Gregory S. Becker investigated the accident.

In another Sunday mishap, a New Windsor couple, their son, and another passenger escaped serious injury when the 1988 Jeep Cherokee in which they were traveling slid out of control on the Bumble Bee Road, struck an embankment and overturned.

The operator of the vehicle was David W. Price, 38. Passengers in the vehicle were Barbara J. Price, 32; David M. Price, 12; and Matthew T. Carter, 11.

Tfc. G.R. Chaney investigated and noted that no first aid was administered

Local Citizens For Tax Equity Group Formed

Thomas E. Bratten Jr., Swanton, has announced the formation of Western Maryland Citizens for Tax Equity. The organization will encourage Western Marylanders to support the findings of the Governor's Commission on State Taxes and Tax Structure. The Commission is also know as the Linowes Commission.

"One of our major efforts will be to circulate petitions which will ask members of our General Assembly Delegation to give very serious consideration to the Linowes Commission findings," Bratten said. "We feel strongly about the report, particularly the provisions for educational equity in Western Maryland."

The Linowes Commission, according to Bratten, has tried to make Maryland's tax structure fairer and more uniform. The Commission's proposals have been submitted by the Schaefer Administration as legislation for the General Assembly to consider.

Groups and individuals that are supporting this effort are BEST (Better Education Starts Today) health and education leaders in Western Maryland.

Interested citizens wishing to volunteer their time can contact Bratten in Garrett County after 6 p.m. at 387-4729 or in Allegany County at 724-4336.

Barton Man Arrested After Injuring Three In Sunday Shooting Spree

A Barton man was arrested Sunday after a shooting spree in which three persons were injured, according to reports filed by the Maryland State Police, McHenry Detachment.

Norman Alvin Jacobs, 67, Laurel Run Road, is currently incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $250,000 set by Garrett County District Court Judge Jack R. Turney at a bond hearing earlier this week.

Police said Jacobs was arrested without incident following the 5:46 p.m. incident. He was charged with attempted murder, two counts of assault with intent to murder, three counts of reckless endangerment, assault and battery, and carrying a deadly weapon with intent to injure.

Injured were Robert Lee Harvey, 34, who had been listed in "stable" condition on Monday, but a nursing supervisor at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, said Wednesday night that he was no longer listed as a patient; his wife, Vicki Taylor Harvey, 32; and Eric Lee Harvey, two; both of whom were treated at Memorial Hospital and later released.

Another family member, Keith James Taylor, 11, Barton, was treated for shock and then released from the same hospital. Also a passenger in the Harvey vehicle was William Ray Harvey, 13.

Police said the incident occurred when the Harvey pickup truck approached a tractor and attached spreader blocking the Laurel Run Road. Harvey then reportedly began backing up when Jacobs allegedly fired four shots from his 12-gauge shotgun at a distance of approximately 75 feet. The shots struck the cab of the pickup, according to Tfc. R.J. Resh.

The victims fled to a neighbor's house where they telephoned for help. Jacobs was arrested at 6:25 p.m. Prior to his arrest, he "just walked the roads," said Resh.

Before shooting at the Harvey family, Jacobs reportedly shot the windows out of his unoccupied, two-story farmhouse, police said.

"Crimes Of The Heart" To Be GCC Production

"Crimes of the Heart," a play that is billed as "humorous, provocative, and touching," will be presented in the Garrett Community College theatre on February 28, March 1 and 2 at 8 p.m. The play is being directed by Frances Acton, and produced with permission of Dramatists Play Service, Inc., New York.

The play depicts one dramatic day in the lives of the three Magrath sisters, one of whom has just accidentally or purposefully shot a prominent citizen of the town. As the three sisters are reunited at the old "home place," there is a brief renewal of a love affair and a confrontation that ultimately helps them make peace with their lives.

Cast of characters includes: Mary Sincell McEwen as Lenny, the eldest sister; Scindra Rosson as Chick Boyle, a snobby cousin; Susan Bell as Meg, the middle sister, whose singing career is declining; Rob Smith as Doc Porter, who has an earlier love affair with Meg; Marci Beiler as Babe Botrelle, the youngest sister, who has shot the citizen; and Alex Hicks as Barnett Lloyd, a young attorney. Beiler and Hicks are students at Garrett Community College.

Town Objects To Plan To Re-Vamp Bradley Manor

Two Baltimore-Washington metro area real estate companies, the Maryland Property Group and The Harvey Companies, have proposed a renovation plan for the Bradley Manor apartment complex in Oakland. The Oakland Mayor and Town Council have made objections to such a plan because of the troubled history of the complex and the debt currently in place involving Bradley Manor.

Maryland Property Group and The Harvey Companies have proposed to develop a reconfiguration of the apartments in the 25 free-standing buildings by creating three slightly larger apartments out of the existing four. They would install a new roof system, replace all windows and exterior doors, install vinyl siding and trim, and put new gutters and downspouts in place. Other interior renovation would also be completed.

According to a report submitted by the two companies on January 10, Maryland Property Group and The Harvey Companies did rehabilitate a similar complex in Hagerstown called Halfway Manor. The report stated that Halfway Manor was also in a state of disrepair, but now houses 75 families. The modification would "give the developer the flexibility to use the complex for either the apartment rental market or to sell units to individual home buyers under the state's 'first time moderate income program,'" the report stated.

Oakland Mayor Asa McCain stated in an interview that he was opposed to the renovation for several reasons. He said that there is no indication of where the companies will get the monies needed to finance such a venture. He also noted that part of the Bradley Manor complex is located in a flood plain, which apparently caused numerous structural problems in the past.

McCain also stated that if this proposal is approved, then money owed to the Garrett County Government and the Town of Oakland will not be reimbursed for 10 to 20 years. The federal

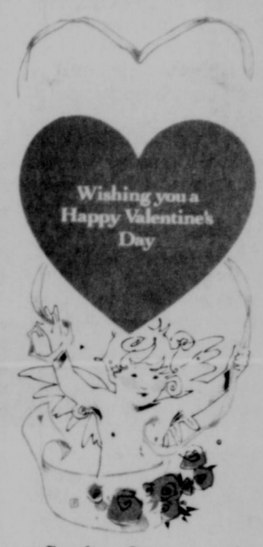
Special Ski Train To Arrive In Oakland For Feb. 22-24 Weekend

Governor William Donald Schaefer announced this week that a special MARC train will carry downhill and cross-country skiers from the Baltimore and Washington areas to Cumberland and Oakland during the weekend of February 22-24.

"I want everyone to have an opportunity to 'Ski Maryland' -- to see the beauty of Maryland in a special way on a MARC train," Governor Schaefer said.



The special MARC ski train will leave Camden station in Baltimore's Inner Harbor at 4:50 p.m. and travel to Union Station in Washington, D.C., with intermediate stops at Savage, Laurel and College Park. It will leave Union Station and stop at Silver Spring, Rockville, Metropolitan Grove, Point of Rocks and Brunswick before continuing to Cumberland. Sandwiches, snacks and beverages will be available as part of the ticket price.

At Cumberland, a complete cross-country skiing package is available as well as a winter weekend at the Holiday Inn with tours, transportation to skiing, and evening entertainment.

The train will then continue to Oakland, where downhill skiers will be taken by special Ski Coach to the Royal Oaks, Will O' the Wisp, and Wisp Resort which will have weekend discounts of up 50%. Discounted lift tickets are available with the train ticket. Transportation will be available to shuttle people between their hotels, the ski area, restaurants, and other tourist spots.

This will be Winterfest weekend in Garrett County. Among the events will be amateur competition for the Governor's Cup in both the slalom and giant slalom, winter golf tournament, a chili cookoff, and a snow sculpting contest, in addition to regular downhill skiing.

The special MARC train will leave Oakland at 5 p.m.

on Sunday after a reception at the historic Oakland train station.

This is a cooperative effort between the State Railroad Administration and the Mass Transit Administration of the Maryland Department of Transportation, the Allegany and Garrett counties tourism and promotion councils, the Greater Oakland Business Association, the Deep Creek Lake Business Association, the Grantsville Area Business Association, and private sector companies in the region.

People can get additional information by calling 1-800-325-RAIL. Tickets are now on sale at MARC's Camden station, Laurel, Odenton, Silver Spring, Rockville, Gaithersburg, and Brunswick. Only 200 tickets are available on a first-come, first-served basis.

SRA's MARC trains normally operate on two lines in the Baltimore-Washington corridor and from Martinsburg, W.Va., through Frederick and Montgomery counties to Washington, D.C. The Mass Transit Administration operates buses and a subway in Baltimore as well as regional bus transportation throughout the state. SRA and MTA have operated together on a number of special regional projects, such as the whitewater competition on the Savage River during the last two years.

DNR Pleased With Wetlands Permit Review

Maryland and federal government officials joined this week in voicing "satisfaction and confidence in a final agreement on sharing the work of protecting nontidal wetlands in Maryland," according to a spokesperson for the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

DNR Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., is reportedly pleased with the US Army Corps of Engineers' final version of the nontidal wetlands general permit, released last week.

Applications review for nontidal wetlands permits began in earnest January 1 with DNR staff reassigned to two new field offices, in addition to the Tawes Building headquarters in Annapolis. A toll-free number for permit information is now accessible to Marylanders.

"This general permit will simplify the permit process and improve protection of nontidal wetlands -- our two chief reasons for starting the state program," Dr. Brown said.

DO IT NOW! -- That now familiar quote from Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer might well be adopted by the county officials regarding the case of the recycling demand in Garrett County far exceeding the available market. Shown above is the inside of the League of Women Voters of Garrett County's office building this week shortly after half of the recyclables were collected by B&S Scrap, Hutton. According to a league member, strong citizen support is evidenced in this photograph, and as a result, the league will, once again, appeal to the Garrett County Commissioners Tuesday, February 19, at 11 a.m., to quickly implement drop-off sites in the county to accommodate the demand. All interested citizens are welcome to join the league at that meeting.

"SMILE, AMERICA, There's Magic in Your Smile," which is the slogan for this year's National Children's Dental Health Month, currently underway. Helping her students at Red House School learn how to brush better is their teacher, Helen Carroll. According to Elaine Marple, dental hygienist with the Garrett County Health Department, local school children in the elementary grades, with teacher supervision, regularly participate in brushing and flossing in the classroom. Mrs. Marple and Lois Ford, R.N., community health nurse, also visit classrooms and use filmstrips, posters, movies, puppets, and talks to reinforce the dental health program. A number of Garrett County students also participate in a weekly fluoride rinse program, funded and conducted by the PTA's of the individual schools. Marple and Ford remind parents they should take their children to the dentist by age 2 and one-half, substitute candy snacks with those not as decay-producing, such as fruit, and see that fluoride either in water, toothpaste, or tablets is used daily.

Deer Park Man Sentenced In Third-Degree Sex Offense Case

A Deer Park man was sentenced last week during Garrett County District Court proceedings after being found guilty of a third-degree sex offense in October of last year. At that time, he was handed a pre-sentence investigation by Judge Jack R. Turney.

David A. Lohr, 36, was given a one-year suspended jail term, fined $500, and placed on 24 months of supervised probation. Charges of child abuse and battery against him were not prosecuted.

Lohr had been charged with the offenses following a July 27, 1990, incident in which he had sexual contact (genital fondling) with a female juvenile under the age of 14.

In other District Court news, a Kitzmiller woman was sentenced after being found guilty of multiple charges.

Rebecca A. DeWitt, 21, was found guilty of resisting arrest and driving while intoxicated. Judge Turney sentenced her to a concurrent one year in jail for each count. The jail term was suspended and she was placed on a total of 18 months of supervised probation, fined $250 on the resisting arrest charge and $500 on the DWI charge. One charge of battery, one charge of a restricted license violation, one charge of failure to drive right of center, and one charge of speeding against her were not prosecuted because of a plea agreement.

In that same case, an additional charge of battery and a charge of malicious destruction of property were placed on the stet docket. She was ordered, however, to pay $50 restitution to Deputy David Stoner for destroying his watch band.

DeWitt had been arrested on September 11, 1990, by deputies of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department on traffic violations when the other charges were also filed as the result of her resisting arrest.

Also last week, DeWitt was sentenced from previous charges filed against her. Judge Turney had found her guilty in October of last year on four counts and then ordered a pre-sentence investigation.

She was found guilty of concealing a deadly weapon for which she was handed a one-year suspended jail term, fined $100, and placed on two years of supervised probation. She was also found guilty of DWI and given a 30-day suspended jail term and a $500 fine ($300 of which was suspended). She was fined $15 on a count of passing in a no passing zone and $15 on a restricted license violation count.

DeWitt had been arrested and charged with those four counts on August 12, 1990, by sheriff's deputies.

In further court news, Scott J. Anderson, 31, Davis, W.Va., was found guilty of possession of a controlled dangerous substance. He was sentenced to a one-year jail term (all was suspended but time served), fined $100, and placed on one year of supervised probation.

Betty Tasker, 22, Kitzmiller, was found guilty on four counts of uttering bad checks. Two charges of theft against her were not prosecuted because of a plea agreement. She was sentenced to a total of six months in jail (all was suspended), ordered to pay $60 in fines, and placed on one year of supervised probation.

The first count stemmed from a September 26, 1990, incident in which Tasker obtained merchandise in the amount of $11.50 from BFS Foods in Mtn. Lake Park by uttering a bad check. The second count resulted from a bad check written to C.P. Martin Store in Mtn. Lake Park on October 8, 1990, for $17.67. The third count was the result of a bad check drawn from a credit union and deposited in the First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland. She then drew checks from that account payable to cash. That occurred on September 11, 1990. Another count resulted from a May 6, 1990, incident when she uttered a bad check to IGA in Mtn. Lake Park in the amount of $16.

Leo V. Stottlemeyer, 37, Mtn. Lake Park, was found guilty of possession of a controlled dangerous substance and possession of drug paraphernalia. The judge handed him a 90-day suspended jail term, ordered him to pay a total of $150 in fines, and placed him on six months of unsupervised probation.

He had been charged on October 27, 1990, by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department after the vehicle in which he was a passenger was stopped for a traffic violation. A search of the vehicle revealed marijuana and drug paraphernalia. The stop occurred in the Pleasant Valley area.

Harold B. Burgess, 38, Friendsville, was found guilty of assault and battery. He was sentenced to a 30-day jail term, fined $25 on each count, and placed on six months of supervised probation.

He had been charged on October 20, 1990, by Jessie Capel, Friendsville.

Linda S. Moats, 30, Terra Alta, W.Va., had a charge of theft of under $300 against her placed on the stet docket provided she stay away from Browning's Foodland.

She had been charged on October 21, 1990, with stealing a role of sausage from Foodland.

Wendell Benge, 32, Nicholasville, Ky., was found guilty of possession of a controlled dangerous substance and possession of drug paraphernalia. A third charge of possessing narcotics while on driving duty was not prosecuted because of a plea agreement.

Benge was sentenced to a 30-day jail term (all but 48 hours was suspended), fined $100, and placed on six months of unsupervised probation.

He had been charged by the Maryland State Police following a routine vehicle inspection. A search of the vehicle revealed marijuana and paraphernalia.

Paul Turner, 22, Lonaconing, had charges of destruction of property and disturbing the peace against him placed on the stet docket. He was barred from the Wildwater Inn and ordered to make restitution for damages.

He was charged after refusing to leave the establishment, threatening the employees with a gun, and destroying the front entrance. The incident occurred on August 23, 1990.

Elsworth E. Merbach, 29, and William L. Merbach, 21, both of Grantsville, had charges of petty theft against them placed on the stet docket, providing they stay off the property of Brabson's Scrap Yard. The men were charged on September 5, 1990, after stealing a $5 bathtub from the business.

Brenda R. Alexander, 35, Oakland, had a charge of harassment against her placed on the stet docket at the request of the victim. She had been charged on October 20, 1990, by Sheryl Hefner, Swanton.

David A. Shafer, 41, Swanton, who had originally been found guilty of misdemeanor theft on November 13, 1990, and given a presentence investigation, was given probation before judgment last week. He will serve six months of unsupervised probation.

Virginia L. Shafer, 44, Swanton, who had been found guilty of making a false statement to police on November 13, 1990, was also given probation before judgment after a pre-sentence investigation. She will also serve six months of unsupervised probation.

Robert D. Albert, 32, Oakland, was found guilty of assault and reckless endangerment. The judge ordered a pre-sentence investigation. He was charged by Edward W. Price on October 6, 1990, after he discharged a handgun that created a substantial risk of death or serious injury, according to the charging document.

Frederick L. Bittinger, 69, Grantsville, who had pleaded not guilty to malicious destruction of property, had his case dismissed by reason of lack of jurisdiction.

He had been charged September 12, 1990, after allegedly destroying the driveway of Ray Gearhart.

Robert D. Schrock, 42, Oakland, had a charge of theft against him placed on the stet docket by the request of the victim, Crystal Sisler, Oakland. Sisler had charged him with theft on October 27, 1990, stating that he had stolen her personal effects and clothing.

DNR CASES

Harold K. DeWitt, 36, Grantsville, was found guilty of hunting from a motor vehicle with a loaded weapon and of hunting deer in a closed season.

He was fined a total of $150. He had been charged by the Department of Natural Resources Police on December 8, 1990.

Robert E. Harold, 36, Accident, was found guilty of removing the head or hide from a deer before checking it at a designated station. He was fined $200. He had been charged by the DNR on November 24, 1990.

Larry E. Harding, 33, Friendsville, was found guilty of possession of a loaded weapon in a motor vehicle. He was fined $100. He had been charged on December 22, 1990, by the DNR.

Douglas E. Ratliff, and Carl D. Ratliff, both of Mtn. Lake Park, were found guilty of possession of a loaded weapon in a motor vehicle. They had been charged by the DNR on November 30, 1990. Each was fined $25.

DNR OFFICIALS EXAMINE FRIENDSVILLE WATER PROBLEM -- Maryland Department of Natural Resources Secretary Dr. Torrey C. Brown and Assistant Secretary for the Department of Public Lands James Dunmyer stopped last week in Friendsville while touring Garrett County to take a look at the source of a water leak from a main water line on Morris Avenue in Friendsville. According to Mayor Spencer Schlosnagle, the 650-foot line on Morris Avenue is approximately 60 years old and needs to be replaced to effectively solve the problem. Schlosnagle noted that last year a break in the line completely drained all the water supply from Friendsville and, at one point, it was determined that over 50,000 gallons per day were leaking from the line. Although the town has temporarily fixed the leak, Schlosnagle has requested state funding in the amount of $30,000 to permanently repair the line. The town has been conducting detection tests for the past week to determine the exact leaking points. Reportedly, Dr. Brown has stated that he will work with Maryland Environmental Services to obtain the necessary funds. Shown above left to right are Dunmyer; Dale Perando, Maryland Environmental Service; Dr. Brown, Mayor Schlosnagle; Gary Yoder, DNR-Deep Creek Lake liaison; Wendell Keaton, municipal administrator, and Dred Lowdermilk, assistant operator at the Friendsville Water Department.

Registration Now Open For GCC's Beacon Courses

Registration is now being taken for Garrett Community College's Beacon courses, designed especially for the adult student and slated to begin next month. Three of these courses will be starting during the first week of March, according to Joan B. Crawford, director of enrollment development.

Two art courses are among those being offered. A two-credit course, Video Photography (ART 291), will be taught by local photographer Jim Crabtree on Thursday evenings, from 6-9 p.m., beginning March 7 and ending May 7. This course is for anyone who wants to learn techniques of using the cam corder to get more effective videos for family, business, or personal enjoyment. Students must have their own cameras.

A three-credit course, Watercolor Painting (ART 292), will be taught by Charles "Chip" Evans on Friday mornings, from 9 a.m.-noon, beginning March 1 and ending June 14. In this course, students will learn different styles and techniques of watercolor painting as they paint still lifes, landscapes, waterscapes, human figures, and faces.

Because of the popularity of last year's Civil War in the East course, a second Civil War course has been scheduled for Tuesday evenings, 6:30-9:30 p.m., March 5 to May 21. This course will be taught by Rev. Steve Yelovich and will present a background of events leading to the war, major battles of the war, and the men who led them. Two field trips will be taken, one to the Antietam battlefield and one to Gettysburg.

Other Beacon courses are scheduled to start later in March. They are: Writing Family Histories, Appalachian Plateau -- Extending Our Boundaries, Wildflowers of Garrett County, and Plant Systematics. According to Crawford, registration is also being taken for Pipes and Drums (MUS 119), a Wednesday evening course that continues through the year.

Students may register for these classes at the Registrar's Office of the college weekdays form 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Anyone desiring further information may call Joan Crawford at 387-6666.

Three Elected To Friendsville Town Council

The Town of Friendsville held municipal elections on Tuesday for three town council member positions. Out of 245 registered voters, 137 citizens went to the polls, according to Spencer Schlosnagle, Friendsville mayor.

Alice Marie Spear was elected to a council position by 97 votes. Also elected were James R. Spear with 81 votes, and Wayne A. Friend by 80 votes.

Others vying for the positions were Terry E. Spear, who is currently serving as a council member, Robert L. Humberson, and Jess Paul Whittemore.

The new council members will be sworn in on March 4 by Mayor Schlosnagle. The council members will serve two-year terms.

Hold-over council members currently in office are Joseph E. Sessa, Lucile H. Sines, and Carroll M. Forsyth.

DNR Schedules Public Meetings On State Parks

Public meetings to discuss volunteer assistance in the operations of 12 Maryland state parks will be held February 25 through 28 across the state. The meetings will be held in the communities nearest those parks which were earlier announced as being closed until July 1.

The original decision to close the parks -- New Germany, Dans Mountain, Gathland, Gambrill, Washington Monument, Cedarville, Calvert Cliffs, Tuckahoe, Janes Island, Susquehanna, Morgan Run and the McKeldin Area of Patapsco Valley State Park -- was made because of budget constraints.

The meeting that will concern New Germany State Park in Garrett County will be held Wednesday, Feb. 27, 6:30 p.m. at Frostburg State University. Persons may contact Harold Riley, Mid-Western regional manager, at (301) 842-2155 for details.

However, Governor William Donald Schaefer received an overwhelming response from citizens opposed to the closings. As many citizens had asked what could be done to re-open the parks, the governor directed the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to work with local residents to determine a course of action. DNR is the agency which manages Maryland's 47 state forests and parks.

DNR Secretary Torrey C. Brown., M.D., led Governor Schaefer and his staff on a tour of the park Monday prior to the first public meeting at Gambrill State Park, near Frederick, with a citizen volunteer group.

Dr. Brown said, "I am delighted that we have an opportunity to discuss this situation with these wonderful, concerned citizens. These are public lands and we want our citizens to be able to safely enjoy the use of their state parks. We welcome this opportunity to work more closely with these citizens."

Also participating in the park tour and meeting were DNR Public Lands Assistant Secretary James Dunmyer, State Forest and Park Director Rick Barton, Parks Regional Supervisor Harold Riley and Park Manager Chuck Harris. Ed Kraushaar and Bob Nay are leaders of the Gambrill Community Watch Group, the volunteer organization.

Community Lenten Services Will Begin Feb. 20

A series of Wednesday evening worship services have been planned for the coming Lenten season by the pastors of some Oakland area churches, in conjunction with the Mt. Top Ministerial Association. The series will begin at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland on February 20th. Starting time for all services is 7:30 p.m.

In addition to the Wednesday evening services, a series of noon-time services have been planned for each day during Holy Week to be held at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland. The traditional Good Friday service will also be held at St. Paul's.

As in past years, members of the Ministerial Association will conduct the Easter Sunrise Service at Memorial Gardens, Oakland, on Easter morning. Tentative time for this service is 6:30 a.m.

Guest preacher for the opening Lenten service at St. Mark's will be the Rev. Robert Johnson, pastor of St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland. This year's theme for the services is to be from the Sermon on the Mount as recorded in the Gospel according to St. Matthew.

Ray Ursin; March 6, Oak Park Church of the Brethren, guest preacher, Rev. Margaret Custer; March 13, Bethel United Methodist, Mt. Lake Park, guest preacher, Rev. Paul Stauffer; March 20, St. John's Episcopal, Deer Park, guest preacher, Rev. Mark Hickman.

Augustus Monu; Tuesday, the Rev. Manning Smith; Wednesday, the Rev. Ray Beahm; and Thursday, the Rev. Michael Mudge.

Offerings received at the Wednesday evening Lenten services will be used to assist with the Ministerial Association's Transient Fund. The Good Friday service offering will be donated to the House of Hope and the Mountain Top Crisis Pregnancy Center. Noon time service offerings will be used for the General Fund of the Ministerial Association.

Light refreshments will be served following both the Wednesday evening and the Holy Week noon-time services.

Swanton Man Arrested On Several Charges

Randy R. Paugh, 26, Swanton, was arrested by Dep. J. Sowers of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office on several counts after the officer stopped the defendant for a traffic violation.

Sowers reportedly observed Paugh operating his vehicle in an erratic manner on Oakland-Deer Park Road on Feb. 9. He watched Paugh swerve from side to side on the road, according to the report. Sowers then activated his emergency lights, signaling Paugh to pull over, but the defendant did not. He increased his speed to 65 miles per hour in a 40 mph zone, the report said.

After Paugh had traveled for approximately one mile, he then pulled over. Dep. Sowers noticed that Paugh was apparently intoxicated. The defendant gave false names to the officer, and did not have a driver's license at the time of arrest.

Sowers charged Paugh with driving while intoxicated (DWI), driving while suspended and revoked, giving false names, driving without a license, and failure to drive right of center.

In a separate incident, Christopher M. Tasker, 19, Deer Park, was arrested for DWI on Feb. 10 by Dep. J. Murphy. Murphy observed Tasker operating his vehicle in an erratic manner on Rt. 560 at approximately 3 a.m. Murphy stopped Tasker and charged him with DWI.

Daniel M. Tasker, 32, Deer Park, was charged with DWI on Feb. 8. Dep. Murphy made the arrest after observing erratic driving by the defendant on Boiling Springs Road.

The arrest took place at 12:30 a.m.

Car Accident

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office investigated a traffic accident that occurred on Sand Flat Road, near Pergin Farm Road, on Sunday at 10 a.m.

According to the report, Walter W. Rock, 51, Coal Center, Pa., was operating a 1978 Monte Carlo southbound up a grade and around a right turn when his car skidded on the icy road. Harry A. Johnson, 42, Deer Park, was operating a second vehicle, a 1990 Subaru Legacy, and saw Rock's car skidding into his lane.

Johnson then slowed down and pulled off the road into the embankment. Rock had lost control of his vehicle, and his car then struck Johnson's vehicle on the northbound shoulder.

Other persons in Johnson vehicle were Jeremiah, 10, Suzanne, 41, and John Johnson, 8. Lois Nogle, 63, was also in the Johnson car.

Harry Privisky, 43, Stockdale, Pa., was a passenger in Rock's vehicle.

The Southern Rescue Squad and the Oakland Fire Department responded to the scene of the accident. The squad transported two persons to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where they were apparently treated and released.

ALL-STATE SELECTIONS — Two students from Northern High School were selected recently to participate in the Maryland All-State Band and Chorus. Dawn Friend, left, was named to the All-State Chorus for the second time. She will sing second soprano. At right is April Slagle, who was chosen also for the second year to play first violin in the All-State Orchestra.

government's Housing and Urban Development Program (HUD) apparently wishes to sell the entire complex, and is formally responding negatively to the companies' proposal.

If HUD is able to sell the area, then the repayment of $40,000 in back taxes owed to the county government and the $20,000 owed to the town of Oakland would be two of the first outcomes of the sale, McCain said. However, if the real estate companies do begin the renovation, the back taxes may not be paid for a decade or more.

McCain is going to testify at a hearing down-state to express his objection to the rehabilitation project. Any persons who wish to add their objections to the pending project may write to McCain in care of the Oakland Town Hall. Persons should send letters in time to be received by February 21.

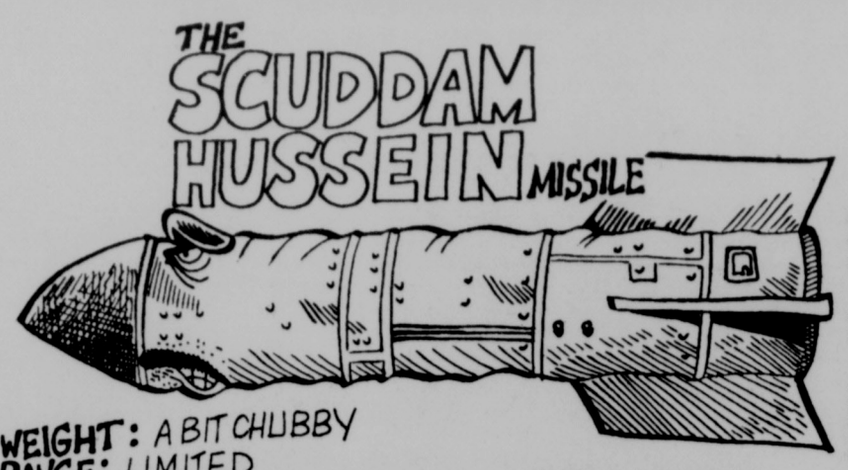
No Blanket Judgment . . .



Because of a significant response received concerning last week's editorial, some positive and most negative, and because of some "enlightenment" provided the editor by a few callers, we felt compelled to offer some clarification and additional information about the same subject this week. The column was critical of the Maryland Classified Employees Association and its complaints about the length of state employees' work week, salaries, and benefits.

We stand by the basic premise of the editorial, which was that many non-state employees, and employers, who do not have nearly the benefits that state employees have, are also suffering right now because of the economic recession. We objected to statements by the MCEA president that seemed to imply that only state employees were having to bear the brunt of Maryland's economic woes.

However, there were other points that we now believe we should have made, the first being that we in no way meant to make a blanket judgment of all state employees, or indicate that we believed they all had "cushy" jobs, or that there were no dedicated, hard-working state employees who never put in more than their designated 35 and one-half hours per week. We know that, particularly here in Garrett County, there are numerous state employees — some union, some non-union — who do an outstanding job, who work well beyond their 35 and one-half hours, on weekends and evenings, without extra compensation.

The home health nurses of the Garrett County Health Department are an excellent example. Not only are they going the extra mile in providing vital health services, but they are having to do so under tighter and tighter budget restrictions. Full-time staff is being cut back and either not replaced at all or being replaced with part-time people who are working without any benefits whatsoever. Now, when their morale is low and their frustration is at an all-time high, they are being asked by Governor Schaefer to do even more, but without any additional compensation.

We want to apologize for adding to that frustration with last week's editorial, and we appreciate the additional information supplied to us by members of the home health nursing staff, as well as other local state employees in similar situations. We also thank you for your dedication under difficult circumstances in your quest to make life better for our local residents.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

It was with disbelief and dismay that I read your "Victory?" editorial of February 7.

As Maryland struggles through financial difficulties, you are correct in pointing out that this affects all citizens. You continue, however, to search for solutions which insulate all citizens and center on a few for the solution. The reality of the governor's executive order was a pay decrease of 13% for public employees (as reported in The Republican of January 31), effectively wiping out cost of living raises for the past four years. Employees have already been notified that health insurance costs will rise with the next fiscal year, and that "automatic" (which have never been automatic) cost of living and step increases will not be realized in the coming year. The 35.5 hour work week was originally instated in lieu of a pay increase, so add at least one more year of wiping out cost of living adjustments.

Perhaps definition is a major problem here. By necessity of the nature of public personnel laws, work day is defined as 7.1 hours. This does not include lunch. Many private employers sponsor shifts of 7 to 3, 9 to 5, 3 to 11, which include meals and break times. Definitions seem different, but reality is not so different here.

Public employment has always seemed to me as a middle ground of employment reality. On one hand we do have private sector employers who either cannot or choose not to provide benefits to employees. On the other end of the scale, we have private employers who extend liberal benefits to employees, as well as including them in profit sharing, end of year bonuses, and stock dividend plans. Rather than begrudge these employees these benefits, I laud the employers for moving forward to extend the best possible work environment for their employees.

One liner nostalgic peeks into the past also have no place in this argument. The 1950's and '60's supported an economy which allowed families to live on one paycheck, so child care and related issues were inconsequential. The 1990's have seen a proliferation of single parent families, and greater than half of all families forced to look to two paychecks for survival. Issues such as day care availability for young children, second jobs, latch key children, and small children being left at 7:30 to catch an 8:00 or later bus during Garrett County winters are important now. Perhaps nostalgia should carry us even further back to years before child labor or worker safety laws were around. Profits would surely increase and Maryland's deficit would probably disappear.

Personally, I hope for the 1990's to be a progressive era for worker/employer relations and a positive integration of work into an ever changing social reality of children, parents and economic forward movement. Perhaps the public sector has a responsibility to be a middle ground and example for the widely divergent private sector in what constitutes a good marriage between economic health and responsibility to workers. While never being able to enjoy the golden apples extended by top employers in private sector, perhaps public employment can serve as a gentle nudge to the lower end of private employ.

Of late your editorials have employed one-liners and emotional pleas rather than well rounded and researched presentation of issues. This serves none of us well and obscures underlying issues which enrich the understanding of issues rather than delegate them to stark black and white.

Thank you,
Carol Bass
Accident

To the Editor:

First I would like to congratulate you on an article well written (January 31) titled "Mr. Bass, is he or isn't he?

I am writing in reference to the letter to you written by Steve Friend of Classic Bass who is also a member of the Garrett Bassers.

First let me clear up an issue which certain members are trying to use to throw the whole situation in a different direction.

In the January 31 article, you printed that I (Karl Hamrick) won the title of Mr. Bass over Garrett County instead of Garrett Bassers Club. Big Deal! This is not the issue at hand. By raising stink about a misinterpretation, certain members are trying to cloud the issues at hand, thus avoiding the real problem that they have.

The bottom line is — The people want to know what the guilt is on my part, or what I've supposedly done wrong to lose membership and the Mr. Bass title, which I honestly earned, along with many years of loyal service and hard work, doing a lot of dirty jobs none of the other members would do. Secretary, for instance — none wanted to do it, but they all liked reaping the harvest.

As for "Classic Bass," some of the Garrett Basser members also belonged to this club. This club is used as a loop-hole for some of the Garrett Bassers members, insuring them a spot in SQT — after not achieving the honor of the Mr. Bass or the next recognized nine positions.

Being a member of "Classic Bass" requires fishing no tournaments at club level, no work details, or climbing any starsteps to obtain the position of "Mr. Bass" or SQT.

So you see, it is none of my concern whether there is one or 50 clubs in Garrett County. The public and business of Garrett County have a right to know what kind of people they are dealing with.

Instead of crying about a little misinterpretation in the paper; using it to try to manipulate the public's eyes into seeing something of no importance, let them be real men and face the truth of why this article was written in the first place.

I was born in America like most of us, and I stand behind her and her laws 100%. I've always heard that a man was innocent until proven guilty — in this case guilty before innocent. Our rights, freedoms, and laws are why our soldiers are fighting today! I suppose some people just take this for granted. I feel that Garrett County and the American people won't stand for it.

So if a certain group wants to start a dictatorship, I would suggest they pack their bags and move to Iraq.

It's getting pretty bad when a man (Frank Cummings) is voted out for voicing his opinion. I guess some members of the Garrett Basser group are exempt from believing in the constitutional rights of "freedom of speech!"

By the way, Steve Friend, thanks for the Christmas Card; it was very touching!

Thanks,
Karl Hamrick

To the Editor:

It was with much dismay that I read last week's editorial concerning state workers and the forty hour work week. I was disheartened to note that once again, The Republican staff provided a close-minded view based on inadequate research.

KEEPING HOUSE PLANTS HAPPY
by Marge Mahood

House plants bring nature into our homes. Every "house plant" has grown naturally somewhere out of doors. When we take these plants out of their natural surroundings, we need to ensure that they can survive. The following information is intended as a general guide. For anyone having a variety of house plants, it is a good idea to consult a book which will provide more specific information on your house plants.

The location and care of your plant is very important. Most plants should be placed in a spot that receives indirect or diffused light. Flowering plants need more light than foliage ones, but few will do well in direct sunlight. You should note that plants that do well in one location in the fall may need to be relocated in the spring. Keep plants out of drafts (opening and closing doors) and away from direct heat sources. If possible, group plants together and mist them often. They will benefit from the increased humidity, which is often lacking in our homes, especially in the cold months. Most plants will do well in a temperature range of 65-75. In winter, watch that delicate plants are not placed too close to a window where freezing is possible.

The reason many plants do poorly or even die is the result of improper watering techniques. Most of us overwater. Let most plants dry out until soil at the top of the container feels dry. Then give a thorough soaking with water that is room temperature. After watering, do not let plants stand in water for more than fifteen minutes. After that, drain the saucer and do not rewater until the plant dries out again. However, there are exceptions to this rule — a good reason to have a book on house plants handy. Some plants need to be kept moist at all times. When buying a plant, check about the watering techniques and light requirements for that particular plant. If possible, use soft water, either rain water or tap water that has been boiled and then cooled. This is especially necessary when spray misting plants, since the lime in water can clog the pores in the leaves. Wipe leaves periodically with a damp cloth or small feather duster to keep them clean and attractive.

A good quality potting soil should be used, either purchased or mixed yourself. In general, this should be well supplied with humus, and should be light, porous and well drained; a mixture of good garden loam, plus sand and peat moss usually is best. The pot or container should have good drainage, which can be provided by placing it on a saucer or a layer of pebbles. Never plant in an undrained pot, as the roots are likely to rot. Feed frequently with a good liquid fertilizer. Be sure to read the directions carefully as to the proper feeding schedule and amounts. Feeding too much and/or too frequently will burn the plant, perhaps killing it.

In choosing your house plants, select ones that you like, that you will be happy caring for and that require conditions suitable to your environment. An excellent general source book is The American Horticultural Society Illustrated Encyclopedia of Gardening — House Plants. Other excellent material is available at the local library and bookstore. Remember that you may find differing opinions in several books; each author will have his/her ideas on successful growing methods. The more you care for plants and see the results in healthy, attractive specimens, the more you will become an expert also.

It might interest your readers to know that along with the forty hour work week (the additional hours were not to be paid for), the governor's efforts to reduce the state's deficits included the loss of yearly increments, the loss of health care benefits, and increased workloads and job responsibilities with no additional compensation. While this may seem trivial, please bear in mind that the state of Maryland, which had previously been one of the higher paying states, has fallen quickly to the bottom.

I would also like to point out that the editor was correct in saying that many of the employees don't receive health care benefits; however, I suspect that the main reason is not that employers can't afford it, but that with one of the highest unemployment rates in the state, many employers know that if one person will not accept the dismal wages and sparse benefits offered, another desperate person will. This is a sad commentary on a county that is trying to beef up its economy and finally compete with the rest of the state.

Finally I would like to point out that I take great pride in the work I do for this state, as do my coworkers. Many of us "go the extra mile" as a matter of routine, because we do represent this state in many capacities. An editorial such as last week's helps to paint an ugly picture of the state workforce as lazy and unflexible.

The next time you're driving down a bare road amidst a snowstorm, cashing a welfare check, renewing your driver's license or walking through one of our beautifully maintained state parks, take a minute to remember who helped make this possible — a state worker. And remember folks, it's quality, not quantity, that's important.

Respectfully,
Michelle A. Evans

To the Editor:

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (MD-DNR), Forest Park and Wildlife Service, recently released results of a public opinion survey on the management of the Savage River State Forest (SRSF). These results, as published, are misleading because they are based on only a few select questions.

The SRSF Citizen Advisory Group, a group of local citizens appointed by the state to assist in the planning process for the SRSF 10-year management plan, were provided with the results of numerous additional questions from the same survey. These results paint quite a different picture than the results from the questions reported in the DNR press release.

The results as recently released by the DNR and published in local papers (based on only 187 responses) suggested that natural preservation and wood products were of highest priority to survey respondents. Those responding reported the following as highest priority: natural preservation, 34.7%; wood products, 22.5%; multiple use management, 17.1%. Wildlife and watershed protection were a priority to only 8.0% and 3.7% of the respondents respectively; recreation to 5.8%, and hunting and fishing a priority to only 1% of respondents.

The results of the questions provided to the SRSF Advisory Group (based on 296 responses) are in sharp contrast to those as reported in local press releases. When asked how important specific forest issues were to the public, 82.8% felt that forest watershed protection was very important and 82.4% responded similarly for wildlife. Less than 2% felt these issues were not important. Other issues of high importance included forest aesthetics and fish. Wood products ranked second to lowest in importance with only 44.6% responding that it was very important, and 18.2% responding that it was not important at all.

Clearly, the results of these additional questions contradict the results of the questions previously released to the press. So, which results should the public believe? The issue here is not which results are accurate, but why some results are published and others are not. If the public participation process is to work, all available information must be presented. One should also note that different responses may be a function of how a particular question is phrased, which I believe in part explains the conflicting results of this survey. The DNR has admitted that the results of the survey questions are conflicting, yet is still using these

P.S. I LOVE YOU
by Pam Ashby

Today is St. Valentine's Day. The buzz word today is love. Right? Right. Love comes in all shapes and sizes. There are many degrees of love and, at times, it knows no boundaries. I am in love today -- in so many ways.

First and foremost, I love my maker. For he made me and sent me a whole bunch of wonderful creatures to love. Thank you, Lord.

And then there are my parents. With their guidance, support, and laughter, they taught me to love others. They loved me when I set the porch of fire as a child and when I eloped at the tender age of 18. They loved me when I threatened to jump out the window if they made me go to piano lessons. They loved me when I quit taking piano lessons without telling them and used the money to treat all my friends to Cokes and fries after school. Talk about unconditional love! Thanks, mom and dad.

Spousal love is the type of love that knows no boundaries. Joe loves me in spite of me. He has remained steadfast through PMS, TMJ, PPB, TGIFS, NTIHAH, and PAM.* He shakes his head lovingly at my illogical mind. On the other hand, I overlook incidents like the night he was bringing the dog in for the night and spied some type of wounded animal slowly making its way toward the house. I paced as he ran outside with the flashlight and watched the strange creature from safe within the house while he bravely got closer to the "white animal with the shining eyes." As it turned out, Mr. Brave was stalking a white trash bag. We laugh and feel warm and cozy in our silliness. Thank you, Joe.

Our love has produced three super kids -- Jamie, Annie, and Katy. These are the lovebugs who can exasperate you the point of insanity one minute and then make you so proud of them you could burst the next. Sometimes you feel they're God's punishment for what you put your parents through. Other times you wish you had a dozen more just like them. They're messy, selfish, cranky, and lazy. They're warm, soft, smart, and caring. And they bring you a big bouquet of dandelions every spring for years. Thanks, kids.

Pets were given to us by God to remind us that even the smallest gestures can be the greatest form of love. When I pet our collie, Gretel, she is thrilled. One pat on her head gives her enough joy to last the entire day. When I play fetch with the cat, Alfie, he rewards me by doing his famous slow-motion, back flip over my feet. He knows I love it. It's his way of saying, "Thanks for taking a few minutes out of your busy day to play with me." Thanks Gretel and Alfie.

Extended family love and the love of friends requires a lot of nurturing and patience -- on both sides. It means agreeing to disagree. It often means overlooking many quirks, but you still love them because they are there for you when you need them. They take your kids at a moment's notice when you have to go out of town for the weekend. They bring you a Christmas turkey. They slip you a few extra bucks when the going gets rough. They present you with a lovely new niece named Emma Claire.

This week I am especially in love with Emma Claire. I love her tiny, pursed mouth, her pug nose, her dark, intense eyes, the way she smells. She's but nine days old and I have fallen completely, hopelessly, happily in love with her. Thanks, family and friends.

There is love in the world. Life is good. Happy Valentine's Day everyone.

*PMS=pre-menstrual syndrome
TMJ=temporomandibular joint disease
PPB=post-partum blues
TGIFS=thank God it's Friday syndrome

LWV THE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

LWV Attends State Workshop

Three members of the League of Women Voters of Garrett County (Donna Aspinall, Connie Margison and Madonna Pool) recently travelled to Prince Georges County to attend a state-wide league workshop to review the status of the 1991 League of Women Voters' legislative priorities and other issues.

During the workshop, the Linowes Commission report was reviewed and the league's position on current related bills was discussed.

Materials relating to the state's role in managing growth and development in Maryland were also distributed and a briefing on that issue was held by a guest speaker from the Barnes Commission—a commission appointed by the governor to study growth and development in the state.

Edwards Wants Interstate Speed Limit Raised

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards recently co-sponsored a bill that would raise the current state speed limit on certain interstate divided highways from 55 to 65 miles per hour.

The bill (HB466) would raise the speed limit only to the extent authorized by the federal law, according to Edwards, who stated that motorists would still have to abide by the federal standards in certain urban areas. The bill would not affect speed limits in business and residential districts.

When Edwards was questioned about the hazards of raising the speed limits (some reports have indicated that if the speed limit is posted at 65 mph, motorists will tend to travel 85 mph), he stated, "I don't buy that." He noted that it has been his experience when travelling on interstates posted at 65 mph, that "very few people are passing you."

HB465 - Sales And Use Tax - Exemption

Delegates Edwards is the sole sponsor of a bill recently introduced that seeks to exempt certain nonprofit organizations from paying a sales and use tax at the Garrett County Fair.

Upon a request from several members of those nonprofit organizations, Edwards introduced the bill in order to allow for all profits made during the week of the fair to go "back into the community and help the charities they were meant to help," he said.

Edwards added, "The week of the Garrett County Fair is the most profitable time for a lot of these community organizations," he said.

Dateline: Annapolis

HB477 - Land Surveying - Notice To Landowners

At the request of some local property owners, Edwards is also the sole sponsor of a bill that would require a land surveyor to notify, at certain times, all owners of land that adjoin certain tracts of land that are to be surveyed.

The bill would only apply to land being surveyed that consists of 20 acres or more.

"The measure would simply require that adjacent property owners be notified of surveys on neighboring land," said Edwards, because, in essence, their land is also being surveyed."

Just A Note...

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards offered a note of explanation concerning the manner in which local bills are introduced to the General Assembly. He stated that strictly local bills which he has sponsored in the House of Delegates have no corresponding bills in the Senate this year "until John (Hafer) gets his feet wet," he said.

"But, although I am handling the local issues, I want to point out that John and I must both agree on the bills before they are put in," he added.

It was announced this week that District 1 Senator John Hafer has been appointed to serve on the three special joint committees of Economic Development Strategy, Energy Pricing and Pensions.

The information was received this week from Mary Beth Pirolozzi, Senator Hafer's administrative aide. Hafer currently serves on the Senate Finance Committee.

Tax Fairness Act Of 1991 Being Readied

The Tax Fairness Act of 1991 is currently receiving its final preparation to be sent to the General Assembly by the Schaefer administration. Governor William Donald Schaefer has reportedly indicated that he wants the tax fairness act and the gas tax increase to be linked with each other so they each have a better chance of passing.

The Tax Fairness Act of 1991 grew out of the tax restructuring recommendations made by the Linowes Commission. The 123-page proposal would reportedly raise approximately $800 million in new taxes during the first year of its implementation. That revenue is scheduled to be applied primarily to education, transportation and infrastructure improvements. It would also help distribute revenue more evenly to the poorer jurisdictions in the state.

Reports indicate that while the gas tax hike has some hope of success in the legislature, the Linowes Commission recommendations are said to be so comprehensive they will require a summer study before then going on to the 1992 General Assembly session.

Included in the recommendations are measures that would raise the state's sales tax from five to five and one/half percent; impose more taxes on higher incomes in order to make Maryland's tax structure more progressive; impose a two percent tax on the value of cars and boats, and simplify the property tax system.

Md. Growth And Chesapeake Bay Act Submitted

The Maryland Growth and Chesapeake Bay Protection Act has been submitted to the General Assembly (SB227/HB214) and hearings have been scheduled by the Senate Economic and Environmental Affairs Committee and the House Environmental Matters Committee on February 26 and 28, respectively.

The bills, submitted by Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer's administration, seek to establish growth restrictions in order to forestall the sprawling development that has been taking place in Maryland and in an effort to stop further pollution of the Chesapeake Bay.

The act would establish an interim program requiring local jurisdictions to classify all their land into one of three categories.

The categories include an "interim growth and development area," which is defined as any area within the boundaries of a municipality existing as of July 1, 1991, and areas having an existing sewer service or planned sewer service within five years; "sensitive areas," which include 100-year flood plains, intermittent and perennial streams and their buffers, critical habitats of endangered species or steep slopes, and the "interim rural and resource area," which limits residential development to no more than one dwelling per 20 acres, with exemptions for possible grandfathering and intra-family transfers.

Growth in the sensitive areas would be strictly prohibited and growth in the development areas would go on as usual in accordance with the existing zoning laws.

State Proposes Gas Tax Hike To Raise Revenue

The Schaefer administration's recent proposal to increase the already established tax on a gallon of gasoline would result in Marylanders paying an additional six and one/half cents per gallon of gas beginning June 1. The increase amounts to a five percent sales tax. The current tax per gallon of gas includes an 18 and one/half cent state tax and a 14.1 cent federal tax.

According to reports, the measure is intended to provide revenue to the state's Transportation Trust Fund over the next five-year period. The fund is reportedly depleted and a reported $583 million deficit exists in the transportation department.

In addition to the gas tax increase, the proposal also calls for increases in over 110 various Motor Vehicle Administration fees, including a 25 percent increase in annual vehicle registration fees, and increases in the fees for drivers' license renewals and tag transfers. The increase, according to transportation department officials, will reportedly bring Maryland more line with the transportation-related fee structure in its neighboring states.

The proposal was submitted to the General Assembly this week and, according to the newly appointed state Secretary of Transportation O. James Lighthizer, the future of virtually all road, bridge, aviation and other transportation projects in the state will be in jeopardy without the revenue raised as the result of this proposal.

Abortion Bill On Its Way To Passage

The Maryland Senate this week, in a 29-18 vote, passed a measure that protects the right of a woman to have an abortion without government interference until the time in pregnancy when the fetus might be able to survive outside the womb. After that time, it would only be allowed to save the life or health of the mother or if the fetus is deformed.

The bill reportedly won Senate approval with no debate -- even though strong opposition from abortion-rights representatives had previously been voiced over the inclusion in the bill of a parental notification clause -- and then received approval from the House Environmental Matters Committee despite efforts by opponents to amend it.

The passage of the abortion-rights bill is predicted to become a reality as early as Friday this week. This is in contrast to last year's lengthy and controversial debate over the issue in the General Assembly. That debate led to an eight-day filibuster.

The measure would also require a doctor to notify a parent before a minor would be allowed to have an abortion. Abortion-rights proponents, however, are reportedly not happy with that clause, indicating that, in some cases, girls seeking abortions would be subject to parental abuse.

New Md. Health Secretary Named By Gov. Schaefer

Following the resignation last week of Adele Wilzack, Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer Saturday appointed Nelson J. Sabatini as acting secretary of the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DMHH).

Sabatini formerly held the position of the deputy secretary and will assume the new position of secretary until a permanent appointment is made, which will reportedly not take place until the General Assembly takes action on a proposal by Governor Schaefer to reorganize the DMHH.

Former Secretary Wilzack resigned after pressure from state legislators following her handling of the state games program. Allegations surrounding that situation included nepotism by Wilzack and misuse of funds by aides in charge of the amateur sports program.

LWV To Host Meeting On Managing Growth

The League of Women Voters of Garrett County will hold a public meeting Wednesday, February 20, at 7:30 p.m. at the Oakland Town Hall, to discuss the state's role in managing growth and development.

Delegates to the 1989 League of Women Voters of Maryland Convention adopted a study of the state's role in managing growth which includes the state's goals of growth management as well as the criteria, techniques and objectives used to influence the rate, amount, type, location and quality of development.

The current position of the state league encourages the state to establish minimum standards and guidelines for overall land use, with local implementation of land use policies. Garrett County was one of 15 Maryland counties that responded to interviews from their local leagues.

Discussion at the meeting will center around the 1989 report from the 2020 panel, the 1990 recommendations of the Barnes Commission, the positions of both the local and state levels of the League of Women Voters and the survey responses from on growth and development from local officials.

The league invites developers, environmentalists, forestry planners, business representatives, local government officials, representatives from the agricultural community and the general public to participate in the discussions.

MUNICIPAL LEAGUE OFFICERS SWORN IN -- Officers for the Allegany-Garrett County Chapter of the Maryland Municipal League were recently sworn in to office. The function of the state Municipal League involves the running of educational programs and lobbying for these programs. The local chapters of the league have been formed to better serve each county. Oakland Mayor Asa McCain explained. The league promoted recycling last year. Pictured above, right to left, are Harvey May, outgoing president of the local chapter, as he swears in David Turney, mayor of Mtn. Lake Park, as the new president of Allegany-Garrett County Chapter of the Maryland Municipal League; Asa McCain Jr., league vice-president; and Terrence McKenzie, councilman from Frostburg and league secretary-treasurer.

AURORA SCHOOL NEWS

Adrain Stemple, a 5th grade student at Aurora School, was announced winner in the school's geography bee on February 4 and will now have an opportunity to be in competition for a $25,000 college scholarship. Runner-up was Tommy Teets.

The school-level bee, at which students answered oral questions on geography, was the first round in the third annual National Geography Bee which is sponsored by National Geographic World, National Geographic Society's magazine for children, and by Amtrak and Kudos Snacks.

The bee was kicked off the week of January 28 in thousands of schools around the United States, District of Columbia, and five U.S. territories. The school winners, including Adrain, will now take a written test; up to 100 of the top scorers in each state will be eligible to compete in their state bee on April 5, 1991.

Buckwheat Festival Junior Princesses were selected recently and representing Aurora Junior High will be Lori Dixon and Melanie Roberson. The first alternate is Darla Ball with Carla Fint being the second alternate.

In the recent item concerning Carol Wotring's birthday dinner, the hosts were Doris and Junior "Stub" Stemple, not Wotring as stated.

ICY SUNDAY

Although the weather had called for a warm and Sunny Saturday, weather on the mountain top was far from that, and on Sunday, roads in this area were extremely icy. An accident between Cathedral State Park and K and W Service in Aurora took the life of Harold Knotts, Rowlesburg, and another accident involving Joey Hixenbaugh of Rowlesburg occurred near the same spot. The trees had been covered with ice on the higher elevations since Friday and were covered further on Sunday.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wink of Connecticut. The couple is residing in Hollywood.

Catherine Shuman was a Saturday visitor with Mrs. Louella Fike enroute from her home in Fairmont to Oakland for a visit with her uncle, Howard Martin, and his wife, Della, who was a patient in Garrett Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Martin died Monday. Also visiting Mrs. Fike this weekend was her grandson, Brian Fike, of Terra Alta.

Harry Brown, 96, of Roanoke and formerly of Clarksburg, died February 7 at the VA Hospital in Roanoke where he had been a patient for the past three weeks. Paternal grandparents are Richard and Kay Edwards of Swanton and maternal grandparents are Joe and Clara Spaid of Eglon. Ralph and Anna Weeks of Mt. Lake Park and Silas Kirk of Fairmont are great-grandparents.

HOMEMAKERS MEET

Eglon Extension Homemakers learned a variety of things at their February 5 meeting which combined both January and February lessons.

Devotions on the subject of "Love" were provided by hostess, Linda Lewis. She also presented the first topic, "Getting Your Financial Papers In Order," which stresses the needed information for running a household and how to organize it.

With cardiovascular disease, stroke, and cancer leading causes of death in the United States, it was noted that West Virginia follows the same pattern. More healthful lifestyle behaviors were discussed.

"Thank-yous" were read from Cortland Acres Nursing Home and from the Preston County Caring Council. A discussion of various community projects will lead to a decision at the next meeting.

The hostess used a woven heart, each making her own, to accompany the devotions.

Refreshments were served to Mary and Craig Rembold, Avenell Parsons, LaDeana Teets, Jean Winters, Lillian Knotts, Lectie Bonner, Rebecca Teets, Ruth Teets and Sara Lewis.

The next meeting will be March 5 at 1 p.m. The lesson will be on "Nutrition, the Brain, and Alzheimer's Disease." Ruth Teets will teach the lesson and Mary Rembold will be hostess.

Valentine Dance Slated Saturday At Alpine Lake

The annual Valentine Dance, "Cupid's Caper," will be held on Saturday, February 16, from 9 p.m. to midnight at Alpine Lake Lodge in Terra Alta. Plans are being finalized by the Terra Alta Civic Club and Alpine Lake Resort for the event, which will once again donate all proceeds to the cardiac unit at Preston Memorial Hospital. Monies will be applied to a heart monitor machine to be used in the recovery room of the facility.

Dave Price, manager of WVSP Radio, Kingwood, will be providing the entertainment for the evening with a $5.00 cover charge. All attending must be 21 years of age and ID's will be required at the door. As an added feature, the restaurant at the lodge will have a Valentine's Dinner for which $1.00 per dinner will also be donated to the hospital.

Janet Phillips, chairman of the event, along with civic club members, invite all to "treat that special valentine of yours to an evening of fun while supporting a most worthwhile cause."

Food Applications Now Being Accepted

North Central W.Va. Community Action (Preston County only) will be accepting applications for surplus food (green cards) from now until March 22.

Persons who already have a green card need not make a new application at this time. When making application, persons must provide Social Security number and proof of income.

The Office located at 109 E. Main St. Kingwood is open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays.

Named Associate Editor Of Book About Festival

Kingwood Volunteer Fire Department President Tom Harriman has announced the appointment of Kingwood resident Beverly Conley to the position of associate editor of a commemorative book to be published about the history of the Preston County Buckwheat Festival.

"I'm really excited to have Beverly on board for this project," Harriman said, "because of her grasp of the subject matter. For eight years, Bev has compiled and produced the popular Buckwheat Festival Program book. And through those efforts, she has become familiar with the people involved and the organization itself. And she understands the way books are produced."

Golden Harvest, 50 Years at the Preston County Buckwheat Festival, is being compiled and edited on behalf of the KVFD by Bob Teets and produced through the facilities of Headline Books, Inc., Terra Alta.

Beverly remembers her family members sewing heavy garments in preparation for them to wear during cold Festival parades when she was a child, and she recalls later having marched with the Kingwood High School band in identical parades. As an adult, she volunteered for seven years in helping to arrange and coordinate various exhibit halls. And then, in 1982, she was asked to produce the Program Book by then General Chairman Dr. DelRoy R. Davis. She has been doing so ever since.

But she points to her roots in the county (she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Clark of Manown) as her chief reason for volunteering so many hours to the Festival.

"So when it came to our children's (Shannon and Colleen were flower girls) becoming involved, I knew it was down to the third generation. (Her mother-in-law, Mrs. Bertha (Benson) Conley was the third queen ever of the Festival, in 1940.) And that's when I started really looking at the Festival in a different way, because it was a matter of family pride. We were looking at a tradition," she said.

With an undergraduate degree from Fairmont State College (1972) and a master's degree from WVU (1976), Ms. Conley taught junior and senior high mathematics at Elkins, Bruceton and Mason town. She is married to a physician, Dr. Fred Conley, and they reside with their four daughters, Shannon, 12, Colleen, 10, Maureen, 5, and Bridget, 3, in Kingwood.

The 128-page, 8½"x11" book, sponsored by the KVFD and being marketed by Preston County Homemaker's Clubs, will feature photos and stories of the Festival's dynamic success over the years, Teets said, adding that all writing for the project will be performed by county residents.

"We're still looking for writers from some areas, and we need photos too, so contributors may contact Beverly or me if they are interested," he added.

Two versions of the book are planned: a special Collector's Edition with matching slipcase, and a Heritage Edition, retailing for $22.95 and $17.95, respectively. The Collector's Edition will be limited to 500 copies, but Harriman said the Homemarkers have done such a good job of pre-selling the books that the limited edition volume may be sold out before then.

Revival Set At Bayard Church Of God

A revival will be held at the Bayard (W.Va.) Church of God beginning Sunday, February 17, through Sunday, February 24, with Evangelist Jeff Morgan, Beckley, W.Va., ministering the word of God.

Also featured will be the singing Lambert family, along with other musical guests.

Rev. MacCallister, pastor, welcomes the public to the revival, which will be held at 7 p.m. nightly.

Buckwheat Fest Book Sales Near Halfway Point

Pre-sale of the Kingwood Volunteer Fire Department's limited Collector's Edition of the book commemorating the 50th Anniversary of the Buckwheat Festival is nearing the half-way point, according to Tom Harriman, KVFD president.

"We're down to about 250," Harriman said, "so people who are interested in owning one or more copies should reserve their copies soon."

The 128-page, 8½"x11" book, entitled, "Golden Harvest: 50 Years at the Preston County Buckwheat Festival," will be available in two versions, the Collector's Edition, limited to 500 copies, and the Heritage Edition, selling for $22.95 and $17.95 respectively. Members of Preston County Homemaker's Clubs throughout the county are selling the book, which will be produced and edited by Headline Books, Inc., Terra Alta.

"Either version of the book will be a collector's item," said Bob Teets, who is compiling and editing the volume along with Associate Editor Beverly Conley. "With the recent announcement about inclusion of the Jan's Studio of Photography collection in the book people are beginning to realize just how unique this project is going to be."

In addition to his writing for the book, he said, county residents have agreed to write stories that will also appear. "In essence, Golden Harvest will be a celebration of our heritage," he said.

New Procedure For Doe Permit Applications Noted

Maryland's Department of Natural Resources has announced that it will implement new procedures for applying for antlerless deer permits, starting with the 1991-92 hunting season. Antlerless deer permits are required to kill antlerless deer in the western counties of Maryland during the deer firearms season.

During the fall 1991 application period, approximately 1,200 permit applications were mailed by Maryland sportsmen, but not recorded as being received by the Department (from a total applicant pool of 15,000). An investigation was initiated into the whereabouts of the applications, and assistance was solicited from the Department of General Services police force (who manage the state office complex in Annapolis) and US Postal Service inspectors. However, neither of these investigations has uncovered the missing permits. The results of the state investigation concluded that "either the missing applications never arrived to the area or that someone, for whatever reason, systematically threw out or destroyed some of the applications." US Postal authorities investigated the Annapolis office and the regional center in Baltimore and "determined there is no mail as described -- at either installation."

Despite this turn of events, however, the Department has already formulated a plan to provide an increased level of service to Maryland sportsmen. Starting next year, the Guide to Hunting and Trapping will include a two-part application. One half will be the standard application and the second half will be a return notification card. Upon arrival, the application and notification card will be separated, and the notification card sent back to the applicant. Hence, each applicant will be notified that the Department has received his/her application.

SCHOOL SKI NIGHT AT THE WISP -- Shown above are several students from Westmar Middle School, Westernport, who recently participated in a ski night at the Wisp Ski Resort. Approximately 80 students from the sixth, seventh and eighth grades attended the event which was sponsored by the Westmar Middle School seventh grade academic team January 31. Beginning skiers were provided with lessons by the Wisp ski school instructors. Westmar Middle School is just one example of the many organizations and groups who travel to the Wisp Ski Resort for a winter adventure.

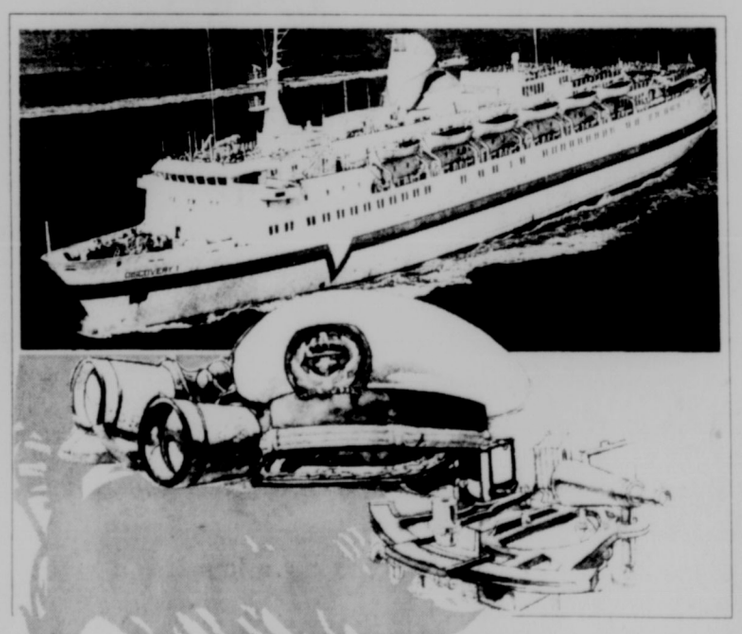
Huskies Topped By Elk Garden; Fall To 5-14

The struggling Northern Huskies nearly pulled off an upset over a strong Elk Garden team Tuesday night in Accident, but some key foul shooting in the final quarter by the Stags led to the Huskies' 14th defeat in 19 starts. It was the 12th straight win for Elk Garden, now 13-4.

Coach Dave Bender's team stayed right with the Stags throughout the first three quarters, leading by one at the end of the first quarter, 18-17, by one at halftime, 30-29, and even up after three periods, 40-40. However, the Huskies' shooing went cold and the Stags converted five of seven free throws down the stretch to secure the win.

Travis Hartman spearheaded Elk Garden's effort by netting 18 points and pulling down eight rebounds. Rich Braithwaite and Scott Moreland added 12 and 11 points, respectively.

Jon Houser led the Huskies with 18 points and eight rebounds. Mike Fike and Dave Hinebaugh each added eight points.



The Huskies will host Beall this Friday evening.

Lakers Conclude Regular Season Of Play With A Win And Two Losses

The Garrett Community College Lakers concluded their regular season of play this week with a big 91-89 win over Prince Georges Community College Saturday night in McHenry, in which Chuckie Moore set a new GCC scoring mark, a convincing 91-54 defeat to Allegany Community College on Monday in Cumberland, and a 110-85 loss at Hagerstown Junior College last night.

The Lakers finish with a 21-9 regular season record which they will take into post-season play next week in the JUCO Tournament.

Almost as exciting as the win over a strong Prince Georges team Saturday night was the 36-point performance by All-American candidate Chuckie Moore, who shattered Jimmy Feagans's GCC scoring record of 1,318 points, set during the 1985-86 and 1986-87 seasons. Moore's total Saturday night gave him a two-year total of 1,343 points.

If that weren't enough, Moore also pulled down a team-high 15 rebounds, blocked three shots, and recorded three steals.

The Lakers were on top 56-45 at halftime and never gave up the advantage during the second half, although the Owls kept coming back. PG cut the margin to five points at the 17:30 mark of the second half (56-51), but the Lakers went on top by 13 points, 66-54, with a run capped by back-to-back shots by Carlos Trotter.

After the Owls narrowed the gap again, a three-point play by Moore made it 82-69 with 7:22 remaining.

A few steals and key rebounds by Prince Georges closed the gap to five again at 86-81. An Eric Payne lay-up sliced the lead to four, 87-83, and a jumper by Price Williams made it 87-85 with just over a minute left. Three foul shots by Trotter and another one by Moore gave Garrett a 91-87 lead and Williams hit a final bucket for the Owls as time expired.

Williams netted 16 points for the Lakers, Bruce Boldley finished with 14 points and four assists, and Trotter contributed 14 points.

Payne led the Owls with 24 points and 11 rebounds, Maurice Mercer netted 20, Williams had 14, Sidney Winkler contributed 12, and Walker added 11.

Missing from the Garrett line-up was 6-9 center Derek Young who was out with a knee injury.

Young and 6-4 freshman Clarence Morgan were also missing Monday night in Cumberland when the Lakers took on the ACC Trojans, who are currently ranked sixth in the nation. However, their presence probably would not have changed the outcome of the contest, as the Trojans dominated from the opening tip-off. It was their 27th victory in 29 games and the Lakers did not begin to play them nearly as close as they had a few weeks ago in McHenry.

Not only were the Lakers out-scored by a wide margin, but they were also dominated on the boards, as ACC pulled down 68 rebounds, compared to 24 by GCC.

Meanwhile, the Trojan defense successfully handled GCC's Chuckie Moore, holding him to a season low six points.

The Lakers had a 6-4 lead in the early moments, but ACC scored the next seven points and led the rest of the way. The first half ended with the Trojans on top 37-18, as the cold-shooting Lakers connected on only five of 28 shots in the first half.

Freshman Reggie Waddy led the Trojans in scoring as he came off the bench and scored 22 points. Corey Wallace finished with 17, Paul Carter netted 15, and Adam Johnson and Willie Coleman each contributed 10 points. Johnson led in rebounding with 18.

Boldley led all scorers with 25 points and was the only Laker to finish in double figures. He recorded 21 of his total on seven three-point buckets, four of them in the final five minutes of the game.

Moore ripped the nets for 31 points last night in a losing effort at Hagerstown Junior College, as Keith Wood pumped in a game-high 34 for the Hawks, who improved to 21-9 overall and 7-4 in the JUCO standings.

The Lakers trailed most of the first half, but stayed close until just before halftime when the Hawks expanded their advantage to 52-39. Garrett never seriously threatened in the second half.

Four other Hagerstown players joined Wood in double figures, as Jason Niblett netted 21 points, Walter Hunter finished with 18, and Tony Burrell and Matt Burrell each contributed 10.

Moore, who hit 13 field goals and five of 10 at the line, also pulled down eight rebounds and blocked three shots. Chris Greene recorded 18 points, Derek Young added 11, and Boldley recorded seven assists and six steals.

The Lakers were outrebounded by a 53-34 margin.

Coach Gibson shared the blame for his team's sluggish play, noting that facing a strong Prince Georges team, nationally ranked ACC, and Hagerstown all in five days was "not very smart scheduling" on his part. He added that he was glad that his team will have until Feb. 24, when the Maryland JUCO tourney begins, to "rest and get healthy."

HIGH IN THE AIR FOR TWO is All-American candidate Chuckie Moore, who set a new scoring record for Garrett Community College Saturday night in a Laker win over Prince Georges Community College. Moore finished the game with 36 points to give him a two-year total of 1,343 points. He added 37 more points to that figure in Monday's game at ACC and last night's contest at Hagerstown JC. Laker Women Win A Pair, Lose A Pair

The Garrett Community College women's basketball team concluded a busy week of competition with a pair of wins and a pair of losses to make their record 9-8. The Lakers defeated visiting Potomac State College last Thursday, 71-60, nipped Prince Georges CC Saturday, 64-63, also in McHenry, were edged by Allegany CC Sunday afternoon, 70-67, in Cumberland, and fell to host Hagerstown Junior College last night, 84-59. They will conclude their regular season this weekend with a game at Catonsville on Saturday and a match-up with Essex at home on Sunday at 2 p.m.

Marcia DeBerry led the Lakers past the Catamounts of Potomac State last Thursday with a 24-point effort.

The Lakers led 38-34 at halftime and opened the second half with the first six points. The Catamounts stayed within 10 points the rest of the way and trailed by six, 64-58, with 2:04 remaining. However, a technical foul for having six players on the floor following a time-out sent GCC's Karen Gurrera to the line. She hit both free throws and then Garrett scored on the ensuing possession to stretch the lead back to 10 points, 68-58.

Gurrera and Kim Copeland each scored 12 points for the Lakers. Copeland also had two blocked shots and four steals, while Tracy Dawson added six assists.

The 7-9 Catamounts were led by Jody Hockensmith, who netted 18 points. Missy Sites contributed 15 and Mary Beardslee added 10.

A three-point shot at the buzzer by Gurrera gave the Lakers their one-point JUCO win over Prince Georges on Saturday. The bucket was one of nine three-pointers recorded by the Lakers, five by Gurrera and four by DeBerry.

The Lakers held a 32-21 lead just before halftime, but the Owls netted the final seven points of the half to cut the margin to 32-28. They stayed close throughout the second half and held a 63-61 lead with just 12 seconds left in the game. Yolanda Lee was at the line at that point and could have iced the game for the Owls, but she missed the front end of a one-and-one. DeBerry pulled down the rebound and fired the ball out to Dawson, who passed to Gurrera to set up the winning bucket at the buzzer.

DeBerry was the top scorer as she finished with 20 points. Gurrera netted 17 and Copeland added 11 plus 15 rebounds. Tracy Henline and Dawson were each credited with four assists, DeBerry recorded three steals, and Copeland and Henline each blocked two shots.

Stacey Woodruff and Lee each scored 16 points for the Owls, while Jenny Simms and Katie Kelley each finished with 11.

The Lakers were outrebounded, 41-32.

Coach Dennis Gibson's Lakers trailed by double figures most of the second half against Allegany CC after being down 40-29 at halftime, but they came back in the closing moments to make the ACC fans squirm.

After being down by as many as 17 points in the second half, the Lakers cut away at the lead and trailed 64-57 with 3:04 remaining. A three-pointer by ACC's Renee Mullin followed by two free throws by Amy Carroll put the Trojans' lead back to nine points with a minute to play, but the Lakers scored seven of the final eight points to make it close.

The final GCC points included a field goal and two free tosses by Henline and three foul shots by DeBerry.

Pacing the winners in scoring was freshman Tammy Tinkey with 22 points. Tyra Keplinger added 16 points and pulled 10 rebounds. Tonya Christner netted 10 points, and recorded seven rebounds and eight steals, while Mullin finished with 11 points and nine assists.

DeBerry again led the Lakers' scoring, this time with 17 points, while Copeland scored 16 points and grabbed a game-high 16 rebounds.

The win improved the Trojans' record to 11-8.

Four members of the Hagerstown JC team finished in double figures last night, as the Lakers were dominated by the Hawks throughout most of the game.

Sandy Gilbreath, Janelle Smith, Yvette Brailler, and Stella Roberts scored 15, 14, 12, and 10 points, respectively, for the Hawks, who led 41-25 at halftime.

Gurrera and Copeland led Garrett's scoring with 15 points each, with DeBerry close behind with 14 points. DeBerry also was credited with nine assists and two steals, Henline grabbed nine rebounds, and Dawson chipped in with two steals.

Rams Get Back On Track With Wins Over Northern, Westmar

After dropping four straight games, the Southern Rams returned to the winning track this past week with an easy 68-41 win over cross-county rival Northern Friday night in Oakland and a 76-54 thrashing of Westmar Tuesday evening, also on the Rams' floor. The pair of victories left the Rams with a 13-6 record, which they will put on the line at home Monday against Beall and again on Wednesday with Petersburg.

The Rams were never threatened by the Huskies last Friday as they took control early and held a commanding 21-5 advantage by the end of the first period. Brett Rice and Jason Brenneman netted eight and seven points, respectively, in that period.

Southern held a 32-16 halftime lead and was on top 50-27 after three quarters, as the Huskies could never get any closer than 14 points.

Rice, the area's leading scorer, finished with a game-high 19 points, Mike Duling netted 11, and Richard Beckman contributed 10.

Jon Houser led the Huskies' scoring with nine points.

The loss dropped the Huskies to 5-13. They went on to lose to a strong Elk Garden squad Tuesday night, 55-48 (see separate story).

Every member of Coach Tom Bosley's team played Tuesday night against Westmar, as Southern opened up a wide lead in the second period after a close first quarter. The Rams led by only one at the end of the first period, 14-13, but then out-scored the Wildcats in the second period, 23-11, to lead 37-24 at halftime. They stretched their advantage to 60-32 in the third stanza.

Rice, a junior, again led Southern's scoring as he recorded 15 points. Beckman and Duling each netted 12 points, plus Beckman pulled down 10 rebounds. Jared White had seven rebounds and Rice and Greg Inglese were each credited with five assists.

Pacing the Wildcats' scoring was Scott Garey with 17 points, while Brian McAlpine finished with 14. The defeat dropped the Wildcats to 7-12 on the season.

Also participating were John Shelton, Arthur Pysell, and J.R. Bird.

The local club will travel to Buckhannon, W.Va., this weekend to participate in the Buckhannon-Upshur Tournament.

ONE GREAT YEAR FOR THREE GREAT SKIERS -- Three local snow skiers have been busy this year sweeping up one award after another. Jason Martin, son of Sonny and Andrea Martin, Loch Lynn, and Todd and Beau Gibson, sons of Jim and Kathy Gibson, Deep Creek Lake, have been placing in various snow ski racing events in the region throughout the winter. Martin has placed in all but one of the races he has entered. He placed second in the Paine Weber race at Seven Springs, Pa., on January 13, and placed first at the Equibank race there. He is now waiting to find out if he qualifies for the Derby series which determines the members of the Pennsylvania ski team. Martin most recently placed second in his age group and third overall at Snow Shoe, W.Va., and placed second overall at Canaan Valley, W.Va. Todd Gibson has already won enough races to qualify for the Derby series, which will be held the first weekend in March at Seven Springs. Todd placed fourth in the Paine Weber race and second in the Equibank race. Beau placed second at the Paine Weber race and third at the Equibank race, which has earned him a "discretionary slot" in the Derby series. The three skiers are shown above at the recent Equibank race. They are, left to right, Jason Martin, and Beau and Todd Gibson.

Southern Girls Show Improvement By Winning Two Of Three Games

The improving Southern High School girls' varsity won two of three games this past week, as the Rams flattened the Northern Huskies Friday evening, 62-29, in Oakland, defeated visiting Mt. Savage Saturday afternoon, 58-43, and also played well in a 64-51 loss to 18-1 Westmar Monday evening, also in Oakland. The results left Coach Don Stemple's team with a 5-11 record.

The Northern Huskies came to Oakland with an 11-4 record, but they never threatened the Rams, who were led in scoring by Kathy Gibson, Shelli Cannon, and Michelle Duling. Southern jumped out to a 14-5 advantage by the end of the first period, led 29-16 at halftime, and then out-scored the Huskies in the third stanza, 21-4, to take a commanding 50-20 lead into the final eight minutes.

Gibson finished with a game-high 17 points, Cannon netted 16, and Duling contributed 15. Laurie Stanton led the Huskies with 13 points.

The Northern junior varsity squad won the preliminary contest over Southern's jayvees, 23-21.

Gibson was also the leading scorer against Mt. Savage Saturday afternoon, as she poured in 22 points on 11 field goals and also grabbed a team-high 15 rebounds. Khrystie Browning was close behind with 18 points and Duling finished with 12.

The Rams held a 14-9 edge at the end of the first quarter and an equivalent margin at halftime, 26-21, but out-scored the Indians in the third period, 18-9, to lead 44-30 by the end of that stanza.

Mt. Savage's top player, Krista Shaffer, led the Indians with 18 points. It was the eighth loss in 15 games for the Indians.

Duling had one of her best games of the season Monday evening against powerful Westmar, as she recorded a game-high 23 points, while the Southern defense held Westmar's Dawn Sloan, the area's leading scorer, to 19 points.

The Rams were down by only three points at the end of the first quarter, five at halftime (33-28), and by just four after three periods, however the Wildcats slowly pulled away during the final period.

Julie McGowan also finished with 19 points for Westmar, Marcie Wildman netted 14, and Lisa Green added 11.

Also reaching double figures for the Rams was Browning, who recorded 10 points.

Southern's jayvees won the preliminary contest over the Westmar junior varsity, 44-35.

The Rams will travel to Watkins Mills this Friday.

Northern Girls Rebound After Southern Loss

After being soundly defeated by the Southern Rams last Friday evening in Oakland (see separate story0, the Northern High School girls' varsity came back with a vengance Monday night to rout Hancock, 45-27, at Hancock. The win improved Coach Harv Speicher's team's record to 12-5.

Becky Fratz paced the Northern offensive effort, as she pumped in 20 points on five field goals and 10 of 13 free throws. She also grabbed 16 rebounds and blocked five shots.

Northern seized the momentum early in the contest and led 14-3 at the end of the first quarter. Hancock narrowed the gap to 22-16 by halftime and, because of Northern foul trouble in the third period, the Huskies led by just eight points, 34-26, after three quarters. However, Northern out-scored the host team 11-1 in the final eight minutes to record the easy win.

Laurie Stanton also reached double figures for Northern with 14 points, while Nicki Allen led Hancock with 11 points.

The Northern junior varsity girls were also victorious in the preliminary game, 41-30.

The Huskies will go after win number 13 this evening at Flintstone.

Local Legions Support Winter Special Olympics

Legionnaires from approximately 10 legions throughout the state of Maryland, including two in Garrett County, volunteered their help at the 1991 Maryland Winter Special Olympics held February 3-6 at Ski Liberty, Fairfield, Pa. The American Legion is a major supporter of the Special Olympics in both monetary donations and in volunteer help.

The Mason-Dixon Color Guard from American Legion Morris-Frock Post #42 provided the color guard for the opening ceremonies on Sunday, February 3, at the Ramada Inn, Gettysburg, Pa. Also participating in the ceremony was Ric Santos, Department of Maryland Commander of the American Legion, and Cal Ripken Sr., of the Baltimore Orioles. One of the athletes and Ripken led all the athletes in the Special Olympic oath: "Let me win, but if I cannot win, let me be brave in the attempt."

The mission of Special Olympics is to provide year-round training and athletic competition in a variety of well-coached, Olympic-type sports for all individuals with mental retardation.

The opening ceremonies ended with a Tenth Anniversary Celebration of the Maryland Winter Special Olympics. Several people, including two local legionnaires, Dayton Alexander and Abe Holland from Proctor Kildow Post #71, were presented with plaques for 10 years continuous service (1982-1991) with the Maryland Winter Special Olympics.

Although there were no Special Olympian athletes this year from Garrett County, local legionnaires volunteered their time as catchers, timers, huggers, scorekeepers, setting up the course for the races, and generally assisting in any way necessary. The volunteers included: Paul Kolb, Grantsville Post #214; Dayton Alexander, Abe Holland, Chuck McCrobie, and Debi Dixon, from Proctor Kildow Post #71.

results in developing broad management goals for the Savage River State Forest. These management goals will be presented to the public at a series of workshops for the purpose of soliciting public input on the 10-year management plan, to be held around the state this month.

This may be the public's last opportunity to comment, as there are no plans for a public hearing on the draft plan. For this reason, it is imperative that interested citizens participate in these workshops to ensure that their concerns are expressed and reflected in the management plan. Help set the record straight. Attend the workshops and inform DNR what the important issues really are, and participate in the development of the management plan for the Savage River State Forest.

To the Editor:

It gives your a heart a little lift to drive through the town of Accident. Yellow bows on every pole, sign post and many trees, from one end to the other.

It also gives me a bit of pride knowing that my wife and daughter helped, along with another lady, to place these bows throughout the town. But one lady, Annette Thomas, owner and operator of Accident Floral on Main Street, is solely responsible for this occurrence.

Mrs. Thomas ordered, crafted, hung and has paid for all materials that went into the 100 plus bows decorating the town streets — not to mention all of her time.

All this makes one wonder about the true patriotism of this town. Now, there were a few yellow ribbons and flags displayed before, but no organized effort by the town itself. Very confusing from a town that has an all-day affair the 4th of July! But then, I guess, there's no financial gain in hanging yellow ribbons to show your support for the men and women fighting for freedom.

Come on Accident! Show some support!

I know Mrs. Thomas would not ask for help, but I feel the town of Accident should OFFER their support and thanks. This is OUR country!

Sincerely,
Kris DeWitt

To the Editor:

Setting aside personal and political agendas, I would suggest that the true "Rainbow Coalition" of this great nation of ours is presently stationed in the immediate vicinity of the Persian Gulf. Red, White and Blue; Black, Brown and Yellow, standing shoulder to shoulder, exuding the values that we, as a "Nation of Conscience," represent. A bulwark of freedom standing against tyranny. I am so proud of our young men and women of "Desert Storm" that I truly believe something as basic as our national symbol should be modified to reflect their commitment to the principles that form the foundations of humanism and concern for our fellow man/woman, upon which the United States of America rests and radiates its perpetual hope to the world.

What is the source of this telling difference between us and the rest of the world? Let me say first of all, there will be any number of voices from what I call the "netherland of the Left" who will pooh-pooh and denigrate the hypotheses I am about to present. I would only ask you to cleanse your minds of hypocrisy and hyperbole, and consider what I am about to say in the light of historical fact. By way of preamble, let me say that I appreciate no system of thought or governance is perfect. I would also vehemently deny that I am an "Anglophile." I thoroughly detest the fact that they, not as a nation, but their misguided leadership, have chosen to maintain a constitutional monarchy for the benefit of the ruling "class," certainly not for the people; nevertheless, the laws, mores and fiber of England, successfully broke the momentum of the evil forces of the world, and from the seeds they successfully, if perhaps, inadvertently planted in the "New World," changed the history and fate of man/womenkind.

We are unique in the world and the history of mankind, and we owe it all to those early glimmers of freedom and liberty that differentiate us from all other singular nationalities. The English originally discovered, and were the first to offer liberty and the RULE OF LAW to the common man within their boundaries. As a colonial extension of England, our forefathers brought the English common law to the "New World" where constrictive "boundaries" were eliminated, allowing the development of a Wilsonian creed that broadcasts to the world, "Only free peoples can hold their purpose and their honor steady to a common end, and prefer the interests of mankind to any narrow interest of their own."

Respectfully,
Ronald R. Rowan

To the Editor:

President Bush is taken seriously by the citizens of Garrett County, Maryland. When the President, in his state of the union address, stated that the terms of elected officials should be limited, the Garrett citizens proceeded with a petition to do just that. A petition signed by 770 citizens of Garrett County has now been sent to the Maryland General Assembly for legislative action. The petition, addressed to Senator John J. Hafer and Delegate George C. Edwards of District I, provides for the Garrett County Commissioners to serve not more than two four-year terms (total eight years).

This is not a new move in Garrett County. Brenda Butscher, our newly elected Garrett County Commissioner, campaigned on limiting the commissioners to two terms in office. She was elected with the highest vote (2-1) ever received by a commissioner candidate in Garrett County. Up to now, Senator Hafer and Delegate Edwards have refused to move on her request for legislative action.

The petition purports that concentration of political power in the hands of incumbents, without limitation to the number of terms they may serve, has made our electoral system less free, less competitive, and less representative of the people. Too often, it states, incumbents use the power of their office of a non-democratic self serving way to promote their continuous re-election.

It alleges such unfair incumbent advantages discourage qualified candidates from seeking public office, and creates career politicians instead of citizens' representatives. As career politicians they become representative of special interests and the bureaucracy rather than of the people whom they are to serve.

To preserve a free and democratic system of fair elections, and to encourage qualified candidates to seek public office, the petition declares a limitation must be placed on the number of terms a person may be elected to serve as a Garrett County Commissioner.

By petition and referendum other States, such as California and Oklahoma, have already limited the term of office of their elected state officials.

Sincerely,
John E. Hinebaugh
Pres. Garrett County Property Owners

To the Editor:
UNITED NATIONS VS. SADDAM HUSSEIN

The major difference between the United Nations' and Saddam Hussein's military operations is in the consideration for human life.

Saddam Hussein's weapons, the Scud missiles, cluster bombs, chemical and biological weapons, are all designed to kill as many people as possible.

The UN military weapons are designed to destroy Saddam Hussein's weapons and their launching facilities, with minimum loss of military and civilian lives. Our Tomahawk missiles are very accurately targeted on Iraqi munition manufacturing launching sites, with minimum damage to surrounding civilian areas.

Our Patriot missiles are designed to destroy his Scud missiles in flight, and to save human lives.

Saddam Hussein's most atrocious war act was the intentional release of millions of gallons of crude oil into the Persian Gulf, which will adversely affect the ecology in the Gulf regions for many decades to come.

He aims to destroy as many American and UN lives as possible. Our aim is to depose him and save as many human lives as possible, including Iraqi lives.

To the Editor,

The Southern Garrett Vocational Industrial Club of America would like to send further support of past members of VICA who are serving in Saudi Arabia in "Operation Desert Storm." Shawn Eyler, Neil Savage, Eric Sines, and Steve O'Brian are past members who are taking, or have taken, part in "Operation Desert Storm." All four graduated from Southern High School in 1988.

These four former VICA members and their families have support and prayers needed by all VICA members. We hope they all come home safe and very soon.

To the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to recognize the work of a very patriotic person in Accident.

Anyone who travels through the town from either north or south cannot miss the yellow bows and flags. Like other towns in our county, Accident has followed suit by showing its support for our troops by displaying the bows and flags. One might suspect that the bows would have been a project of a civic organization in Accident. This is not the case. Annette Thomas, the owner of Accident Floral, and her co-worker, Linda Margraff, took the project on and have made and displayed all of the bows in our town. I think these individuals deserve some recognition for their hard work.

I encourage the citizens of Accident to stop by Accident Floral and say "thanks" to Annette personally for a job well done. At times like these, everyone likes to do their part in showing support for the men and women in the Middle East. And for this reason it makes me proud to live in a small town like Accident.

Sincerely,
Philip Rodeheaver

A Tribute To My Brother
SSgt. Gregory A. Friend, 2nd Marine Regiment

My brother is a soldier, a Marine from the U.S.A.
A proud and dedicated warrior, whose duties have called him away.
By way of the Atlantic Ocean, to a unique and foreign land,
He's gone to fight the enemy on their sun scorched desert sand.
My days are filled with worry but way down deep inside,
I know that my little brother does this job with pride!
I wish that I had his courage; that he was here to be my guide,
For last night as I held his picture, my heart was breaking as I cried.
You see, I have these thoughts, that I don't often say aloud,
I want to say "I Love You" and that I'm very, very proud!
I want to say "Thank You" for the job you're doing for me there,
And, I want to do something special to let you know how much I care!
My brother's gone to Saudi to fight in Desert Shield.
Let's show our thoughts are with him as he makes our enemy yield!
My brother's fighting in Iraq; he's there fighting for me.
Just one more thing about my brother; he fights to make you free!

With Love,
Crystal

Butler Wins Bee At Grantsville

David Butler, a 5th grade student at Grantsville Elementary School, won the school's geography bee on February 7 and a chance at a $25,000 college scholarship. The school-level bee, at which students answered oral questions on geography, was the first round in the third annual National Geography Bee, which is being sponsored by "National Geographic World," the society's magazine for Children; Amtrak, and Kudos Snack.

The bee was kicked off the week of January 28 in thousands of schools around the United States, District of Columbia, and five U.S. territories. The school winners, including David, will now take a written test; up to 100 of the top scores in each state will be eligible to compete in their state bee April 5.

The National Geographic Society with its co-sponsors will provide an all-expenses-paid trip to Washington, D.C., for state champions and their teacher escorts to participate in the National Geography Bee finals on May 22 and 23. The first-place national winner will receive a 25,000 college scholarship; the second-place winner, a $15,000 scholarship; and the third-place winner, a $10,000 scholarship.

Alex Trebek, host of "Jeopardy!" will moderate the national finals.

The National Geographic Society developed the National Geography Bee in response to a growing concern about the lack of geographic knowledge among young people in the United States. A 10-country Gallup Survey conducted for the society in 1988 and 1989 found that people in the U.S. ages 18-24, the youngest group surveyed, knew less about geography than young people in any of the other countries.

Besides the National Geography Bee, the society sponsors a number of other geography education initiatives, including the Summer Geography Institute for teachers, the National Geographic Society Education Foundation, and the Geographic Alliance Network, which currently encompasses 40 states and Puerto Rico.

OPERATION DESERT STORM

MAIL CALL

As American forces continue their assignment in "Operation Desert Storm" in the Middle East, mail becomes even more important as a morale builder and an expression of public support of their service.

The Republican proudly lists the names and addresses of those local service personnel who are now stationed there, either in Saudi Arabia or other Middle East nations. We hope local residents will take a few moments to drop a line to these young men and women. It is not necessary to be personally acquainted with these local soldiers or with anyone else in the armed services to send him or her a letter. Expressions of upbeat support, humor, and words of good cheer will mean a lot.

Letters to anyone in the Army, Air Force, or Marine Corps, land based in Saudi Arabia, may be addressed as follows:

Any Service Member
Operation Desert Storm
APO New York 09848-0006

Letters to anyone in the Navy, Coast Guard, or Marine Corps at sea may be addressed as follows:

Any Service Member
Operation Desert Storm
FPO New York 09866-0006

We will publish this list periodically over the next several weeks. Names and addresses of other local service personnel not listed here are welcome and will be added for future publication.

following the 10:35 a.m. accident. No charges were filed.

In yet another Sunday morning mishap, Lisa M. Webster, 28, McHenry, escaped injury when the 1984 Isuzu she was operating on the Sang Run Road slid out of control in the icy road. The vehicle reportedly slid off the roadway, struck a ditch, and came to rest on its side.

Tfc. Chaney investigated the 8:15 a.m. accident and said no first aid was administered. Also, no charges were filed.

A Friday afternoon accident sent one woman to the Meyersdale Community Hospital in Pennsylvania where she was treated for minor injuries and then released.

Injured was Doris A. McKenzie, 54, Grantsville.

The 2:35 p.m. mishap occurred when Evelyn L. Hawn, 23, Frostburg, operating a 1980 Chevrolet Camaro, stopped at First Street in Grantsville and was attempting to pull onto Main Street. McKenzie, operating a 1987 Plymouth Astro, was westbound on Main Street when Hawn pulled into her path causing a collision.

The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad transported McKenzie to the hospital. Tpr. S.H. Anderson investigated and charged Hawn with failure to stop at an intersection.

Question, Answer Session Slated For Parents Of Scouts

Members of the Potomac Office of the Boy Scouts of America as well as spokespersons from the Youth Protection Council have planned a meeting for the purpose of answering the questions of any scout's parents who may be concerned about the recent sexual abuse case involving a former scout leader.

The meeting is slated for Monday, February 18, in Room 155 at Garrett Community College, beginning at 7 p.m.. The purpose of the meeting is to dispel any fears or worries parents may have concerning the sexual offense trial of Randy R. Lucas. Lucas was a scout leader and did admit to committing sex offenses during scout meetings.

Meeting planners wish to assure parents that this was an isolated incident, a spokesman for the session stated. Scott Murray, chairman of the Youth Protection Council; James Bryner, Youth Protection Council president; and Brad Burr, executive director of the Potomac Office of the Boy Scouts of America, will all speak at the meeting and inform parents of the extensive investigations they have conducted in the last months to be sure that no other like incidents are occurring. Burr said that they have found absolutely no other evidence of any kind of abuse in the area scouting troops, and that parents need to feel that their children are indeed safe.

Parents of scouts or any other concerned persons are urged to attend the session, Burr said, and are invited to ask questions that may be the cause of worry.

Thayer Sentences

session of a controlled dangerous substance in September 1989.

The defendant was represented by John R. Toston.

Charles Stinson, 35, Mtn. Lake Park, pleaded no contest to the charge of violation of probation. Judge Thayer then ordered that the original sentence be reimposed, which was one year in the G.C. jail. The term will run consecutively to the term handed down in Garrett County District Court, which is as yet undetermined.

Stinson was originally charged with driving while intoxicated, driving while suspended, and failure to keep right of center.

The defendant then made a motion to have the sentence revised. Further information of the revision request was not available.

Defense attorney for Stinson was John R. Toston.

Plea Withdrawal

Nancy C. Paugh, 45, Oakland, has motioned to withdraw her guilty plea to charges of driving while under the influence of drugs and\or alcohol (DUI) and possession of marijuana, as well as her no contest plea to violation of probation. She has also requested a new trial.

After a plea agreement, Paugh pleaded guilty to the DUI and possession charges in a Feb. 1 trial. Those charges put her in violation of her probation, which was handed down to her for a 1989 possession of cocaine arrest. Paugh violated her probation in March 1990 as well, according to the report.

On Feb. 1, Judge Thayer sentenced Paugh to the G.C. jail for six months for the possession of marijuana charge, and fined her $300 plus court costs for the DUI violation. He also granted credit for time served, and said that a work release arrangement would be considered.

For the violation of probation charge, Thayer ordered a one year prison term. According to the motion to withdraw document, written by Paugh's lawyer Robert C. Hesson, the defendant made the withdraw because the State's Attorney James Sherbin agreed to make no recommendation as to any sentencing for the violation of probation charge. However, the judge did sentence Paugh to one year for the violation.

The State's Attorney "violated the terms of the aforesaid provision of the agreement by, in effect, stating that the defendant had been violated once before and, therefore, should be given the maximum penalty. The Court imposed the sentence recommended by the State, citing reasons nearly identical to those argued by the State contrary to its agreement," the document stated.

A date for the new trial has not been set.

To the Editor:

In response to Jim Procratsky's letter to the Editor — I have no bitterness towards the Garrett Bassers. I just believe that there can be a good lesson learned from all of this — to make us all better human beings.

I must remind Procrastsky that he was not president or held any office when all of this took place and I am sure he looked at each and every hand when the vote was taken. Well, I know he didn't, because I never voted. I knew at that point what was going on and you know the old saying, you can't fight City Hall. But at least I am trying.

According to the new by-law, which was conveniently established right after Frank, Anthony, and I were asked to resign, anyone could have been released (maybe). I guess it was just a coincidence that the three of us who were asked to resign were the three who got voted out.

Don't try to cloud the issue with your misguided information scheme. The people don't care what kind of title you call it. They want to know what I've done wrong (bottom line).

The reason for keeping this thing quiet is because they didn't want the people and local businesses from which they generate revenue for various activities to know what poor sports some of them are.

I hope you do send the tapes to The Federation (uncut).

Thanks,
Karl Hamrick

The Northern Garrett High School juniors are selling candy bars to raise money for the junior-senior prom, along with the organizations at school.

The people selling candy bars on bus 41-A were told by the bus drivers, Richard and Delores Thomas, that they were not allowed to bring them on the bus. He threatened to take and keep our candy bars without paying for them.

Monday morning, February 11, Richard Thomas took a girl into the office for having an empty candy bar box. It was said that Miss Wucik, principal of Northern High School, told him that he could not do anything until she talked to Mike Sines.

That evening, I got on the bus with my box of candy bars and Delores Thomas told me I was not allowed to have them on the bus. Then she sent a girl into the school to get Mr. Green, vice principal. She told Mr. Green that Mike Sines had called her and told her that if anyone had candy to call him and to give that person a blue slip (school bus misconduct notice). Mr. Green took my candy and told me to pick it up the next morning. Delores gave me a blue slip for bringing my candy bars on the bus. No one else with candy bars received a blue slip. I find this unfair and very unreasonable.

They gave us the candy bars at school to sell and we cannot even transport them to and from school on the bus. It's candy bars today, what will it be next, lunch boxes?

There have been many problems on this bus and many parents are afraid to do anything about it. I believe that this incident, along with many others on bus 41-A, should be investigated thoroughly by honest people who will actually do something about it!

To the Editor:

You have a wonderful group of people in Garrett County: the members of the Mountain Fresh Producers Association.

It has been our pleasure, at the Maryland Department of Agriculture, to have worked with this group and its many fine members over the past two years.

With the help of the Garrett County Commissioners, the Town of Oakland, the Mountain Top of Chamber of Commerce, GOBA, and many other people and organizations, the Mountain Fresh Producers Association has become a major supplier of fresh fruits and vegetables to consumers in Garrett County.

You have a very tangible symbol of this progress in the form of the new farmers' market building in Oakland.

We are looking forward to working closely with the Mountain Fresh Producers Association for the 1991 produce season.

It's not that many days before some of its members will begin starting seeds and not that many weeks before some crops are put into the ground.

So, from some of your neighbors in the eastern end of Maryland, we send you greetings and compliment Garrett's farmers, particularly the hardworking members of the Mountain Fresh Producers Association.

Sincerely,
Ralph H. Hemphill
Director, Marketing &
Agricultural Development

In past years, many County businesses have joined local volunteers in the fight against cancer by purchasing daffodils from the American Cancer Society. The daffodil is the first flower of spring and the flower of hope. Since there is virtually no person in Garrett County who has not been touched by cancer in some way, the daffodil is a symbol to each of us that there is hope for cancer victims and hope that a cure will be found. Last year in Garrett County, we assisted 33 patients and educated 2,789 youth and 1,186 adults.

Daffodils are available this year on March 14, 15, and 16. They come at a time when this area is still experiencing winter.

Local volunteers will deliver the flowers to your place of business if you order 50 or more flowers. Daffodils are available in bunches of 10 for $5.00 or 500 for $200.

Please order today by calling Marvin's Men's Wear at 334-9211 by February 21. Thank you for supporting us in the fight against cancer in Western Maryland.

Daffodil Chairperson
Garrett County

To the Editor:

Should taxpayers' time and money be used to endorse legislation that enables the local school board to negotiate an agency fee (negotiating fee) for the present bargaining agent (GCTA/NEA)? Representatives of the bargaining agent have vigorously endorsed such legislation. This legislation is presently being acted on in Annapolis in the form of Senate Bill 421 and House Bill 642.

Last week, the local paper carried a quote from a representative which said these bills put the responsibility where it belongs — with the local school board. Such philosophy is abundantly flawed and costs taxpayers numerous dollars each legislative session. These bills (SB421 and HB642) have nothing to do with bettering education and should never be used to waste the time and money of our local board of education nor our legislators in Annapolis. If negotiated, an agency fee simply "locks in" membership and increases the treasury of a bargaining agent. An agency fee (negotiating fee) in no way increases the educational opportunity for Garrett County students nor does it increase the professional or financial status of Garrett County teachers.

If our representatives wish to help our children and education, why do they not concentrate their time and efforts on legislation to improve the raising and distributing of public monies so children of Garrett County can benefit from an equal educational opportunity? Why do they not propose enabling legislation for adequate materials, facilities and resources to properly prepare our children in Garrett County for the future and raise our educators to a professional status? Why, instead, do our representatives choose to use taxpayers' time and money on Senate Bill 421 and House Bill 642?

If you feel Senate Bill 421 and House Bill 642 would be a waste of taxpayers' time and money, call (toll free) and/or write Senator Hafer (1-800-492-7122 ext. 3565) and Delegate Edwards (1-800-492-7122 ext. 3435) and ask for these enabling bills for agency fee to be pulled before anymore taxpayers' time and money is used.

Sincerely,
Linda Booth
President, GCFT

To the Editor:

This is an open letter to the Board of Directors and other illustrious members of the Oakland Country Club that were involved in the dismissal of the golf professional, Jim Kreyenbuhl. I would have mailed it directly to the board, but, knowing them as I do, I am convinced this letter would not reach the guilty parties.

Before I begin I would like to quote some exerpts from the letter of explanation(?) mailed to all members. It might enlighten some of the residents of Oakland who are not members of the Oakland Country Club.

"Dear Members:

After considerable discussion and consideration the Board of Directors voted on November 28, 1990, not to retain James Kreyenbuhl as our Head Golf Professional for 1991.

Considering Jim's many years of loyal and faithful service, the decision was difficult, but was made keeping foremost in mind the present and future interests of our Golf Club and members.

The change was not a reflection of Jim's personal character, but involved an overall change in direction that the Board felt was necessary to accomplish future goals. The action was taken at this time to allow both Jim and the Club sufficient time to plan for the coming year."

Bravo! Let me commend you all for your latest blunder. There, you all sat, tired after a day's work, in an "up to the hilt in debt" clubhouse that you voted to build, deciding the fate of a person who has spent most of his life at the golf course.

I'm sure you all have bosses (if you are not retired or a housewife), or you may be your own boss or supervisor. Regardless of the case, however, your employer, if applicable, works in, or is familiar with your particular craft. Wouldn't you cringe to think that your job depended on, not one, but 13, individuals who have already labored all day at a different profession, played some golf, had a few drinks, and are now going to attempt to "represent" the membership and make major decisions concerning Oakland Country Club?

For all of the years that my Dad, Gig Sylvester, was on the Board, he fought tooth and nail to keep a new clubhouse from being built. How vividly I remember him saying that a town with the population of Oakland could not and would not ever support a new clubhouse. Well, after he died, some of you who were involved then, as well as now, pushed until it was completed. Oh, it's beautiful. And what is paying to defray the cost of this monstrocity? — the golf course.

Who has spent 16 or more hours out there 7 days a week? How many of you were involved in the Wednesday night rock picking parties — where everyone literally picked up rock off the new nine in order to speed up the opening? Have you ever gotten up in the middle of the night and drove around to each green turning off the water you had turned on late after some of the "considerate" members, who complained about the course being too dry, played until dark making it impossible to turn the water on?

You all made this just a joyous holiday season, especially for Julie and Jamie. Can you imagine Jamie in his first semester at college, in the middle of final exams, calling his Dad just to talk and getting the news of his dismissal? He was devastated to say the least and was crying hysterically when he called to tell me. What would you have said to him? Don't worry? But that is not your problem, is it?

Granted, Jim has problems and we all know what kind of problems those are. Was he given a warning? Did you offer him an alternative? Did you tell him he needed professional help? Did any of you even take the time to offer to take him for help? Some of you definitely need to look deeply into a mirror. It would not hurt a few of you to attend some type of counseling yourselves. But I suppose you feel that you do not have a problem. With the logic you have displayed on various issues, I must dispute your ability to diagnose your own possible shortcomings.

I honestly do not know how you could sleep peacefully. But, then again, if you do not have a conscience at all there is no way you could have a guilty one. I know several other letters supporting Jim have been sent to The Republican, but no response by you has been made to any of them. That just reinforces the fact already evident to many people — a serious error was made by the board as a whole, and to rectify this would mean an admission of guilt, and I certainly do not see that coming. Rest well!

Sincerely,
Pamela Graham

To the Editor:

At a time when the men and women in our armed forces are facing their greatest test, we at home are facing a test as well. Our test is to maintain our unity and resolve, as our troops are doing in the Persian Gulf.

We don't want Saddam Hussein to take this country's tolerance for anti-war demonstrations as a signal he should wait out our resolve in a long and bloody war.

I'm outraged at the brutal treatment of our POW's. And I'm saddened to see the media give so much attention to the small number of anti-war protesters who have sprung into action. It seems that every time a few protesters pick up their signs, the cameras swarm around them, and they end up on the news.

Our soldiers have said that they have a job to do and are going to get it done. I feel I have a job to do, too. And that's to stand up in strong support of our troops.

I want them to know that I and the American people are very proud of them. We are all inspired by their bravery.

I hope that you'll print my letter, and others like it, in the days ahead. Thousands of local American newspapers are reaching our men and women in uniform every day. Your newspaper may be one of them. I want the troops to know that we hold them in our thoughts and prayers every day.

Sincerely,
Martha Glotfelty

To the Editor:

Governor William Donald Schaefer's recent behavior shows how the personal abuse of power proves again the danger of gun control.

In the wake of news coverage of Governor Schaefer's penchant for personal vendettas, it is time to examine his motives for pushing gun banning in Maryland.

Schaefer is still smarting from the challenge to his reelection mounted by a couple of pro-gun Democrats, Fred Griser and Sandy Abrams. To Schaefer's consternation, their paltry campaign fund of $12,000 earned them nearly 25 percent of the vote in last's year's gubernatorial primary.

Schaefer has resolved to "get" Maryland gun owners by banning semi-automatic rifles and shotguns in the name of prohibiting ownership of what he calls "assault weapons."

But Schaefer has not limited his contempt of the common people to gun owners. Clearly, anyone who disagrees with King Donald risks feeling the heat of his royal wrath.

Take, for instance, the passing motorist who gave candidate Schaefer a thumbs down of disapproval last fall. The lady got a letter in the mail from the governor that, among other pleasantries, included this: "Your action only exceeds the ugliness of your face." It seems the governor was so bent out of shape that he looked up the woman's name and address by running a trace of her license plate so he could write her an official uglygram.

The Governor has developed a pattern of looking up people's names and addresses to get even. A critic who wrote to a newspaper got a letter from the governor with this statesmanlike expression: "You are everything that speaks of stupidity."

This is a small example of why gun owners oppose the registration of their firearms. Registration lists can be used to get back at opponents, even those who do something as harmless as make a gesture. Maybe the governor wants to get rid of privately owned semi-automatics because he is tired of restraining himself when responding to his critics. Another king, namely George III of England, got his fill of the lip that Americans gave him so he had his Redcoats try to disarm the people.

Disarmament of Americans failed in 1775, and we can hope it will fail again in 1991.

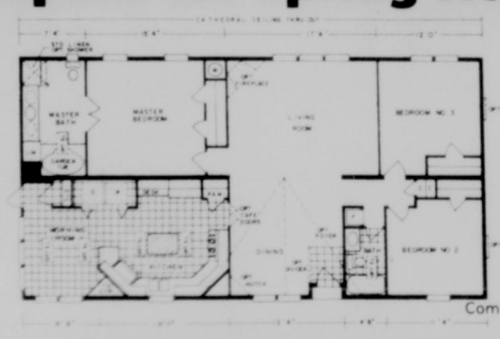
Sincerely,
Lawrence D. Pratt
Executive Director
Gun Owners of America

CRIME SOLVERS

The Crime Solvers' Cases of the Week involve two incidents of breaking and entering, destruction of property, and theft that occurred on January 20.

On that date between 7:30 and 9:15 p.m., an unknown person or persons broke a side window on a 1990 Ford pickup parked at the Mid-Towns Shopping Plaza and removed a Cobra brand radar detector valued at $220. The cost of the damage done to the window was estimated at $100.

Also on January 20, a breaking and entering occurred at the Piney Mountain Hunting Club, located in the Youghiogheny Mountain Resort. Stolen in the incident was stereo equipment and a chain fall. The total loss in the case was valued at $400.



All leads have been exhausted in these cases and Crime Solvers needs the help of any individual who may know about the crimes. Persons with information are urged to contact Crime Solvers at 334-1975.

Callers will not have to give their names, nor will they be required to testify in court. Rewards up to $1,000 are available to those callers who provide tips that lead to an arrest.

PTA Month Is Announced By Local Chapter

February is PTA (Parent-Teacher Association) Month, according to a spokesperson for the local chapter of the county council of PTA's. The theme of the month is "Parents Who Care Have Children Who Care," and the purpose of the designation is to educate the public about the important work being done by the PTA on the national, state, and local levels.

Charlotte Sebold, president of the Garrett County Council of PTA's, said that one of the major goals of PTA Month is to eliminate any misinterpretation of the PTA as a fund raising arm of schools, or as a "cookie and punch" organization for mothers.

PTA's play an important role in all communities and in the lives of all children nationwide, Mrs. Sebold said, functioning as a vital link between parents, educators, and the children they serve.

The week of Feb. 17 has been declared "National Parents and Teachers Association Week" by the United States Senate and House of Representatives. The joint resolution has gone to President Bush for his signature, according to Mrs. Sebold.

"February 17 is Founders' Day for the PTA," Mrs. Sebold explained. "PTA's will be celebrating the founding of the nation's largest parent, teacher, and child advocacy association, the National PTA."

The "National Congress of Mothers," as it was originally called, first met on Feb. 17, 1897, in Washington, D.C., under the leadership of Alice McLellan Birney, a New York businesswoman, and Pheobe Apperson Hearst, mother of William Randolph Hearst.

Various activities of the PTA and other specially designated days will be announced throughout the month of February.

Nat'l Vocational Education Week Announced By BOE

This week, February 10-16, 1991, is National Vocational Education Week. The theme for this week is "Vocational Education, Classroom of the Future."

Garrett County offers a variety of Vocational-Technical programs consisting of Agriculture Production, Business Data Processing, Stenographic, Clerical, Marketing, Allied Health, Consumer Home Economics, Food Production, Brick, Block, and Stone Masonry, Carpentry, Industrial Electronics, Automotive Mechanics, Drafting, and Machine Shop.

He said that good academic skills and good vocational skills provide a student with the tools needed in the workplace of tomorrow.

Sharon Pfeiffer Becomes Bride Of William Bender In October Event

Sharon Lynn Pfeiffer and William Stewart Bender were united in marriage October 13, 1990. The double-ring ceremony took place at St. John's United Church of Christ in Grantsville with Pastor Robert P. Cole officiating. The scripture readings were read by the Reverend Earl A. Yoder. Rae Ann Frazee was organist and Greg Brenneman, Tammy Brenneman, and Pamela Brenneman were vocalists.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Pfeiffer, Sr., Cumberland. Mr. Bender is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Bender, Grantsville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a designer gown of white bridal satin featuring a modified sweetheart neckline, satin puff sleeves designed in soft shirred folds with satin rosebuds outlining the shoulder, extending to the wrist in bridal points of appliqued illusion. The fitted bodice adorned with sequins and pearl appliques extended to a mermaid skirt shirred over the hips with rose clusters on either side and back. The skirt was complemented by a cascade of satin ruffles falling to a chapel train. A veil of Schiffle lace petal profile with pearl sprays and cut crystal accents featured a sparkle pouf and elbow length veiling highlighted with lace motifs complemented the gown. The bride carried a high style bouquet of cascading Casablanca lilies, bridal white roses, curly willow, bear grass, and ivy. Her jewelry consisted of cut crystal earrings, given as a gift from the bridegroom.

Serving as matron of honor was Sherri Bernard, Cumberland, friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were Mary Kifer, Darla Paulus, Ginger Farrell, all of Cumberland, all friends of the bride, and Rindy Pfeiffer, Cumberland, sister-in-law of the bride. Miss Lindsay Pfeiffer, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Serving as best man was Kevin Plummer, Laurel, friend of the groom. Ushers were Randy Whitaker, Frostburg; William Lashbaugh Jr., Eckhart; and Lowell Yoder, Mt. Airy, all friends of the groom, and John Pfeiffer, Cumberland, brother of the bride. Ring bearer was Jess Carey, Grantsville, nephew of the groom. Programs were distributed by Amy Pfeiffer, Cumberland, niece of the bride, and Emily Carey, Grantsville, niece of the groom.

A reception was held at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club, Cumberland. The three-tiered cake was made by Shelby Gable. Entertainment was provided by Tim Martin.

Following a trip to Caesar's Palace in the Pocono Mountains, the couple established residence in Frostburg.

The bride is a graduate of Fort Hill High School, Cumberland, and is employed at the Memorial Hospital Medical Building, Cumberland. Mr. Bender is a graduate of Northern Garrett High School, Garrett Community College, and Frostburg State University. He is president of Billy Bender Chevrolet-Geo, Inc., and All Star Auto and Truck Parts, Inc., Grantsville.

The bride was the guest of honor at a surprise shower given to her by the matron of honor, Sherri Bernard.

Permit Review

on the long road to recovery of the Chesapeake Bay," Dr. Brown explained, "as we joined our programs, in a complementary way, to protect these valuable wetlands."

DNR began a new permit program last month designed to improve protection of nontidal wetlands. A Corps permit program has existed since 1977.

Following a year of negotiating between federal agencies and DNR, a public review, the general permit provides for the following:

*The state will review applications for permits for projects that affect less than five acres of nontidal wetlands (except in the few instances where the Corps has special oversight). Projects over five acres will require both a state and federal permit. By sharing review responsibility, rather than duplicating it for the majority of projects, the two staffs will reportedly be able to provide better protection of the resource. The permit process is also simplified for the applicant.

*The Corps will tell DNR within 45 days after receiving an application whether federal approval of permit will be required in addition to state approval. By setting a deadline for the first phase of permit review, the applicant is assured of a timely response.

In finalizing the general permit, Corps District Engineer Frank R. Finch characterizes the arrangement as "a true milestone for the Baltimore District in Maryland. The general permit will enhance both programs and allow us to better serve the public and the environment."

Dr. Brown emphasized, "This is a good example of Maryland keeping its commitment to protect nontidal wetlands as part of the 1987 Chesapeake Bay Agreement."

For information on the state's nontidal wetlands program, citizens may call DNR's Water Resources Administration, (301) 974-3841 in Annapolis; for information on individual permits, persons may call 1-800-876-0200.

¼ cup cornstarch
Pinch of salt
1 cup butter, room temperature
½ cup powdered sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
Milk, if needed
About 2 tablespoons strawberry jam

Preheat oven to 350F (175C). Stand 10 small paper baking cups in 2-inch muffin cups, set aside. Sift flour, cornstarch and salt into a medium-size bowl, set aside. In a large bowl, cream butter and ¼ cup powdered sugar with an electric mixer or a wooden spoon until smooth. Fold in dry ingredients. Stir in vanilla. Add milk 1 tablespoon at a time until mixture reaches soft piping consistency. Spoon dough into a pastry bag fitted with a ½-inch star tip. Pipe dough into paper cups, covering base and working up the sides in a spiral. Bake 20 to 25 minutes or until light golden. Cool on a wire rack. Dust cooled pastries with remaining ¼ cup powdered sugar. Spoon about ½ teaspoon strawberry jam in center of each cake. Makes 10 cakes.

Preheat oven to 350 (175C). Cover a large baking sheet with foil; set aside. In a medium-size bowl, beat egg whites until foamy. Gradually add superfine sugar and beat until stiff peaks form. Mix in vanilla and salt, then fold in chocolate pieces and walnuts. Drop by teaspoonfuls 2 inches apart on baking sheet. 1⅓ cups wheat flakes (with no sugar or salt added)
⅔ cup self-rising flour
¼ cup raisins
2 tablespoons packed brown sugar
½ cup nonfat milk
2 tablespoons margarine, melted, cooled

Preheat oven to 400F (205C). Coat a medium-size baking sheet with nonstick cooking spray, set aside. In a medium-size bowl, combine cereal, flour, raisins and brown sugar. Add milk and melted margarine and mix thoroughly with a wooden spoon. Drop by heaping tablespoonfuls onto baking sheet, spacing about 2 inches apart. Bake 10 to 12 minutes or until golden brown. Serve warm. Makes about 10 scones.

HAM & VEGGIE TEA BREAD

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 small onion, chopped
3 celery stalks, chopped
4 cups self-rising flour
Salt and pepper to taste
¼ cup solid vegetable shortening, chilled, cut in chunks
⅔ cup milk
1 egg, beaten
¾ cup finely chopped cooked ham

Preheat oven to 375F (190C). Grease 9"x5" loaf pan. Melt butter in a medium-size skillet over low heat. Add onion and celery, cook, stirring frequently, about 5 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Remove vegetables from skillet and set aside to cool. Sift flour, salt and pepper into a large bowl. With your fingers, rub shortening into dry ingredients until mixture is crumbly. Add milk, egg, ham and vegetables; mix with a wooden spoon to form a soft dough. Turn out onto a floured surface and knead lightly. Shape into a rectangle and place in greased loaf pan. Bake about 1 hour or until a wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Turn out of pan and cool on a wire rack about 10 minutes. Cut into slices to serve. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

CHEESE SCONES

1 cup all-purpose flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon dry mustard
Pinch of salt
1 cup whole-wheat flour
3 tablespoons cold butter or margarine, cut in small pieces
¾ cup (3 oz.) finely shredded sharp Cheddar cheese
About ⅔ cup milk
Butter

Preheat oven to 425F (220C). Lightly grease a large baking sheet, set aside. Sift all-purpose flour, baking powder, dry mustard and salt into a large bowl. Stir in whole-wheat flour. With your fingers, rub in cold butter until mixture is crumbly. Stir in ½ cup cheese. Make a well in center of mixture, add milk and mix with a fork to make a dough that barely holds together (you may need to press dough together with your hands). Turn out onto a floured surface and knead lightly. Roll out with a floured rolling pin or pat dough with your hands to make a round about ¾ inch thick. Cut in rounds with a 2-inch fluted or plain cookie cutter. Place 1 to 1½ inches apart on baking sheet, sprinkle with remaining ¼ cup cheese. Bake 8 to 10 minutes or until well risen and golden. Transfer to a wire rack to cool. When cold, split and serve with butter. Makes about 12 scones.

¾ cup superfine sugar
¼ cup raisins
⅓ cup pitted dates, quartered
About ¼ cup milk
1 egg yolk, beaten
1 tablespoon packed light brown sugar
Butter

Preheat oven to 400F (205C). Grease a large baking sheet, set aside. Sift flour, cinnamon, ginger, cloves, mace and coriander into a large bowl. With your fingers, rub in shortening until mixture is crumbly. Add sugar, raisins and dates, mix well. Gradually add enough milk to form a lumpy dough, mixing with a fork. Turn out onto baking sheet and pat with your hands to make an 8-inch round about ¾ inch thick. With a sharp knife, score top in 8 wedges. Brush with egg yolk and sprinkle with brown sugar. Bake about 20 minutes or until golden brown. Transfer scone to wire rack and cool about 5 minutes. Serve warm with butter. Makes 8 servings.

OATY APPLE LOAF

1½ cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 teaspoon ground nutmeg

1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts
2 eggs
¼ cup milk
¼ cup butter or margarine, melted, cooled
2 medium-size apples, cored, coarsely shredded
Butter

Preheat oven to 350F (175C). Lightly grease a 9"x5" loaf pan, set aside. Sift flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg into a large bowl. Stir in brown sugar, rolled oats and walnuts. In a small bowl, mix eggs, milk and melted butter. Add all at once to dry ingredients. Add apples and stir gently until all ingredients are blended. Pour into pan, smooth top. Bake 50 to 55 minutes or until a wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool in pan 10 minutes, then turn out onto a wire rack to cool completely. To serve, cut loaf in slices. Serve with butter. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

GLAZED TEA RING

2 cups all-purpose flour
1 (¼-oz.) package active dry yeast
1 teaspoon superfine sugar
½ cup plus 2 tablespoons warm milk (110F, 45C)
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup granulated sugar
2 tablespoons butter, melted, cooled
1 egg, lightly beaten
Lemon Glaze
2 tablespoons chopped nuts
Butter

In a large bowl, combine ½ cup flour, yeast and superfine sugar. Add milk and mix well. Let stand in a warm place about 20 minutes or until mixture is bubbly. Sift remaining 1½ cups flour and salt into a medium-size bowl. Stir in granulated sugar. Stir melted butter and egg into yeast mixture. Fold in dry ingredients and mix to form a soft dough. Turn out onto a lightly floured surface and knead about 10 minutes or until smooth and elastic. Place in a greased bowl, turn over to grease top. Cover and let rise in a warm place about 1½ hours or until doubled surface and knead briefly to release air. Divide dough in thirds, roll each piece with your hands to make a rope about 18 inches long. Lightly press ropes together at one end. Place on baking sheet and braid loosely. Form into a ring and press ends together to seal. Cover and let rise in a warm place 15 minutes. Preheat oven to 450F (230C). Bake 25 minutes or until golden brown. Transfer to a wire rack to cool. When cooled, prepare glaze. Cover top of ring with glaze and sprinkle with nuts. Cut in slices and serve with butter. Makes about 10 servings.

Add egg and beat well. Beat in vanilla. With wooden spoon, gradually work in dry ingredients until well blended. Stir in walnuts and chocolate pieces. Chill dough until firm. Preheat oven to 350F (175C). Grease 2 large baking sheets. With your fingers, pinch off pieces of dough and roll into walnut-size balls. Place about 2 inches apart on baking sheets. Bake 12 to 15 minutes or until light brown. Transfer to a wire rack to cool. Makes about 30 cookies.

In a large bowl, cream butter and superfine sugar with an electric mixer or a wooden spoon until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks and beat well. With wooden spoon, gradually work in flour mixture to make a firm dough. Turn out onto a lightly floured surface. With a floured rolling pin, roll out to a thickness of 1/8 inch. PROMISE

The Saxons had a word for Spring. It was Lencten, shortened, in time, to Lent.

So the name Lent was given to that springtime period of forty fast days from Ash Wednesday until Easter.

Lent came to mean a time of penitence. And it is. But it is also a time of preparation, and of promise. For because Lent means Spring, it heralds good things to come. It forecasts the glorious message of Easter. It is the dawn of the most beautiful season of the year.

The bare branches of these trees will burst into bud and leaf with the touch of Spring. Our thoughts during Lent, our personal preparations, also will reach fruition when the forty days are through.

Lent is the time for prayer and self-examination. Make the Lenten season really mean something by seeking help and guidance at your church services.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

PAUL ON MARRIAGE

February 17, 1991

Background Scripture:
I Corinthians 7:1-40
Devotional Reading:
Genesis 2:18-24.

If you are going to read I Corinthians 7, the place to start is with verses 26, 29 and 31. In fact, it is absolutely essential. Here's why:

"I think that in view of the impending distress. . ." (26)

". . . the appointed time has grown very short. . ." (29)

"For the form of this world is passing away" (31)

In order to understand what Paul is saying about marriage and other relationships in I Corinthians 7, we must first realize that Paul's opinions are based on his conviction that the second coming of Christ was imminent. Otherwise, I Corinthians 7 sounds like a Biblical denigration of marriage. Paul is not really concerned with either marriage or celibacy; what he is concerned with is the Parousia, the return of Christ and the Kingdom of God.

THE PAROUSIA DELAYED

Paul assumes that the Christians of Corinth are no less certain of Christ's imminent return, so he begins Chapter 7 with the assumption that what he is saying about sex and marriage will be understood to be an interim teaching — what to do between now and the date when the Parousia begins. Then — during that brief time of waiting — and only then does this teaching apply: not before, not after. In 7:20, he says: "Everyone should remain in the state in which he was called" and again in 7:26, "In view of the impending distress it is well for a eprson to remain as he is. Are you bound to a wife? Do not seek to be free. Are you free from a wife? Do not seek marriage." Why: so that both married and unmarried may be optimally ready for the return of Christ.

Of course, Paul's expectation was in error. The Parousia did not come soon, or even in Paul's lifetime. In fact, it still hasn't arrived to this very day. So Paul's teaching about "stay as you are" is no more applicable to us than it was to the Corinthian Christians. Furthermore, Paul is very careful in I Corinthians 7 to say that his advice is not binding as Christian truth per se. "I say this by way of concession, not of command" (7:6). At another point he specifies, ". . . I say, not the Lord. . ." (7:12). And: "Now concerning the unmarried, I have no command of the Lord, but I give my opinion. . ." (7:25). Once more: "But in my judgment. . ." (7:40).

BETTER TO MARRY

Paul was wrong, not only about the Parousia, but, I believe, about the purpose and value of marriage. Genesis says, "It is not good that the man should be alone." Paul doesn't seem to agree. His view is that of a celibate bachelor. It is obvious that he thinks of marriage strictly as a means of sanctifying the sexual relationship: "For it is better to marry than to be aflame with passion" (7:9). I'm sorry that Paul seems not to know anything about the other blessings of marriage: friendship, companionship, mutual sharing and support.

Paul's purpose was not to lay down rigid rules, but to help people to be as well prepared as possible for the Parousia. Having said that married and unmarried should remain as they are, he says nevertheless, "But if you marry, you do not sin" (7:28). His advice to slaves is similar. "Were you a slave when called? Never mind" (7:21). But he modifies this with: "If you can gain your freedom, avail yourself of the opportunity."

Paul's purpose then is pastoral: "I say this for your own benefit, not to lay any restraint upon you, but to prom o t e good order and to secure your undivided devotion to the Lord" (7:35). Even if we don't accept his conclusions, we can appreciate his loving pastoral concern.

Moira Kelly and Sheryl Lee (from left) star in the shocking and true story of a family who killed one of their own on Love, Lies and Murder, Sunday and Monday on NBC.

Father manipulates family to murder wife

Unbelievable true story dramatized

By Amy Schmidt

Here's a grisly tale, more so because it's true. On March 19, 1985, Linda Bailey Brown, the 22-year-old wife of Orange County computer executive David Brown, was shot to death in her bed. Brown subsequently collected $830,000 from four separate life insurance policies on his late wife, and moved into an expensive new home with Linda's sister, Patti. Two years later the shocking truth was revealed. David Brown had manipulated his 14-year-old daughter Cinnamon (Linda's stepchild) and Patti to murder his wife.

The dramatization of this abominable event, titled Love, Lies and Murder, will debut as a two-part miniseries beginning Sunday, Feb. 17, and concluding Monday, Feb. 18. Clancy Brown (Blue Steel) will play the part of the manipulative David Brown, Sheryl Lee (Twin Peaks) will play Patti Bailey, and Moira Kelly has been cast as young Cinnamon.

The story is told from the point of view of Patti Bailey, who is now incarcerated.

"My first thought when the producers talked to me was, 'Why is my story so different from anyone else's?'" said Bailey. "I really never realized that my life was 'abnormal'."

Clancy Brown, who only reluctantly accepted the role of David Brown, having found it so despicable, had a slightly altered view: "There were a number of points where they (Patti and Cinnamon) could have made the right choice. There must have been a voice buried in them someplace, but somehow they couldn't hear it."

Redgraves star together for first time

'What Ever Happened to Baby Jane?' airs

By Amy Schmidt

"Blanche, do you know we have rats?" That memorable line is from the classic 1962 horror film What Ever Happened to Baby Jane? starring screen legends Bette Davis and Joan Crawford. Davis' tell-tale line ushers in the chilling next shot of Crawford screaming as she lifts the lid on her dinner tray. Blanche's sister Jane has, not so kindly, cooked her up a rather unappealing entree — rat a la carte.

The scene will be repeated when two real-life sisters star in the TV remake of What Ever Happened to Baby Jane? Lynn and Vanessa Redgrave star in the new version, which premieres on ABC Sunday, Feb. 17. It is the first time the two have ever appeared on screen together.

What Ever Happened to Baby Jane? is the story of two sisters and a bad case of sibling rivalry. The "nice" sister (played by Crawford and subsequently Vanessa Redgrave) is a popular actress crippled in an auto accident. The "nasty" sister (Davis and Lynn Redgrave) is a faded child star (known as "Baby Jane") whose sibling's success has left her jealous and ultimately demented.

The original players, Davis and Crawford, were life-long rivals, and it is widely known they fought like cats and dogs on the set.

Some have rumored that the Redgrave sisters may have had their problems on the set as well. One reporter asked Lynn if taping her sister's mouth shut and dragging her around in a bag weren't maybe something she had always wanted to do as a child.

The Redgrave sisters deny this is the case. In fact, their manner toward one another seems perfectly gentile, very British, if not downright lovey-dovey.

"I was principally excited to work with Lynn, not because she's my sister, but because she's a wonderful actress," commented Vanessa. "I think actually Lynn feels the same," she laughed.

Lynn went on to say, "We value, I think — and all people should — their family relationships, and you do everything possible to keep that relationship whole because it's what you have with you, you hope, for all of your life," said the actress. "I wouldn't tell you if there were (animosities). But they're aren't."

Although the 1962 version of What Ever Happened to Baby Jane? became a hit and a classic, it was originally turned down by nearly every studio in Hollywood. Not so with the remake. People had been hounding William Aldrich, son of the movie's original producer-director Robert Alrich, for quite some time to do a remake.

The new version of the film will be different in that it will show a more symbiotic relationship between the two sisters, said Aldrich. Both Jane and Blanche will be depicted as the sorry objects of the Hollywood "dream machine."

"I think they both are monsters at certain times. But they are also both victims at certain times," he elaborated. "And that's a big change from the original motion picture."

Lynn Redgrave plays a child star who grows into a demented, evil adult when her sister becomes a bigger acting success than she in the remake of What Ever Happened to Baby Jane? The new version of the 1962 horror classic premieres Sunday on ABC.

Grammys observe variety of musical styles

Garry Shandling serves as host

By Anne Wheeler

A wide variety of musical genres will be recognized at The 33rd Annual Grammy Awards, airing Wednesday, Feb. 20, on CBS.

Comedian Garry Shandling will serve as host of the awards for the second year.

From pop, country, rap and blues recordings to gospel, reggae, new age recordings and movie soundtracks, the prestigious Grammys note artistic or technical achievement. Nominees and winners are selected by their music industry peers. The more than 6,000 members of the National Academy of Recording Arts & Sciences (NARAS) select nominees through a secret ballot. The group consists of singers, musicians, conductors, producers, composers, engineers and others.

"For many persons who may only listen to hit radio or country, this may be the only opportunity of the year to be exposed to classical, reggae, gospel or other areas," said Mike Greene, president of NARAS.

In addition to introducing viewers to different types of music through the Grammy Awards, the NARAS selects five inductees for its Hall of Fame, which was created to honor recordings made prior to the advent of the Grammy Awards in 1958. This year's Hall of Fame inductees include "Call It Stormy Monday" (1938) by T-Bone Walker, "Misty" (1954) by the Erroll Garner Trio, "Moonlight Serenade" (1939) by Glenn Miller and his Orchestra, "Show Boat" (1932) with Paul Robeson, Helen Morgan and James Melton, and the original cast recording of "West Side Story" (1957) with Larry Kert and Carol Lawrence.

SOAP TALK

'Days' actors have avid fans

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: I am a Days of Our Lives fan. I have been watching it since 1975. My favorite storylines were those involving Bo and Hope.

Unfortunately, Bo and Hope sailed away (although romantically) into the sunset. This was sad, but tolerable. But then they brought them back only to kill off Hope. It is unforgivable. As if this isn't bad enough, the writers have Bo interested in someone new only four months after Hope's death. Come on!

Is there any chance that Kristen Alfonso will reconsider and return? —Stephanie McReynolds, Denton, Texas

Dear Stephanie: When Kristen Alfonso returned to the show this past year, she was only scheduled to be on for a few months due to her pregnancy. She left the show on good terms, so if she ever decided to return, there would be no problem. Also, remember that you never actually saw Hope die.

Dear Candace: I watch the soap opera Days of Our Lives and love Patsy Pease. I'm so glad she is back on the program, and I hope she never leaves the soap again. Also, is Mike Horton ever going to be on Days again? —A Soap Opera Watcher

Dear Soap Watcher: Michael Weiss is now on NBC's Dark Shadows. It is doubtful he will return to the soap any time soon. You are not alone in your excitement about the return of Pease. Several readers have written to say how happy they are that she is back.

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, TX 76102-0748. © TV Listing Inc

Robert De Niro likes to keep personal life invisible

By Polly Vonetes

Robert De Niro

Q: Can you list all the movies Robert De Niro has starred in? Could you print his photo and tell me if he is married, his birthday, origin, and where I might write to him? —Cynthia Krutke, Anchorage, Alaska

A: Robert De Niro was born on Aug. 17, 1943, in New York City. When he was 2-years-old his parents separated, and he was raised in Manhattan's "Little Italy." He is a very private person and prefers to keep his personal life invisible. De Niro won his first acting job at the age of 16, when he toured East Coast high schools in a production of Chekhov's The Bear. After several years of study with the likes of Stella Adler and Lee Strasberg, at age 25 he made his movie debut in Greetings. He has a 15-year-old son and an adopted daughter from a failed first marriage to Diahanne Abbott. His current girlfriend is rumored to be model Toukie Smith. His movies are too numerous to list here, but I will list some of his earlier films: The Wedding Party, Hi Mom, Bloody Mama, Born to Win, Bang the Drum Slowly and The Last Tycoon.

Q: I'm infatuated with the blonde flygirl on In Living Color. Could you please tell me all about her? Also where I could write her? —Nate Notti, Anchorage, Alaska

A: Kelly Coffield is a talented stage actress who has recently expanded her career into film and television. Movie-going audiences will recognize her from her role as Dee in Field of Dreams. A native of New York, Coffield began her training as a young girl in the Children's Repertory Company. After graduating from Marymount Manhattan College, she continued her studies at Chicago's Goodman School of Drama, where she earned her master of fine arts degree. Write to her: c/o In Living Color, Fox Broadcasting Co., P.O. Box 900, Beverly Hills, CA 90213.

Q: Can you please tell me where I can write to Delta Burke? —Shannon Tuttle, Kernesville, N.C.

A: The only verified address I have at this time for Delta Burke is: c/o CBS TV, Designing Women, 7800 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles, CA 90036.

Q: Is it possible to see some of Charles Buck Jones' old westerns? He was one of the best. Every time I turn on the TV, all I see is John Wayne. If you can, will you please tell me where I can find a tape of Buck Jones called Treason? —James Monroe, Marston, N.C.

A: I am not sure if Treason is available, but West of the Law, with The Rough Riders (Buck Jones, Tim Holt and Raymond Hatton) is at Video Yesteryear, Box C, Sandy Hook, CT 06482. Write them or call 1-800-243-0987 for information.

Please send your questions about television past and present to: Polly Vonetes, TV Pipeline, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, Texas 76102-0748.

Elizabeth Montgomery plays real-life character

Mother's hold on son has tragic outcome

By Mary Ann Townsend

From 19th-century suspected axe murderess Lizzie Borden to the fugitive Mrs. Sundance, Elizabeth Montgomery has played her share of colorful real-life characters.

She does so once again in CBS' Sins of the Mother, airing Tuesday, Feb. 12.

Sins of the Mother is based on actual events that happened in Spokane, Wash. Ruth Coe, the overbearing wife of newspaper managing editor Gordon Coe, had a love-hate relationship with her son — one minute he could do no wrong; the next she scorned him for having been born.

Kevin could neither stand up to his mother nor escape her psychosexual hold on him, so each time she emasculated him, he secretly retaliated by raping women who resembled her.

Ruth Coe not only perjured herself in defense of her son Kevin, who was being tried on six counts of rape, but when he was convicted of four of the crimes, she was also caught (and convicted of) trying to set up a murder-for-hire deal to kill the judge and prosecutor.

Montgomery said much of the dialogue was taken directly from transcripts of the court trials and from FBI tapes. However, the challenge came in recreating the mother's roller-coaster feelings for her son.

"The mercurialness of her switches, sometimes much more subtle than others, were the tough things. You never knew how this woman was going to react. And, basically," Montgomery said, "she thought she was fine. There's nothing wrong with this woman — in her mind."

TIME OUT

Daytona 500 gets underway

By Steve Paschal

Four-time Winston Cup champion Dale Earnhardt will be out for revenge Sunday, Feb. 17, when CBS Sports presents live coverage of the 33rd Daytona 500 from Daytona Beach, Fla.

Earnhardt, who has never won at Daytona despite an impressive list of victories, appeared to have the race won last year when his Chevrolet blew a tire just one mile from the finish line. Derricke Cope trailed by less than a mile going into the final lap and took advantage of Earnhardt's misfortune to win his first Daytona championship and claim the top prize in the $2.2 million event.

Earnhardt and Cope are favorites in this year's field, which also includes former Winston Cup champions Terry Labonte and Rusty Wallace. Davey Allison, son of the legendary Bobby Allison, is also among the favorites after winning the Talladega 500 at Daytona International Speedway last year. However, the sentimental favorite will be seven-time winner Richard Petty, who has raced in every Daytona 500 since the race's inception in 1959.

Following the Daytona 500, CBS Sports switches to Byrne Meadowlands Arena in East Rutherford, N.J., where the nationally ranked Arizona Wildcats will take on the Georgia Tech Yellowjackets. Arizona, with four returning starters from last year's PAC-10 co-championship squad, is set to make a run at the national title after losing to Alabama in the second round of the NCAA Tournament a year ago. Georgia Tech, picked to finish fourth in the tough Atlantic Coast Conference, returns two starters from the "Lethal Weapon" squad that made it to Final Four before losing to champion Nevada-Las Vegas.

Eastman Kodak Presents Award To Local Native

Gerald Maust, Software Systems engineer with Development Dimensions International (DDI), was recently awarded a certificate of appreciation from the Human Resource Development Team at Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N.Y.

Maust is the son of Elmer and Ida Maust, Rt. 1, Accident.

The award was presented to Maust for demonstrating high work standards and teamwork in the design and development of customized Identifying Criteria for Success (ICS), a human resource software system for conducting job analyses. ICS is one of many specialized personnel and selection programs offered by DDI, a multinational human resource development firm with corporate offices in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Eastman Kodak Company currently uses ICS within its Photographic Products Group, which has approximately 30,000 employees.

"We needed to expand the program to reflect the changes in our redefined work roles and to select people who fit within the new culture," says Mark Gratzer, human resources specialist, Eastman Kodak. "Gerald accomplished that through innovation, talent, creativity, and hard work."

It took almost a year of customizing the software to reflect Eastman Kodak's move from a traditional industrial environment to a high-involvement work system that emphasizes work teams and quality improvement, according to Carole Lampel, ICS consultant, DDI.

"Gerald's work on the project made the software system more efficient, flexible, reliable, and cost-effective for the customer," Ms. Lampel said.

Maust, a software systems engineer who developed the ICS software system, joined DDI in 1986. A native of Meyersdale, Pa., Maust grew up in Accident. He holds a bachelor's degree in electronics engineering technology from the Ohio Institute of Technology.

As software systems engineer, Maust is responsible for designing and developing software products and in-house software tools for the human resource development industry. He also coordinates quality control, testing, and production of shelf products developed at DDI.

Maust and his wife, Valerie, reside on Crawford Run Road in East Deer Township, Creighton, Pa., with their daughter, Emily.

Potomac Edison Conducting Survey

Over 1,100 residential customers from throughout Potomac Edison's service territory are now being interviewed by customer services representatives about their home appliance use. The information gathered will constitute the company's 1991 Appliance Saturation Survey.

"The purpose of the survey," according to Richard Rush, supervisor of research and analysis, "is to determine the saturation of electrical appliances owned by customers. This helps Potomac Edison make projections about appliance use over the next 20 to 25 years and assists in forecasting the electrical capacity needed to serve customers."

During the survey, customers will be asked about types of appliances they use, how many appliances they own and how often they use them. The company has conducted this survey every two years since 1963.

Potomac Edison serves more than 331,000 residential, commercial and industrial customers in Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

Water Safety Being Emphasized By DNR Police

The Maryland Natural Resources Police Force will be focusing their attention this year at reducing drowning in Maryland, and hope to accomplish this with an aggressive public education campaign, according to Col. Jack T. Taylor, superintendent.

A number of Natural Resources Police Officers selected throughout the state have recently received specialized training and have been assigned to promote water safety through a campaign known as "Drowning Is No Accident." The campaign consists of a course of instruction geared toward school systems, community groups, hunting and fishing clubs and other organizations.

Col. Taylor explained, "The lecture/video program introduces the listener to basic water safety, including the prevention of drowning and the danger of consuming alcoholic beverages and drugs while on the water. We intend to do all we can in promoting the safe, responsible use of our waterways, with a goal of eliminating drowning deaths."

Drownings claim up to 9,000 lives in the United States each year. The Natural Resources Police were called to investigate 47 drownings in 1990.

The Natural Resources Police conducted a similar program last year in the school systems, reaching 10,000 students in 52 schools, highlighting the dangers of mixing alcoholic beverages with boating.

Interested groups may call their local Natural Resources Police Office, or Headquarters at 301-974-2247 for information on scheduling the program.

Local Landowner Gives Presentation To Foresters

Charles W. "Sonny" Newhall, Oakland, gave a presentation to the Allegheny Society of American Foresters at their 69th Annual Winter Meeting on February 7 in Morgantown, W.Va.

Newhall's presentation focused on the "Practice of Stewardship on Maryland Woodlots." His presentation followed a talk by James Roberts, Maryland state forester, who talked about "Administering the Stewardship Program in Maryland."

The theme for the three day meeting was "The Maturing Appalachian Hardwood Forest — Tapping Its Potential."

Income, Sales Tax Affected By National, International Conditions

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said January 1991 revenue from state and local income taxes and sales and use taxes showed the effects of national economic conditions, which are being complicated by troubles in banking, savings and loan and insurance industries, the Persian Gulf war, and the federal deficit.

State and local income tax revenue for January 1991 totaled $387,806,327, nearly one percent less than the $391,417,649 collected for the same month last year. Sales and use tax revenue for January 1991, which reflects December 1990 retail activity, totaled $163,752,257, or 3.9% less than the $170,380,936 collected for the same month of the prior year.

"January is traditionally a low month for income tax revenue because employer withholding payments are not due until January 31. Employer withholding is the largest portion of income tax receipts," Goldstein said. "Estimated income tax payments, due January 15, were off by nearly 12%, indicating fewer year-end capital gains transactions as a result of stock market conditions and the failure of the federal government to enact capital gains tax legislation."

The comptroller said January is traditionally the largest month of the year for sales and use tax revenue, reflecting the December holiday shopping season. "Consumer spending continues to be weak, and January is the fourth straight month in which sales and use tax revenue has been less than the same month of the prior year. This phenomenon was unheard of until last year," he said.

For the first six months of fiscal year 1991, state and local income tax revenue amounts to $2.3 billion, up 2.4% over the $2.18 billion received during the first half of fiscal year 1990.

The general fund portion of income tax revenue for the first six months of fiscal year 1991 is below estimates by $12,996,374 or about nine-tenths of one percent.

For the first six months of the current fiscal year, sales and use tax revenue amounts to $817,589,302, about seven-tenths of one percent less than the $823,080,967 collected during the same period of the previous year. Sales and use tax receipts are $13,425,698 or 1.6% below estimates for the six-month period.

"The continued conflict in the Persian Gulf makes economic and revenue forecasting extremely difficult, especially when combined with the domestic economic situation. When our most recent revenue estimates were made, in December 1990, they were based on an uncertain war situation, with no open conflict. We said at that time that war would cause everyone's forecasts to be revised. The length of the war will be one of the most important factors in determining the timing of the economic recovery," Goldstein said. "We will be analyzing all new information and will keep the governor and the General Assembly advised of the still-unfolding situation before the budget is enacted.

"Maryland continues to have a smaller revenue gap than most of our surrounding states, thanks in part to our conservative estimating tradition," he said.

COME, SKI THE WISP WITH ME!

This is an advertisement for not only a great ski area but for a total 4-season resort!

It's also an invitation to dream!

My name is Ed King. I specialize in the marketing of second home and recreational property here in Garrett County and around Deep Creek Lake.

This may not appear to be the usual real estate advertisement, but then, I am not your usual real estate professional. I am a dreamer. Dreams are the highest form of motivation. You must have dreams to help formulate your objectives, to stay mentally alive, and to grow.

In America, almost any dream is obtainable.

A Dream of Skiing

I would like to share three of my dreams with you and invite you to dream with me. First, skiing! I was 25 years old when I began downhill skiing. After three days at an Air Force recreation center in Germany, I purchased my first pair of skis. They were hickory skis with the old bear-trap type bindings. After returning to the United States, I began skiing at the Deep Creek ski area on Marsh Mountain — now, the WISP. The small warming hut and gasoline-powered rope tow were a long way from the modern state-of-the-art equipment in use today at the WISP. My skiing ability was little more than a snow-plow turn and an occasional stem christy. However, through the years we (the WISP and I) improved. It was thanks to the WISP that my horizons broadened and I formulated my goals in the area of skiing.

Those goals were: 1) to ski the world-famous mountains of Colorado; 2) to ski "The Steep & the Deep" powder snow of Utah; and 3) to someday helicopter ski in the Bugaboo's of British Columbia. These goals have not been completely attained in that the Bugaboo's are still in the dream stage. But that's not all bad; this goal still exists and still is a dream to work toward.

The photograph above was taken last year at Snowmass, Colorado, in about twelve inches of freshly-fallen powder on High Alpine. That morning was one of those special days one never forgets. We had skied the Big Burn the first run and were the first skiers to track the new snow. Two runs later, we went on to the top of High Alpine lift and found more untracked powder among the heavily snow-covered spruce trees. Words cannot describe the thrill of gliding silently down a slope at eleven thousand feet above sea level, with a brilliant Colorado-blue sky overhead, and newly-fallen snow underfoot.

Through the years I also have returned often to Alta, Utah, to ski the deep-powder snow. Nowhere is the snow any better! On two different visits to Alta, I have experienced the pleasure of skiing bottomless powder — over seventy inches deep. Standing atop Alf's High Rustler is a thrill in and of itself where the rugged cliffs of Utah's Wasatch Mountains reach up and touch the sky. The untracked powder of the Peruvian Woods and the Eagle's Nest were well worth every ounce of dream power it took to get there.

What does any of this have to do with WISP? A lot! The WISP serves as training grounds here in your own backyard — most probably fewer than three-and-a-half hours from your home. The WISP offers all levels of skiing difficulty, and has a great Ski School. If you have mastered the slopes at WISP, you have certified yourself at least to ski comfortably on more than ninety percent of any resort slopes in the West — such as the Elevator Shaft at Aspen Mountain, the Wall at Aspen Highlands, and the Birds of Prey at Beaver Creek. The WISP can be a dream of its own, or it can be a stepping stone to another, larger dream.

A Dream of Deep Creek Lake

Next, is a different dream which, after many years, came true. This dream was to own property at Deep Creek Lake. My family had been coming to Deep Creek since I was a child to picnic, camp, hike, and fish. When I was old enough to drive, several of us would come to camp along Rock Lodge Road and State Park Road where the Deep Creek Lake State Park is today. We came with our canoe, and later a fifteen foot runabout with a 45 horsepower Mercury engine, which we bought from Matt Storey, a Deep Creek legend in his own time. Later, I kept a boat moored on the lake at the Kahl cottage on Rock Lodge Road.

It was through the years that I formulated this dream of someday owning a home here. My parents were pulling for me and even went to the extent of prodding me to stay on the right course to accomplish certain necessary goals — college, Air Force, and after that, night school for another degree. There were rough spots along the way, but in February, 1965, a local real estate agent, Bill Casteel (a former sheriff of Garrett County), and Stephen Pagenhardt, an attorney, were witness to my dream-come-true . . . my purchase of real estate here.

What do these dreams and memories have to do with this mountain resort? Again I say, a lot! You see, Garrett County opened up a whole new life for me, my parents, my children, friends, and even our pets. Sports. Privacy. Freedom. Tranquility. Escape. To pinpoint the feeling and the experience of living at Deep Creek is difficult to do. The emotion is different for different people. There are private, quiet times like sitting on the sofa in front of a cozy fire and enjoying a hot drink, and there are "fun" times like a sled riding party with the whole neighborhood gathered 'round a large bonfire. It's special. It's different. And definitely, it's a dream come true. Obviously, I could go on forever telling the joys of owning our second home here. This Lake and County have such a magnetism that everyone I know wants to return to it as often as possible.

A Dream of the Future

My third dream is about what I call the resort. I prefer to use the term "resort" rather than to say Deep Creek Lake. The resort is not only the ski area, the lake, the natural resources, or the four-season recreation. It is so much more. All the ingredients are important. Not only is each facet of the recreational experience important, but the relationship of each facet to the other is also very important. The lake itself is very delicate, as are the natural resources around the County.

This third dream about the resort is that of enhancing and protecting this resort. Irresponsible practices could permanently damage its attractiveness. Many techniques of resort planning could and should be implemented to chart the course years into the future for this mountaintop retreat. Each week I take at least a few hours away from the real estate career to nurture this third dream. I have partaken heavily of the cup of joy that this County serves up. Hopefully my dreams, my deeds, and my actions will be effective in putting something back into this cup.

You have just read a very long ad. Why have I taken a full page? Because, I want you to know what this resort has given to me. My dedication to the product I market is thoroughly sincere. I am passionate about Garrett County. For me to present an ordinary real estate advertisement would just not accomplish my objective of telling you what I want you to know.

Service, professionalism, ethics, aids for sellers and buyers in real estate transactions are the subjects addressed by most real estate ads. I, too, place these at the top of my priorities. However, not only are they at the top of my list, every real estate client and customer should expect these things of every Realtor. Therefore, the "point of difference" that I wish to make is: my personal, life-long commitment to this resort and to its people.

Over the past five years, my wife and real estate co-worker, Jean, and I have assisted more than one hundred fifty families with property transactions here in Garrett County. We are pleased and proud of the level of satisfaction these families have experienced with our service and their real estate here. Many, many dreams have become reality.

SHOWING THEIR SUPPORT for U.S. troops in the Persian Gulf, and encouraging other organizations to do the same, are Pack 49, Den 5, Grantsville Cub Scouts. Refund Checks Averaging $235

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said more than 145,000 state income tax returns have already arrived in Annapolis, and the first 21,334 refund checks, averaging $235, have already been mailed.

"While returns are coming in a bit slower than last year, I believe it may be attributable to our national concern with the Persian Gulf situation," Goldstein said. "Now that W-2 forms are in taxpayers' hands, the filing pace will undoubtedly pick up. All 15 of our offices will be open Saturday, February 9 and two upcoming state holidays to help taxpayers who need assistance."

The state tax offices will be open Washington's Birthday, Monday, Feb. 18. The holiday hours are 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. State income tax offices are also open regularly Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Goldstein noted that about 8% of the returns processed so far are the new, five-line Form 123, designed for about 200,000 individuals who earned less than $5,300 in 1990, but are due a refund of taxes withheld from their pay.

"This new Form 123 is not only a convenience to the taxpayers because of its simplicity, it also eliminates any possibility of these students and other single taxpayers from paying a tax in error," Goldstein said. "We are pleased with the public's acceptance of the new Form 123.

During the extra holiday hours, state tax experts at all 15 locations will answer any questions, provide the necessary forms and even complete Maryland income tax returns free of charge. Taxpayers must bring a completed copy of their federal return and all W-2 statements to take advantage of this free service.

The addresses and telephone numbers of all Maryland income tax offices are listed on the back of the state packet and in most local telephone directories. The toll-free number for free state income tax assistance is 1-800-MD TAXES (1-800-638-2937).

Statewide Treasure Hunt of Homes

REALTOR®
EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

OPEN HOUSE WEEKEND

Sat. & Sun., Feb. 16 & 17, 1—4 p.m.
Sponsored by The Garrett County Board of REALTORS®, Inc.

Three great reasons to buy a home now

INVESTMENT —
Purchasing a home is, and has been, the most dependable and lucrative of investments for Americans. Several recessions, conflicts in Korea and Vietnam, the oil cartel, a 16 percent mortgage rate in the early 1980s, and the October 1987 market crash have not destroyed the American housing market. Indeed, the real estate industry, historically, leads the country out of a recession period.

INTEREST RATES —
Interest rates, the other part of the buyers' market equation, are among the lowest they have been in the last 10 years. In many cases, purchasers can finance at or below 10 percent. Michael H. Yerman, President of the Maryland Association of REALTORS® , states, "Without a crystal ball, no one can foresee the future. While rates have continued to edge downward fractionally over the last few months, there are indications that interest rates will remain in the 9 percent range over the next several months, perhaps even the majority of 1991."

Home owners will be encouraged to learn that, according to available statistics, statewide sales during the first three quarters of 1990 are slightly higher for single-family units than the equivalent period in 1989. Although sales slumped in late August and September (1990), this is, historically, a "down market" period. Market expectations for fourth quarter re-sales are projected to match, or even exceed, 1989's figure.

Drawing to be held Mon., Feb. 25

INVENTORY —
Today's market offers many advantages to buyers and sellers alike. Sellers can take advantage of a housing market where, according to MAR's county by county research, median prices are holding steady and, in some counties, actually are increasing. Buyers can choose from a wide variety of homes in inventory.

The wide variety of homes available gives buyers, whether upgrading or looking for a first home, enormous opportunities. Conventional and FHA mortgages, to date, account for over 65 percent of Maryland loans in 1990. Other financing options range from VA and state supported Community Development Agency financing, up to 100 percent financing.

MY FUZZY VALENTINE -- Forget the candy and flowers! What could be a more loving gift for your valentine than a soft, warm, canine companion who is already bursting with love to give? The mother pup pictured above is a German shepherd who will be spayed soon. Her wheel-barrowed brood of eight puppies are mixed breeds, part German shepherd, and are six weeks old. Pictured below is another mixed breed who is longing for a new home. He has been neutered and has had all of his shots. He loves children, too. All of these furry creatures are free for the asking. To be a big hit on Valentine's Day--or any other day--please give one of these pups a home. For more information, call 334-8476.

Concert At FSU To Consist Of Effinger Music

A festival concert of music by Cecil Effinger, the outstanding modern American composer, will be presented at Frostburg State University on Sunday, February 24, at 3 p.m. in the Multi-purpose Room of the Lane Center. Student and faculty musicians from FSU, the local community and Shenandoah University, Va., will perform in this retrospective of Effinger's work. The public is invited and admission to the concert is free.

The Cumberland Choral Society, under the direction of Craig Schutz, will begin the program with "Fantasy" for piano and choir. Carole Lennox is the pianist. Jeanne Frieben, FSU instructor of clarinet, then joins the Choral Society to perform "Waterbug and Owl" for clarinet and choir.

Pianist Kim Andrews will perform the "Ten Miniatures." Don Anderson, instructor of flute at FSU, will join Ms. Andrews to play the "Sonata for Flute and Piano."

Following intermission, Karen Soderberg will conduct the Frostburg State University Chorale and the Collegium Musicum in Effinger's "Cantata op. 111 from Ancient Prophets." The text is adapted from Isaiah, Jeremiah, and Zechariah, and is written for soli octet, four-part chorus of mixed voices with wind octet, horns, cello and bass.

Born in Colorado Springs, Cecil Effinger received a B.A. in mathematics at Colorado College in 1935 and the degree doctor of music, Honoris Causa, from the same institution in 1959.

In addition to composing, most of his career was in the teaching field. He served as head of Theory and Composition at the University of Colorado. In addition, he was first oboist of the Denver Symphony, Music Editor of the "Denver Post," leader and commanding officer of the 506th Army Band, as well as serving on the faculty of the Biarritz American University during World War II. He invented the Musicwriter, a typewriter for music used by publishers, composers, schools and studios throughout the world.

He studied composition with Frederick Boothroyd and Bernard Wagenaar in Colorado Springs and with Nadia Boulanger in Fountainbleau where he won the Stovall Prize in 1939. His more than 100 works include five symphonies, two chamber symphonies, and two dozen other orchestral scores, an oratorio "The Invisible," an opera "Cyrano de Bergerac," a cantata "The St. Luke's Christmas Story," works for band, solo instruments and numerous choral works.

The "Little Symphony No. 1" recorded by Columbia received the Naumburg Recording Award in 1959. His "String Quartet No. 5," the "Piano Sonata No. 3," and the oratorio "Paul of Tarsus" are available from Owl Records.

"It is important for us in Western Maryland to have the opportunity to hear the music of significant, modern composers,," said Dr. Jon Bauman, professor of FSU's Department of Music and coordinator of the event. "The Effinger Festival is also a wonderful occasion for musicians from the Cumberland area to join with student and faculty musicians from Frostburg State University and instrumentalists from Shenandoah University to present an outstanding musical event."

"Cecil Effinger died suddenly on December 22, 1990. We are very fortunate that Mrs. Corinne Effinger will be able to attend the concert," says Bauman. The public is invited to a reception following the concert where they can meet Mrs. Effinger and the performing musicians.

This program is made possible in part by grants from the Allegany Arts Council, The Maryland State Arts Council, the National Endowment for the Arts, and the FSU Faculty Development Subcommittee.

Stroke Club To Meet Tomorrow

The monthly meeting of the Allegany County Stroke Club (ACSC) will be held at 1 p.m. this Friday, February 15, in the Clubroom of the Kensington-Algonquin Apartments, 1 Baltimore Street, Cumberland.

Former Sheriff Donald Wade will share the speaker's platform with Sheriff Gary Simpson and Detective Craig Robinson. The trio will present a program on Crime Prevention and Self Protection.

ACSC meetings are open to any stroke patient/stroke victim, family member, caregiver, or anyone else who is interested in learning more about strokes or related heart diseases.

Members of the Outreach Program will visit stroke patients/stroke veterans either in the hospital or in their homes upon request. To arrange for a visitation, persons in Garrett County should call 301-746-8269.

Anyone wishing information on strokes, related heart diseases, or the Allegany County Stroke Club may call Terry Wolff, chairman, at 301-729-1640 or the American Heart Association at 301-724-4011.

Transmission Repair Tests Slated At SHS

The Automatic Transmission Rebuilders Association (A.T.R.A.) will hold written examinations for automatic transmission rebuilders, R&R technicians, and service writers at Southern High School on March 13 at 7 p.m. as part of its national Certification Program. Thomas M. Powers, Southern High teacher, will serve as proctor.

A.T.R.A. is a non-profit organization dedicated to the improvement and welfare of the automatic transmission repair industry. With over 3,000 affiliates, it is the world's oldest and largest network of independent transmission firms.

Each year, A.T.R.A. sponsors over 500 proficiency tests throughout the country to encourage technical competency and professionalism in the industry. According to A.T.R.A.'s Executive Director, G. Steven Gray, a major goal of the Certification program is consumer protection.

"Consumers should look for a Certified shop when they need automatic transmission repair work," he said. "A.T.R.A. Certification helps identify which shops are capable of competently diagnosing and repairing automatic transmission problems."

Because transmission technology has become extremely complicated over the past decade, A.T.R.A. member shops are required to recertify every two years. Gray says experienced technicians usually have no trouble passing the test "if they've kept their knowledge and skills current."

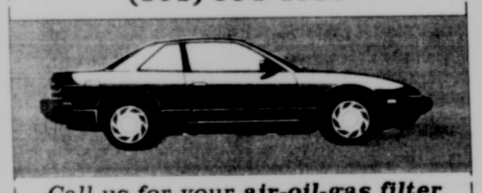
The tests are free to A.T.R.A. members. Nonmembers, however, are required to pay a small fee to help defray the cost of the program.

Those wishing to register for the tests or who want additional information about the Certification Program should contact Marilynn Gray at the A.T.R.A. Headquarters (805) 654-1700.

First State Electronic Returns Filed

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said the first electronically filed Maryland income tax returns were received by the state's computers in Annapolis February 10, 1991. "This is a giant step forward in making Maryland one of the very first states to successfully begin an electronic filing program," Goldstein said.

The Internal Revenue Service in the Maryland area is now in its third year of accepting electronically filed federal returns.



"To take advantage of the electronic filing program taxpayers should ask tax preparers if they are participating in the Maryland program" Goldstein said. "More tax preparers are qualifying for the program as approved software becomes more widely available."

To qualify for the Maryland electronic filing program, tax preparers must be participating in the IRS program, have the necessary hardware and software, apply to the state and submit test electronic returns successfully. Professional tax preparers can get more information by contacting the Maryland electronic filing program at (301) 974-3754.

"Taxpayers may choose to have their 1990 Maryland income tax returns filed electronically by a participating professional tax preparer if they are due a refund," Goldstein said. "The advantages of filing electronically include an immediate check of the return by our computer, so the tax preparer is notified immediately if there is a problem. In addition, electronic filing eliminates the data entry step in processing, so your refund will be sent even more promptly than in prior years."

Farm Bureau Calls For Opposition To Transfer Of Preservation Funds

Garrett County Farm Bureau has followed the lead of the Maryland Farm Bureau this week by asking members to take action to oppose House Bill 208 and Senate Bill 230, "The Budget Management Act." In a telephone campaign, President William F. DeWitt referred specifically to the portion of the bill relating to the Maryland Ag Land Preservation Fund. That section of the bill would take $17 million in ag preservation funds for deposit into the state's general treasury. Many feel that removing $17 million from the ag land program to help Maryland out of a financial bind would destroy the integrity of the program and, thus, the program itself.

To oppose this act, Farm Bureau is asking members and farm owners to call 1-800-492-7122, extension 3407 for the House Appropriation Committee, and extension 3690 for the Senate Budget and Taxation Committee to state their opinion of the Budget Management Act and the transfer of funds from the Maryland Ag Land Preservation Fund.

These bills have had hearings where individual farmers and program officials from a number of counties testified against the proposed cuts; however, no vote has been taken as yet, so it is important that calls are made immediately, according to a Farm Bureau official. District I-A Delegate, and member of the House Appropriations Committee, George Edwards said this week that the bill is an attempt to balance the 1991 budget. "We're not going to vote on the bill until we pass the 1992 budget, as that might have an impact on the issue," Edwards clarified.

Maryland officials have called the 14-year-old state ag land preservation program "the most successful program of its kind in the United States." At greatest risk are the interests of 35 to 40 landowners whose bids to sell their land's development rights have received partial approval from the state as well as 401 property owners awaiting state offers.

Garrett County Planning Administrator John Nelson says the effect is already being seen in the county. The state is withholding payment from two local farmers who applied last July and have reached the final stage in the long, complicated process of selling an easement. Final approval is being held up by the state's Board of Public Works, which consists of Gov. William Donald Schaefer, State Comptroller Louis Goldstein and State Treasurer Lucille Maurer.

Nelson said the impact on next year is unknown at this time. "Everything is on hold till the 1992 budget is passed," he said. Although no easement applications have been submitted since budget-balancing efforts began, Nelson says his office has seen a "whole flurry of activity — farmers scurrying to form preservation districts." He feels, however, that this is because of the Maryland Growth and Chesapeake Bay Protection Act ("2020 Bill"), HB-214/SB-227, which is also before the legislature this session. Nelson says farmers feel that law, if passed, will diminish their property values, and thus land equity, so they are thinking of selling their development rights before that happens in order to get something.

Program administrators in other counties, however, report that a number of new program participants have taken advantage of the slow process of recording district agreements at the state level to pull out of these contracts before their five-year restrictions on selling off lots have taken effect. The defections are the first tangible sign of what many local program administrators predict will be a massive loss of faith with the program in the farm community if the $17 million transfer occurs.

Gov. Schaefer's chief financial aide, Charles Benton Jr., said that the $17 million transfer would result in no more than a two to three month delay in program activities. Benton acknowledged that the loss of $17 million out of $22 million in existing fiscal 1991 funds would leave the program roughly $5 million short of the money needed to settle all of the offers awaiting settlement before the Board of Public Works.

That shortage was also pointed out by Del. Edwards, who said that he is almost sure some money will have to come out of the fund, but that other monies will start flowing back into the fund by July. "It will slow the program down but not squash it," he said, adding, "We will have to keep on our toes to prevent that from happening."

Maryland Farm Bureau Lobbyist Jack Miller agreed that if the state can't honor payments to the 35-40 landowners already approved for the program, it will be serious. If they can pay those people, he said, other money will be coming in to pay this year's 401 applicants. "If they pay them (the 35-40) it won't mean a total destruction of the program, but if they don't, it will have a serious impact," he said.

The major portion of the Ag Land Preservation Foundation's budget is derived outside the main state budget, from the agricultural transfer tax levied on the sale of farmland for development. All but $5 million of the 1991 certified fund, for instance, derives from this tax, which was imposed originally for the sole purpose of funding the farmland preservation program. Foundation officials have confirmed that, to date, ag transfer tax money has not been used for any other purpose.

The other $5 million in the foundation's certified fund comes from so-called Program Open Space monies, which are derived from a separate real estate transfer tax. Ironically, the amount of POS money flowing into the farmland program was slated to increase next year under legislation passed in 1990.

Nelson says that the program participation rate in Garrett County has been very constant, with three to four applicants every year. The county government has been very supportive, too, being a local matching county, he said. Nelson explained that each year the foundation requests a commitment from the county and each year since 1986, Garrett County has said "yes." This means that of the five-percent transfer tax collected from farms sold for other than farming purposes, one-third of those transfer tax funds is retained by the county for a period of three years. It is out of this local share that the county's commitment is made.

According to Nelson, each year the county has committed at least one-half of this amount to the local matching program, reserving the other half for the next fiscal year if needed. "In this way," Nelson said, "we've always had sufficient funds to join with the state and pay all the local applications that are approved. A shortage of these funds will certainly impact our program, and I expect the participation rate will fall."

Hearings Set For "2020" Bill In Annapolis

Hearings have been scheduled for the "Maryland Growth and Chesapeake Bay Protection Act" (2020 Bill), Senate Bill 227 and House Bill 214, submitted to the General Assembly by Governor William Donald Schaefer. The Senate Economic and Environmental Affairs Committee will hold its hearing on February 26 at 1 p.m. in the Joint Hearing Room, Legislative Services Building, 90 State Circle, Annapolis. The House Environmental Matters Committee will hold its meeting at the same location on February 28 at 1 p.m.

The Maryland Farm Bureau urges county Farm Bureaus and members to attend these hearings. They are also encouraged to write or contact their respective legislators and members of both the Senate Economic and Environmental Affairs Committee and the House Environmental Matters Committee. Committees can be contacted by calling 1-800-492-7122, ext. 3661 Senate, ext. 3534 House.

Farm Bureau feels the bill submitted by the governor is worse than the proposed draft by the 2020 Commission. It establishes an interim program throughout the state which will commence July 1 and remain in effect until counties adopt a permanent program. The permanent program must be developed in accordance with specific criteria and guidelines which the Office of State Planning will develop by regulation after six public hearings are held. Basically, the Office of State Planning will be the sole judge and jury when it comes to what will be in these regulations. The only possible check and balance is the AELR committee of the Legislature, and they only have the authority to advise. They cannot mandate any regulations. (For more information on the Maryland Growth and Chesapeake Bay Protection Act, see the Legislative Update elsewhere in this week's issue of The Republican.)

Farm Bureau suggests that members also make the following contacts expressing their concerns and problems with the proposed legislation: local bankers and lending institutions, civic clubs, neighbors, realtors, home builders, and county government officials.

Meeting Set For Area "Grade B" Milk Producers

The State of Maryland, Division of Milk Control, is in the process of drafting rules and regulations to govern manufacturing grade milk and milk products in the State of Maryland. As part of this process, the Division of Milk Control is holding a public meeting on Wednesday, February 27, 1991, at 7:30 p.m., at the Garrett Community College, Technical Building Room TC-260, McHenry, Md.

Representatives from the State will be present to discuss the proposed regulations, and to receive comments. If anyone wishes to read the proposed regulations prior to the February 27 meeting, a copy is available at the Extension Office in Oakland. Anyone having questions should contact William Zepp, Division of Milk Control, 1-301-791-4779.

OAKLAND AGWAY HAS NEW OWNERS — Sam Dick Sr., left, and Sam Dick Jr., store manager, are the new owners of the Oakland Agway store. Now known as Sam's Agway, the store is located on South Eighth Street in Oakland behind the State Highway Administration garage. The Dicks purchased the dealership franchise after Agway decided that the cooperative couldn't operate its smaller stores with computerized facilities as before. The Dicks both have extensive management experience with Agway. Sam Sr. was manager of the Uniontown, Pa., Agway for 26 years, and Sam Jr. managed the Clearfield, Pa., Agway for five years. Manager Sam Dick Jr. said that one of the biggest things they as new owners will try to achieve will be to broaden the product line to serve everyone without jeopardizing the farm trade currently enjoyed by the cooperative. Although they will remain dedicated to the farm community, the store will be more than feed, seed and fertilizer, according to the new owners. They welcome the public to the store to purchase their lawn, garden and pet supplies, also. Long-time employee Bill Bowman will remain at the store, as well as employee Roxanne Kitzmiller. The familiar faces of retired employees Rocky Swiger and Ed Hinebaugh will be seen again in the spring when the two will work part-time. The new owners also invite local farmers to their Annual Crop Meeting, February 19, at New Swan Meadow School. Beginning at 7 p.m., the meeting will feature speakers James O'Bryan of America Cyanamid, Harold Mummert of Baker Lime and Ned McIlvaine of Dupont.

A New Calf Implant Available

A new implant that enhances growth of beef and dairy beef calves is available. The progesterone-estradiol benzoate implant is to be used in calves at least 45 days old and weighing up to 400 pounds which are intended for slaughter. Trade-named CALF-oid, the implant is available in a 10-dose cassette, along with a hand held implanter that uses disposable, preloaded plastic needles. As a result, small-scale producers can avoid the high initial investment for large implanting guns or the purchase of large quantities of implants. Large herd producers also will be able to use CALF-oid, as it is available in 20-dose cartridge belts for use with multi-dose implanting guns.

Results from studies at Texas A&M University showed that implanting increased weaning weight of calves an average 25.1 pounds. At an auction selling price of $.13 per pound, that gain represents an additional $20.83 of gross income per calf. With an average implant cost of $1.00 and labor cost of $1.00 per calf, the net return per animal works out to $18.83, more than $9 return for each dollar invested.

CALF-oid is being marketed through retail outlets. For more information on calf implanting or use of the product, write CALF-oid, The Upjohn Company, P.O. Box 5087, Kalamazoo, MI 49003-5087.

Apple Growers Sue Over Alar Scare

The Washington State Apple Growers filed a class action suit against the Natural Resources Defense Council (NRDC) and CBS "60 Minutes" over the NRDC's report on Alar, "Intolerable Risk: Pesticides in Our Children's Food" and the television coverage of it. The Complaint seeks millions of dollars for losses suffered by plaintiffs and "each Washington Apple Grower" who is a member of the plaintiffs class, not to exceed $10,000 per claim. The suit maintains that the defendants have "disparaged the plaintiffs' red apples by communication or publication of false, misleading, and scientifically unreliable statements about red apples, with reckless disregard of the truth or falsity of such statements," resulting in "sustained serious economic loss" to the growers.

Beef Tips — Winter Feeding of the Cow Herd

1. Cows should be gaining weight in the last trimester of pregnancy.
2. If possible, feed the herd in groups based on their nutritional requirements.
3. Feed the best roughage to calves, first calf heifers and lactating cows.
4. Feed approximately 2 pounds of dry roughage per 100 lbs. of body weight.
5. One pound of hay equals about 2½ lbs. of corn silage or 3 lbs. sorghum silage in energy value as fed.
6. When roughage is scarce or high priced, grain may be a cheaper energy source than hay.
7. Replace only 1/3 to ½ of the hay ration with grain, and watch for digestive upsets on higher grain diets.
8. One pound of gain is equal in energy to 2-3 lbs. of hay depending on hay quality.
9. Save best roughage for later in the winter for lactating cows and heifers.
10. Provide plenty of fresh, clean, ice-free water at all times.

Acreage Reduction Program Signup Set By Ag Secretary

Secretary of Agriculture Clayton Yeutter has announced that the 1991 Acreage Reduction Program signup will be March 4 through April 26, and the 10th Conservation Reserve Program signup will be March 4 through March 15.

"Under new CRP program provisions, bids on eligible land will be accepted based on environmental benefits obtained per dollar of cost to USDA's Commodity Credit Corporation," Yeutter said.

Yeutter cautioned producers that they should not rely on bid amounts which have been accepted in previous years when making their bids. "In past signups, there was a high expectation that a producer could rely on no change occurring with respect to the bid amounts which would be accepted," he said. "Producers who wish to enroll in the CRP should be aware there is increased competition."

Land eligibility requirements will be expanded from past signups to include not only highly erodible land, but also other cropland acres that reduce the impairment of water quality or improve wellhead protection. "Wellheads are sources of water for municipalities," Yeutter said. "We expect to accept bids for protection of these wellheads as well as areas designated by states as '319 areas,' which have been determined to be a source of water quality problems."

To increase water quality benefits under CRP, producers offering areas such as filterstrips, sod waterways, shelterbelts and contour grass strips will receive additional consideration during the bid evaluation process.

Yeutter said bids for enrolling wetlands will not be accepted during this signup. "The Food, Agriculture, Conservation and Trade Act of 1990 establishes a Wetland Reserve Program and we will announce details of this program in the near future," he said.

CRP bids will be accepted only for contracts beginning in 1991 and bid acceptance determinations will be made after nationwide review and evaluation. Selection will be based on the environmental benefits received from placing the land in the CRP when compared to dollars of cost.

Yeutter said producers will be permitted to enter the same acreage simultaneously into the annual commodity programs and the CRP, and to withdraw from the commodity programs, without penalty, if their CRP bid is accepted.

USDA needs 30 days to evaluate and accept a bid but acceptance is not binding on either the producer or USDA until the contract is signed, he said.

Fifty percent cost-share assistance will continue to be available to establish needed permanent vegetative cover, including trees, on the accepted acres. Annual rental payments for 10 years also will be paid to CRP participants, based upon their bid, except in some limited cases, such as hardwood tree planting, where a longer period may apply.

Further details will be made available to producers in the near future through their county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service offices.

ARP program provisions were announced December 31, 1990.

Angela Otto Wins Accident Geography Bee

Angela Otto, a fifth grade student at Accident Elementary School, won the school's geography bee on February 6 and a chance at a $25,000 college scholarship. The school-level bee, at which students answered oral questions on geography, was the first round in the third annual National Geography Bee, which is being sponsored by National Geographic World, the Society's magazine for children, Amtrak, and Kudos Snack.

The bee was kicked off the week of January 28 in thousands of schools around the United States, District of Columbia, and five U.S. territories. The school winners, including Angie, will now take a written test; up to 100 of the top scorers in each state will be eligible to compete in their state bee April 5.

The National Geographic Society with its co-sponsors will provide an all expenses paid trip to Washington, D.C., for state champions and their teacher escorts to participate in the National Geography Bee finals on May 22 and 23. The first-place national winner will receive a $25,000 college scholarship; the second-place winner, a $15,000 scholarship; and the third-place winner, a $10,000 scholarship.

Alex Trebek, host of television's "Jeopardy," will moderate the national finals.

The National Geographic Society developed the National Geography Bee in response to a growing concern about the lack of geographic knowledge among young people in the United States. A 10-country Gallup Survey conducted for the Society in 1988 and 1989 found that people in the U.S. ages 18 to 24, the youngest group surveyed, knew less about geography than young people in any of the other countries in the survey.

The National Geographic Society, with more than 10 million members, has as its mission the "increase and diffusion of geographic knowledge." Besides the National Geography Bee, the Society sponsors a number of other geography education initiatives, including the Summer Geography Institute for teachers, the National Geographic Society Education Foundation, and the Geographic Alliance Network, which currently encompasses 40 states and Puerto Rico.

New Horizons Schedules Career Planning Classes

The New Horizons Program, providing services for single parents, homemakers, displaced homemakers, and sponsors of The Caring Connection, which serves adolescent single parents and pregnant teens, in cooperation with the Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College, continues to sponsor a series of Career Planning classes during the spring semester at GCC. The classes are offered in five week increments, meeting twice weekly on Monday and Wednesday, from 9 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. at the McHenry Campus of GCC. The next series of classes for spring 1991 are as follows: Monday, February 25 through Wednesday, March 27; Monday, April 1 through Wednesday, May 1; and Monday May 6 through Wednesday, June 5.

This career assessment course is designed for students to identify their training needs or to prepare for employment. Topics to be considered include skills assessment complete with interest testing, career information, resume writing, job applications, job search strategies, and interviewing techniques.

Participants of the New Horizons Program are encouraged to take this class before pursuing other vocational training. Tuition assistance is available to those who qualify for New Horizons. Transportation/child care assistance is available to income-eligible single parents and homemakers who are part of the New Horizons Program, if funds have not been expended. Child care is available to adolescent single parents and pregnant teens through The Caring Connection Program.

Interested persons may register for either class through the New Horizons office. Information on eligibility for the program and its services, as well as tuition availability, may be obtained by calling New Horizons at 387-6666, ext. 171, weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. New Horizons is located at the McHenry Campus of Garrett Community College in the Center for Community and Continuing Education in Room 302.

REALTORS LEARN CPR — Each year the Garrett County Board of Realtors participate in a community service project implemented by their own Community Concerns Committee. These year they have targeted two projects, recycling and CPR training. A committee member stated, "As members of our community who work closely with the public on a daily basis, it was felt that this would be a great asset to the community as a whole and in a very personal way." Metikki Coal Corporation is participating with the Board of Realtors by providing all the necessary materials and a certified instructor at no cost to the board. Jim Wolfe, an employee at Metikki and a certified American Heart Association instructor is teaching the classes. He has been an EMT for the past six years and runs with the Bruceton Mills Rescue Squad. Each class lasts approximately five hours and each participant must pass a written test and a hands on demonstration to become AHA certified. A spokesman from the board said, "We would like to thank Metikki and Alan Smith, safety director at Metikki, for making all this possible." Pictured above on the floor, left to right, are George White, Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty; Jim Wolfe, instructor; Diane Robeson and Debbie Friend, both from Coldwell Banker. Shown seated in the background, left to right, are Ruth Huebner, Regina White, and Mary Jo Lyons, all from Coldwell Banker.

Population Of Maryland Jumps 104% In Past 40 Years; Garrett's Up 32%

The recently released 1990 Census counts for Maryland show the state's population grew by 104.1 percent since the first post-World War II Census in 1950. Over the last 40 years, Maryland has been growing considerably faster than the U.S. population, which increased by 64.4 percent.

Maryland is the only state along the Eastern seaboard (with the exception of Florida) that had more than 2,000,000 persons in 1950 and saw its population more than double over the next 40 years.

"This growth is evidence of Maryland's economic progress during the post-World War II era," said Ronald M. Kreitner, director of the Maryland Office of Planning.

"Maryland's natural resources and its economic vitality provide a quality of life that is attractive to residents and business," he added.

As was reported earlier in The Republican, Garrett County's population grew from 21,259 in 1950 to 28,138 in 1990, an increase of 32.4 percent. The population in 1970 was only one percent higher than in 1950 (21,476).

The four large suburban counties of Baltimore, Anne Arundel, Montgomery and Prince George's, contiguous to the central cities of Baltimore and Washington, D.C., grew by 1,859,420 between 1950 and 1990, a 249.2 percent increase. This represents 76.3 percent of the overall state increase in population.

These four counties had their major expansion during the '50s and '60s when they accounted for 85.8 percent of total growth in Maryland, compared to 58.6 percent in the '70s and '80s.

Montgomery County, however, demonstrated its capacity to absorb growth with an increase in population of 177,974 during the 1980s, more than half of the combined growth of the four suburban counties.

The real growth story of the 1970s and 1980s is in the second tier of suburbanizing counties. These nine jurisdictions (Calvert, Carroll, Cecil, Charles, Frederick, Harford, Howard, Queen Anne's and St. Mary's counties) accounted for 53.4 percent of the growth statewide from 1970 to 1990, compared to just 14.2 percent from 1950 to 1970.

Much of the recent growth outside of the urbanized areas has occurred in a "leapfrog" pattern. The lower density development in these areas means loss of farm or forest land. Lower density development also cannot be adequately served with public services.

"In the short run, this pattern of development appears to be cheaper, but in the long run it is tremendously wasteful as land disappears and services have to be upgraded to serve more and more new residents," Kreitner said.

The pattern of families moving from older developed areas to the suburbs is most exemplified by Baltimore City. From 1950 to 1990, Baltimore City's population declined by 213,694, a 22.5 percent decrease.

"If the pattern of the 1970s continues, we will also see declines in population in those portions of older suburban counties that are contiguous to Baltimore City and Washington, D.C.," Kreitner said.

"The result is that infrastructure in these urban areas is under utilized and wasted," he added.

The growth patterns of the last 40 years are also evident in municipal population trends. While the unincorporated areas have increased 226.2 percent from just over one million persons to nearly 3.4 million, municipal population (excluding Baltimore City) has increased by only 87.6 percent from 360,437 to 676,130.

Fourteen municipalities, of 144 that have existed since 1950, account for nearly 80 percent of the increase in municipal population. Most of these municipalities are located in the rapidly growing portions of the older suburban counties or in the newer suburban counties.

Sixty-two municipalities, or 43 percent of all municipalities in existence since 1950, showed very little growth (less than 100 persons) or lost population. Most of these places are in the older urban areas of metropolitan counties (e.g. Lonaconing, Cumberland and Westernport in Allegany County and Edmonston, Morningside and Fairmount Heights in Prince George's County) and in non-metropolitan counties (e.g. Vienna and East New Market in Dorchester County, Crisfield in Somerset County and Kitzmiller in Garrett County).

"In the 1990s redevelopment of older urban areas and municipalities is crucial to revitalizing these communities," Kreitner said.

"We need to initiate strategies that will direct new growth in such a way to better utilize our land and infrastructure while minimizing the impact on rural and resource areas and sensitive areas that help protect the Chesapeake Bay," he added.

"The 1990 Census is confirming what we know about development in the post-World War II era. It is important we use this information to chart a new course for the decades ahead -- a course that will assure continued economic prosperity while protecting the quality of life that makes Maryland such a great and attractive state in which to live," Kreitner said.

Maryland Not To Levy Tax On Top Of Luxury Tax

The State of Maryland will not impose a tax on a tax when it comes to the new federal luxury taxes on expensive jewelry, furs, boats, aircraft, and motor vehicles. State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein, Department of Natural Resources Secretary Torrey Brown, and Motor Vehicle Administrator Marshall Rickert said their agencies will not consider the new federal taxes a part of the "taxable price" of the goods.

The State Comptroller's Office collects the sales tax on items such as jewelry, furs and aircraft; the Department of Natural Resources collects the boat titling tax; and the Motor Vehicle Administration collects the motor vehicle titling tax. In each case, the tax is about 5% of the sales price.

In the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990, the United States Congress imposed a 10% federal tax on the price above $10,000 for jewelry and furs. In addition, a federal tax of 10% is imposed on a boat's cost in excess of $100,000, a tax of 10% on a motor vehicle's cost in excess of $30,000, and a tax of 10% on an aircraft's cost in excess of $250,000.

"Maryland's position is consistent with that of at least 30 other states, according to the Federation of Tax Administrators," Goldstein said.

Maryland sales tax regulations exclude "consumer excise taxes imposed by a governmental unit directly upon the buyer" from the taxable price of an item.

"The available legislative history of the new federal luxury taxes indicates clearly that Congress intended the taxes to be imposed on the buyer," Goldstein said in explaining the decision of the three state agencies.

Sen. Hafer Names Legislative Intern

Senator John J. Hafer recently announced that William A. Myers, Hagerstown, will serve as legislative intern at his district office in Frostburg. Myers will be responsible for communicating constituent concerns on legislative issues to the Senator, as well as aiding in the overall management of the district office, Hafer stated, "As a political science major, Bill brings with him knowledge of government and skills that will be of a great benefit in the effective operation of the district office." He added, "The addition of an intern such as Bill will be of great help in linking our communication between my constituents and Annapolis."

Myers is currently a senior at Frostburg State University and majors in political science. He is also the president of Kappa Zeta Chi fraternity.

Planning Comm. Opposes Growth, Development Bill

A letter was drafted by the Garrett County Planning Commission and sent last week to the Board of Garrett County Commissioners requesting that testimony be presented to the 1991 Maryland General Assembly in opposition to companion House and Senate Bills entitled "Maryland Growth and Chesapeake Bay Protection Act of 1991," introduced by Governor William Donald Schaefer's administration.

In the letter, the planning commission expressed concern over the proposed act's impact on Garrett County, rejecting the idea that a state-mandated land use policy "could be applied uniformly across the state."

Garrett County Planning and Zoning Director John Nelson explained that the bills presented to the Maryland legislature differ from the original recommendations formulated by the Governor's Commission on Growth in the Chesapeake Bay Region, in that the bills omit the commission's recommended criteria for three of the four designated land-use areas. Those four areas included growth areas, developed areas, rural resource areas and sensitive areas.

Nelson stated that, adopted as a bill, the proposal calls for the state planning commission to set the criteria in all but the sensitive area designation. This, he said, could possibly make

NOMINATED FOR JUDGESHIP — Susan J. Crawford, a former resident of Garrett County, has been nominated by President George Bush to be a judge of the United States Court of Military Appeals. If the Senate approves the nomination, Ms. Crawford will be the first female to serve as a judge on that court. She is currently inspector general for the Department of Defense. Ms. Crawford, pictured above with Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney, is the daughter of William and Joan Crawford, Deep Creek Lake.

Susan Crawford Nominated For Seat On Military Appeals Court

Susan J. Crawford, a former resident of Garrett County, has just been nominated by President George Bush to be a judge of the United States Court of Military Appeals for a term of 15 years. The nomination is subject to approval by the United States Senate, and if approved, Ms. Crawford will be the first female to serve as judge of that court.

The United States Court of Military Appeals sits as a civilian appellate court in Washington, D.C., to hear cases arising from the military justice system. First convened in 1951, the Court is composed of five civilian judges appointed by the President for 15-year terms. The Court is equivalent to a Curcuit Court of Appeals; its decisions may be applead directly to the Supreme Court of the United States.

Since 1989, Ms. Crawford has served as inspector general for the Department of Defense in the Office of the Secretary of Defense in Washington, D.C. Her office has recently been involved in the investigation that led to the Defense Department's decision to terminate the Navy's A-12 program.

Prior to her appointment as inspector general, Ms. Crawford served as general counsel for the Department of the Army, Office of the

According to a spokesperson, the meeting will provide an opportunity for area citizens to join with the forest and park managers in volunteering their time to either New Germany State Park in Garrett County or Dan's Mountain State Park in Allegany County in an effort to open the parks earlier than the current scheduled date of July 1.

Persons needing more information are asked to call the Western Regional park manager at 777-2366 or New Germany State Park Manager Jim Rogers at 895-5453.

Three Remain Hospitalized As Result Of Chain-Reaction Accident Monday

Three people remained hospitalized Wednesday night as the result of a series of chain-reaction mishaps Monday afternoon on U.S. Rt. 48 at Big Savage Mountain. Maryland State Police and the Garrett County Sheriff's Department are still piecing together the events that led to the accident.

Still hospitalized are Idell Carter, 32, Brentwood, N.J.; and John Turney, 63, Addison, Pa., who are both listed in "stable" condition, and Nicole Kerschensteiner, eight, who is listed in "good" condition, according to a nursing supervisor at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland. Michael Gray, 24, Virginia Beach, Va., was discharged Tuesday. A total of 10 people were transported to Memorial in Cumberland. The others were treated and released.

An additional five injured persons were treated and released from Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, while three of the injured were treated and released from Frostburg Community Hospital.

State police indicated that a total of 26 vehicles were involved in the four separate accidents that occurred in a quarter-mile stretch of the eastbound lanes of Rt. 48. Although the investigation is incomplete, police have attributed the cause of the mishaps to "extremely icy roads and dense fog" in the 5:30 p.m. multiple collision.

Two of the police reports in the four accidents were not made available to The Republican Wednesday as investigating officers were still in the process of completing their individual reports.

Of the reports made available, it was revealed that three tractor-trailers were involved, two of which jackknifed. A partial list of the GCC PRESENTS CRIMES OF THE HEART -- Pictured above are three cast members of the play Crimes of the Heart, written by Beth Henley, which will be presented on Feb. 28, March 1 and 2, at the Garrett Community College auditorium, beginning at 8 p.m. The production spans approximately 24 hours in the lives of three quite different Mississippi sisters who have been brought together by tumultuous circumstances, including the failing health of their grandfather and the scandalous shooting of a prominent local citizen. The play has been billed as "humorous, provocative, and touching," and is geared toward adult audiences. Pictured above are the three Magrath sisters, from left to right: Lenny (Mary McEwen), Babe (Marci Beiler), and Meg (Susan Bell). Other cast members include Scindra Rossen as Chick, a cousin to the sisters; Rob Smith as Doc Porter, a former lover of Meg's; and Alex Hicks as Barnett Lloyd, a young lawyer. Frances Acton and John Ackerman are directors for the production, Tammy Friend is stage manager, assisted by Amy Bowling; and Ben Sincell is set designer. The production has been made possible in part through funding from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council; as well as with permission of the Dramatists Play Service, Inc., New York.

Stinson Freed After Interview With Governor

Juanita Stinson, 58, formerly of Mtn. Lake Park, will be released from the Maryland Department of Corrections this week after serving nine months of her original eight-year sentence for second degree murder. She was one of eight women who, after speaking with Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer, had her sentence changed from imprisonment to parole for the balance of her term.

The governor was apparently moved by stories told by the women of ongoing abuse by husbands and lovers.

"It's estimated that about 200,000 Maryland women are victims of domestic violence each year," Schaefer said. "We think, after a thorough review of these cases, it's the right thing to do. They've served enough time."

Stinson was sentenced in July 1990 for the 1987 slaying of her ex-husband, 58-year-old Charles Stinson. Mrs. Stinson shot him, dismembered his body, and buried it in a shallow grave near their home along the Oakland-Deer Park Road. She kept the crime a secret for two years, telling authorities that her ex-husband was away on business.

During Stinson's trial, testimony was given by family members that the victim had violently abused the defendant for years, and that he "treated her like dirt." Dr. Neil Blumberg, a Timonium psychiatrist, told the court that Mrs. Stinson definitely suffered from "battered woman's syndrome."

At the time of sentencing, Washington County Circuit Court Judge Frederick C. Wright III said the abuse the defendant suffered at the hands of Stinson over the years was a "tragedy," but that the court could not condone one person taking another's life.

Schaefer released seven other women convicted of

Also at the meeting were Rev. and Mrs. Gus Monu who shared their concern about family members who are currently unable to leave their native country of Liberia in West Africa and whom the Monu's have been unable to communicate with. Byron stated that she would contact the American Red Cross for a possible avenue of communication.

Welcome Ski Train!

First Special Ski Train Slated To Arrive In Oakland This Friday

Ski and train enthusiasts from metropolitan areas of Baltimore and Washington will climb aboard a vintage rail car provided by the MARC train system this Friday and head for the snow-capped mountains of Western Maryland.

The Maryland Department of Transportation (MDOT), under the direction of Governor William Donald Schaefer, has authorized this inaugural event in an effort to promote rail transport and tourism in Western Maryland. The State Rail Administration (SRA) and the Mass Transit Authority (MTA) have combined their services on the project. SRA has reserved several of its commuter cars including MARC I, a 1950 self-propelled rail diesel car, for this excursion. MTA is handling the transportation from the train stations in Cumberland and Oakland to hotels and the return on Sunday.

Aboard the train, coordinators from MDOT will provide a variety of food, beverages, and a band for entertainment.

For those passengers who are not skiers, activities have been organized by Transwestern Development Corporation (TDC) with the cooperation of Allegany and Garrett County businesses and related associations. These services include shuttle service, guided tours, discounted shopping, restaurant incentives, and promotional events. "We wanted to make the riders' weekend as memorable as possible," said Louise Perkins of TDC. "If their experience in Western Maryland is enjoyable they will want to return."

The venture has also received support and cooperation of area businesses and tourism-related organizations. Connie Margison, of the Greater Oakland Business Association, saw this as a chance to capitalize on what Garrett County has to offer. "What an excellent

Education Board Tackles Several Legislative Issues; Discusses CYF Grant

The Garrett County Board of Education met recently and discussed several topics, including Maryland Legislature issues of the 1991 General Assembly, such as the Schools for Success, the ex-officio member bill, and the Linowes report.

The board also discussed a recently obtained grant for the Garrett County Office of Children, Youth, and Families.

Legislative Issues

The board members studied several bills which have been introduced in this year's General Assembly and the members announced their views and positions on these bills. Dr. Jerome Ryscavage then testified last week at the General Assembly in Annapolis to explain the board's position. He will travel there again this week.

SB 209

Senate Bill 209, "State Aid for Public Education - The Schools for Success," was not supported by the G.C. Education Board. If passed, the bill would apparently take monies away from a program entitled APEX, or Action Plan for Educational Excellence. This five-year program provides funding to a level in all Maryland schools. The level given to each county is based on 75% of a three-year cost-per-student average.

The Schools for Success bill proposes to revert $20 million of the APEX program's current $80 million budget back to the state to assist in the implementation of the Maryland School Performance Program (MSPP). One of the goals of the Schools for Success is to reward schools for excellence.

Garrett County will lose $145,323 in fiscal year 1992 if the Schools for Success plan is passed. The board of education members did not feel that the benefits of SB 209 would equal the monetary loss for the county, and thus

Items Worth $500 Stolen From Business

Perry R. Petersheim, Oakland, reported an apparent theft to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, which occurred at his business, Perry's Solid Waste Disposal, in Deer Park.

Petersheim told police that sometime on the night of Feb. 18, an unknown person or persons apparently entered all of the trucks parked in the business's lot and removed the citizen band radios (CB's) from inside. Four CB's were stolen as well as one fire extinguisher, according to the police document.

The total loss for the business was estimated at $500. An investigation is continuing by members of the Sheriff's Office.

Also reported to the police this week was a destruction of property incident. Ruth Cosner reported that someone had driven into the chain link fence on the Deer Park property that she rents from Ester Rhodes, Ellicot City. The property is on Peach Street.

Ms. Cosner said that the unknown driver struck the fence and then drove on. The incident occurred on Feb. 8.

Damage to the fence was estimated at $250, according to the police report.

James R. Shaw, Frederick, reported that sometime between Nov. 26, 1990, and Feb. 18, 1991, someone broke a lock on an outbuilding door located on his property at Skipper's Point, off of Mayhew Inn Road.

Once inside the shed, the culprit reportedly took an outboard motor worth $300. Shaw reported the crime on Feb. 18.

In a separate case, Elbern D. Wiles, Newburg, W.Va., reported to police that his 1991 Chevy Truck was damaged on Feb. 11 at 12:30 a.m. when he passed a State Highway Administration (SHA) snowplow on Rt. 560.

Wiles said that he was traveling southbound on 560 near Chisholm Road and the plow was northbound. When the two vehicles passed each other, sand and other debris reportedly struck Wiles's truck, chipping the paint and cracking the windshield.

Wiles then turned around and contacted the plow operator, Gerald Wilderson, and explained what had happened. Wilderson instructed Wiles to contact the SHA and reported the damage, which was later estimated at $1300.

The SHA is conducting an investigation into the incident, according to the report.

Md. Non-Tidal Wetlands Permit Process Improved

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has made a number of changes to the nontidal wetlands permit program that will reportedly improve the permit process and assure better protection of nontidal wetlands,according to a DNR spokesperson.

Most significant of the changes are the following:

1. Activities in farmed nontidal wetlands that are wet for less than 15 consecutive days during the growing season are now exempt from needing a state permit.

2. Local governments may be granted authority to process permit applications and make recommendations to the state. However, at this time, the state will maintain final authority to issue the permit and enforce it.

3. Some nontidal wetlands of special state concern that were incorrectly identified have been eliminated from the list.

4. The permit process has been simplified by making it necessary to obtain either a letter of exemption or a permit (if the activity is not listed in law as exempt). By eliminating a fourth category, the conditional exemption, where no state review was required, DNR can also better monitor impacts to nontidal wetlands.

5. The amount of money required to be posted as a bond when mitigation is required has been lowered from a maximum of $50,000 per acre to $20,000 per acre of nontidal wetland mitigation. Also, the state will release the bond upon satisfactory completion of the mitigation project rather than waiting until the end of a five-year monitoring period.

These and other minor regulation changes were approved on an emergency basis and are now in effect.

They will become permanent regulations on April 29, 1991, after an opportunity for public review and comment.

Weather Conditions Responsible For Numerous Accidents

According to reports filed by the Maryland State Police, McHenry Barrack, numerous accidents in the county this past week were caused by snowy and icy weather conditions.

Deep snow on the Old Crellin Road Monday was the cause listed in a one-vehicle accident which sent a Swanton man to the hospital.

Loren E. Bowser, 20, Swanton, was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland, following the 12:35 p.m. accident that occurred when the 1988 Ford pickup he was operating encountered deep snow on the right side of the road, causing the vehicle to skid out of control. The vehicle then entered a ditch and overturned.

The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad transported Bowser to the hospital. Tfc. G.R. Chaney investigated. No charges were filed Madaline Rinker, 79, were both treated and released from Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, following the 2:50 p.m. mishap.

Northern Rescue Squad transported them to the hospital. Cpl. R.S. Farrell investigated and filed no charges against James Rinker, the operator of the car.

A Swanton woman was treated and released from the local hospital last Thursday when she was slightly injured in a two-vehicle accident that occurred on the Glendale Road, just at the bridge.

Judith C. Smith, 41, was taken to the hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad following the 5:40 p.m. mishap.

The accident occurred when Smith, operating a 1986 Subaru on the Glendale Bridge, exited the bridge and encountered a 1990 Chevrolet pickup, operated by Robert J. Hershman, 38, Swanton, which had entered a curve at the bridge entrance and skidded on the snow-covered road. The two vehicles collided head on.

Tfc. J.K. Moore investigated and filed no charges.

A 12:30 a.m. mishap Sunday on Md. Route 42 sent four persons to area hospitals, according to Tpr. G.S. Becker, investigating officer.

Melissa A. Sisler, 21, Deer Park; Gary A. Ashby, 18, Oakland; and Donald R. Ashby Jr., 18, Oakland; were all treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital, while Rebecca M. Resh was treated and released from Memorial Hospital, Cumberland.

The four were transported by Northern Rescue and the MSP Medevac helicopter.

The accident reportedly occurred when Sisler, the operator of a 1985 Dodge Omni, lost control of the vehicle on the snow-covered road, causing it to slide across the road and strike a telephone pole.

Sisler was charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs, negligent driving, and failure to keep right of center.

Another DWI arrest occurred in the county Saturday, when Sincle A. Brown, 21, Mtn. Lake Park, was stopped by Tfc. D.W. Broadwater.

County Emergency Office Handles 21,996 Calls

The Garrett County Office of Emergency Management handled a total of 21,996 calls during 1990, according to statistics released by Brad Frantz, manager of the office.

Of that total, 13,021 were classified as emergency calls and 8,975 were considered as non-emergency. There were 7,097 calls received over the 911 telephone line.

The second in a series of Wednesday evening Lenten services planned by Oakland area clergy and sponsored by the Mtn. Top Ministerial Association will be held on February 27th at St. Peter's Catholic Church. The service will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Guest preacher for this Wednesday's service will be the Rev. Raymond Ursin, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran Church. In keeping with this year's theme for the series of services, Pastor Ursin's text will be taken from the Sermon on the Mount.

Light refreshments will be served after the service.

On the following Wednesday evening, March 6th, the service will be held at the Oak Park Church of the Brethren, with Rev. Margaret Custer, vicar of St. John's Episcopal Church, as the guest speaker.

Offering money received at all of the Lenten services is to be used for the Ministerial Association's transient fund.

Education Board

voiced their opposition to the bill.

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of G.C. schools, stated that almost all Maryland school systems are against SB 209, as it seems to be a step backward as far as equal funding for state schools.

SB 550

The board did announce their support for Senate Bill 550, which is the "New Action Plan for Education Excellence"--a new APEX. This bill proposes to tie both excellence and monetary need together, which will provide an added $900 per pupil (average state-wide) investment in education, as well as a performance challenge that holds individual schools accountable for results.

The new APEX plan also provides an "adequacy floor" to assure each jurisdiction an amount sufficient to provide a basic quality education from combined state, federal, and local sources. Another feature of the bill promises a larger portion of state aid weighted by local ability to pay.

Ryscavage said that SB 550 would benefit Garrett County more than SB 209 because it keeps the focus on funding equity among state schools. The current disparity in the state is reportedly a $2,580 per pupil difference from the wealthiest to the poorest district.

The superintendent will testify in favor of the bill on Friday at the legislative hearing.

HB 553

House Bill 553 concerns the Garrett County Board of Education membership. Introduced by District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards, the bill proposes to alter the membership by adding the chairman of the G.C. Board of County Commissioners, who will serve as an ex-officio, non-voting member without pay.

The purpose of the bill is to enhance communication between the two boards, and to alleviate the "negative public debate" that has occurred between them in the past.

The education board did not indicate whether they were for or against the bill. Board member Mikal Moomau stated that the intent of the bill is excellent, but that the board already has open, public meetings to which the commissioners are invited, as well as many other activities during the calendar year. She said that the board would be willing to discuss more such activities.

However, Mrs. Moomau went on to say that the members do not quite understand how communication would be enhanced because the ex-officio member would have to abide by the code of privacy that all members are required to exercise in regard to the executive sessions held.

In executive (closed) session, the education board discusses personnel problems, such as salaries and other confidential matters. Mrs. Moomau explained that the information exchanged during those sessions would have to remain private, and would not be open for discussion among the other commissioners. For that reason, the members have requested some clarification as to exactly how the proposal would work. The commissioners apparently have not yet responded to the request.

House Bill 642, also proposed by Del. Edwards, is designed to authorize the G.C. Board of Education to negotiate a service or representation fee with an employee organization that is the exclusive representative for public school employees in a unit. The bill was introduced at the request of the Garrett County Teachers' Association.

The bill would basically allow the school board to have the authority to negotiate a fee to be paid by any new employee who does not belong to a negotiating organization. The bill does include an amendment that would exclude, or "grandfather out" any certified teacher who does not currently belong to an employee organization.

The education board does not support HB642. Ryscavage said that the members did not feel just in "coercing new employees in a monetary way."

Tax Commission

The education board also studied the recommendations of the Linowes Commission on State Taxes and Tax Structure. There was much discussion about the recommendations. Board members Carol Clark and Rodney Durst felt that the new taxes were not acceptable, and that the county may not reap the benefits promised.

Board President Beverly Murphy expressed her support for the recommendations, mainly because of the apparent monetary aid for the county's school system explained in the report. If the recommendations are accepted, Garrett County is projected to net an additional $3,588,000 in state aid for public schools.

The proposal of a two percent personal state property tax on automobiles and motorboats brought criticism from some board members, as did the one half percent increase in the general sales tax. The subject was tabled for one week, and the members met once again to discuss the recommendations.

Finally, the board members agreed to support the recommendations to a degree. They requested that a resolution be drafted by Ryscavage that will explain their support for the sections that pertain to added funding for educational needs in the county.

SB 455

Senate Bill 455 is entitled "Crimes and Punishments - Hate Crimes - Public Property" and proposes to make vandalism against public property a crime. The property pertains to any that is associated with programs to benefit, assist, or protect individuals, such as schools, religious buildings, parks, government buildings, or cemeteries.

The punishment for vandalizing any of these places would include the application of misdemeanor penalties of imprisonment not to exceed three years, or a fine not to exceed $5,000.

The education board members agreed to voice their support for this bill.

CYF Grant

Albert Coviello, director of pupil services, told the board members about a $100,000 grant that the Garrett County Office of Children, Youth, and Families (CYF) has received. Garrett County is one of six Maryland jurisdictions to receive the grant, and Coviello stated that he and those involved with the program feel very fortunate to have gotten the funding.

CYF will coordinate an inner agency within the Health Department that will make efforts to assist area children, youth, and families who have educational, social, or health needs.

One function of CYF would be to work with dysfunctional families. A goal of the agency is to keep families together when possible, and to avoid sending children out of the district when the home is no longer suitable.

Ellen Friend Joins Hospice As New Director of Nursing

Hospice of Garrett County, Inc. recently welcomed Ellen Friend, R.N., as the newly appointed director of nursing. She joined the Hospice staff in December with "an excellent nursing background," according to a Hospice spokesman.

Friend is employed as a registered nurse at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. She obtained her associate of arts degree in nursing from Allegany Community College, Cumberland.

She is the widow of the late Wilmer E. Friend and the mother of three children, Edwin, Darwin, and Debra, and has four grandchildren.

Friend has been active in the community for many years. She is a member of St. John's Lutheran Church, the Garrett County Business and Professional Women's Club, the Garrett County Homemakers, the Wagon Train Association, and has worked with Garrett County 4-H programs for over 35 years.

In the past, she has served as a Sunday and Bible school teacher and has been a member of Church Women United, the Bereavement Group, and the Parent-Teachers Association.

Brenda Butscher, executive director of Hospice, stated, "The Hospice Board of Directors and I are very pleased to have Mrs. Friend join the Hospice team. We know her to be an excellent nurse and one who shows kindness and consideration for the patient and his/her family. We know she will continue the special kind of caring that Hospice patients need."

In accepting the position, Mrs. Friend stated, "I feel honored to have been chosen as the new director of nursing for Hospice. I am looking forward to working with the dedicated Hospice staff and will try hard to continue the excellent care and concern for the Hospice clients and their families."

Butscher expressed "many thanks to Chapman for her many years of excellent service to Hospice patients, families, and volunteers."

Tracy Jenkins Johnston, 25, allegedly broke into the home of her ex-husband, Mark Johnston, in Friendsville on Feb. 13. She then reportedly removed a color television set worth $450.

Dep. Welch served Ms. Johnston with an arrest warrant on Feb. 17. She was later released on her own recognizance.

Owen T. Ravenscroft, 30, Deer Park, was charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI) on Feb. 15. Dep. J. Murphy reportedly observed Ravenscroft operating his vehicle in an erratic manner on Coolidge Avenue at 1:45 a.m. After stopping him, the officer detecting the odor of alcohol and charged him with the violation.

Ravenscroft signed the citation and was released.

A bench warrant was issued for Lora L. Riggleman, 24, Kitzmiller, on the charge of failure to appear in G.C. District Court on Feb. 13. Riggleman was scheduled to face charges of DWI and driving while under the influence of drug and/or alcohol (DUI).

A bench warrant was also issued for Barbara J. Davis, 36, Swanton, on the charge of failure to appear in Allegany District Court. Dep. J. Sowers served the warrant on Feb. 13.

Davis was apparently charged with bad check violations valued at less than $300.

Lonnie C. Bucy, 28, Frostburg, was arrested for violation of probation on the strength of a warrant issued by Judge Fred A. Thayer of the G.C. Circuit Court.

Bucy's original offense was possession of marijuana. The defendant is currently incarcerated in the Allegany County Jail, according to the police report.

A bench warrant was issued for Rickey L. Ahern, 31, Oakland, for violation of probation. The warrant was issued by G.C. District Court.

Roger L. Kiper, 53, Oakland, was arrested on the charge of battery on Feb. 15. Kiper was reportedly in a domestic dispute with his girlfriend in Oakland. Dep. D. Crossland and Oakland City Police Cpl. E. Alexander aided in settling the dispute and then offered to take Kiper someplace for the night. Kiper reportedly asked the officers to take him to jail, but they informed him that he was not under arrest.

Kiper that began to harass Cpl. Alexander and demand to be "locked up," according to the police report. Alexander then arrested him for battery.

Ryscavage To Present Budget At PTA Meeting

The Garrett County Council of PTA's will hold its monthly meeting on Thursday, February 28, at Northern Middle School. The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County Schools, will present his budget recommendations for the 1991-92 school year, according to Charlotte Sebold, president of G.C. Council of PTA's.

The public is urged to attend the meeting, Mrs. Sebold said, in order to voice any concerns or reactions to the superintendent's budget plan. Board of Education members are also to be in attendance, and will have the opportunity to hear the concerns of the public and use that knowledge when making the final decisions on the budget, Sebold said.

The Garrett County Commissioners have been invited to the meeting as well, in order to enhance communication between all concerned parties, Mrs. Sebold explained.

Thefts, B&E's Investigated By Md. State Police

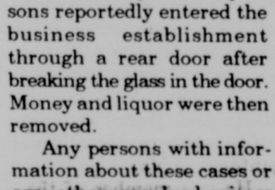
The Maryland State Police, McHenry Barrack, are currently investigating several thefts and breakings and enterings reported this past week.

The Furniture Market in Grantsville was the scene of a breaking and entering and theft either late Saturday night or early Sunday morning, police said.

Unknown suspects reportedly broke into the store and removed computers, video cassette recorders, televisions, citizen's band radios, other miscellaneous electronic equipment, and cash. Tfc. R.M. Hershberger and Tfc. Hare are investigating.

In other theft cases, Willie F. Friend, 14, McHenry, reported that his skis were stolen on Monday at noon when he left them outside the McHenry House at the Wisp Resort. Tfc. Hare is investigating.

Carol L. McConnell, 49, Queenstown, told police that someone stole her K-2 skis, Marker bindings and poles on February 13 at about 3 p.m. The theft occurred at the Wisp Resort when she reportedly left them unattended outside the McHenry House for a short period of time. Sgt. G.F. Johnston is investigating.



Tfc. J.K. Moore is investigating the reported theft of skis, bindings, and poles from a pickup truck parked at Garrett Community College on February 13. The report was filed by Brandon S. Seifert, Oakland, who said the skis were stolen between noon and 4:30 p.m.

An attempted breaking and entering was reported by Edwin T. Stitt, Fairmont, W.Va., who told police that someone attempted to kick in the front door of his lake home, located in Thousand Acres.

The incident occurred sometime on February 15 or 16, according to Stitt. Police said no entry was gained and nothing was taken from the residence. Tpr. W.E. Dixon investigated.

Gary L. Carr, McHenry, reported that someone had broken into a summer home owned by James McCann, Pittsburgh, sometime between February 5 and February 12. The owner was notified and said he would check for stolen items at his earliest convenience. Tpr. Dixon said the case has been suspended at this time as there are no suspects in the case.

CRIME SOLVERS

The Garrett County Crimes Solvers' Cases of the Week involve several incidents of breaking and entering and theft.

Crimes Solvers is requesting information on a breaking, entering, and theft that occurred at the Richard D. Sisler household on Dec. 5, 1990. The dwelling is located on Blue Goose Road in Friendsville.

An unknown person or persons reportedly entered the unoccupied residence by forcing open a rear door of the house trailer. After gaining entry, the culprits removed a Sharp microwave oven, a nine-inch black and white television with an AM-FM radio, and a CB base radio.

Crime Solvers is also in need of information pertaining to two other cases of breaking, entering, and theft that occurred on Dec. 30, 1990, and Jan. 1, 1991, at Midlake Liquors, located on U.S. Rt. 219 at the Glendale Road in McHenry.

Unknown person or persons reportedly entered the business establishment through a rear door after breaking the glass in the door. Money and liquor were then removed.

Any persons with information about these cases or any other unsolved crimes are urged to contact Crime Solvers at 334-1975. Rewards up to $1,000 are available for those who provide tips that lead to an arrest. Persons do not have to give their names nor are they required to testify in court.

Local Woman Hospitalized After Fleeing Burning Home Thursday

Editor's note: The following story was scheduled to appear in last week's edition of The Republican; however, it was inadvertently omitted.

An Oakland area woman was hospitalized last Thursday morning (Feb. 7) after sustaining injuries while fleeing from her burning home.

Sheila Wharton was forced to kick out a window in the second floor of her wood-frame house, located along U.S. Rt. 219 about four miles south of Oakland, when a fire on the first floor kept her from exiting the house on ground level. After going through the window onto the roof, she then fell onto the driveway of the home. She was hospitalized at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she underwent surgery for severe lacerations.

Volunteer fire fighters from Oakland and Deer Park were called to the Wharton residence at about 8:30 a.m. Thursday. Connected to the house was the Whartons' gun shop, R&S Enterprises. Upon their arrival, firemen observed masses of flames coming from the windows on the first floor of the house.

According to Robert B. Thomas Jr., deputy chief state fire marshal, the fire was apparently started when a member of the family accidently left food cooking on the stove. Doug Nesselrodt, a family friend, who was on the first floor when the fire was discovered, escaped unharmed after alerting Mrs. Wharton.

Fire fighters, with the assistance of several members of the Amish community, brought the blaze under control within about 30 minutes and were successful in keeping it from spreading into the gun shop. However, Thomas estimated damages to be $125,000. Apparently Edward and Sheila Wharton did have insurance on the house.

Also responding to the scene were units from the Gorman and Aurora VFDs, along with the county air cascade vehicle, presently housed in Friendsville, and the Southern Rescue Squad, which transported Mrs. Wharton to the hospital. Standing by at the Oakland and Deer Park stations were units from the Bittinger and Terra Alta VFDs.

Local Professionals Assisting With PR Class At Garrett

"Bringing local professionals together with students on our campus is a wonderful opportunity," stated Steve Herman, president of Garrett Community College. "We are greatful for this kind of community support."

Dr. Herman, was talking about the Journalism 107 class that is currently being offered at the Garrett campus. The focus of the class is public relations in the work place. Once the students have been given a complete overview of the history and practice of public relations, area professionals are invited to share with the students their view of public relations -- how they define this management function, and examples of the role played by public relation professionals in their work experience.

Wartime Values . . .

While we fully support the war effort in the Persian Gulf, there are a few things going on here at home because of the war that irritate us.

The bombing had barely begun last month when various shysters decided that the war was an opportunity to make a quick buck. Some started bogus fund-raisers, sending out thousands of letters requesting "donations to support our troops," donations that, of course, would never reach the troops.

Then there are various types of legal exploitation underway, as the prices of yellow ribbons and flags have suddenly skyrocketed, the t-shirt business is going crazy, and now even newspapers and magazines are taking advantage of the situation by selling "patriotic" advertising. There is certainly nothing wrong with displaying patriotism; in fact, it is a noble and worthy gesture that is surely appreciated by our armed services personnel and their families. However, we resent big business making big money by encouraging and, in some cases, pushing people to make such an expression.

Another war-related activity that concerns us is intimidation and pressure by some who support the war effort on those who, for whatever reason, do not. It is an interesting reversal from the Vietnam war, when protesting the war effort was the "in" thing and those who chose to support it were chastised. Now, with the great majority of Americans in favor of the war, it is the protestor who is being trampled. Once again, we emphasize that we are totally behind President Bush and this campaign; however, we also recognize that those who are against the war have the same rights as the rest of us, and those rights should be respected. After all, it is precisely this type of freedom that is being protected any time we go to war.

On the plus side, we are thrilled with the response of Garrett County residents and other readers of The Republican in the form of writing letters of support to our armed services personnel in the Gulf region. A letter arrived this past week from a local soldier who told us he had received 17 letters in one day, more than half of which were from local residents whom he did not even know personally. He noted what a great boost it is to hear from so many people from "back home." Similar reports of support have been received from other soldiers.

We are also offering this week free AT&T fax forms, available at our office, for persons to write letters to their loved ones in the Gulf and have them faxed by AT&T. Delivery time is about one-fourth of what it is via the Postal Service.

Let us continue to support not only those who are fighting this war, but also those at home who need assistance. Hopefully, it will all be over in the near future.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Could you please explain why the parking meter at which I parked on Lincoln's birthday took my money in spite of the fact that the county offices were closed and no sign was posted outside the courthouse?

Also, and more importantly, why does the meter say 10 cents an hour or two hours for 25 cents.

Thanks,
Betty Friend

Dear Mrs. Friend:

Good questions. We don't know the answers.

To the Editor:

Twelve years ago, David Livengood was murdered in cold blood, doing his duty as a police officer. He was shot seven times by Richard Tichnell, who can be parolled anytime now.

My family has been quiet about this the whole time. All I am asking of the people of Garrett County is to write a letter to the parole board and make sure Tichnell stays in prison with no parole. Your letters can help keep him in prison for life. The address is: The Maryland Parole Commission, Suite 3076776 Reisterstown Road, Baltimore, MD 21215.

Sincerely,
Sister of Deputy
David Livengood,
Kathy Jessup

To the Editor:

Where have the Vietnam War demonstrators gone? They have joined the environmental movement. The more radical have formed ecoteur groups such as: Greenpeace, Earth First!, Sea Shepherds, Robin Wood and PETA (People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals). Their attitude is the same, anti-establishment.

They are making false and half truth statements to their members and the general public. Their actions are based on emotion, not facts. All of us care about the environment, not just them. Thousands of us invest many hours of labor and money in our forest to improve the quality of air, water, aesthetics, wildlife creation and timber for the future.

The Sierra Club is trying (their words) to halt or significantly reduce logging in our state forests. If successful, county ordinances restricting the private forest landowner is a real possibility. Westvaco is under attack by this group. If they are forced to close, where will the landowner sell his pulpwood? The Sierra Club states, "public forests should not be tree farms."

I own and manage a 178 acre tree farm and cannot believe the following false statements issued by the Sierra Club: 1) we intensively manage our property for maximum timber production. 2) these managed woodlots are not forests and have little recreation or ecological value. 3) a managed forest uses selective cutting practices (for example: all trees over 12" diameter).

Not knowing what a tree farm is shows a lack of knowledge on forestry and forestry practices, yet these people want to dictate how our forests are to be managed.

Since the Sierra Club (a low key anti-hunting group) networks with other groups, it would be wise for the sportsman to be on the alert.

Sincerely,
C.W. Newhall
Oakland

To the Editor:

All Marylanders need to oppose any increase in state taxes that would raise the cost of gasoline to the consumer. Not only would an increase hurt the working poor, but also the trees.

33 Members of the automatically earmarked for transportation projects. The lion's share does not go to light rail or other mass transit, but rather to the State Highway Administration for more roads.

More roads mean destruction of many more acres of trees. As evidenced by the recent "Bethesda chain-saw massacre," the SHA doesn't know much about trees, and cares even less about them, to say nothing of replacing them.

Without gas tax increases, the road-building budget will decline by 18.6 percent. That means a lot of trees will live a little longer.

To the Editor:

Because Garrett County covers such a large area, it is sometimes difficult for its inhabitants to get to know one another. A theatrical production can prove to be the adhesive needed to pull people together.

Last summer, 30 Garrett Countians from 10 different communities dedicated their time and energy to the local production of Our Town. This experience generated a sense of accomplishment within each participant; it also garnered memories and forged friendships, and we feel that it fostered goodwill throughout our county. We hope to amplify these feelings with our production of Man of La Mancha, which will be presented at the end of April with repeat performances in early July.

This week's Republican includes an article concerning auditions. We would like to urge anyone over the age of 15 to become involved in some aspect of the production. If you can't be a member of the cast or crew, we hope you will support us by attending one of the presentations. Because of fluctuating gasoline prices, we will try to form car pools and to keep rehearsals down to a minimum.

Man of La Mancha is a musical which contains all of the components of life; it shows that our dreams are important -- they stabilize us and spur us to embrace all that is good and noble about living. We feel that such a message is important in these perplexing and troubled times. A sense of community can help us to "touch base" and quell our anxieties; a theatrical experience can help us to feel good about ourselves and others. We look forward to working with you.

Sincerely,
Jane Avery and Ben Sincell

To the Editor:

It seems to me the Russians have been trying to give the "Butcher of Baghdad" a short course in leftist negotiating strategy. It's based on a pincer like movement by the native leftists of the target country, and the international left, squeezing most of the important points out of their adversary before true negotiations even begin. In sports parlance they are always playing on your half of the field: Whereas you begin on your own goal line, they always get the ball at the fifty. As ridiculous as it sounds, this is the way our negotiations with the Left went for almost forty years, where Congress and the liberal press had a say, until a high plains drifter occupied the White House for eight years and managed to change the national focus . . . among other things.

Similarly, in the world of commerce, with most of the leverage on our side, our government allows our trading "partners" to insist American firms play on uneven playing fields. Our markets, the largest in the world, are wide open to them, but their markets are closed or partially restricted to us. The drifter blew this one.

How do such distortions of the public's interests come about? The same way that the radical Rep. Ronald Dellums (D-Calif.), probably the most dangerous man in Congress vis-a-vis the secret intelligence of this country, gets appointed to the House Intelligence Committee, along with Rep. David Bonior (D-Mich.), a man who never met a Communist cause he couldn't embrace. Another career politician, who thinks he can do any incredulous thing he wishes without being held accountable, appoints them in the face of a fire storm of protest from his colleagues on both sides of the aisle. Will he get away with it? Of course, he will! Mr. Foley (D-Wash.) always does. He's that sterling character who showed Congress how to get themselves pay raises without having to run the risk of voting for them. They made him Speaker of the House for that "neat" trick. They all get away with "it," and they know they can; that's the problem!

The simple fact of the matter is: The increased concentration of political power in the hands of career politicians have made our electoral system less free, less competitive and less representative. The product of that system is mostly unresponsive to the wishes of the people in matters dear to their hearts such as law and order, taxes, spending cuts, moral imperatives, ethics in government, accountability and . . . I've saved the best 'til last, because this could be the great equalizer for all the ills I've mentioned above . . . TERM LIMITATIONS for all elected officials. Think about it.

Ronald R. Rowan

This past early Monday morning I had a message left on my answering machine. The woman said I should have it announced on the radio if I was going to have the water off. She didn't leave a name or number, but I recognized the voice. I would have gotten back with her, but decided it was not worth my time.

This is to let everyone in Crellin know that if I know I will have to turn the water off, it will be announced. I have done this in the past, but few people get the message.

If anyone could tell me how to foresee when a pump is going to stop or when a waterline will break, I would like to hear from you. Otherwise, when there is no water, I am as surprised as you.

LWV THE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

Commissioners Questioned on Recycling

The League of Women Voters of Garrett County met this week with local officials in an attempt to get a temporary answer to the county's recycling efforts. The league has supported the Garrett County Commissioners and the state mandate set forth concerning a recycling program by voluntarily donating their office on Alder Street in Oakland as a drop-off site.

During the meeting, league members, Oakland Civic Club members and representatives from the general public requested the results of the report from the Garrett County Recycling Committee, which the commissioners appointed at the league's request. The Civic Club reported collecting, in a three-month period, 85 pounds of aluminum and 200 pounds of glass and tin.

Over one dozen members walked forward with recyclables they had collected, deposited them on the commissioners' desk, and asked where they were supposed to take them to be recycled.

League President Connie Margison reported that the commissioners were asked if they recycle and only Brenda Butscher answered affirmatively. The commissioners were also asked when a recycling program would be implemented and Elwood L. Groves answered, "The time line can be as condensed as we want to make it, or as long," according to Margison.

The meeting was then concluded and Commissioner Groves was approached by the Civic Club Conservation chairperson who asked that there be "no hard feelings." To this Groves responded, "Not at all, but next time keep your garbage at home."

The commissioners also stated they would contact the Civic Club of Oakland within two weeks to advise them of the recycling starting date.

In other news from the league, league members will be attending "Legislative Day," Tuesday, February 26. Members will meet with their delegates and senators at that time and attend the hearings on the Maryland Growth and Chesapeake Bay Protection Act scheduled for 1 p.m. Any leaguer interested in car-pooling is asked to call 334-1109.

To My "Baby Brother"

I dreamed of a soldier walking up the White House stairs,
Where medals from Bush were handed out there.
He mentioned the million things you did for thee,
Things you took for granted and could not see.

A medal of Honor will be pinned upon you,
A medal for bravery and always coming through.
If there are medals for soldiers,
For all the deeds they will have done,

If there are medals for soldiers,
Brother, you'll win every one.
But the biggest medal of all
Is the one for being loved.

God bless you in all you do.

Love you, brother,
Jay L. McVicker Sr.

Barry Rascovar's

A most human governor

BALTIMORE — "It takes people's minds off of the war " — William Donald Schaefer.

By now, everyone has heard Governor Schaefer's scatological comment about the Eastern Shore. His remark has been condemned, defended and derided.

He has been called undignified, profane, immature and insulting.

The governor, claiming the remark was a jest aimed at a longtime friend from the shore, thinks the uproar is "one of the silliest things I have ever seen in my life."

He said he had "absolutely nothing to apologize about." Yet five days later, there he was publicly eating crow: "I made a terrible mistake. . . . I apologize."

Welcome to the State House circus, a three-ring spectacle where an occasional side-show has become part of the landscape ever since Mr. Schaefer arrived on the scene four years ago. It is part of the governor's persona, his modus operandi .

Mr. Schaefer is famed for his tantrums, his mood swings, his not-so-funny public jests, his Quixotic behavior and, above all, for his iron will to succeed.

No governor has brought such intensity to the job. His "do it now" sloganeering is part of a stubborn, driven desire to build Rome in a day.

Yet there is a human element that is often overlooked. He wants to be liked. He is deeply hurt when people turn against him.

Even when 60 percent of the voters endorsed him last year, the governor wondered what he did wrong to anger that 40 percent.

Donald Schaefer is used to dominating Baltimore's political arena. In Baltimore, his "do it now" approach brought instant results. Potholes he spotted were filled, dirty alleys he toured were cleaned and bureaucrats were pushed, prodded and threatened until they transformed the city.

This strategy doesn't work in Annapolis. The ship of state is bigger and harder to steer. The governor must share power with the legislature. He can't simply tour the state in search of potholes.

When he was campaigning last year, Mr. Schaefer anticipated a second term filled with achievements. That was before the recession.

Now it appears the final Schaefer years will be marked by a scramble to hold things together. Maryland is deep in a fiscal hole.

There will be more cutbacks. Progress in education and social programs could be reversed. Potholes may not be filled.

Everywhere the governor turns, there is bad news.

He is the evil ogre to state workers furious over benefit cuts; constituencies furious over cuts in social programs; gun owners furious over the drive to ban assault weapons; citizens furious over the $1 billion tax overhaul plan; citizens furious over the governor's failure to hack away at program costs.

You can add Eastern Shore residents to that list. They're furious as well, apology or no apology.

Mr. Schaefer has tried to cushion these moves. He frequently has backed down from controversial stands when faced with strong criticism. That doesn't remove the bitterness felt by affected constituents.

No wonder the governor is frustrated.

His underlying refrain: Why don't you people love me? Why don't you appreciate all the good I have done for you? Why are you always criticizing me?

Governors aren't supposed to show emotion. They aren't supposed to fly into a rage, use profanity or apologize for mistakes. Governors are our political heroes. Our heroes aren't supposed to have feet of clay.

Donald Schaefer's actions are indeed abnormal for a governor. But if you view him simply as a very human executive under enormous stress and constant public pressure, his actions are more understandable.

Besides, they do take people's minds off the war.

Tax Credit Bill Would Stimulate Local Economy

A bill sponsored by District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards was recently introduced that seeks to stimulate local coal production and the economy of the county and the state by allowing a tax credit to manufacturers using Maryland-mined coal who expand their operation and, subsequently, purchase an amount of coal over and above the amount purchased in 1986.

The tax credit, according to Edwards, would amount to $3 per ton on the difference used as a result of the manufacturer expanding the operation and adding new coal-processing equipment or a manufacturer starting a business in the state who is installing coal-processing equipment.

Edwards reported that he introduced the bill at the request of Tom Jones, Garrett County Economic Development director, who has been in recent contact with a company possibly locating in Maryland. Jones reportedly felt that the tax credit would be an inducement to that and other companies to locate in the state, encourage Maryland manufacturers to convert to the use of coal, and would also stimulate local coal production.

The bill specifies that the equipment used by the manufacturer would have to meet the technical specifications and certification requirements established under the regulations adopted by the secretary of the Maryland Economic and Employment Development.

Edwards noted that, at present, coal-burning equipment takes the form of "fluidized bed systems," which meet or exceed air quality standards. He added that other technologies are being developed and will soon be in use that utilize coal as an energy source and meet the new Federal Clean Air Act.

Dioxin Bill Is Aimed At Westvaco Mill

Testimony was heard last week on a proposed bill that would raise Maryland's standards for dioxin emissions and require the state to adopt criteria for those limits that would ultimately force the Westvaco paper mill in Allegany County to spend more than $100 million to alter its wood pulp bleaching process.

The legislation (HB16) is designed to establish a new water quality standard for dioxin, currently set at 1.3 parts per quadrillion and approved by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to the federal level of 0.013 parts per quadrillion.

Proponents of the bill reportedly have stated that Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) should be prohibited from setting the most lenient standards for one of the most toxic substances to humans. Statements were also reportedly made that indicated the health and safety of Maryland's citizens should be placed above economics.

Also testifying before the House Environmental Matters Committee were members of the Sierra Club and the National Resources Defense Council. One member of the Sierra Club reportedly testified that dioxin is as toxic as plutonium and that the MDE has set a standard that is 100 times weaker than what the EPA has set.

In a press release issued this week by the Westvaco Corporation, Vice-President and Manager of the company, Roger A. Dandridge, stated, "Westvaco opposes HB 16 on the basis that it would eliminate Maryland's flexibility that is afforded by the Federal Clean Water Act in developing water quality standards. At present, the bill has a direct impact on only one company, Westvaco."

Dandridge continued, "The MDE has followed proper procedures in establishing its water quality standard for dioxin which has been documented to be fully protective of human health. Their methodology is in absolute accordance with the procedures established by the EPA, and EPA has approved the Maryland standard for dioxin."

"Through a two and one-half year, $15 million capital investment, we have reduced the amount of dioxin by 98 percent," he noted.

Reports indicate, however, that the higher standard would lower Marylanders' risk of developing cancer to one case per 1 million people, down from one case per 100,000.

Dioxin is a by-product of the bleaching of wood pulp, and became the focus of concern last year when the EPA detected high levels of the chemical in fish caught in the upper Potomac River below the plant. A health advisory concerning the consumption of those fish is still in effect in the state.

The House committee is expected to vote on the bill Friday.

Low-cost Health Insurance Bill To Be Heard

A bill to make health insurance more widely available to Marylanders has recently been introduced by Allegany County legislator Casper R. Taylor Jr., who reportedly explained that the bill calls for health insurers to issue basic health benefits policies to individuals and small employers currently without insurance benefits.

Taylor noted that seven states have now enacted mandatory waiver legislation allowing insurers to sell low-cost, basic coverage.

A hearing on the bill, which would purportedly be one step closer to helping uninsured Marylanders obtain basic health coverage, is scheduled for a hearing Friday.

Nontidal Wetlands Standards Bill

An emergency bill regarding nontidal wetlands standards has been introduced (SB 450) that would provide that, in the event of any conflict between the standards adopted by the United States Army Corps of Engineers and the provisions of the state law, or any regulations adopted under the authority of the state law, the least stringent standards would prevail as to any agricultural, forestry or regulated activity.

Schaefer Signs Abortion Bill

The controversial abortion-rights bill was immediately signed into law by Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer this week following its clearance in the Maryland House of Delegates by a vote of 84-52.

The measure is intended to protect the right of women to have an abortion performed up to the time the fetus could survive outside the womb and, after that time, if the mother's life or health were endangered or if the fetus were deformed. The law would also stay in place even if the U.S. Supreme Court were to overturn its Roe vs. Wade decision, which also guarantees the right to an abortion.

The measure includes a "parental notification clause" which requires that a doctor notify a parent before a minor can have an abortion. Also included is a "conscience clause," which states that no health care worker would be forced to perform or participate in an abortion or refer a patient for an abortion.

The debate continues this week over that particular clause.

Kelly Submits Residency Bill

A hearing in the House of Delegates was heard last week that would require all future state employees to be residents of the state. Introduced by Delegate Kevin Kelly (D-Allegany), the bill is intended to save the state money by hiring only those residents of the state to work for the state.

Kelly reportedly stated that since approximately 3,700 state employees are currently non-residents of the state, Maryland does not benefit from various income revenues, such as sales and income tax, and motor vehicle titling fees, registration fees, state and county real estate taxes, state transfer taxes, county recordation taxes and gasoline taxes.

The bill (HB 871) would not affect current non-resident state workers but would merely be a provision to bolster the state budget if necessary, said Kelly.

Edwards Bill

mission to report its findings directly to the Garrett County Commissioners instead of to the Maryland General Assembly, which is the current practice. "This places the responsibility where it should be," said Edwards, who explained that local salary decisions should be made by local officials who are working with local funds.

"The state legislature sets its own salaries so it is appropriate that the county should make its own decisions about salaries," he added.

The bill also stipulates that the county commissioners will accept, reject or reduce the recommendations of the salary commission within 45 days of hearing them. They could not increase any of the recommendations, however.

Membership on the commission would include one member each from the Republican State Central Committee of Garrett County, the League of Women Voters of Garrett County, the Chamber of Commerce of Garrett County, the Farm Bureau of Garrett County, the Garrett County Council of PTA's, and the Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association. The individual to serve would be selected within those respective groups, not by the county commissioners, noted Edwards.

The bill specifies that the commission will study the salaries of the county commissioners, the board of education, the board of supervisors of elections, the judges of the orphans' court, the liquor control board, the sheriff, the state's attorney and the treasurer. The commission formerly reviewed the assistant state's attorney's salary, but that position was eliminated from the bill because it is an appointed, rather than an elected, position.

The salary review commission was set up in Garrett County in the mid-1970's under the recommendation of then-Delegate DeCorsey Bolden. As a result of some local opposition to the manner in which the local salaries are determined, the issue was discussed in a pre-legislative meeting held between the county commissioners, Edwards and District 1 Senator John Hafer.

Edwards reported that the commissioners seemed pleased with the proposed amendments to the bill at the time. "I think it's a fair approach. Who's to say that my or the Senator's opinion is better than the local public's opinion," he stated.

Students in this class will learn about the natural resources and man-made structures of this area as they visit places of interest such as the C&O Canal, the underground tunnels in Cumberland, Fort Necessity and Friendship Hill in Pennsylvania, Dolly Sods, and Beckley, W.Va. Instructor Mary Love will have guest speakers at the various sites. The first class will meet at the college, and subsequent classes will be off-campus.

Two biology courses are being offered in the Beacon Program, both to be instructed by Kevin Dodge, associate professor of wildlife biology, at arranged times on Saturdays during the growing season. Wildflowers of Garrett County is a one-credit course for students who want to learn to identify wildflowers, and who enjoy walking along trails and through woodlands where flowers grow. Plant Systematics is a four-credit course for students who want to learn about systems of herbaceous plants. Persons interested in either of these courses should contact the instructor at 387-6666.

Students may register for any of these Beacon courses at the Registrar's Office of the college during business hours Monday through Friday.

Dr. Schrock is the first woman from Garrett County to be named to the Hall of Fame. She was chosen because of her numerous activities and endeavors that have improved living in Western Maryland as well as the entire state.

Dr. Schrock is a successful businesswoman and community leader. After receiving her undergraduate degree from Waynesburg College in 1937, she attended the University of Pittsburgh and became the first Mennonite woman to receive a doctoral degree, which she earned in the field of biology.

In a quest to help the people of Upper Appalachia, in 1957 Dr. Schrock returned to Western Maryland from Indiana, where she had been teaching at Goshen College. She helped to organize the Springs, Pa., Historical Society, Springs Folk Festival, and Springs Museum.

Dr. Schrock thenorganized Penn Alps, in 1958, which is a restaurant and craft shop where local artisans demonstrate their crafts and sell hand-made products such as carvings, weaving, pottery, and baskets.

Dr. Schrock has also accomplished the establishment of the Highland Foundation, which operates a community center, the Meals on Wheels program, and Head Start. She is the president of the Casselman Corporation, and is the former editor of "The Journal of the Alleghenies."

Dr. Schrock has been said to be "two dreams ahead," and that an accurate description of her would be a "bridge builder," always working to bring people and causes together.

In October 1990, the Hall of Fame honoree was named as Garrett County's Golden Ambassador during the Autumn Glory Festival Kick-Off Reception. She was the first woman to be selected as the Golden Ambassador.

Ms. Crawford is a graduate of Bucknell University, with a B.A. degree in history, and of the New England School of Law, with a juris doctorate. opportunity to show local support and encourage more such trains throughout the year," she said.

In Allegany County, Natalie Chabot from the Cumberland Holiday Inn and the tourism promotion group, Full Steam Ahead, was contacted by SRA to participate in this event because of her continued interest and enthusiasm for promoting tourism. She described the event as a "great way to promote tourism by offering an entertaining means of travel, coupled with an exciting weekend getaway."

The potential for future events of this type depends on the endorsement of the riders, the participating divisions of MDOT, and both counties. "This excursion represents a catalyst for the expansion of the rail system in Western Maryland," explained Melinda Zanecki, director of marketing at TDC. "Our past reflects the importance of rail in terms of industry and transport. Our future will benefit dramatically by the rebirth of the rail as a convenient means of travel."

In further support of this event, ski train posters are available for display from TDC's office in Cumberland at 74 Baltimore Street, or at Marvin's Men's Wear shop, 200 East Alder Street in Oakland.

For those interested in riding the train from a western stop, MDOT will pick up a limited number of passengers in Cumberland at a substantially reduced rate. For more information, persons may call Jenny Lazarus at Transwestern Development's office in Cumberland at (301) 724-1151.

Huskies, Rams Dominate Bi-County; Thomas Ranked Best In Region

by Craig Speicher

For the first time since at least 1979 (older records are not readily available), Garrett County's high school wrestlers dominated the annual Bi-County Tournament, which was held Saturday at Beall High School in Frostburg. Although Northern and Southern represented only a third of the competition, which also included Beall, Westmar, Fort Hill and Allegany, the Huskies and Rams won over half, or seven of 13, of the individual championships.

Of the four Northern champions, Tim Thomas (135 pounds; season record, 23-1) and Allen Bittinger (130 pounds, 24-2) won their second consecutive Bi-County titles. Randy Dolan (152 pounds; 24-2) and Scott Beitzel (heavyweight; 21-2) also captured championships.

For Southern Jason Burgess (103 pounds, 23-3), Pete Strawser (119 pounds, 26-4) and Shane Skipper (140 pounds, 16-9) won titles in their respective weight classes.

Beall also won four championships, while Westmar and Fort Hill each took one.

Runners-up for Northern included Rich Wyland (119 pounds), Chris Rowe (125), Greg Miller (140) and Ron Sines (152). Second place winners for Southern were Gary Sweitzer (112) and Ed Philyaw (160).

All Bi-County teams now advance to the Region One 1A/2A Tournament being held this Friday and Saturday at North Hagerstown High School.

Seed numbers for the event are based on complex regional ratings that yield numerical values for each individual's performance during not only the current season, but also previous seasons.

Of all Division 1A/2A wrestlers in all weight classes, Northern's Thomas holds the highest point rating in Region One. A defending state runner-up and defending Region One champion, Thomas will be the top seed at 135 pounds this weekend.

Through the season, Thomas had been tied for number four ranking statewide among all divisions (1A through 4A) at 135 pounds. Because of a strong finish in the regular season, his state ranking was upgraded last week. He now ranks second in the state exclusively, trailing only Aberdeen's Matt Slutzky, who narrowly defeat him (2-0) for the 1A/2A state championship last year.

Allen Bittinger, who placed third in the state last year, has been second to South Hagerstown's Doug Stottlemeyer in state rankings at 130 pounds all season. However, under regional rating criteria, Bittinger is the top 135-pound seed, with Stottlemeyer second. Thus, as sometimes happens, the state's two highest ranked individuals in a particular weight class will likely meet in regional actions. And no matter who wins, they will have to battle all over again at Westminster for the state championship, assuming they both advance that far.

Northern's Scott Beitzel concluded the regular season ranked sixth in the state of all divisions at heavyweight, and will also be a number one seed at the regional meet.

Northern's other Bi-County champion, Randy Dolan, was initially tied for the number one seed slot, but under tie-breaker criteria became the number two seed for 152 pounds.

Three Southern grapplers, although not state ranked, are strong candidates to finish among the top four at regionals and thereby advance to states. Jason Burgess (103 pounds), Gary Sweitzer (112 pounds, season record, 20-2) and Pete Strawser (119 pounds) have combined records of 67 wins against only eight defeats.

Northern Girls Win Two Before Dropping A Pair

It was a busy week for the Northern High School girls' varsity, who played four games in seven days, winning the first two encounters and losing the second two. Coach Harv Speicher's Huskies defeated host Flintstone last Thursday night, 43-37, topped Mount Savage on Saturday at home, 41-32, fell to Beall in a slowdown contest Monday night, 29-22, also in Accident, and were topped by Mt. Savage in a return match-up last night, 43-32, on the Indians' floor. The split left the Huskies with a 14-7 record.

The Huskies were down by 11 points going into the fourth period against Flintstone, but outscored the Aggies 20-3 in the final period for the win.

Rebecca Fratz led the Northern charge by scoring 22 points. Melissa Thomas added eight points, while Billie and Tina McCusker paced Flintstone with 12 and 11 points, respectively.

The Huskies trailed most of the contest, down 11-8 after one period, 20-17 at halftime, and 34-23 at the end of the third stanza.

The Northern junior varsity was also victorious, winning the preliminary game, 48-26. Lisa Stevens and Cindy Graham each scored 11 points for the Huskies.

Fratz sparked another second-half rally on Saturday against Mt. Savage, as the Huskies were down 8-3 after one quarter and 17-13 at halftime. They took a 27-25 lead into the fourth period and never relinquished it, as Fratz netted 11 second-half points and finished with 16. She also grabbed 11 rebounds and blocked six shots.

Audra Speicher finished with 11 points for the Huskies, while Cara Wachter dished out 12 assists and Thomas pulled down 11 rebounds.

Krista Shaffer, who was held to just one field goal in the second half, led the Indians with 19 points.

In Monday's game against Beall, it was the Mountaineers who rallied in the second half for the win in a game that was all defensse. After trailing 7-5 at the end of the first quarter, Northern came back to take a 20-15 halftime lead; however, they were out-scored in the third period, 8-2, giving Beall a 20-17 advantage.

Wachter paced Northern in scoring with seven points, while Stacey Smith netted eight for Beall.

The Northern junior varsity won the preliminary game, 35-27, behind a nine-point effort by Cindy Graham.

Krista Shaffer was the big gun again last night for Mt. Savage, as she ripped the nets for 25 points and grabbed 14 rebounds to avenge last week's loss to the Huskies.

The Huskies were down by two points, 11-9, after one quarter, were down 21-14 at halftime, and 31-24 after three periods.

Fratz led the Huskies with 15 points.

SHS Girls Lose Two Of Three; To Face BW

The Southern High girls' varsity, which will conclude its regular season this evening against host Bishop Walsh, won one of three games this past week, falling to Watkins Mill on Friday, 68-58, in Baltimore, embarrassing Immaculata on Saturday, 91-17, also in the Baltimore area, and then dropping a 67-61 contest to Fort Hill Tuesday night in Oakland. The results left the Rams with a 6-13 record.

Michelle Duling and Kathy Gibson netted 21 and 19 points, respectively, for the Rams against Watkins Mill, but the Rams never recovered from a 30-19 halftime deficit.

Lisa Ostrom spearheaded the winners' effort by scoring nearly half of her team's points, as she finished with 33.

Six Rams finished in double figures in Saturday's rout of Immaculata, led by Khrystie Browning with 22 points, Duling with 14, Gibson with 12, and Alana Harkins, Amanda Houser, and Robin Ritter all with 10 points.

The Ram defense held the host team to just eight points in the first three quarters.

Tuesday night against Fort Hill, members of both teams spent most of the evening at the foul line, as a total of 52 personals were called and 79 free throws were awarded. The Sentinels made good on 22 of 34 attempts, while the Rams netted 26 of 45.

The Rams trailed by a handful of points throughout most of the contest, down 17-12 at the end of the first period, 27-23 at halftime, and 45-42 after three quarters.

Heather Shepherd and Michelle Clise paced Fort Hill with 20 and 18 points, respectively, as the Sentinels out-gunned Southern from the floor by a 20-17 margin.

Shelli Cannon led the Rams and all scorers as she finished with 23 points, Browning scored 13, Gibson added 12, and Duling contributed 10.

Laker Women To Take 10-9 Record Into JUCO Tourney

The Garrett Community College women's basketball team concluded its regular season this past week with a loss and a win and will take a 10-9 record into the Maryland JUCO Tournament this afternoon at the Community College of Baltimore. Coached by Dennis Gibson, the Lakers are slated to meet Allegany Community College in an opening round at 4:30 this afternoon.

The Lakers were topped by visiting Essex CC on Sunday afternoon, 65-58, and then came back to defeat Montgomery College at Rockville Tuesday night, 52-47, in their final regular season contest.

Jennifer Ellsworth paced Essex with a game-high 20 points, including six three-point buckets, which helped erase a seven-point, second-half lead by the Lakers.

The score was knotted at 22 apiece at halftime, after a cold shooting performance by both teams. Five minutes into the second half the Lakers began their move to take a seven-point advantage, but Essex came back to win.

Tracey Henline paced Garrett with 18 points and 12 rebounds, while Marcia DeBerry and Kim Copeland added 12 and 11 points, respectively. Tracey Dawson recorded seven of GCC's 12 assists, while Copeland and Kim Mackall each had five steals.

Also reaching double figures for Essex were Sue Feliciano with 18 points and Lisa St. Claire with 12. St. Claire also grabbed 13 rebounds for the Knights, who led in rebounding by a 46-37 margin.

DeBerry, Copeland, and Henline all finished with double figures for the Lakers in Tuesday's win over Montgomery. DeBerry netted 18 points on six buckets and three of six from the line, Copeland finished with 13 points and 13 rebounds, and Henline added 12 points and pulled down a game-high 16 rebounds. Copeland also had three blocked shots and four steals.

Gibson said his team accomplished its pre-season goal to win 10 regular season games, five victories more than the Lakers recorded last season. They finished with a 7-7 mark in the JUCO standings.

Lakers To Meet Germantown In JUCO Opener

The Garrett Community College Lakers, who finished in second place in the American Division of the Maryland JUCO Conference behind nationally ranked Allegany Community College, will be the third seeded team in the JUCO Tournament, which begins this Friday at Hagerstown Junior College.

The 21-9 Lakers, who will face the Germantown Campus of Montgomery Community College at 2:30 p.m., are one of nine teams in the tournament. If they are victorious, they will then meet the winner of the Frederick CC-Prince Georges CC contest on Saturday at 8 p.m.

It has been two years since the Lakers played Germantown, also during the JUCO playoffs. GCC was victorious in that meeting.

"They are very similar to us in terms of style and ability," GCC Coach Dennis Gibson said, "but their outside shooting game is probably a little better than ours." Germantown is 18-11 on the season.

Although Gibson rates Frederick and Prince Georges as fairly even teams, he believes Prince Georges is the favorite. The Lakers met the Owls twice during the regular season, losing the first game after holding a big lead and winning the second in a close contest at the McHenry Campus.

"We believe we are comparable to any other team in the tournament," Gibson said. "We have to try to play smart basketball and take one game at a time. The opener is always a tough one."

Gibson also added that he was pleased with his team's effort this season.

"For only the second time in our history we finished second in our division, and considering the size of our school and the calibre of teams we have to play, we think that is a great accomplishment," he said.

The ACC Trojans, currently ranked fifth in the nation, are the favorite in the JUCO tourney.

Brett Rice Leads Rams To Wins Over Mountaineers And Vikings

Brett Rice, the area's leading scorer, led the Southern Rams to a pair of wins this past week as he netted 23 points against visiting Beall Monday night and poured in 24 more last night against Petersburg, also in Oakland. The victories concluded the Rams' regular season with a 15-6 mark and assured them of a playoff spot in the Region I tournament. Their first opponent in the tourney is yet to be determined, pending the results of a number of other games this week.

Rice, who is averaging just under 25 points per outing, sunk 11 field goals and a foul shot against Beall on Monday, as the Rams led from the opening tip-off. They jumped out to a 20-10 advantage by the end of the first quarter, led 35-19 at halftime, and went into the final stanza with a 55-32 lead. The Mountaineers did narrow the gap to 12 points in the fourth period, but could get no closer.

Britten Martin and Richard Beckman also reached double figures for the Rams with 15 and 12 points, respectively, plus eight rebounds apiece.

Danny Taylor paced Beall with 15 points, Shannon McKenzie netted 14, and Jon Winebrenner contributed 10. The loss dropped Beall to 11-9.

The Rams were never seriously threatened by Petersburg last night, either, as they held quarter leads of 16-5, 33-16, and 43-26.

Rice netted 10 of his 24 points in the first quarter to give the Rams control early. Mike Duling and Beckman each scored 10 points, while Beckman dominated the boards with 13 rebounds. Jason Brenneman grabbed eight rebounds and Jeff Spencer and Jeremy Bosley were each credited with four steals.

Jason Franz was the only Viking to reach double figures, as he finished with 13 points.

for better living in Garrett County

Establishing An Emergency Fund

by Irmgard R. Koscielniak
Extension Agent, Home Economics

Everyone should have an emergency fund — to cover rent, mortgage, car payments, utilities, food and other living expenses for three to six months in an emergency. This is especially true in today's uncertain economy.

Unfortunately, most emergency funds are insufficient, if they exist at all, says Dr. Patricia Tengel, a family resource management specialist with the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service.

To determine how much your emergency fund should contain, divide the amount of money you spend for all of your expenses in a year by four and by two; this will give you a three-month and a six-month figure.

If you don't have a good idea how much you actually spend, keep track of all your daily expenses for a month and then multiply that figure by three and six. Include everything from rent or mortgage payments to the sodas you buy at the local convenience store.

An essential feature of an emergency fund is its liquidity, which Dr. Tengel defines as the ability to turn an investment into cash on demand without financial loss. Money in checking accounts certainly qualifies, but rarely earns any interest. The following alternatives let you put your money to work while leaving it accessible:

•Savings Accounts and Negotiable Order of Withdrawal (NOW) accounts. NOW accounts are available at banks, and savings accounts are offered at banks, credit unions, and savings and loan institutions. These types of accounts earn the lowest rate of interest.

•Super NOW Accounts, available at banks, pay a market rate of interest, which varies with the rise and fall of interest rates. The rate will be slightly higher than for NOW accounts. The minimum balance required also will be higher.

•Money Market Deposit Accounts. Offered by banks and credit unions, these accounts pay an interest rate slightly more than Super NOW accounts, but they allow only six transfers of funds each month (three of which may be by check).

•Certificates of Deposit (CD's), also available from banks and credit unions, differ from the other accounts in that money must be left on deposit for the term of the certificate. The interest rate may be fixed or variable. Short-term CD's (that mature in three, six or twelve months) qualify as liquid assets. Rates and minimum deposits vary from one financial institution to another.

(The funds in any of the above accounts are insured up to a combined total of $100,000 per person per institution.)

•Money Market Mutual Funds are professionally managed portfolios of short-term loans made to companies, banks and the government. An opening deposit, usually of $1,000, is required, as is a minimum maintenance balance. Withdrawal may be made by phone, cable or check. Money in these funds is not insured, and its safety depends on the composition of the fund's portfolio.

•13-Week Treasury Bills are sold by the federal government to raise money to pay the interest on the national debt. They require a minimum investment of $10,000. Interest is exempt from state and local taxes (but not federal taxes). Treasury bills can be purchased directly from the U.S. Treasury or Federal Reserve Banks or from your local bank for a small fee. Backed by the U.S. government, these bills are very safe.

Although the need for emergency funds becomes painfully obvious during times of economic uncertainty, such as the current recession, these funds should be maintained indefinitely, according to Tengel.

"Everyone should get in the habit of always keeping an emergency fund," she says. "You never know when you might need it."

Planning Comm.

the proposal "worse" for Garrett County, which currently has no county-wide zoning regulations in place.

"That's a big issue -- an unknown," he said, "and we don't know what to expect."

A provision of the bill found to be "most objectional" to the planning commission is the requirement that an interim program by local governments be implemented by July 1, 1991. The letter stated, "Considering the lack of these land use control measures, we here in Garrett County find ourselves in the position of not having the ability to effectively implement the interim program." The commission estimates that it would take at least a year to implement a county-wide zoning program in order to have the interim program in place. The commission recommended, then, that the effective date of the interim program be delayed until January 1, 1992, or at least one year from the adoption of the act.

Another objection noted in the letter concerned the provision that includes land areas within the state which are situated outside the Chesapeake drainage basin. According to the commission, the majority of Garrett County does not drain into the bay -- in fact, only about 37% does drain into the bay.

On that basis, the commission feels the county "should be exempted from the tenets of this proposed statute, or, at a minimum, the portion of Garrett County not draining into the Chesapeake Basin be exempted," according to the letter.

The "grandfathering provision" was the subject of yet another objection by the planning commission. This section provides that any lot in a subdivision that had been platted and finally approved and recorded prior to July 1, 1991, may be developed if the infrastructure has been installed in at least one phase or will be installed within 24 months from that time.

The letter states that in Garrett County the subdivider of the property and the developer are usually not the same individual so "virtually no speculation building is initiated within subdivisions." Therefore, the commission recommended that any lot platted and recorded among the land records of a given jurisdiction prior to July 1, 1991, should be grandfathered and granted all development rights regardless of their developed status.

Nelson reported that, while the planning commission does not object to some form of a management and use plan being implemented in the county, being told how to implement those plans is objectionable. Nelson noted that, since 85-90% of Garrett County falls under the designation of rural resource area (which allows for only one dwelling per twenty acres), only about 2,000 acres would be left for development purposes.

The Senate Bill (SB227) is scheduled for a hearing Tuesday, February 26, and the House Bill (HB217) is scheduled for Thursday, February 28. Both hearings will be held at 1 p.m.

According to Nelson, the Maryland Association of Counties (MACo) is currently preparing a counter bill to the proposal.

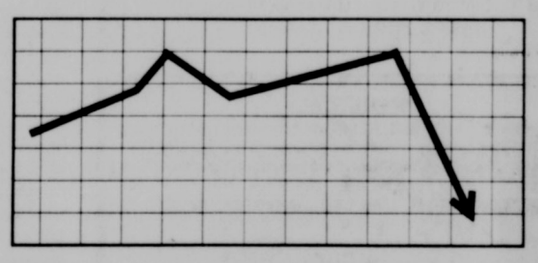
first and second degree murder of men who reportedly abused them. The range of sentences that the governor commuted was from three to 40 years for the eight released women.

Stinson was reported as saying that she was grateful for her pending release and the chance to be with her children again, but that she was also afraid.



"Being in jail was no punishment," she is reported to have stated. "It was like being safe behind bars. But I'm in fear all the time. I feel like he's coming back. . .I just pray I can keep on going."

The women are scheduled to be released this weekend, according to reports.

Gov. Schaefer Announces Details Of "Operation Maryland Shield"

Governor William Donald Schaefer announced last week that the state of Maryland is making a special effort to assist families of military personnel from the state serving in the Persian Gulf with Operation Desert Storm.

Under the label "Operation Maryland Shield," the governor said that all of the state's agencies have surveyed their programs to determine which could best serve the needs of these families. According to military officials, he said, high priority services include financial assistance, housing, jobs, financial and family support counseling, and psychological services.

In an effort to provide information on these services directly to those who need them, an Operation Maryland Shield Family Services Day is scheduled for this Saturday, February 23, from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Ruhl Armory, York Road and the Baltimore Beltway, in Towson. Dependent family members are invited to attend all or a portion of the three-hour service open house.

Several orientation sessions will be provided and representatives of state agencies will be present to provide information on available services. Counselors, including chaplains and mental health professionals, will also be available. Child care during the open house will be provided.

A toll free Maryland Shield service line 1-800-564-9991, has been installed to provide information on available assistance throughout the duration of the war. Family members may call that line Monday through Friday between 7 a.m. and 6 p.m.

According to Governor Schaefer, Maryland's agencies have been both responsive and creative in identifying possible sources which include the following:

*Reduction of interest rates on mortgages held by the Community Development Administration;

*Emergency mortgage assistance to households in danger of foreclosure;

*Eviction assistance;

*Relief on debts owed to the state;

*Priority for summer jobs with some agencies;

*Extension of deadlines for some license renewals;

*Expedited claims for unemployment insurance and workers' compensation;

*Family financial counseling;

*Psychological services for family members suffering stress; and

*Free admission to state parks.

In addition, families suffering a substantial loss of income may be eligible for certain financial assistance programs, including food stamps and medical assistance, if they meet regular eligibility standards for these services.

Previously, the state comptroller announced an extension for filing Maryland income tax returns for military personnel serving in the Gulf. Also announced by Governor Schaefer was the payment of 100 percent of premiums for health benefits for all National Guard personnel and reservists called to active duty who are employees of state government.

"We are proud of our Maryland men and women who have answered the call of their country in this time of crisis," Governor Schaefer said. "But we must also support them and their families with the resources of our government. We are determined to stand by them until their loved ones come home."

Several other steps have been taken to assist the public in obtaining information on the new program, including the following:

1. Applications for wetland permits may be obtained by writing to DNR's Water Resources Administration, Wetlands and Waterways Program, Tawes State Office Build ing, Annapolis, Md. 21401, or by calling (301) 974-3877.

2. A new toll-free number, 1-800-876-0200, is available for anyone who wants information on the status of new nontidal wetlands permit applications. Such assistance will be provided at this number from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, excluding holidays. General program information may be obtained by calling (301) 974-3841 during the same hours.

3. The state has opened two new regional nontidal wetlands offices: one at DNR's Eastern Regional Service Center located at 201 Baptist Street, Salisbury, Md. 21801, phone number (301) 543-6703; and at 69 Hill Street, Frostburg, Md., phone number (301) 689-4070. The hours of operation are 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

4. To further assist the public, maps that identify general nontidal wetlands locations are now available at the following locations: DNR, Soil Conservation District offices located in each county, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' Baltimore office and Salisbury State University's Image Processing and Remote Sensing Center. Copies are also being sent to local government offices. Individual maps may be purchased for $15 per map from the Salisbury Center by calling (301) 548-3001.

Publications that assist in providing a basic identification of nontidal wetlands are available through DNR's Wetlands and Waterways Program.

5. Only a state permit is required for most projects affecting less than five acres of nontidal wetlands. However, a Corps of Engineers' permit for work affecting over five acres is also required. In any case, only one application is needed for state and federal approval, and can be filed with DNR's Wetlands and Waterways Program, Permit Service Center.

For more information on the nontidal wetlands program, persons are asked to call the Nontidal Wetlands Division at (301) 974-3841.

Police To Study Safety Regarding Older Drivers

The Maryland State Police have joined the National Highway Safety Administration and the Transportation Research Board for an extensive study of highway safety issues affecting Maryland's older drivers. The research is focused on several areas including advanced technology to lessen the affects of driving related disabilities and special licensing requirements for high risk drivers.

"Although much of our research targets the older driver, the overall impact will lead to improved highway safety for all motorists," stated John Eberhard, senior research psychologist with the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. Appearing on the Maryland State Police Radio Program, a weekly public service broadcast, Dr. Eberhard said senior citizens comprise the fastest growing segment of the driving population.

"Elderly drivers generally carry a higher level of traffic law compliance than any other age group. If you get to be old, you tend to comply with laws. If you don't comply with laws, you don't get to be old," stated Dr. Eberhard, who also serves as chairman of the Transportation Safety Board's Task Force on Elderly Drivers.

During the 70th Annual Meeting of the Transportation Research Board, Maryland State Police joined 5,000 of the nation's top transportation researchers to exchange information on several problems associated with senior drivers including vision, hearing, and highway signage.

"Symbol signs have contributed immensely to significant advances in our efforts to reduce driver confusion," stated Dr. Eberhard. Additional research is being conducted to enhance driver performance on expressways where difficulties have been noted in the areas of lane changing and merging into traffic.

The Maryland Department of Motor Vehicle Administration has recorded more than 711,000 licensed drivers above the age of 55. There are approximately 100,000 Maryland licensed drivers above the age of 75. Approximately 10,000 licensed drivers are 85 years of age or older.

The Maryland State Police Radio Program is a weekly public service broadcast carried on approximately 50 radio stations in Maryland and the District of Columbia.

OPERATION DESERT STORM

MAIL CALL

As American forces continue their assignment in "Operation Desert Storm" in the Middle East, mail becomes even more important as a morale builder and an expression of public support of their service.

The Republican proudly lists the names and addresses of those local service personnel who are now stationed there, either in Saudi Arabia or other Middle East nations. We hope local residents will take a few moments to drop a line to these young men and women. It is not necessary to be personally acquainted with these local soldiers or with anyone else in the armed services to send him or her a letter. Expressions of upbeat support, humor, and words of good cheer will mean a lot.

Letters to anyone in the Army, Air Force, or Marine Corps, land-based in Saudi Arabia, may be addressed as follows:

Any Service Member
Operation Desert Storm
APO New York 09848-0006

Letters to anyone in the Navy, Coast Guard, or Marine Corps at sea may be addressed as follows:

Any Service Member
Operation Desert Storm
FPO New York 09866-0006

We will publish this list periodically over the next several weeks. Names and addresses of other local service personnel not listed here are welcome and will be added for future publication.

Red Cross To Hold Meeting For Volunteers

The Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross is asking all persons interested in becoming a Red Cross volunteer to attend an informational meeting Thursday, February 28, at 6:30 p.m. at the American Legion in Oakland.

A representative from the Red Cross in Johnstown, Pa., will be on hand to explain the different areas in which the Red Cross can provide services to the community, the role of the volunteer, and any training that may be required. These services include service to military families, heath services, bloodmobile, disaster, and water safety.

The local chapter is working to expand the services available to Garrett County residents, but volunteers are needed to fulfill this goal.

According to Red Cross spokesman Cindy Kutchman, volunteering with the Red Cross doesn't require a lot of time. After any initial training that may be required, the volunteers can work as little or as much as they choose depending on the area of their involvement.

In some areas a "pool" of trained volunteers is needed to draw from in the event of a disaster or to relay messages to military personnel or work at the area bloodmobiles. "The volunteer can get as involved as he or she wishes and can even continue training to qualify to work national disasters," Mrs. Kutchman said.

The meeting will be held in the Legion's downstairs meeting room. Refreshments will be available.

Three great reasons to buy a home now

INVESTMENT —
Purchasing a home is, and has been, the most dependable and lucrative of investments for Americans. Several recessions, conflicts in Korea and Vietnam, the oil cartel, a 16 percent mortgage rate in the early 1980s, and the October 1987 market crash have not destroyed the American housing market. Indeed, the real estate industry, historically, leads the country out of a recession period.

INTEREST RATES —
Interest rates, the other part of the buyers' market equation, are among the lowest they have been in the last 10 years. In many cases, purchasers can finance at or below 10 percent. Michael H. Yerman, President of the Maryland Association of REALTORS®, states, "Without a crystal ball, no one can foresee the future. While rates have continued to edge downward fractionally over the last few months, there are indications that interest rates will remain in the 9 percent range over the next several months, perhaps even the majority of 1991."

Home owners will be encouraged to learn that, according to available statistics, statewide sales during the first three quarters of 1990 are slightly higher for single-family units than the equivalent period in 1989. Although sales slumped in late August and September (1990), this is, historically, a "down market" period. Market expectations for fourth quarter re-sales are projected to match, or even exceed, 1989's figure.

INVENTORY —
Today's market offers many advantages to buyers and sellers alike. Sellers can take advantage of a housing market where, according to MAR's county by county research, median prices are holding steady and, in some counties, actually are increasing. Buyers can choose from a wide variety of homes in inventory.

The wide variety of homes available gives buyers, whether upgrading or looking for a first home, enormous opportunities. Conventional and FHA mortgages, to date, account for over 65 percent of Maryland loans in 1990. Other financing options range from VA and state supported Community Development Agency financing, up to 100 percent financing.
